Kremlin Acts to Crush U.S. Anti-Red Drive

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators have been told that Moscow has ordered "a frontal attack" on the anti-Communist movement in the United States and made use of agents who infiltrated the White House.

The testimony was given behind closed doors to the Senate internal security subcommittee on July 11 by Edward Hunter of Port Washington, N.Y., a writer and lecturer.

The subcommittee, in making his testimony public Saturday, described Hunter as a psychological warfare expert and as the originator of the term "brainwashing."

Hunter testified that the Kremlin has set out to crush what he termed a grassroots anti-Communist movement he said has sprung up in the United States in the last couple of years.

Orders for this "Red anti-Communist drive," he said, went out through a manifesto issued Dec. 5, 1960, at the conclusion of a strategy conference of 81 Communist parties of the world in Moscow.

"A quick Red operation is being attempted, like that of a sleight-of-hand artist, to push this administration, the press, and public into a trap that would eliminate the anti-Communist program in the United States," Hunter said.

He testified that "such operations require a new sort of agent, on which the Kremlin places its main trust nowadays," in contrast to what he described as the old-style cloak-and-dagger man who buys or steals secrets.

Then Hunter went on:

"Moscow simply acquired agents who mingled with the new, intellectual elite at the top on terms of equality, and were sometimes members of it themselves. They infiltrated the White House and other topmost government offices.

"These were gentlemen all. Gentlemen talked frankly between themselves in comradely manner. Secrets were much easier to steal this way, and immensely more reliable.

"We might cringe at the idea that Red agents, bought and paid for by the enemy, had entree and became members of the White House entourage, but we can brush it out of our minds only at our own peril. As such things hap-

Civil War Near in Brazil Crisis

END OF THE LINE

East Berlin Reds Fortify New Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists built a new wall and stronger fortifications at the Brandenburg Gate Saturday and brought up Communist troops while the Western ambassadors protested the Reds' "flagrantly illegal measures."

In addition to notes from the American, British and French ambassadors in Bonn, the American commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, crossed into East Berlin and delivered a stiff oral protest to the Soviet commandant.

* * * *

THE FOUR protests were delivered as the Big Three Western envoys in Moscow delivered a solemn warning to the Russian government it must keep its hands off the air corridors to Berlin or risk the consequences.

While the diplomatic activities were going on thousands of West Berliners poured into the streets on their day off from work and looked over the Communist fortifications and the newly arrived Communist troops who took up positions behind the newly-built wall.

West Berlin police were out in force to try to prevent border incidents. The Communists have ordered West Berliners not to get closer than 300 feet of the border and in the past have lobbed over tear gas grenades and shot water cannons.

Watson's protest chiefly concerned illegal harassment of American military traffic by Communist Police (Vopos). The protests delivered to the Soviet ambassador in East Berlin by envoys of the three Western ambassadors dealt chiefly with harassment of diplomatic traffic.

* * * *

THE AMBASSADORS also warned of "serious consequences" if the East Germans tried to enforce their 300-foot "no man's land." Their protest was delivered by representatives who zigzagged past triple red and white barriers erected by the Vopos and through the only East-West passage left open.

The U. S. note to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail G. Pervukhin said:

"In addition to purporting to limit even more severely the crossing points for residents of West Berlin and the Federal Republic of (West) Germany, these measures would limit foreigners, diplomats and civilian or military members of the allied forces

Moon Motor Test Firing 'Successful'

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Aerojet General Corp. Saturday test fired the largest solid-fuel rocket motor ever built and called it an "unqualfied success."

The company, which hopes to get a contract to build a booster motor to lift a man to the moon, said the motor produced more than one-half million pounds of thrust.

Newsmen who flew over the site of the test firing at 2,000 feet saw a bright orange flame and a towering cloud of rust-colored smoke. The flame lasted 87 seconds and presumably consumed about 75 tons of solid fuel.

While the one-half million pounds of thrust is only about one-third that achieved in a recent test firing of a liquid-fuel motor built by Rocketdyne Corp., Aerojet claims it can increase the thrust by adding more sections. The motor fired Saturday had four sections, one more than a model successfully test fired in June.

Aerojet says it can link a number of the motors and produce 17 to 18 million pounds of thrust, sufficient to lift a manned vehicle to the moon.

Enlistees Increase 39 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department disclosed Saturday that Army enlistments in the weeks after President Kennedy's July 25 Berlin preparedness speech jumped 39 per cent over the comparable period last year.

They also increased by almost that much over the period immediately preceding Kennedy's speech in which he outlined plans for building the armed forces up to 2,743,000 men. That is about 250,000 more than the Eisenhower administration proposed.

In answer to UPI questions, the Pentagon said the Army enlisted 9,117 men between Aug. 1 and Aug. 21, compared with 6,541 in the same three weeks of 1960. In the three weeks from July 1 to July 21, 1961, it enlisted 6,959.

* * * *

THE PENTAGON revealed the figures in the wake of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's order calling 76,500 military reservists to active duty. Most of the reservists will report on Oct. 1. They are being drawn from the reserves of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The Pentagon said it does not yet have figures on Navy, Marine and Air Force recruiting for the period immediately after Kennedy's speech. While there was no "direct evidence as to any unusual spurt," the department said all three recruiter services reported increased numbers of inquiries from young men.

City Tax Rate Decreased by Tenth of Cent

Valuation Drop Will Prevent Lower Taxes

By GEORGE WEEKS

The new city tax rate for bills collectible in November will be $1.37330 for each $100 of assessed valuation — one-tenth of a cent under last year's rate.

City Auditor Murray T. Courson announced the final figure Saturday following receipt of the one item missing until last week, the State Board of Equalization's assessment of privately-owned public utility property in Long Beach.

* * * *

CITY councilmen, who will be asked to ratify the rate Tuesday, will thus be able to keep their pledge to hold the tax line. Last year's rate was $1.37430.

The new rate is fractionally higher than the figure estimated in City Manager John R. Mansell's preliminary budget, $1.37308.

One reason was a decrease of $170,730 in the utility assessment roll, which went down from $68,641,720 to $68,470,990.

Of the five rate categories that make up the city's composite tax picture, three are slightly higher and two are lower.

Total assessed valuation of Long Beach taxable property, announced by City Assessor J. R. Cole, is lower this year by $41,020,530. The current figure, including utilities, is $675,530,410. Last year's total was $716,550,940.

But the lower assessed valuation, combined with a tax rate virtually unchanged, won't mean lower taxes for most property owners.

ASSESSMENT figures for both land and improvements were increased this year, the former by $8,699,330 and the latter by $13,989,770. The lower total came about primarily from a drop of $60,995,180 in personal property valuation.

Comparable assessment figures for last year and this year are: Land, $173,884,010—$182,583,340; improvements, $179,893,050 — $293,882,820; personal property, $228,698,620—$167,703,440.

RETIRING AT 17

L.B. Girl Loses Water Ski Title

Protests of unequal scoring by the judges, lodged by Long Beach's 17-year-old Vicki Van Hook and the entire United States team, threw the seventh World Water Ski Championships here into a furor Saturday.

But by nightfall:

The judges disallowed the protest, leaving the former world's champion in second place behind Sylvie Hulsemann, 17, of Luxembourg, the new champion.

MISS VAN HOOK announced she is retiring from competitive skiing.

The controversy, which nearly brought attorneys into the world sports classic, arose Saturday over judges' ruling of the crucial women's trick skiing event.

The Americans contended judges had misinterpreted the tournament rules which resulted in the loss of more than 180 points in score for a trick Vicki performed in the event Friday.

On the judges' advice the American skiers and Vicki and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly E. Van Hook, filed an official protest and the judges themselves called for an attorney to interpret the rules for them, it was reported.

* * * *

THE CONTROVERSY involved a decision reached by the panel after six hours of discussion in which they gave Miss Hulsemann of Luxembourg first place in the tricks event with 2,554.13 points; 18-year-old Dany Duflot of France, second place with 2,418.94 points, and Vicki, third place with 2,413.13 points.

The Van Hooks contended the judges failed to count two tricks Vicki did which, if counted, would have added more than 180 points to her total and put her almost 40 points ahead of the Luxembourg skier.

No legal opinion ever actually entered the final resolution of the controversy, judges said, but Chief Judge Harry Sherwood, of San Diego, reported late Saturday that the protest over Vicki's trick run had been disallowed, and that Miss Hulsemann is officially the new women's over-all champion.

* * * *

FOLLOWING the decision, Vicki told the I-PT she will retire from competitive water skiing because of the lack of practice and training facilities in the Long Beach area.

"You just can't keep in tournament shape when you have to travel hundreds of miles to find a practice course to train on," Vicki said.

Vicki won the International Women's Over-all Water Ski Championship at the 1959 world tournament in Milan, Italy.

Tell Pro-Red Not to Take Presidency

Defense Minister Threatens to Halt Goulart Inaugural

BRASILIA (UPI) — The Army warned political leaders Saturday night that any attempt to make leftist Vice President Joao (Jango) Goulart president of Brazil could lead to civil war.

War minister Odilio Denys said that Goulart, now en route home from a visit to Communist China, "will be arrested as soon as he sets foot on Brazilian soil" unless he gives up his claim to the presidency which Janio Quadros resigned Friday.

A special Congressional commission including members of Goulart's own Labor Party, was preparing to fly to Paris to persuade the Vice President to resign. Goulart is en route to the French capital from his Far Eastern trip.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, the nation's acting president, Ranieri Mazzilli, named a new cabinet in a move indicating he intends to hold office for some time. Mazzilli was chairman of the Chamber of Deputies.

Plans were being drawn up in Congress to amend the constitution and authorize the legislative body to elect a new president who would finish out Quadros' term which runs until 1966.

This represented a switch in plans to hold general elections within the next two months.

* * * *

MOST POLITICAL groups accepted Denys' firm edict—given in direct interviews with Congressional leaders—as uncontestable. But some Goulart backers began a campaign to arouse public opinion and bring on a general strike to challenge the military.

Reports from Rio Grande to Sul State said pro-Goulart political forces there headed by the local governor were prepared to fight a civil war to get Goulart into the presidency.

There were also reports that the Labor Party would try to set up a separate government in southern Brazil with Goulart as president.

If Goulart refuses to resign, it was understood that his political opponents

Irvine Heiress in Blast at Board Member

By BILL DUNCAN

SANTA ANA — Pepper-pot Joan Irvine Burt, who has often battled other directors of the Irvine Co., Saturday released a letter attacking board member N. Loyall McLaren for making statements "impugning my integrity and my motives as a director and stockholder of the company."

Mrs. Burt, largest stockholder on the board of directors, made the letter public after failing to get McLaren's statements about her included in the minutes of the board meeting. The letter revealed another rift between Mrs. Burt and the majority of the board members.

She wrote:

"You (McLaren) refused to permit the charges made by you to be entered in the minutes of the meeting when I asked that a record of them be made. . . . I will request that this letter be incorporated in the minutes to reflect what actually transpired at that last meeting."

The blonde heiress said in the letter that McLaren, a San Francisco resident, charged that articles recently circulated by the Associated Press concerning the Irvine Co. were directly Mrs. Burt's responsibility. She denies this.

She asserted that McLaren had charged her with seeking public credit for arranging the resignation of A. J. McFadden as president of the company. "This is a gross distortion," she wrote.

She claimed that McLaren charged that she asserted she was responsible for hiring former Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas as president of Irvine Co. This claim she laid back to McLaren, writing that he publicly boasted about hiring Thomas.

The letter tells that McLaren accused her of boasting about bringing the University of California to the Irvine Ranch. "This is in error," she asserted, "I have consistently done whatever I could to assist in attracting the University of California to Orange County."

Irvine Co. donated 1,000 acres to the university for a site in Orange County on Irvine Ranch land in Corona del Mar hills.

Mrs. Burt is the largest individual stockholder in the Irvine Co. and is the only stockholder serving as a director. She was elected to the board in 1957.

She concluded the angry five-page letter to McLaren with these remarks:

"Instead of making undignified and scurrilous personal attacks upon me, you might consider the interests of the Irvine Co. by engaging in an . . . examination of your own motives and aspirations as they may relate to the Irvine Co."

L.A.C. Says:

Who Will Pick the Candidate?

Assemblyman Joe Shell and former Senator and Lt. Gov. Butch Powers insist upon being heard and having the Republican voters pick their candidate for next year's election. Both have announced they will be candidates for governor. They are objecting to the maneuvers to freeze out all candidates not chosen by the party machine.

Every successful party has a machine made up of party leaders from each Assembly District. Sometimes a powerful personality moves into the picture and takes charge of the machine. Three years ago Sen. Bill Knowland did so and the result was the worst defeat the Republicans had experienced in their history. With that defeat it seemed the party was badly crippled. But last year the rank and file members of the party and conservative Democrats brought it back to power by carrying the state for the party.

Shell and Powers argue that the machine politicians should not try to eliminate candidates as was done in 1958. They say all candidates should be encouraged to run in the primaries and let the voters choose which one they want to be their candidate in opposing Pat Brown. They say this is the only way the voters will have the feeling that it is their choice rather than that of the small group who seek to eliminate all but the candidate it may choose.

These are, we believe, sound arguments. The Democratic Clubs operate a machine which the state has seen operate. It, and Gov. Brown, assured the Kennedy forces that they would deliver a million-vote majority for Kennedy. But they failed to carry the state by any majority. It is apparent the rank and file Democrats do not follow that state Democratic machine.

The voters do not like the feeling that such a machine can decide on one candidate and eliminate all others. There is a real danger to the upsurging support of the Republican Party if its leaders try the same tactics as the Democrats or those used by Knowland supporters in 1958. The State Central Committee's proper function is to support the candidate chosen by the voters—not to endorse a candidate before the primary election and attempt to discourage all other party candidates.

Five possible candidates are before the voters at this time. They are Nixon, Knight, Christopher, Powers and Shell. All have fine vote-getting records in past elections. Each has many supporters from both parties. If they were on the ballot in the primaries each would get the votes of their supporters. They could then hold most of these votes for the party candidate who is nominated. But if bitterness is created by trying to eliminate them before the primaries, it is doubtful their friends would support the hand-picked candidate. If we are to profit from past experience we will welcome a strong primary campaign with the voters choosing the candidate. It is the surest way to maintain harmony and a united party in next year's election.—L.A.C.

Moonport Loss Disappoints Calif.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — There was still some crying in the fog here Saturday because Florida's Cape Canaveral — not Vandenberg AFB — is going to become America's moonport.

But not much.

Most of the missilemen at this West Coast research, training and combat-ready rocket center knew from the start that they had little chance of watching this country's initial moon-bound space travelers take off.

SO THEY took in stride this week's announcement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that 80,000 more acres are being added to the Cape Canaveral test complex, Congress and President Kennedy being willing.

This additional acreage at the Cape will be the launching port for such space giants as Nova, the rocket that will carry the men of project Apollo toward a lunar orbit.

But if the missilemen at Vandenberg AFB took the announcement in stride, it was a blow to the chambers of commerce of many of the communities along this stretch of the bustling, hustling Southern California coast.

CITIES from Oxnard through Ventura, Santa Barbara, Lompoc and Santa Maria to San Luis Obispo are already growing by space-size strides. But their city fathers had hopes that the center of their expansion — Vandenberg — would get the moonshoot task.

The announcement by NASA in Washington said Cape Canaveral was selected after many sites had been surveyed as to safety, launch trajectories and accessibility.

To a UPI correspondent who has watched launchings from Cape Canaveral and toured the ever-growing facilities at Vandenberg, it would seem that the main factor against California getting the garage job for the lunar vehicles was its coastal fog.

Sometimes, particularly during the summer, the Thor and Atlas missiles roar off their pads at Vandenberg in a "zero-zero" fog condition—visibility zero vertically and horizontally.

THAT'S OKAY for a military firing, like a test Atlas. But should there be a man aboard, the problems would be different.

When Ham the Chimp, Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom took their Redstone-powered Mercury project suborbital rides from Cape Canaveral, they were launched in practically clear weather.

This was essential not only for observation, but for safety. Had there been a serious malfunction and an "abort" been ordered, good visibility would be necessary if the passenger was to be saved.

Trajectory is all-important, too, for an orbital flight. Vandenberg's Discoverer series satellites are fired into a polar orbit, then recovered—when possible—in the Pacific Ocean near Hawaii.

On these, obviously, the projectiles pass over territory where America would not want one of its spacemen to land, should there be a mishap.

Air Crash Kills 3, Traps 3 Children

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Three small children were found alive Saturday strapped to their seats in the wreckage of a private plane almost 12 hours after the crash that killed their parents and sister.

The children, Leslie, 10, Tommy, 11 and Marty Hughes, 5, were rushed by ambulance to Brown County Hospital. Their condition was listed as fair.

The ambulance driver said the frightened children, weakened and in pain, were able only to whisper their names when rescuers spoke to them: "Leslie . . . Tommy . . . Marty."

The three children, their parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes, and their sister Marlene, 8, had been flying from Florissant, Mo., to Cincinnati, where they used to live, to pay a surprise visit on the children's grandparents.

NATHANIEL BERGMAN
$25,000 Bail Set

3 Held in Bribe

BOSTON (AP) — Three lawyers were arrested Saturday on charges of trying to bribe an internal revenue official so he would not prosecute one of the lawyers for alleged income tax evasion.

The three were taken into custody after a 10-week investigation in which the revenue agent, Charles J. McCaffrey, pretended to go along with the alleged $10,000 offer.

The lawyers are Nathaniel Bergman, 53, of Hartford, Conn., and Saul Glassman, 45, and Paul Gorin, 49, both of Boston.

All three appeared later before U.S. Commissioner Peter J. Nelligan who set bail at $25,000 for Bergman and $15,000 each for the other two. All arranged bail.

A Justice Department aide said McCaffrey is a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve and that Glassman, a colonel in the Marine Reserve, is McCaffrey's superior officer.

Dependents to Go Overseas Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said that National Guardsmen and reservists who may be sent to Europe cannot take dependents with them during their travel overseas.

However, once the serviceman arrives, he will be entitled to apply for permission to bring dependents, if he qualifies. To do this, he must be of a grade of at least corporal and have four years or more of service in a unit.

Dean Picked as U.N. Aide

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday chose Arthur H. Dean, an old hand at negotiating with the Communists, as a U.S. representative to the United Nations General Assembly which opens next month.

The announcement came as the President took another weekend break at his Cape Cod summer home.

Kennedy got a 20-minute briefing on Berlin and other problems, and conferred with White House advisers by telephone on the resignation of Brazilian President Janio Quadros. There was no White House comment on the resignation.

Robber Mauls Envoy's Kin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The wife of Costa Rica's ambassador and her sister were mauled by a robber who invaded the embassy residence early Saturday, police reported.

The robber escaped with jewelry valued at $5,000 and with $85 in cash, police were told. The women were the ambassador's wife, Mrs. Manuel Escalante, 38, and her sister, Mrs. Carmen McCurdy, 35, of Stone Mountain, Ga.

CROSSING WAS HOAX

Aviator Punctures Balloon Ocean Flight

NEW YORK (AP)—A teenager's toy balloon flew to England, all right; but it was borne by an air liner, and not by wind currents as he had thought.

Capt. John H. Bash, 32, a pilot for Pan American World Airways, said Saturday he had just been trying to have a little friendly fun with the boy.

The youth, Jonathan D. Simon, 14, of Westbury on Long Island, an amateur meteorologist, sent the five-cent, helium-filled ballon aloft with a postcard attached, asking the finder to communicate.

He received a reply from London on Friday, saying the blue and white ballon had been found in a garden there.

Actually, the balloon had landed near Bash's backyard in East Islip, Long Island, about 15 miles from young Simon's home.

Bash took it with him on his next flight and mailed the postcard from London.

Young Simon became a neighborhood celebrity when stories were published that his ballon had been windblown across the Atlantic Ocean.

Then Bash disclosed what really had happened.

"It was well meant," he said on arriving at Idlewild Saturday. "I never expected it would get any publicity.

"I had planned to call the boy up and tell him the truth when I flew back. I'm very sorry about it. I didn't realize it would cause all that commotion. I meant to give the kid a kick."

8 Gatherings Mark Close of SA Meet

The fourth annual Salvation Army summer conference and camp meetings close today with a schedule of eight gatherings at which the total attendance is expected to exceed 7,000.

Three of today's services will be held at Municipal Auditorium and five open-air meetings are scheduled for 6 o'clock in various downtown Long Beach locations.

The street services will culminate with a grand march to Municipal Auditorium in which five Salvation Army brass bands and five corps of timbrelists will participate.

* * * *

BANDS participating in the street services are from Long Beach with Captain Robert Stillwell in charge; Pasadena, under the leadership of Major John Ritchie; Los Angeles Congress Hall, with Captain Arthur Smith leading; Los Angeles Tabernacle, led by Major Herbert Wiseman, and Inglewood Citadel, with Lieutenant David Riley leading.

Young women attired in the traditional Salvation Army uniform and bonnet will accompany each of the bands.

Commissioner Robert Hoggard, veteran international Salvationist leader, speaks three times at Municipal auditorium, at 10:30 a.m., 2:30 and 7 p.m.

HIS morning subject will be "The Mark of a Christian." At 2:30, he will deliver an address on "The Conquest of the Nations" and at 7 p.m. he will make the concluding address of the series on "What Shall I Do With Jesus?"

Participating musical aggregations in Sunday's three indoor services will be the Los Angeles Tabernacle band, directed by J. Raymond Ogg, and the Congress Hall Choir at the 10:30 service; the Inglewood Citadel band, led by James Fogg, and a massed band composed of instrumentalists from San Bernardino, Santa Ana, Santa Monica, San Diego and Huntington Park under the direction of Bernard Verkaaik at 2:30. The Congress Hall band led by Harry Stillwell Jr., and the Tabernacle songsters led by A. Bernard Baker will be heard at 7:00 p.m.

Saturday night America's largest all-brass musical aggregation, the 125-piece Tournament of Roses band under the direction of Southern California Musical Director Bernard Verkaaik, was heard in concert at Exposition Hall with commisioner Hoggard as chairman.

WIDENING SEARCH Horsemen from Sheriff's Mounted Posse rode over hills of Palos Verdes Peninsula again Saturday in search of some clue to whereabouts of missing 11-year-old Karen Lynn Tompkins of Torrance. Karen's Family Asks Prayers

Churchgoers were asked by the parents of a missing 11-year-old Torrance girl to pray for the daughter's safety when they go to religious services today.

Police officials late Saturday said they still had not uncovered a trace of Karen Lynn Tompkins, 21110 Dalton Ave., who disappeared a week ago.

* * * *

"I KNOW that every church in Torrance is praying for Karen," said the girl's mother, Mrs. Laura Tompkins. "I feel that prayer will help."

All day Saturday, a mounted posse of sheriff's deputies conducted an unsuccessful search of the brush-covered Palos Verdes hills for a clue to the disappearance.

At the same time, police cleared a young airman of any connection with the case.

* * * *

THE AIRMAN, whose home is only 20 blocks from Karen's residence, was questioned by Santa Barbara County deputy sheriffs after his locked car was found six miles north of Vandenberg Air Force Base near the city of Lompoc.

He was released after records showed he checked out of the air base in front of witnesses at 5 p.m., Aug. 18—the same hour that Karen was last seen.

In another unsuccessful search, sheriff's deputies checked the San Gabriel River in the Paramount area after receiving a telephone call from a woman who said she had spotted a body in a ditch.

Only Wave in 60,000-Man 7th Fleet Admits She's 'Not a Darn Bit Lonely'

The 26-year-old Wave lieutenant from Cripple Creek, Colo., is the only Wave assigned to the 60,000-man U. S. 7th Fleet, bulwark of America's Western Pacific defenses.

Old salts can say what they want about the way things have changed in the modern Navy, but Lt. Fish's assignment proves as well as anything that the old axiom rank-has-its-privileges is as true as ever. She's the admiral's social secretary.

"I think it's something of a privilege to be the only woman assigned to the whole fleet," she said. "I think I'm the only one ever assigned to the 7th Fleet."

The tall (5 feet, 6¾ inches), well-built (135 pounds) brunette lamented that she's never been aboard a 7th Fleet ship at sea but said "I just love my job, anyway."

"I'll tell you, it's just fabulous," she said. "I never thought I would ever end up with a job like this when I joined the Navy."

When she joined the Waves in 1958, she had few thoughts about making it a career.

"But now, I don't know," she said. "I'm so pleased, I don't know any possible reason why I should get out, unless, of course, I find the right man.

"But," she added hastily, "I'm told that the 'right man' often turns out not to be the right one. So maybe I'll just get married to the Navy.

"I'll say this, I certainly am pleased now and cannot see any possible reason for getting out of the Navy."

What are the chores of the 7th Fleet's only woman?

"Well, she explained, "I just take care of the admiral's (Fleet Commander Vice Adm. Charles D. Griffin) invitations ashore." She said she forwards the invitations—from various Japanese officials, businessmen and others as well as Americans—to the admiral. Her title is "Protocol Officer Ashore, Commander 7th Fleet."

Sen. Jackson Wants to Curb Local Gambling Payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Saturday called for federal laws to jail local officials who connive with or refuse to prosecute intertsate crime syndicates.

Jackson said testimony in the Senate rackets hearings makes it clear that lax local enforcement is a major factor in interstate gambling — much of it crooked — which takes billions of dollars a year from a gullible public.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is exploring the possible need for new federal statutes to break up organized crime and vice.

* * * *

WITNESSES have testified that many gamblers, publicly identified when they pay the federal gambling stamp tax, still operate unmolested in some local areas. No one named any enforcement official as a taker of graft.

Jackson, a subcommittee member, exploded at one point in the hearings, however, that the answer is obvious—that hoodlums "buy off the judge, they buy off the prosecutor, they buy off the sheriff and the local police."

He said in an interview Saturday he will propose federal legislation to do something about it. He said severe criminal penalties should be provided for local officals who "knowingly permit interstate gambling, vice and other rackets" within their jurisdictions.

JACKSON said such a law could be brought into play in "the blantant instances, which are not many, where the local people refuse to do their job and an interstate problem results."

Jackson's exploits as a crusading young county prosecutor in 1939 and 1940 provided the springboard which launched him into a career in Congress. His raids on vice and gambling joints in Snohomish County, Wash., won national attention.

He has argued throughout the hearings that any prosecutor who shows he means business can clean out the rackets, whether they be interstate, syndicated or local.

"Clean up the states by enforcement at the local level, and you'll have no syndicated crime," Jackson said. But he emphasized he believes some new federal laws to strengthen the hands of local police officials should be enacted.

Dissentions Stall Hoffa 5-Year Plan

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some revolting developments — literally — have stalled James R. Hoffa's ambitious five-year plan for the Teamsters Union before it really got under way.

Two months ago Hoffa sounded like a man who had the world by the tail. Now something has reached back and bitten him—hard.

Hoffa emerged from the Teamsters convention in early July with considerably increased powers over the nation's largest labor organization and a brand new five-year term as the union's president.

Never more cocky, he promised to take in "all unorganized workers regardless of where they are" and either force an end to the Teamsters expulsion for corruption from the AFL-CIO or start up a rival federation with some of the AFL-CIO's own unions.

* * * *

TWO MONTHS is too short a time to pass judgment on Hoffa's program. And in fairness he has been kept from minding the Teamsters store because he's been steadily occupied in West Coast contract negotiations.

But events since the Miami Beach convention have nevertheless been a one-step-forward, two-steps-back sort of thing for Hoffa.

There have been revolts in Teamsters ranks in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has broken a long silence about Hoffa and come out fighting. He welcomed the Teamsters defections and in effect encouraged others.

* * * *

A FEDERAL Appeals Court has upheld broad government powers to subpoena Teamsters books and records in a search for possible corruption. Hoffa, fighting what he calls "witch-hunting," will carry the case to the Supreme Court.

Arthur J. Goldberg, President Kennedy's labor cabinet member, said if anybody wants to know where he stands on Hoffa it is the same as in 1957 when, as an AFL-CIO counsel, he helped expel the Teamsters after sensational Senate Rackets Committee hearings.

* * * *

HOFFA CAN be depended upon to strike back. Already he has assembled a squad of aides in Cincinnati to try to coax back the four Teamsters locals that have defected under leadership of James T. Luken. Hoffa's immediate aim is to get back at least seven members in each local, the number required to preserve the Teamsters charters.

While Hoffa has been unavialable for comment, his headquarters spokesmen here will talk. "Hell," said one Hoffa aide, "we lose 4,000 members—out of 1.5 million—and it's supposed to be an all-out revolution."

Hughes Tool Co. Building Light Copter for Army

CULVER CITY (UPI) — Hughes Tool Co. announced it is building a new lightweight helicopter to compete in test trials being conducted by the Army.

Rea E. Hopper, vice president of the Hughes Aircraft Division, said contract negotiations with the Army for the craft are under way. Development of the choppers will begin soon at the Culver City plant, he said, adding that value of the development contract has not been determined.

The contract calls for delivery of five of the four-place, turbin-powered craft to the Army for evaluation about 24 months after contract work begins, Hopper said.

Ancient Burial Grotto Uncovered

LYON, France (AP)—Archaeologists have uncovered near here an ancient burial grotto containing human remains dating back 5,000 years to the neolithic age when man learned to make the wheel.

STUDENTS AND THE DRAFT

Call Deferred If Grades Kept Up

By GEORGE J. MARDER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army will step up its Berlin crisis draft calls sharply just about the time the fall school term starts.

But if the prospective draftee has made plans to go to college he doesn't have to change them. And there is no chance he will be called up in mid-term.

That is the word from Selective Service director Lewis B. Hershey.

In fact, according to present plans, no student will be called up before he finishes college — if he keeps his grades up.

* * * *

THE DRAFT CALL for September is 25,000, about double the call for August which also was stepped up considerably. The October call is expected to total 20,000. The low this year was 3,000 last February.

However, the 45,000 to be called in September and October will hardly make a dent in the manpower pool available for call.

Draft headquarters says about 1.6 million young men have been classified 1-A. And even if there are a lot of rejections when they appear for induction, the pool should be ample to handle planned and future calls without any change in deferment policy.

Selective Service officials figure the only effect the larger calls will have is to lower the average age of the man inducted.

AT PRESENT the national average is 23 although it varies from section to section. Those who become fathers are automatically deferred.

Just getting married isn't ground for deferment.

Selective Service figures that as it stands now the increased calls, to be spread throughout the nation, will be taking those 22 years old on a national average as well as those 23.

* * * *

HERSHEY SAID he did not expect that physical standards would have to be lowered. But he also said a matter of equity was involved in the standards.

"The more people turned down," he said, "the fewer there are participating in the draft calls. Therefore, it becomes more and more difficult for me to be equitable."

Driving--It's DYNAMITE!

(Editor's note: Here's a dramatic new approach to highway safety over the long Labor Day weekend. Driving tips from a dynamite truck driver!)

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — If you want to stay alive this coming Labor Day weekend, drive your car as if it were loaded with dynamite.

Truck driver Ken Manning drives that way all the time and lives to tell about it.

For the last eight years, he's been hauling dynamite for DuPont's explosives division through West Virginia's rugged coal mining country and to construction sites and powder magazines along the East Coast.

Prior to that, he pulled a glass-lined milk trailer over the road into Chicago and, during World War II, ran ammunition up to the front in France and Germany.

* * * *

IN 20 YEARS of hauling critical cargoes Ken Manning has seen some harrowing sights. None of them involved his own truck.

"Amateurs take chances. We don't," he bluntly sums up his driving philosophy.

As a group, dynamite truck drivers are the safest on the road. DuPont, for instance, has been transporting explosives by truck since 1909 without a catastrophe. Other powder firms have been similarly successful in avoiding shock headlines.

Part of this is due to the nature of the commodity carried. Part of it is due to the care and foresight with which it is carried.

* * * *

CONTRARY to popular misconception, there is little danger of a dynamite truck going boom on impact with another vehicle. The real danger is fire, the aftermath of many an accident and the hazard that Ken Manning and his comrades of the dynamite run drive carefully to avert.

They call it "defensive driving," a system of common sense highway safety that can be applied to any driving situation.

To understand what defensive driving is and how it can save your life, hop aboard Ken Manning's dynamite truck, as this reporter did, and learn from an expert.

His run that day went from the Martinsburg powder plant to a storage magazine north of Baltimore, a four-hour trip over winding, hilly roads. From the way Ken handled himself, his truck and his cargo, 10 simple safety rules stood out. They are worth learning for handling any kind of precious cargo. Particularly a family.

* * * *

* * * *

(2) CHECK YOUR equipment carefully before setting out. Ken's bright red, enclosed body truck already has been loaded with 14,000 pounds of dynamite and had been gone over thoroughly by the mechanics before he arrived at the plant. Still, he grabbed a flashlight and personally checked 56 items of equipment on his truck.

* * * *

(3) ALLOW PLENTY of time to get there. It was 2:30 a.m. when Ken buckled his safety belt (a company requirement for all drivers, even salesmen) and drove out the plant gate into a moonless West Virginia night. He was due in Baltimore by 7 a.m., but Ken doesn't like to be hurried. "I always allow a half-hour or more leeway," he explained, "in case I have to detour around any traffic jams or road obstacles."

* * * *

(4) AVOID CONGESTION. Because dynamite usually is delivered for immediate use, Ken does most of his driving at night. Like most truckers, he prefers it that way. "At night the roads are emptier. It's cooler, easier on tires and there's less glare." Crossing the Potomac into Maryland, Ken took the back roads, avoiding well traveled U.S. 40 and by-passing several of the larger towns. Throughout, he showed no inclination to close in on the pack and kept his distance fore and aft from other vehicles, even to the point of shaking of "tail-gaters" by slowing down to a crawl.

* * * *

(5) MAINTAIN a safe, steady speed. Where speed limits permitted, Ken kept moving at a steady 40 miles an hour, slowing down for curves, hills and intersections and coming to a full stop at all railroad crossings, including one where he hasn't seen a train in eight years. Outside Boonsboro, a hot rodder and his girl barreled by in an unmuffled roar of cut-down exhaust pipes. "Teen-agers," Ken sighed, "think they're the best drivers, but they're the worst. They take chances and play games, like cutting you for kicks when they see that 'explosives' sign. Next come old men who veer to the left to make a right turn, then women who fail to accelerate going up a hill."

* * * *

* * * *

(7) LET OTHERS know you're on the road. When Ken passed a slow cement truck on an open stretch, the driver blinked his lights to let him know he had sufficient clearance to get back in line. Ken blinked the same signal to the passing mail truck. Going up over South Mountain through a light skrim of fog, Ken kept flashing his brake lights as a warning to other vehicles back of him. He also flashed his brake lights when slowing down for a crossroad and honked his horn to warn a driver waiting to leave a gasoline station. "Truckers are constantly signaling each other, and it wouldn't be a bad idea if the general public did the same," he said.

* * * *

(8) STOP REGULARLY for a check-up and a rest. About an hour and a half out of Martinsburg, Ken found an isolated stretch and pulled off on the shoulder to check his tires and wipe off his mirrors, and have a cup of coffee.

* * * *

(9) STAY ALERT, stay awake. As the night wore on, Ken guarded against fatigue by chewing gum and turning on the radio.

* * * *

(10) IF IT'S dangerous, don't do it. Ken is always looking for trouble but never disappointed when he doesn't find it. Defensive driving means avoiding the danger spots. If there's a fire up ahead, Ken pulls off the road until the hazard is removed. If there is heavy fog, snow, sleet or ice, he doesn't go at all or, if already on the road, pulls off until conditions clear.

In fact, Ken and his cohorts of the dynamite run have one sure method of staying alive over Labor Day. Says he with a grin, "On holiday weekends, we don't go at all. Too many nuts on the road. I don't even take my own car out. Who wants to live that dangerously?"

DRIVER KEN MANNING has been hauling dangerous cargoes for 20 years without an accident. He and fellow drivers on the dynamite run follow a system of what they call "defensive driving," which means common sense care.—(AP photo.)

U.S. Quits U.N. Fight on Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States has dropped its 10-year fight to keep the U.N. General Assembly from debating whether to seat Communist China.

In the assembly's 16th annual session starting Sept. 19, the United States will not introduce the usual resolution to postpone consideration of the question for the session's duration.

Informed diplomats said the U.S. delegation advised others that to do so would be useless because the resolution could not get the simple majority needed for adoption.

But they added that the United States was still dead set against substituting Communists for Chinese Nationalists in China's assembly seat and probably could forestall that, at least this year.

In each of the last 10 assembly sessions, the United States has put through what has become known as a moratorium resolution to keep the assembly from debating the issue that year.

But last year that resolution, prompted by a Soviet request that the question of Chinese representation go on the agenda, passed by only eight votes—42-34.

At one point, Nepal proposed an amendment by which the assembly would "accede to" rather than "reject" the Soviet request.

That amendment was defeated by only four votes—38-34. Among those that voted against it or abstained, at least four now are ready to vote for it—Brazil, Pakistan, Samalia and Tunisia.

That would make the vote 38-36 in favor of the amendment—and the Chinese question then would be on the agenda.

So instead of drafting a moratorium resolution doomed to defeat, the United States is studying how to meet the issue head on when the assembly takes it up.

Some diplomats hold that to unseat the Nationalists and seat the Communists would simply be a matter of refusing to recognize the credentials of the former and then recognizing the credentials of the latter. They say that is a procedural question that can be decided by a simple majority vote.

The informants said U.S. delegates were talking with others about the possibility of having the assembly declare it an important question to be decided only by a majority of two-thirds of those voting.

The assembly can make such a declaration by a simple majority vote. Many delegates believe that the United States could get that majority—and thereafter could easily keep Red China's Communist and neutralist friends from getting the two-thirds vote that would then be needed to bring her in.

The United States, they say, could well argue that the issue is more than procedural because it has far-reaching political implications, among them the question of the Chinese Communists' willingness to live up to a U.N. member's obligation of peaceful behavior.

The Chinese Communists, while claiming China's U.N. seat, have said they will never sit in it till they take over Formosa, stronghold of the Nationalists.

While it lasts, this all-or-nothing attitude is expected to help the Nationalists keep the seat.

Buddhism Wins in Burmese Vote

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Parliament passed a state religion bill Saturday proclaiming Burma a Buddhist state.

The bill, backed by Prime Minister U Nu, won an easy 324-28 majority. U Nu had told parliament it would not lead to religious discrimination. Police were reinforced and reserves were alerted. But demonstrations from protesting non-Buddhists failed to materialize.

The prime minister said the main reason for the bill was that some governments are destroying religious foundations in their countries. He said it was up to governments of countries such as Burma to promote religion.

U.S. Cuba Stand Hit by Kuchel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R.-Calif., said Saturday the United States should make no compromise with Cuba.

In a televised speech for release in California, he repeated earlier demands for economic sanctions.

"It makes no sense whatsoever to continue trade relations at all with this totalitarian government," he declared.

* * * *

THE SENATE Republican whip said it was an amazing fact that the United States still carries on trade amounting to $5 million a month with Cuba. He said he was repeating his advocacy of economic sanctions because of reports that some Latin American leaders were in favor of an "accommodation" between the United States and Cuba.

"The world knows that Cuba is a Communist satellite," Kuchel said. "Latin American countries should know that Cuba is a menace to the cause of free government in this hemisphere.

"What the United States needs now to do is demonstrate that there will be no accommodation of any kind or of any character with Cuba."

KUCHEL SAID it had been suggested that Premier Fidel Castro would adopt a "softer party line" on orders from Moscow because the Soviet Union had found itself "unable or unwilling to continue underwriting Cuba's economy."

Missing City Cash Sought in Irwindale

By JOSEPH ST. AMANT

IRWINDALE (UPI)—This small city of 1,400 persons, a few miles east of Los Angeles, has an income of almost a half-million dollars a year. But it's in a financial hole as deep as some of the sand and gravel pits that gave it its existence.

A lot of city revenue has disappeared. Some of it went for an elaborate recreation hall which cost $500,000.

The Los Angeles County district attorney's office is trying to find out where the money went. In a sweeping investigation of the city's finances and election procedures, four persons, including the former mayor and the former city manager, have been indicted by the County Grand Jury on vote fraud charges.

* * * *

A CIVIL SUIT has been filed in Superior Court seeking to remove from the voting rolls the names of 23 persons who, it is charged, are not residents of Irwindale or cannot read 100 words of the U. S. Constitution, as required by law.

An accompanying affidavit states that Antonio Silva, 53, an alien and an ex-convict, is, or at least was, a behind-the-scenes political boss of Irwindale.

Former Mayor Justin Garcia was recalled last month along with City Councilman Santos Diaz.

The newly constituted council immediately fired City Manager James McLean.

McLean, Garcia and Silva were named in the grand jury vote fraud indictments along with former Registrar of Voters Mrs. Ernestine Solorio.

* * * *

JOHN T. REVIS, an attorney from nearby Glendora, has been appointed acting city manager and city attorney.

"This is a city of loopholes," he said in his office in the ramshackle City Hall. "It was incorporated four years ago at the instigation of the sand-and-gravel-pit companies as a protection against tax encroachment from surrounding cities. It is a municipal monster made possible by the California state sales tax law."

Fifteen sand-and-gravel-pit companies which produce building materials and asphalt are the backbone of Irwindale's economy, he explained. The state collects a 4 per cent sales tax and then hands over to the city 1 per cent. In the fiscal year 1959-60, Irwindale's share was $428,507.44.

IN THE FIRST two years of incorporation, Revis said, the city banked $515,000 as savings. In the past year, all that has been spent, and the city went about $55,000 in the hole.

The depletion of savings occurred, according to Revis, after Silva returned to Irwindale from a stretch in prison. Silva, now fighting a deportation order to his native Mexico, was convicted in 1953 of embezzlement in a home-appliance business. He served two years and was paroled but was returned to prison for violation of parole. The U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has labeled him an undesirable alien.

Silva has definite ties with the city administration. In addition to his wife, a member of the city council, he has a son who is a sergeant in the Police Department, another son who is a city clerical employe and a daughter who has worked as an election judge.

* * * *

IN TRACING the financial decline of the city, Revis said expenses were running about $80,000 a month but he has cut them to $18,000.

"That recreation hall," he mused, "some people are calling it the Taj Mahal. It cost about $500,000 — almost twice as much as it was supposed to."

The accepted bid on the imposing brick and tile building, standing in the middle of a rocky wasteland, was $252,401, but 27 so-called "change orders" were approved by the old City Council, boosting the price tag up to the half-million mark. The building has an $11,245 vault to store valuables, a $4,000 bus shelter, and a parking lot that cost $4,700 but accommodates only 14 autos.

France to Ignore U.N. Order for Pull-Back in Bizerte

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle will ignore the United Nations action on the Bizerte crisis despite urging by the influential newspaper Le Monde to follow the American cue in the crisis, reliable sources said Saturday.

An Afro-Asian resolution approved by the General Assembly called on both sides in the Bizerte base dispute to withdraw to positions held before the outbreak of fighting July 19 and to begin immediate negotiations for evacuation of the base.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Saturday there would be no comment from the government on the U.N. resolution. This is in line with De Gaulle's policy not to recognize the United Nations as competent in the dispute.

Other French sources said De Gaulle regards the U.N. moves as interference in France's affairs and will apply the same policy to the Assembly resolution as he did to a July 22 Security Council injunction to withdraw his forces. He simply ignored it.

De Gaulle's position is that the question of Bizerte was left for settlement at a later date when Tunisia gained independence in 1956 and that France has a right to use the base until then.

Le Monde, one of the most influential newspapers in France, said passage of the General Assembly resolution was a serious blow to French foreign policy.

"The double axis on which our foreign policy would seem to rest, Atlantic solidarity and Franco-African cooperation, has been reached with dificulty," it said. "Now we must find out."

"The passing of such a resolution has not, we realize, any actual power behind it and is only valuable as a recommendation," Le Monde said. "But we cannot deny that the approval of 66 members of the United Nations without any declared opposition has singularly reinforced Mr. (Tunisian President Habib) Bourguiba's position."

It pointed to U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's recommendation that precise arrangements for the free disposition of the Bizerte base installations be made by negotiation and that they be made on the understanding France recognized the principle of Tunisian sovereignty.

Le Monde said the Stevenson suggestion pointed to a possible way out for France without giving in to "Tunisia's inadmissible claims."

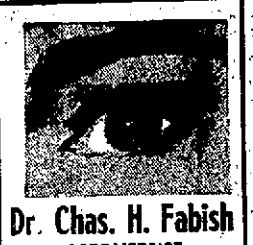

Ukrainians Work on Red Army Chorus

TORONTO (AP) — Six Ukrainian anti-Communists rushed to the Maple Leaf Gardens and threw hundreds of leaflets at members of the Red Army chorus, suggesting they defect to Canada.

The 180-man cast kicked the leaflets off the stage and continued the performance while a crowd of 4,000 booed the anti-Communists.

Leftist-Leaning Jagan Poses Hemisphere Threat

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Cheddi Jagan, a slight, handsome man with flashing brown eyes, can quote the U.S. Constitution and rattle off the battles of the American Revolution like a quiz kid. In the next breath he is just as likely to say:

"Marxist philosophy will one day be the philosophy of the world."

At 43 Jagan is the new—and first—nominee for prime minister of this British South American colony as it nears internal self-rule. A dentist by profession and a political zealot by conviction, he is an open admirer of Fidel Castro and a keen student of international communism.

He will lead British Guiana for the next four years. And where he will lead it worries the West.

* * * *

AS HE WON popular support for the Guiana leadership last week Jagan was again denouncing his old professed enemy—"our imperialist masters"—serving notice that he will press for full independence within the Commonwealth.

The British make no secret of their uneasiness over Jagan and his decided friendliness toward the Communist bloc. They tossed him out of the government once. And they may do it again.

But Jagan is a formidable opponent. The son of an East Indian foreman on a sugar plantation, Jagan draws his support from the descendants of East Indians brought to the colony to work the cane fields and rice paddies. They make up more than half the colony's 560,000 population.

JAGAN CALLS them "comrade" and they cheer when he declares:

"We believe in only one race, the working class race of the world."

Jagan never experienced real poverty. But as the son of a foreman, he was surrounded by it.

He attended high school in Georgetown, but instead of following tradition and going to Britain for advanced education, he went to the United States.

He attended Howard University in Washington, then went to Northwestern University near Chicago for a degree in dental surgery. Dentistry was his compromise with economics. To satisfy other urgings, he went to YMCA college at nights and won a degree in sociology.

* * * *

HE MET AND married Chicago-born Janet Rosenberg, a student nurse two years his junior and a member of the Young Communist League. She is no less a militant politician than Jagan.

It has been claimed that Jagan also became a Communist in Chicago. He has never denied it.

Jagan and his bride returned to British Guiana in 1943 and plunged into politics. In 1945, Janet Jagan formed the Women's Political and Economic Organization and soon won the British tag as "the firebrand of communism in British Guiana."

In 1953, Jagan and his wife founded the People's Progressive Party (PPP)—he as party leader and she as executive secretary. The same year Jagan carried himself, his wife and 16 colleagues into the 24-seat council.

* * * *

UNDER THE old constitution, Jagan, as minister of agriculture, forests and mines, headed the government, subject to the veto of the British.

After he was in office 133 days, the British exercised the veto. Jagan was ousted and the British labeled his reform program an attempt to establish a Communist beachhead in the Americas.

Jagan continued his dental practice and continued to stump for independence. He came back stronger than ever in 1957 as the PPP captured nine of 14 legislative seats at stake.

He again was in effect chief of government—under the British—as minister of industry and later negotiated trade agreements with Castro's regime.

IN LAST Monday's election the PPP captured less than 50 per cent of the vote, but took 20 of the 35 seats in the new Legislative Council. British Governor Sir Ralph Grey asked Jagan to form a government.

Jagan professes what he calls a foreign policy of active neutralism along the lines of India and Ghana. He disclaims intentions to nationalize industry, but last week he called for unity of the colony's many races 'against the exploiters of the working masses."

Despite its leftist leanings, Jagan's PPP is first of all a nationalist party and Jagan himself a nationalist.

THE BRITISH, while granting internal self-rule conceded the eventuality of independence. But they only promised to talk about it in the next year or two. Jagan wants to talk about it now.

British officials indicate privately they will wait and see how Jagan runs his government. Actually, they have little choice. Jagan's opposition is split between the Negro-dominated People's National Congress, a Socialist-oriented party with 11 seats in the assembly, and the conservative United Front, with four seats. Even together they can't match Jagan's 20 seats.

Strauss Urges More A-Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, discounts the danger of fallout and urges the United States to break the present 3-year nuclear test ban with the Soviet Union.

Writing in the current Readers Digest, Strauss claimed the ban has worked to the Russian advantage. He said:

"First, if there is any validity to the belief that the U.S. stockpile of nuclear weapons is the free world's only effective deterrent to Soviet aggression, then the weapons in that stockpile must be in a state of constant readiness — which can only be ascertained by periodic testing."

"Second, nuclear science—its peaceful applications as well as weapons development—will not stand still; yet, advance cannot be made without nuclear testing."

Arguing against the danger to world health by radioactive fallout, he cited examples of persons and animals which had no permanent ill effects from what had been considered dangerous contact with fallout material.

* * * *

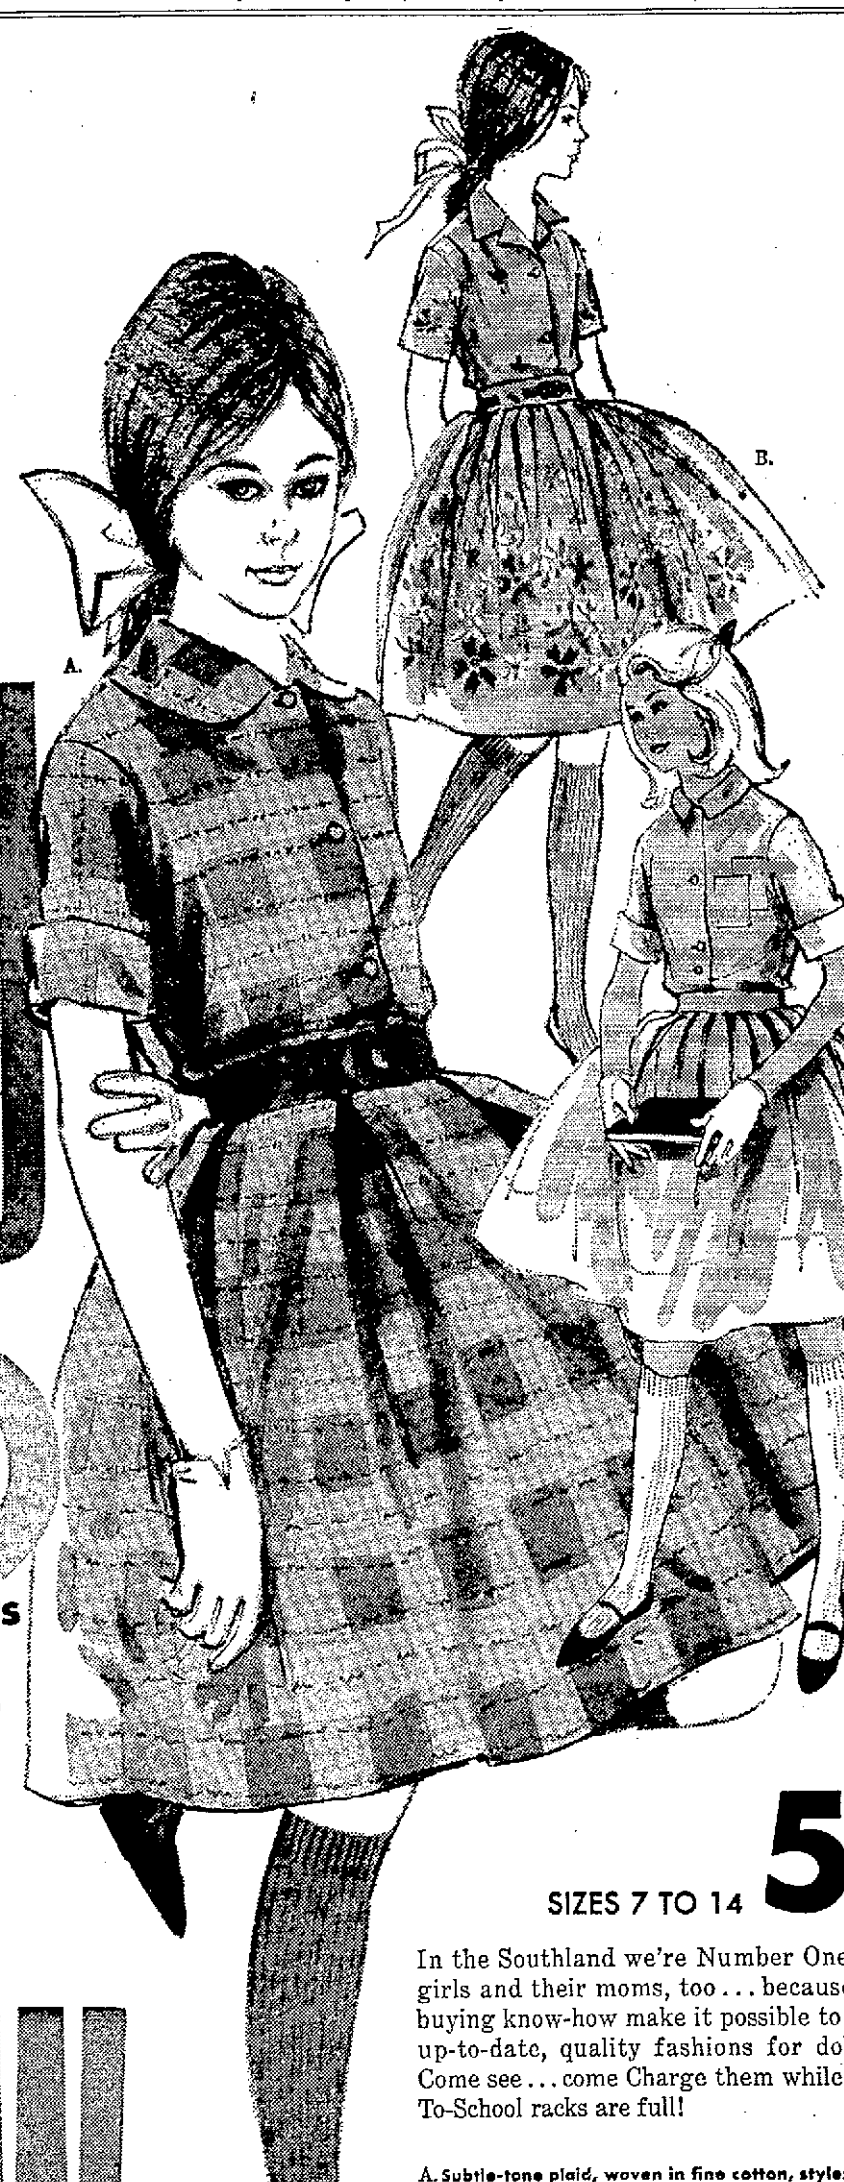

STRAUSS ended the article with this plea:

"Ultimately, the destructive potentials of nuclear energy must be placed in the custody of an absolute and foolproof international authority . . . until such an authority is created, the United States and the Western Democracies must be free to develop all the potentialities of nuclear power—for its control can make deserts bloom or, in Communist hands, could end freedom on earth."

NEW MICROFILM telephone directory device invented by Fullerton man, Verneur Pratt, is shown in comparison to bulky phone books now in common use. Pratt has sold his invention to General Telephone Co. It is only one of many ideas he has developed successfully over the years. Pages of a phone book are reduced to 1/2500th of the original size by his special cameras; then by special projection system the names and phone numbers are reproduced for easy reading. His device is expected to be included in future phone instruments so numbers can be dialed from small microfilm about the size of a playing card.

MAN IN SPACE

All Risk Can't Be Removed

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (UPI)—Man will just have to take some chances if he wants to explore space in person.

That is the gist of recent statements by a couple of companies which studied the feasibility of manned flight to the moon for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration-(NASA).

The Martin Co. minimized such space hazards as weightlessness, the radiation zones around the earth, solar flares and meteors. It said its studies indicate these dangers are not as serious as once believed.

* * * *

THEREFORE, Martin suggested, it will be possible to build moonships without the heavy shielding and artifical gravity equipment which would add to the cost and slow progress.

Dr. George R. Arthur of General Electric's missile and space vehicle department had said earlier that preoccupation with absolute safety and exaggerated fear of the unknown could delay manned exploration of space.

Arthur said it still is necessary to launch unmanned test flights of spacecraft and equipment before attempting manned flights. But he said all risks cannot be removed in advance for space pilots. He indicated he felt the Mercury program delayed manned hops too long.

* * * *

"I OFTEN FEEL," Arthur said, "that if we followed the same path in aircraft development we might still be flying Jennies."

He said aircraft pilots regularly take life-or-death chances without setting off a public furor.

Both Martin and the General Electric scientist discounted the chances of pilots getting a dangerous dose of radiation on a round trip to the moon.

* * * *

THE WORST radiation an astronaut could run into would be that which streams from flares on the sun. Martin likened the chance of encountering a solar flare "to the chance of an ocean liner encountering an iceberg in the South Atlantic."

Arthur put it this way:

"It may very well be the case that the danger of dying from over-exposure to solar flares for the lunar astronaut is considerably less than the danger of being smashed up in a three-car crash on the Hollywood Freeway."

LAW LIBRAARY IN A CIGAR BOX

Inventor Races in Sport Car Gift to Self on 70th Birthday

By MARGARET BURRELL

FULLERTON — Tired of leafing through that heavy phone book?

Like to have a law library in a cigar box?

Inventor Verneur Pratt, 2000 Skyline Dr., just finished making these things a reality.

Yet he admits "I haven't really done a day's work in the past 20 years—I've done what I wanted to do and made it pay."

Pratt, who perfected the microfilm process and only recently sold all his 70 patents, is a restless, intensely curious man to whom the appurtenances of everyday living present a constant challenge.

* * * *

TAKE THIS Micro-Projector which I sold to the General Telephone Company — I got tired of battling with the nine phone books I keep in my office and decided there was an easier way. . . Made several models, got the bugs ironed out, took it to the people in charge and they bought it.

"Of course it will be several years before they'll be in circulation — for several reasons—but when they are, it's the plan now to microfilm each directory on one or two playing car size films which will slip into a small viewer, and to mail out a revised one each month."

The law library in a cigar box is one use of his "Domino Micro-Book," so called because a cartridge the size of a domino containing a complete book or periodical will slide into a handsized viewer.

Pratt sees the invention as a boon to bored service men in isolated posts without access to current reading material. He also sees it as a help to law and medical students, indeed foresees its future application in classroom work of all types.

* * * *

"THE ECONOMY of the thing is tremendous. Paper backs are billion dollar business, and they cost between $1.25 and $3.50. Micro-Book can be marketed for a fraction of that," he adds.

Descendent of five generations of photographers including the co-worker of the inventor of Daguerrotype, Pratt decided to have nothing to do with photography at an early age.

Instead, he was running his own "Pratt's Practical Printery" in Aurora, Ill., at 13. It was the result of a gift of a toy machine which made calling cards. He expanded it to a three-room office where he spent so much time profitably he neglected to finish high school. From printing he went to reporting on the Aurora Daily Journal where he found out "a lot of things I didn't really want to know, mainly that I didn't want to be a reporter."

* * * *

NEXT IT WAS a "literary taxicab" life for Pratt — "that's where you go 500 words for the current fare regardless of your own interests. I never reached the point of being an independent traveler, although I sold consistently, especially to the old 'Liberty' magazine," he recalls.

Next came advertising, his own agencies in Chicago and New York, a job as advertising manager for McKesson and Robbins pharmaceuticals, inauguration of the "controlled circulation" idea, and several sales training methods.

Lessing Rosenwald, son of the founder of Sears, Roebuck was his first backer in microfilm work, and Pratt opened a microfilm plant in Norwalk, Conn., which later was sold to Diebold Co. when executive duties began to interfere with his inventing.

* * * *

"NO, I DIDN'T invent microfilming," he says. The first use ever made of the process was during the siege of Paris in 1870, he explains. Vital records were photographed and collodion impressions, which would correspond to film negatives, were peeled off glass plates, wrapped in light weight metal capsules and flown out of the city by homing pigeons.

Today the complete records of the largest factory in the country can be filed in a four drawer cabinet and duplicate negatives can be sent to any branch.

The world's smallest microfilming was done during World War II when Pratt produced a page of a book which could be hidden under a period mark in a newspaper.

* * * *

TODAY PRATT Enterprises is housed in five plants in Anaheim where his son Edmond is manager. This leaves Pratt free to jaunt to Nassau and Mexico and to plan a trip to the Orient.

"I don't suppose I'll ever retire—too many things still buzzing around in my bonnet. One thing I won't do and that's invent anything to do with missiles or a destructive media. My pleasure is the many letters I have telling me how my home fire alarm system has saved lives." (This works via an indium metal spot which dissolves at 136 degrees and sets off a warning bell.)

Other Pratt inventions: The aptigraph reading machine, laxative chewing gum, monobath (a developer-fixer solution which permits film development to required density regardless of time and temperature variants) a pocket comparator measuring device, a grainless film, a children's microscope with labeled slides, provements like a ceiling-high TV with audio in the individually controlled receivers under the bed pillows. Pratt does all his own drafting and specifications for specially ground lenses, and makes all his own models in his shop.

In his spare time Pratt devours books at the rate of about 900 words a minute, makes cabinets, dictates an autobiography, helps a few other inventors on a consultant basis, enjoys his six grandchildren and races his white Corvette, which he gave himself for his 70th birthday.

"That's how I celebrated my birthday—in a rally race in Riverside. Why not? Peps you up quite a bit," he laughs.

would try to persuade the Congress simply to refuse to inaugurate him. In either case the office of president would be considered vacant, reliable quarters said.

The plan to amend the constitution drew immediate fire from leftwing nationalist deputy Sergio Magalhaes who has succeeded Mazzilli as chairman of the House.

* * * *

DENYS' FIRM attitude has left Labor Party leaders in doubt as to how to proceed, reliable informants said. But the war minister's determination not to permit the vice president to become president and to arrest him if necessary is regarded as "an accomplished fact," they added.

The threat of a possible civil war was underscored by reports that Gov. Elonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul state, a Goulart backer, had "alerted" state troops to "enter into action at any moment if necessary." Brizola is a leader of the Labor Party and wants Goulart to take office in accordance with the constitution.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Saturday denounced Russian and Cuban charges that the United States was behind the resignation of Brazilian President Janio Quadros as "nonsense" and "the work of international mischief-makers."

In a statement issued with White House approval, the Department said the United States has had "friendly and close" ties with Quadros.

Reds Fortify New Wall in East Berlin

to a single crossing point.

"These flagrantly illegal measures have as their purpose further sealing off of East Berlin and East Germany from the free world. They are in clear violation of the quadripartite status of Berlin."

* * * *

WEST BERLIN police doubled their guard forces Saturday for fear the West Berliners would demonstrate against the Communists on their day off but no major incidents were reported. At one point near Friedrichstrasse in the U. S. sector police continually had to chase groups of 20 or 30 off a rubble pile overlooking the closed border.

On the east side of the border East Berliners were held well back from the barriers and showed no inclination toward challenging the guards.

Many on each side waved at friends across the barricades.

Watson backed up his protest by sending four busloads of American military dependents in Berlin through the triple-barrier checkpoint at Friedrich Street to emphasize U.S. determination to move freely in Berlin and ignore Communist border police.

* * * *

THE BUSES passed through without trouble, toured the streets of East Berlin and returned without difficulty.

Other Berlin developments:

East German Propaganda Chief Gerhart Eisler urged Communist youths to climb up on roofs and tear down television antenna of East Berliners suspected of tuning in on West German broadcasts.

Information Bureau West, a private West Berlin intelligence agency, said the East German government ordered all foreigners living in East Germany to surrender their passports by today. About 800 foreigners thus are prevented from traveling to the west.

The East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland warned the Western allies it would not "tolerate" much longer illegal "anarchy" in the air corridors to Berlin. It accused the Western powers of flagrant misuse of the corridors.

Construction of a second wall Saturday at Brandenburg Gate came as a surprise. The second wall is about 50 yards behind the gate.

Kremlin Aims at Anti-Reds

pened, they can happen again."

Hunter gave no names, dates, or other details in testifying about this, but he said "the new-style, pro-Red agent has his role to influence policy, stalling or frustrating it, making it fail or end up by hurting ourselves."

He testified that the primary target of the anti-Communist drive is the Pentagon, "specifically the program to train and alert our troops and our people to the Red techniques and the inherent evil in communism."

Hunter said the Reds have seen that "unless this program can be destroyed, the anti-Communist movement cannot be liquidated."

Shown copies of Defense Department's directives issued this year, Hunter said that in effect they warned against the use of anti-Communist films in troop training programs and marked successes for the "Red anti-anti-Communist pressure drive."

* * * *

HUNTER testified this campaign "won a stunning victory for itself" when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said at a May 26 news conference that military officers should confine themselves to defense matters in public discussions and avoid foreign policy matters.

At another point Hunter said "a fundamental objective of the Red drive is to cut off Pentagon participation in the (anti-Communist) grassroots movement that is at long last awakening our people."

"By forbidding the participation of the military in seminars or forums where politics and policy are discussed," he said, "anti-Communist preparedness can be torpedoed, and the character-building aspects of the program can be eliminated."

EDWARD HUNTER
Author of Report

* * * *

HE SAID "communism cannot meaningfully discussed without reference to Soviet Russia, the satellites and Red aggression and infiltration in places such as Southeast Asia and Africa."

Hunter testified that prior to the Moscow manifesto of Dec. 5,, 1960, anti-anti-Communist maneuvers took the form mainly of Red fronts, hush-hush methods, and economic pressures.

But since then, he said, anti-anti-Communism "has come out into the open, taking the offensive.

* * * *

"DURING the years of hush-hush," Hunter said, "our channels of communication, to all practical purposes, closed their pages to anti-communism, ignored or downgraded anti-Communist books and writings, neutralized or squeezed out anti-Communist editors, authors and speakers, and made the anti-Communist a socially undesirable person."

He said Moscow has now decided that it is necessary to combat the anti-Communist movement in the United States head-on.

"We shall witness a seemingly spontaneous outpouring of articles and persuasions of every character that will rise all along the fringes of the communications field where the Reds have influence and, from then on . . . penetrating all channels of the press and all attitude-changing segments of our society, such as schools and churches.

Door-to-Door MS Campaign Closes Today

The annual multiple sclerosis house-to-house fund drive, which began Thursday in Long Beach, will end today.

More than 1,200 volunteer workers have been conducting the campaign to raise funds for research and treatment of persons stricken with the disease.

Duane Weisel, chairman of the local campaign committee, said that donations should be mailed to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 622 S. Kenmore Ave., Los Angeles, 5.

Though the actual house-to-house drive ends today, the campaign to point out the seriousness of the disease continues through next Thursday.

Macmillan Sees No War Over Berlin

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, Aug. 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, away from it all at a golfer's haven in the Scottish highlands, said "Nobody is going to fight about Berlin."

The British leader had just played a round of golf on the famed King's Course with his wife, Lady Dorothy Macmillan, and was talking informally with newsmen.

A reporter asked whether the Berlin situation, where troops of East and West are facing each other over Red-barricaded borders, frightened him?

* * * *

LANGUIDLY Macmillan replied:

"I think it is all got up by the press."

Later he brandished a golf club and smiling broke up the impromptu news conference with these words:

"Mr. Khrushchev is playing golf in the Crimea. Perhaps that is rather encouraging."

Red 'School Blockade' Broken by Soldiers

BERLIN (AP)—Eight British soldiers in a jeep and a small armored scout car see that Erwin Schabe, 12, gets to school these days.

Erwin lives in an enclave on the northwest edge of Berlin called Eiskeller (Ice Cellar). The enclave is surrounded by the barbed wire and wooden observation posts so dearly loved by the Russians.

Eiskeller, so named because Berlin brewers once used it to store the ice they cut on nearby lakes, juts into the Russian zone which surrounds Berlin. Eiskeller is part of the British zone.

A corridor only eight feet wide connects Eiskeller with the British sector of Berlin.

East German policemen stopped Erwin two days ago as he set out for school in West Berlin on his bicycle. They stepped out of the goldenrods bordering a small woods along the corridor and shouted "zurueck" at Erwin. That meant go back for Erwin and he did, missing school.

His parents complained and the British moved fast.

A Welsh regiment patrol picks up Erwin in Eiskeller at 8 a.m. he gets on his red bicycle and rides in between the jeep and the scout car. The patrol takes him the 400 yards through the corridor. Then he rides to school about three miles away.

Promptly at noon Saturday, Erwin came riding up through the fields of cabbages and rye to the checkpoint outside Eiskeller.

Erwin will stay well within Eiskeller's tight borders, about 20 acres in all, until Monday morning then the patrol will be waiting again to escort him past the Russians and the people's police.

'Die' Rather Than Dicker, Tshombe Says

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe shouted defiantly Saturday night that "we are ready to die" rather than negotiate with the Central Congolese government under threat of United Nations arms.

Tshombe's declaration at a news conference, called after talks with U.N. representative Conor Cruise O'Brien, appeared to rule out all hope of Katangese negotiations with Central Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Tshombe cut short a north Katanga tour to fly home Friday when he learned the U.N. had moved 800 Indian troops into Elisabethville. Reliable U.N. sources said they would be used to disarm Katanga's 13,000 gendarmerie and police.

Saturday night, Tshombe said he wanted to cooperate to find a peaceful Congo solution, "but if the threat of cannons and machine guns of the Indian soldiers is used against us, we are ready to die."

Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo accused O'Brien of giving Tshombe only 30 minutes Saturday morning to decide whether to fly to Leopoldville to meet Adoula.

49 MILLION ENROLL

Students in U.S. Hit Record High

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Enrollment in public and private schools will hit an all-time high of 49,300,000 in the new school year beginning next month, the U.S. Office of Education said Saturday.

The official estimate covered schools of all levels from kindergarten through college in 50 states and the District of Columbia.

The prospective enrollment marks an increase of 1,400,000 (m) students over the 1960-61 school year, the 17th consecutive year in which the total was reflected a continuing rise in the birth rate.

* * * *

THE TOTAL enrollment breaks down into 34,200,000 in elementary schools (kindergarten through grade 8); 10,800,000 in high schools (grades 9 through 12); and 4,300,000 in colleges and universities.

The largest increase will be felt at the high school level, where enrollment will be up 700,000. Elementary enrollment will rise 400,000, and college enrollment 300,000.

With the U. S. population now nearing 185 million, the fall enrollment estimate means that 27 per cent of the American people will be attending school.

* * * *

OF THE 45 million young people attending schools below the college level, 38,200,000, or 85 per cent, will be enrolled in public schools.

About 300,000 will attend federal schools on military bases and Indian reservations or other special types of institutions, and 6,500,000 will ben enrolled in private schools. About 5,600,000 of the latter will be Roman Catholic parochial schools.

The Office of Education estimated that 1,684,000 classroom teachers will be needed by public and private schools below the college level during the coming academic year. This is an increase of 3 per cent over the 1,636,000 teachers employed during the 1960-61 school year.

Jedeast MEATS

REMEMBER Miss Singapore and the illness that put her in the hospital and out of the competition at the Miss IBC contest? What happened to her and how does she feel about her experience here?

Well, Julie Koh slowly recovered and on July 29 left for her home. And now at Memorial Hospital a letter has been received from her addressed to "all my dear American sisters and mamas." It was intended especially for the nurses at the hospital.

"I miss all of you so much," she wrote. "I sincerely thank all of you for enabling my stay at Memorial Hospital to be a very comfortable one. I shall never forget all the wonderful things you have done for me."

Julie asked about a young man with a broken leg she saw at the hospital, and she promised, if ever she returns to Long Beach, to visit the hospital. "It will be a friendly call and not as a patient," she hoped.

Obviously, the girl from Singapore, despite a stroke of bad luck, has carried home a message of good will from here.

THE OTHER day I relayed query from a young reader as to the origin of the term "hot dog" for a frankfurter or weiner. Other readers rushed to her aid with some rather bizarre reports.

Dee Hull says that when weiners first became popular, some jokers spread the word they were made from the meat of stray dogs—and that started the term.

Somewhat similar and in more detail is Charles Gerlach's theory. He says that a half century ago, when burlesque was in its prime, there was a comedy stunt involving a box-like contraption with a hopper on top, a chute at one end and a handle on the side.

Live dogs would be put in the hopper, the handle turned, and from the end would emerge a string of items in the shape of weiners. These were called dogs. Apply a little heat and you had hot dogs.

For a long time, manufacturers of weiners objected to having them called dogs. Public opinion won out—but it also favored the manufacturers' product, so everybody is happy.

THE "boogie-woogie bugle boy of Company M" has just been heard from.

He is Richard R. Williams, now city editor of the Okinawa Morning Star, Naha, Okinawa (Box 282).

Bro. Williams writes about his days with Company M of California National Guard, based at the Long Beach Armory early in World War II. He says he was a lousy bugler, but that was his assignment and the boys gave him the boogie-woogie title in good-natured banter. He'd like to hear from any other members of Co. M, which was commanded by Lt. Cecil Lynn when he joined up.

GOING BACK to the subject of dogs, my Samoyed, Sycan, whose eating exploits have recently made national news, has done it again.

This time he consumed two $1 bills.

The currency "made the route" and was recovered. It bears some teeth marks but otherwise is ready for a return to circulation.

BE THANKFUL California has a statewide adoption of daylight saving time.

Mrs. Wayne Martin has just returned from Oregon, which has no official DST but where about half the people and half the businesses are on fast time, half on regular. "It's horrible confusion," she reports.

MORE AND MORE SADDLE UP IN SOUTHLAND

By BOB WILCOX

An ancient sport that knows no season or age limit and combines the longing of the city-bound for the outdoors with most persons' innate love of animals is experiencing a boom in the Long Beach area.

From Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mercer who operate the Equestrotel Riding Academy here to the Equestrian Trails, Inc., which is in the process of acquiring 3,000 miles of trails throughout California, the word is the same: horseback riding, always popular, is on the upsurge.

The reasons for taking up riding are as varied as the ages of the horseback enthusiasts.

Take Charlene Sutera, a 16-year-old Wilson High student of 4131 Patero Way, who got the horse fever not from watching television but from witnessing an old-fashioned parade nearly two years ago.

* * * *

CHARLENE "fell in love" with Proud Rebel, plain "horse-horse" that would bring snickers from show judges. "It was the only one I've ever wanted," says the brown-haired coed.

Then there's Charlene's pal, Chery Creel, 14, of 3904 Lewis Ave., a pert brownette. "I wanted a horse when I was 4," she says.

She persuaded her father to buy her a show horse 18 months ago. She prefers showing to riding. Chery won a national show medal in Costa Mesa recently and if she captures another she'll go to Madison Square Garden next November to compete for a national championship.

* * * *

MRS. CHRIS MERCER, a show rider herself and equestrian expert, discounts longing for the outdoors as a principal reason for the sport which has kept Equestrotel's stable at 3801 Golden Ave. crammed with 100 horses — considered "luxury items."

"It's mostly competition and the challenge," says Mrs. Mercer. "You never learn everything about a horse." She estimates that two-thirds of the riding horses in this area are show horses. The remainder are kept purely for pleasure riding.

When Junior expresses a yen for a mount—and he can do it anytime after he's 3—the experience can be relatively inexpensive or fabulously costly.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Mrs. Mercer, you can pick up a "horse-horse" starting at about $200, board him out at $40 a month, or, if zoning laws permit, keep him at home for about $25 a month. Then there are other expenses such as equipment, medical expenses, and training the young rider at about $2.50 a week.

If Junior's yen runs to showing horses, his mount could cost $100,000 but will probably be bought for more like $1,500.

Horseback riders are a well-organized tribe. The Equestrian Trails group which was formed in Long Beach in 1945 now boasts 16 "Corrals" around the state.

* * * *

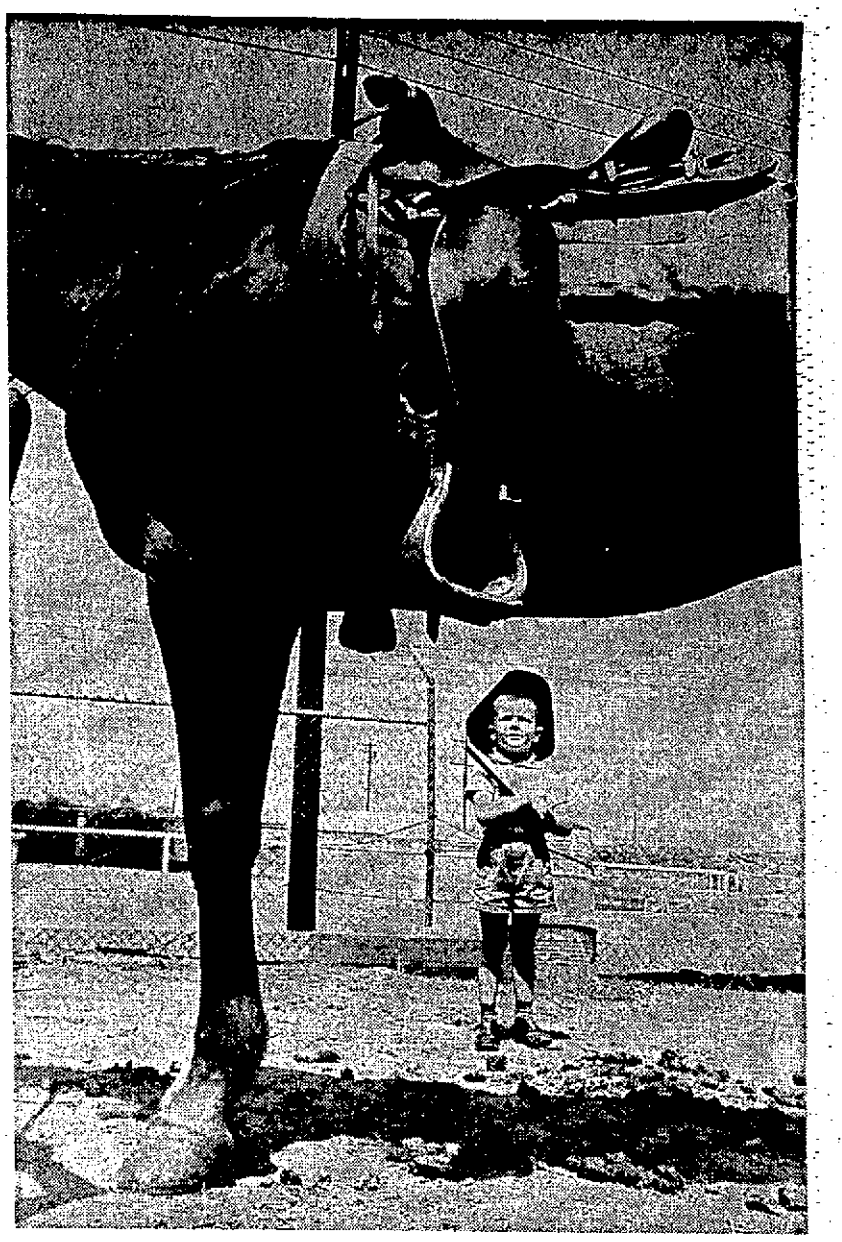

THE GROUP has acquired right-of-way on about 2,000 miles of trails up and down the state. Eventually it hopes to have a continuous web between Mexico and Canada.

The top horse-show governing body is the American Horse Show Association which sets standards for all "national shows." Various statewide groups also control competition. The riders, themselves, are organized into many clubs but compete at all times as individuals.

Among the big show events coming up in this area are shows on Labor Day at the Empty Saddle Club in Rolling Hills; at Portuguese Bend on Sept. 23-24; and charity competition at Los Alamitos Sept. 9-10.

2 Lifeguards Tow Boat From Jetty

Two Seal Beach lifeguards swim-towed an 18-foot inboard boat 400 yards to safety after its engine failed and it was in danger of being smashed against the Seal Beach Naval Base jetty Saturday.

Lifeguard Capt. Andy Seymour said Guards Jerry Hughes and Richard Chew towed the boat, owned and operated by Henry Killcreas of Baldwin Park, to the beach area.

Rob Druggist of $400 Cash and Narcotics

Two armed bandits Saturday took more than $400 in cash and narcotics worth about $50 in a robbery of the Parkview Pharmacy, 2101 E. Broadway, police said.

James K. Johnson, of 1723 W. Fifth St., San Pedro, owner of the pharmacy, told police the pair entered his store as he was counting the money in the cash register. They took the money and narcotics after threatening him with a revolver, he said.

The bandits escaped in a small foreign car, police reported.

L.B. AF Wife Is Gray Lady

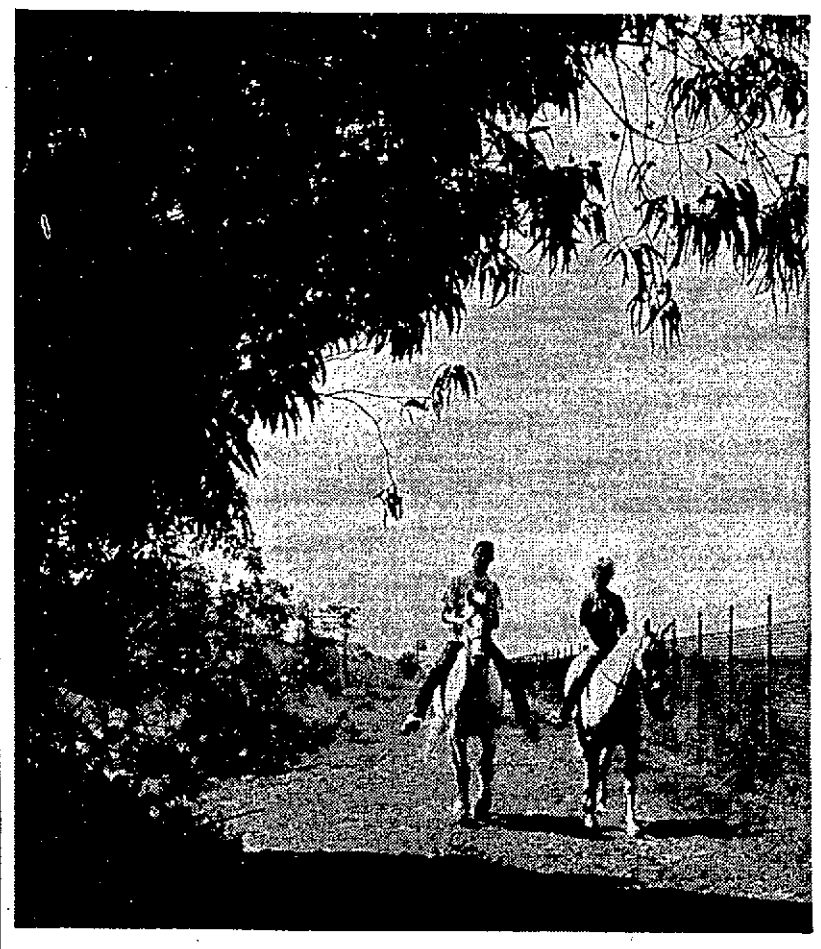

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Griffin, a former Long Beach resident, now in France, has been capped by the Red Cross as a Gray Lady.

Mrs. Griffin is the wife of U.S. Air Force Capt. Richard A. Griffin, stationed in Toul Rosieres, France, and the daughter of Mrs. Mabel F. Williams, of 1959 Cedar Ave. She attended Long Beach City College.

Downtown Merchants Go All Out for Street Tree-Planting Plan

By JIM McCAULEY

Soon you won't be able to see the trees for the forest in downtown Long Beach.

Faster than you can shout "timber" new fiscus nitida evergreens are sprouting from the sidewalks in a vast beautification program.

"The asphalt jungle appearance of sidewalks is gone," proudly announced Vito H. Romans, general manager, Downtown Long Beach Associates.

* * * *

FORTY-SIX trees were planted in downtown sidewalks last week by civic-minded retailers — exceeding all plantings for the past three years.

As a result, here is a rundown on forestry conditions in downtown Long Beach:

One-third of Pine Avenue store fronts shaded by stately trees.

Two blocks on the south side of Broadway, from Locust to Pacific Avenues, planted solidly with trees.

More tree plantings due to go in later.

* * * *

RETAILERS here were up a tree for a while due to the high cost of beautification. The City of Long Beach supplied the trees free, but excavation and grill-work costs totaled $216 a tree.

The sidewalk had to be cut and protective grillwork erected. That was costly.

Then A. L. Code, district manager for Southern California Edison Co., arranged for his building to experiment with a low-cost planting method. Bricks were substituted for grill-work and the cost was slashed to $29 a tree.

* * * *

DUE TO the success of the low-cost Edison Building tree plantings, other downtown locations have been ordering trees en masse.

George Trammell, DLBA president, credited Darrell Neighbors for starting the tree beautification program. Neighbors, property manager for Jotham Bixby Co., arranged for the first tree to be planted at Broadway and Pacific Avenue four years ago.

And a forest of trees came later.

* * * *

SUNSET MAGAZINE, Western living publication, saluted the Long Beach tree beautification program, saying:

"Along Long Beach streets, merchants have only to pay installation costs to get trees. The city does the rest."

DLBA takes orders for the trees, the city plants them and DLBA bills merchants. The city bills DLBA.

Among the local firms with new plantings last week were the Lafayette Hotel, Farmers and Merchants Bank Building, Household Finance, Bank of America, Sav-On Drug and Security-First National Bank.

Let's Aim at Right Target

LET US hope that Anti-Communism Week, proclaimed in connection with the forthcoming Southern California School of Anti-Communism, will not signal another outbreak of name-calling between reactionaries and radicals.

More temperate citizens will use the occasion for the purpose suggested—"A week during which our citizens will join with others in Southern California to enlighten themselves on the insidious works of an international conspiracy that is dedicated to the destruction of our fundamental constitutional rights as free men."

MANY DIVERGENT GROUPS says they are against communism. Perhaps these groups can use this special week as a time to find areas of agreement instead of pursuing the futile battle against one another.

"Anti-Communists" of the Birch stripe could use it as an occasion to halt their attacks on good citizens such as Chief Justice Earl Warren and direct their fire at the real enemy.

Incidentally, conservatives who feel some obligation to defend Birchers because the Birchers claim to be anti-Communists should consider a remark by Sen. Barry Goldwater in his press conference in Long Beach last week.

The leader of the conservative movement said that the John Birch Society is not necessarily a conservative organization and that he hates to see it labeled as such. He defended the good name of Earl Warren and said that anti-Communists should fight Communists.

MEANWHILE SOME OF the anti-anti-Communists need to re-examine the theory they hold that communism is just another political idea which deserves a respectful and solicitous hearing and complete protection in a democratic society. So many who advance this naive argument would be among the first to sue if they were called Communists. Why?

Because they know in their heart of hearts that communism isn't an innocent political theory but an evil, active conspiracy to undermine our free, democratic society. And they wouldn't want to be CALLED a supporter of such a conspiracy even though they give it as much aid as do the zealous "anti-Communists" who want to lynch every man who voices a liberal thought.

Let the anti-anti-Communists spend at least this one week sneering at Communists, ridiculing Communists, deploring Communists, making fun of Communists instead of beating well-meaning fellow citizens over the head.

U.S. Policy-Makers Neglect Churches

EN ROUTE FROM EUROPE—One of the most effective instruments for the spread of America's ideals and its concepts of human brotherhood throughout the world is not being utilized by the United States government. There is plenty of emphasis on "cultural exchange" in the arts, music and drama, and lots of talk about the need for technical and educational help to be furnished by the new "peace corps" project. But there is a tendency to overlook a powerful institution in the world today—the churches and religious organizations.

The contact between the American government and the Roman Catholic headquarters in the Vatican is tenuous. There is little contact with the high-ranking ministers of the Church of England. There is little contact with the high churchmen of the Asian religions.

THE OTHER DAY, the correspondent in Rome of the London "Daily Telegraph" wrote to his paper that an attempt may be made soon to initiate diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican. This is probably a mistaken report, and the speculation may have arisen from the fact that Cardinal Cicognani, the newly appointed Papal secretary of state, is well acquainted in Washington, where he served 25 years—from 1933 to 1958—as the apostolic delegate to the Catholic clergy in America. From 1939 to 1950, Presidents Roosevelt and Truman maintained an unofficial representative—the late Myron C. Taylor—at the Vatican. These relationships were especially valuable during the war and postwar periods, and were thereafter lost in a controversy that arose when President Truman recommended establishment of formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican, and Congress refused to approve.

SINCE THAT TIME, the contact between the American government and the Vatican has been confined to a few visits by dignitaries on both sides. Yet the Roman Catholic Church has tremendous influence in every country in Latin America—each of which is predominantly Catholic in its religious affiliation—as well as in France, Austria, Germany, Spain and Italy. The Vatican could do more to help the "Alliance for Progress" to succeed in Latin America than any other single ally.

What is needed is a special organization in the United States government devoted entirely to contacts with all national church and religious groups, both inside and outside the United States.

WHAT COULD THESE AMERICAN representatives do? Nearly every one of the big churches has a vast personnel of missionaries who serve all around the globe—Africa, Asia, South America. They are in close contact with the peoples of those continents.

Sometimes the church organizations get a misconception of American purposes and policies, and their representatives repeat such misconceptions, not necessarily in the pulpits but in their informal relationships with local leaders of thought. It is vital to the whole communication policy of the United States that a means of briefing the principal church leaders of the world should be set up by the United States government—just as it spends a lot of time and money in contacting the press and movie people of various countries, as well as other organizations included in our "cultural exchange" programs.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Study of Communism, If Not Abused, Could Prove Helpful

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Probably there will be some controversy over a proposal to include instruction about communism in the public schools. There always is a controversy whenever the word communism is mentioned, despite the fact it is the bitterest enemy of republicanism and democracy.

Conferences over the proposal have been going on in the state Department of Education, and Roy E. Simpson, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, is about to appoint an advisory committee to study the matter farther.

MacARTHUR

Under the proposal the decision as to whether instruction would be given or not, would be made by local school districts. Along with any such course would go instruction in democracy, the idea being to show the difference between the two philosophies of government.

On the face of the proposal, it would appear a desirable course. At the present time, there is a general "hate communism" attitude on the part of everyone, and at the same time, few people know what communism is or what it is trying to accomplish.

What the educators may-hap don't realize is that there would be a more general antipathy among the people of the state toward the philosophies of communism if people knew more about the subject. Then the antipathy would be based on factual knowledge, presumably, and sound reasons would supercede hearsay in pointing the country away from communism. Also, the "tricks of the trade," that is, the methods used to advance the cause of communism would become common knowledge, readily recognized when they are used in this country.

On the other hand, such courses could be abused. Let a teacher who happened to be favorable to the Communist philosophy get in the saddle as instructor in a democracy vs. communism course, which the teaching would evolve into eventually, and the cause of democracy could easily be lost.

This, then, would mean continual hand-picking on the part of governing boards of school districts to select instructions who are known to be loyal to the democratic cause. This would be a difficult task, for even the invasion of one communistically-inclined instructor could do a lot of damage. And the Communists, one can rest assured, would space no effort to infiltrate the ranks and spread propaganda through this brand new media.

* * * *

BECAUSE of this danger, it could well behoove the state Department of Education to figure out ways and means of avoiding tactics which eventually could undermine democratic principles.

But again, teaching "about" communism could readily be recommended as a means of adding to the store of knowledge of the state's young people. If democracy is afraid to teach its upcoming citizens what communism is and what it represents, then those who espouse its cause must have made more progress than they are given credit for.

Facts on any subject should not be denied to young people, and particularly on subjects in which there is such a great amount of interest as there is in communism.

Neutral, 'at It Again' Nebulous Nehru, Wobbly

NEBULOUS NEHRU, the prime minister of India, is at it again.

This time, the 71-year-old leader of the Congress party, is saying that he sees no need for either the West or the Soviet Union to give up its position in Berlin.

"I do not see any problem," opines the serene prime minister, "for which a temporary solution cannot be found."

This is a delightful doctrine but it appears to collide with the realities. Mr. Khrushchev simply refuses to cooperate.

NEHRU

The best description of Nehru, who maintains a wobbly neutrality between East and West, is given by a high Indian official.

"Nehru," he declared, "is like the banyan tree, under whose shade millions take shelter—but nothing grows."

WALTER TROHAN, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington bureau, has discovered that the late Alben William Barkley, prosecutor, senator and Vice President of the United States, didn't believe in paying taxes.

It seems that "The Veep," as Barkley was affectionately known, usually voted for higher taxes but neglected to pay his fair share to the government. In the settlement of Barkley's estate, the Internal Revenue Service collected $343,444 in settlement of income tax claims.

The story goes that Barkley actually owed a great deal more than was paid by the estate in an "agreed settlement."

Much of the "Veep's" income came from paid lectures which he delivered to special interest groups at the very time he was serving as Vice President of the United States.

Owing to Barkley's great popularity, this impropriety was never challenged. At the "Veep's" funeral services, the Senate chaplain asked those present "to think tenderly of one who occupied the high office and yet never stooped to low designs."

As Trohan says, no doubt Barkley would have had an amusing story to cover the situation.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, in an editorial argument for the foreign aid program, says "the development loan fund is in no sense a 'give-away' program; it is an extraordinary banking operation to meet a Communist run on the free world."

By this the Times means that we are to extend low or no interest loans, repayable in dollars, to enable "the developing nations" to complete their "revolution in freedom and avert Communist subversion."

We agree that this would be "an extraordinary banking situation" but not one likely to be fulfilled. With reference to the widely heralded Alliance for Progress, the Economist of London sees the reciprocal ingredient on the Latin side as "the pushing of belated reforms without which . . . aid may actually worsen the situation instead of improving it."

The Economist says these reforms turn on the willingness of the Latin American ruling classes to do two crucial things: first, to accept progressive taxation well enforced; secondly, to submit to the break-up of the vast landed estates . . . and the creation of incorruptible administrative machines to translate paper plans into grass-roots action.

To one who knows Latin America, the probability of attaining these objectives and collecting on our "loans" is so slight that the Times' wishful musings cannot be be taken seriously.

UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE Chester Bowles is a tenacious, if not a sensitive man. . . . President Kennedy told him to get another job, but Bowles didn't understand he was being fired. . . . Ohio's outspoken Sen. Frank J. Lausche is a candidate for re-election. . . . Although the bushy-haired Senator is unpopular with organized labor and the leaders of his own party, they can't figure out how to beat him. . . . And no Republican candidates for Lausche's job are rushing into the fray.

Among our good friends in Latin America is Carlos Lacerda, the governor of the state of Guanabara in Brazil. . . . Lacerda was openly critical of resigned President Janio Quadros' policy of closer relations with Communist countries. . . . Recently he told a trades union meeting that he would take to the streets and fight rather than permit the "hopes of the Brazilian people to be frustrated or detoured by a policy of successive capitulations to Communist tyrannies." . . . The delegates gave Gov. Lacerda a standing ovation.

Another stanch Latin supporter of the United States is Premier Pedro Beltran of Peru who began pushing needed reforms in his country long before the Declaration of Punta del Aste.

So Much for IBC, So Little for Health

EDITOR:

This letter is prompted by the article you ran Sunday, Aug. 13, with regard to the Mental Health Clinic program for the children of the city and the inadequacy of funds provided by our city fathers for this program.

Perhaps the article followed too closely on the heels of the well-publicized International Beauty Contest, sponsored by our city fathers and the members of the Harbor Commission. It can well be that I am not completely informed on the benefits of the IBC for our fair city versus the money spent. I do recall that one ship came to our shores because of the event, but aside from that I know of no further concrete benefits.

* * * *

FOR YEARS I have been actively interested in civic enterprises which relate to the health and safety of children in our community.

I now am convinced that our city fathers and the members of our Harbor Commission are more concerned with the turn of a leg and certain body measurements than they are with the health of our children (mental and physical). I base this assumption on the money set aside year after year on beauty contests, plus the money spent for the one-day glory of the Rose Bowl floral entry, versus the money spent for the health of our children.

MENTAL health problems are fast creeping up in the national health picture. The difficulties can be detected early in life, quoting your article, which states that the majority of cases are referred to the existing clinic by the school authorities.

Are we going to continue to crawl, or are we going to run to the aid of these children? Are we going to continue to spend hundreds of thousands each year on the IBC and the floral entry, or are we going to trim a little of the fat off for the children of our community — and be PROUD?

LANGUAGES in the NEWS
By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

When you share a convivial glass with a friend you are liable to say "Here's how!" "Down the hatch!" or some such expression.

Here is how it is said in some of the world's languages and what it really means:

French—A votre sante (ah votr sawn-teh) "To your health."

Spanish—Salud y pesetas (sah-lood ee peh-seh-tahs) "Health and wealth."

German—Prosit (PROH-zit) latin "May it become you."

Russian—Za vashe (zah vah-sheh) "To yours."

Chinese—Kan pei (kahn pay) "Dry cup."

Hebrew—La chaim (lah KHIME) "To your life."

Italian—Salute (sal-LOO-teh) "Health."

Greek—Is hygian! (iss-ee ghee-ahn) "To your health!"

One of the most unusual meanings is the Norwegion Danish and Swedish word "Skal" (SKOHL). Skoal means "skull" and comes from the custom the Vikings had in a wilder day. They used their late enemies skulls to toast their friends

Old Equipment Dims Luster of West Berlin's Defenders

(EDITOR'S NOTE: While Drew Pearson is in Russia to cover the current crisis, his associate, Jack Anderson, is covering the Washington front.)

WASHINGTON—The heroic spectacle of 1,500 American troops rolling into Berlin last Sunday, their commander standing erect in his jeep, was slightly marred by the antiquity of their equipment.

Those who looked closely may have noticed that the bold battle group, pride of the U.S. Army, was scarcely better equipped than the GIs who swarmed into Berlin 16 years earlier.

These 1961 soldiers carried 1941 rifles, some M-1's, some Browning automatics. Slapping against their sides were .45 pistols which were first used in 1899 during the Philippine insurrection.

Their machine guns and hand grenades were of World II vintage, their mortars and howitzers only slightly improved over the World War II models.

The tall Texan in command, Col. Glover Johns Jr., bravely ordered his men to look and act like the "damn best" soldiers in the U. S. Army.

Their performance might have been more convincing, however, if they hadn't been obliged to appear in the battle dress of a past war. Their helmets, canteens, web belts and knapsacks were hand-me-downs from World War II. The field uniforms, though newer, had the same old look.

In contrast, the Soviet troops surrounding Berlin are completely armed and outfitted for the next rather than the last war. Their weapons include deadly, nuclear-tipped tactical rockets.

NOTE: If the 1,500 reinforcements had been halted at the East German border, their orders were to hold up, not try to fight their way to Berlin. Once they were waved past the Communist checkpoint, or course, they had permission to defend themselves from a possible Red ambush.

OREGON Sen. Wayne Morse's bushy brows arched like a couple of provoked caterpillars the other day at the mention of Utah Sen. Wallace Bennett's name. "Bennett is more backward than the cavemen," snorted Morse. "At least they used to come out of their caves occasionally and see the sunlight." . . . Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke, driving home a point recently on TV, declared ringingly: "As Benjamin Franklin said, 'Give me liberty or give me death!'" He got away with it, too, until he reached home and a disapproving son reminded him that the quotation is credited to Patrick Henry.

L.B. DENTIST FRUSTRATED

Dr. Travell Ducks Dental Chair

By BILL BROOM
I.-P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Viewed from Long Beach, it seemed like a simple request.

Dr. Joseph P. Lunn reasoned that White House physician Dr. Janet Travell might be willing to do for a man with dental problems what she had done for the rocking chair trade a few months ago.

But a relatively simple matter becomes vastly complicated in the bureaucratic jungles of Washington. As a result, Dr. Lunn returned to Long Beach Saturday a disappointed, and somewhat baffled, dentist.

* * * *

DR. LUNN is the inventor of a new dental chair which he calls a "dental lounge unit." Its purpose is to make a visit to the dentist as psychologically and physically painless as watching television from a contour chaise lounge, which the invention slightly resembles.

Drills, instruments and other objects which at sight, cause strong men to quake, are kept out of the patient's sight. The lounge adjusts to a variety of postures which which make the patient comfortable and easier for the dentist to treat.

Dr. Lunn hoped that Dr. Travell would be as solicitous of dental patients as he was. He thought that if she could inspect the new invention she might issue a statement on the need for a dental unit that would be psychologically and orthopedically comfortable for the patient. Such a statement would encourage equipment manufacturers to design an even better chair, he hoped, thus helping patients and dentists alike.

The invention already has been placed in the hands of a manufacturer under terms making it impossible for Dr. Lunn to profit from any success it might enjoy.

* * * *

"I WASN'T asking for an endorsement or a mention of my name," said Dr. Lunn. "I just thought she could make a general statement on the desirability of a dental unit that would be orthopedically correct."

It seemed like a simple request, viewed in the light of Dr. Travells pronouncement a few months ago on the rocking chair and its therapeutic value for the spine.

Dr. Lunn once talked to Dr. Travell on the telephone and he also wrote her a letter. No one at the White House discouraged him from coming to Washington. In fact, the Secret Service inspected the invention and advised on its packing. And so he came. The dental lounge unit, crated and weighing 500 pounds, preceded him by air freight.

* * * *

NEITHER Dr. Lunn nor the crate got past the White House gate. The Long Beach dentist was informed that Dr. Travell would not inspect the device. Dr. Travell was not available for comment.

Rep. Craig Hosmer attempted to help out. He got nowhere. The congressman was informed obliquely that the White House is chary of getting involved in what might be construed as a commercial endorsement.

Congressman Hosmer was indignant.

"Dr. Lunn is a sincere member of his profession trying to achieve a significant advance in the art of his profession," he said. "I am disappointed that the White House would not receive him.

"I understand the White House's fear of becoming involved in a commercial endorsement, but that is not what Dr. Lunn was seeking. He made it clear that he desired no mention of himself or his invention."

After three days in Washington, Dr. Lunn gave up. He put the crate back on an air freighter, and took a jet flight back to Long Beach, where people are less suspicious.

CONSULTATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION

I am giving this testimonial so you too may benefit as I have with Dr. Chan's Natural Method. I was suffering with a severe case of nerves. At first I had a hard time getting along with my family because I was irritable and cranky all the time. I tried many things that doctors prescribed for me, but none gave me any permanent satisfaction. A friend suggested that I go to see Dr. Chan and try his treatment. In 2 or 3 weeks, my nerves began to relax. In 4 months, I was feeling fine again. Now I am able to do my housework without that awful nervous feeling.

Sloop-Shouldered Fems Driving Crawford 'Nuts'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Joan Crawford's going to be one of the "Miss America" judges Sept. 4-9 and I was supposed to give her some advice on judging but she gave me some.

CRAWFORD

"Suppose one leading contestant's hair is dyed?" I asked "Judge" Crawford.

"Isn't everybody's? Mine is!" the judge retorted.

"What if she's knock-kneed, Judge?" I inquired.

"Honey, if she's got knock-knees and can carry them under an evening-gown all right, it's o.k. with baby," Judge Crawford further decreed. "She's not always going to be in a bathing suit."

Joan, along with David Merrick, Blanche Thebom, Ted Mack, June Taylor, Bernie Wayne and some others, will be on CBS TV from Atlantic City Saturday night Sept. 9 choosing the new "Miss America" — and it'll be Joan's first time as a judge.

"Does she have to be tall or short to satisfy your taste?" I asked Joan.

"Either short or tall as long as she's not sloop and slump shouldered!" Joan fired back. "These sloop-shouldered dames are driving me nuts."

The Judge mused over her 100-proof vodka on the rocks she was sipping at a corner, nosed and ugly.

"Judge," we said, "do you think a woman can judge another woman or a girl? Don't men make better beauty judges?"

"I look at a gal from a man's point of view," the Judge said reassuringly. "I like fellahs, honey. . . . Sweetie, I know what men want."

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: Lack of space for building schools is getting serious. Why, it's get-She doesn't slump over to look short."

* * * *

AND JOAN'S late husband, Alfred Steel, thought that the late Mme. Magda Lupescu was the most beautiful woman he'd ever met — though at first look, he thought she was angular, big-table at 21, while her two daughters listened politely to the interview.

"And another thing these dames do is walk with bent knees—they have such awful posture! I claim that they forget to tuck their stomach and their derriere in."

* * * *

JOAN'S EAGER to get to Atlantic City and serve as grand marshal of the parade.

"When it came up about me being grand marshal, they were afraid but they said they didn't know how to say it.

"They said, 'We had one famous actress here as grand marshal and she didn't have a stitch on under her dress and everything was falling out.'

"We sent back word, 'Miss Crawford will be properly dressed!' "

Joan said that ex-model Bunny Walters, wife of composer Johnny Greene, a six-footer, is the most beautiful girl she knows.

"She's tall and yet she wears high heels and walks like the Statue of Liberty.

ting so there's hardly enough room for students to park their cars.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: New York is the only city in the world where they tear down a new 38-story building to put up a 39-story building.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's good advice—Never try to change a woman's opinion—even if you can figure out what it is.

Why is it that some wives look like Jackie Kennedy when you're taking them out—but like Mrs. Khrushchev when they're having dinner home with you? That's earl, brother.

DICK CLARK . . . The Kids Made It Possible

'NOT BY BREAD ALONE'

Singer - Actor Dick Clark Knows Bankbooks Value

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Hollywood and its swimming pool life are beckoning to Dick Clark, but he'll have none of it.

He prefers his home near staid old Philadelphia and the network TV show that made him the teen-agers' No. 1 disc jockey.

The 31-year-old star can just about write his own ticket in movies now that bigwigs have seen his terse, standout performance in one of the year's most heralded films, "The Young Doctors," which author Carl Sandburg describes as "sheer poetry."

The word went quickly around movietown how Clark more than held his own in a cast that included Frederic March, Eddie Albert, Ben Gazzara and Ina Balin.

* * * *

"BUT I'LL stick with the kids who watch my show," Clark said at breakfast in a Hollywood Hotel dining room. "They are my prime source. They make possible everything else.

"Maybe if I considered myself an 'actor,' I'd feel different. Or if I was one of those people who get a kick out of being recognized.

"But I've said I see nothing good about being a star in this business. To me, the nicest thing would be if I was able to unscrew my head when I finished working and put it on a shelf until I had to work again. But so often in this world, you have no choice about what you do. You do what you have to."

* * * *

IF HE IS not a star in the usual sense of the word, then what is he? He is, above all, a man who values a big bankbook more than a big buildup, a man somewhat obsessed with security, a salesman of romance in a gray flannel suit.

Typical of his business acumen is the way he helped bring "The Young Doctors" into being. A member of his staff—looking for movie material for Clark—found the story. But when things hit a snag, Clark had the common sense to turn the material over to his co-producers of the film, the promising young team of Stuart Millar and Lawrence Turman.

Retaining a financial interest in the movie, Clark, a cool, literate and intelligent young man, stepped quietly into the background and took a comparatively small role.

Clark, a native of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., tells why he sticks with Philadelphia:

"Well, of course, a Philadelphia station owns my network show and has no intention of letting it go. But more than that, I like it. Why do people live anywhere? Because a place is good to you. I know the old jokes like, 'The first prize in a contest is a week in Philadelphia — and the loser gets three weeks.' But I think it's just fashionable to say you don't like it."

He said he's trying to complete a novel there.

"It's about a young man in the music business," he said. "The moral is that he finds you can't live on bread alone."

WIDMARK'S QUEST

Finds Swedish Cousins Galore

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sometimes a movie star can outsmart himself, as Richard Widmark can attest.

The actor was telling on the set of "How the West Was Won" about his first visit to Sweden. He made the trip recently with the idea of hunting for a leading lady for one of his productions.

R. WIDMARK

"I wanted to arrive quietly," he said. "But somehow they got word of it. When I got to Stockholm, there were reporters, photographers, radio and TV interviewers—the whole works. They asked me what I was doing in Sweden.

"I didn't want to say I was searching for an actress or I would have been deluged with hopefuls. So I just told them I was descended from Swedes and was looking for some relatives.

"That did it. Every time I turned around, there was a new bunch of Swedes with pictures to prove that I was their cousin. I never did find a bona fide cousin. And I didn't find the actress, either. But Stockholm was beautiful."

ACTOR'S LIFE

Rise and Fall in Five Stages

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Although she has the lead in two new films, Dolores Faith is keeping her feet on the ground.

The lovely young actress of "Wild Harvest" comments: "I always remember what Hugh O'Brian said about the five stages of a movie actor's career, as seen by a producer." They are:

"Who's Hugh O'Brian?"

"Get me Hugh O'Brian."

"Get me a Hugh O'Brian type."

"Get me a young Hugh O'Brian."

"Who's Hugh O'Brian?"

'Gangway' Plays for Service Men

The teen-age musical comedy, "Gangway," will be presented at the Armed Services Y.M.C.A. 7:30 p.m. today for all active duty military men. In cooperation with the board of Community Playhouse and director Larry Johns over 50 young people are volunteering their talents for this "one-night stand."

Regular performances of the show are presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St.

Each Sees Same Scene Differently

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's all in how you look at it, observes actor Warren Beatty.

He was discussing a scene in "All Fall Down" and how the various participants would look at it:

Warren Beatty: "This is a scene in which the son gets very intense."

Karl Malden: "This is a scene in which the father sits at the breakfast table and listens to his family argue."

Cameraman: "This is a scene in the green breakfast room with sunshine coming in the window."

Prop man: "This is a scene with six dozen pancakes, two quarts of syrup and a pound of butter."

IN A WORD: TECHNOLOGY

Why Hollywood Has Declined

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cary Grant has his own explanation of why Hollywood has declined as a movie production center.

In a word: technology.

The 30-year firm veteran, going strong as ever, says Hollywood has declined as movie methods progressed.

"It started when we began tinkering with such things as wide screens, sharp lenses and fast color film," he observed. "Back in the old days, we shot pictures for a normal-size screen, usually in black and white. We could get away with a lot. Nearly every set we needed could be built on a stage or the back lot.

* * * *

"NOT ANY more. These new lenses take in a lot of scenery. You can't fake it any more. Even if the audience doesn't know where the picture was shot, they can sense when it was filmed on a phony set and when it's the real thing.

"We used to do all our New York street scenes at the studio. No more. We've got some to do for 'Touch of Mink' and we'll have to go to New York for them. That's a lot of trouble and expense, but but we have no choice.

"The only kinds of films which can convincingly be made here now are those with a Los Angeles background—or westerns."

* * * *

GRANT IS sorry to see the industry's decline here, but he applauds the trend to realism. He feels that studio technicians have striven too hard to achieve visual perfection on the screen. The result: actors look like movie stars in Hollywood films; in European films they look like people.

"That is one of my pet peeves," he remarked. "I can't stand to see film actors with their faces caked with make-up. For years I've kept my face tan so I won't have to wear make-up."

Gov. Brown Reviews State Guard Unit

CAMP ROBERTS (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown reviewed California's largest ready reserve unit Saturday and told the 8,000 men in the 40th armored division, California National Guard:

"Your presence here is the best assurance we can give Premier Khrushchev that we stand firm at Berlin."

* * * *

THE GUARDSMEN are at the midpoint of their two-weeks annual summer training at Camp Roberts and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation. The review also had airplanes and helicopters in air formation.

"Your readiness for battle is a powerful deterrent to war," the governor told the troops. "This is language that Khrushchev can understand."

The governor said national guardsmen leave their families and civilian jobs to train each year "and contribute to the common defense." The 40th division is made up of Southern California guardsmen from Atascadero to the Mexican border.

* * * *

GOV. BROWN, as commander of the national guard, shared the reviewing stand with 40th division commander, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr. of Santa Barbara; Maj. Gen. R. W. Porter Jr., deputy chief of staff for the Army, and Maj. Gen. Roderic Hill, state adjutant general.

Gen. Porter presented the new official U. S. Army flag to General Ott.

Medals were awarded to four outstanding soldiers and a civilian. The California Military Cross, highest award by the state, was presented to Maj. Henry Bisaccia, 46, commander 40th Medical Battalion, 3620 Weston Ave., Long Beach, and to Sgt. James R. Shirk, 26, 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 144th Artillery, 1533 Royal Oak, Bradbury.

The California Medal of Merit for meritorious service went to:

Lt. Col. George M. Gary, of Los Angeles, Sgt. Donald E. Condit, 22, of Arcadia and Leonard Garcia, director of the Santa Barbara National Guard Drum and Bugle Corps.

McCray Named to AF Post

Lt. Colonel Thomas B. McCray, of 5611 Mezzanine Way, has been named personnel officer of the newly-activated 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group located at Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The appointment was announced by Col. Claude J. Norton, Santa Ana, commanding officer.

Col. McCray has been active in Air Force Reserve activities in the Long Beach area for some years. He is former commander of the 9355th Air Reserve Squadron, and a former member of the staff of the 9078th Group, both stationed at the Long Beach Air Force Base.

* * * *

RECOVERY units are a new concept in the Air Force Reserve program. Groups have been established at strategic locations in the United States to provide haven, in the event of war, for combat aircraft returning from missions and unable to land at their home bases.

Col. McCray said that the personnel office at the base, located on the south side of Spring Street, near Redondo Avenue, is open Tuesday through Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. He said there are vacancies open for reserve airmen who would like to join the Ready Reserve organization.

PROFIT-SHARING PACT SIGNED WITH AMC

'Contract or Strike,' Reuther Tells Big 3

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers president Walter P. Reuther, with contract agreement with American Motors Corp. in hand, said Saturday he will enter negotiations with the auto industry's Big Three Wednesday and "there will be a strike" if no settlement is reached by contract expiration on the following day.

Reuther said the UAW International Executive Board will already have picked a strike target by the time he enters negotiations personally.

The board will meet here Tuesday night to review progress in talks with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out at midnight, local time, Thursday.

* * * *

REUTHER SAID there was still "ample time" for the Big Three and the union to reach agreement on new contracts before the present pacts expire.

But he said "there will be a strike at the Big Three" if settlement is not reached.

Reuther said GM and Ford could afford "to accept and give even more" than American Motors provided. He said "Chrysler is a different case" but he believed Chrysler, too, could afford to match AMC.

* * * *

NEGOTIATIONS continued until late in the day at General Motors and Chrysler, after being recessed in the early afternoon at Ford until the bargaining resumes at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

While the Big Three auto companies decline comment pending study of the UAW-AMC settlement, there was little doubt that it gave the union a stronger bargaining position with the Big Three.

The present union contracts with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will expire at midnight, Aug. 31—next Thursday.

ALL THE companies have swung into 1962 model production, usually the best selling period of the year. The companies feel the pressure to avoid a strike to retain their share, or better, of the market.

GM, Ford and Chrysler this year have presented a solid front, preventing the union from pushing through an agreement with one firm, then pressuring the others into a similar agreement.

But AMC surprised the other companies, and the union, by offering a settlement including profit-sharing July 28.

AMC proposed that 10 per cent of the profits before taxes be put into an employe fund, after an initial 10 per cent of stockholders equity was removed for a reserve.

THIS basically was the "progress sharing" plan announced in the settlement by AMC and the UAW Saturday. The employes' 10 per cent will go to the workers either in cash or improved benefits, ranging from pensions to insurance to additional jobless pay.

MISSION VIEJO PLANS

Huge Ranch Purchase Set

SANTA ANA—The signing of a purchase agreement for the historic Rancho Mission Viejo, the second largest individually owned ranch in Orange County, has been announced by K. Graves, president of World Land Co., Inc., of Beverly Hills.

Graves, speaking through his public relations agent Al Johns, said he will file escrow proceedings Sept. 8 for the purchase of the property. His option to buy the land extends to noon Sept. 11.

* * * *

REPORTED SALE price is $26 million.

E. M. Peterson, vice president of Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. is assigned trust officer for the property heirs.

The World Land Co., Inc., will develop the property into a planned urban complex of homes, apartments, shopping centers, industrial and research parks, it was disclosed.

The land represents one-tenth of Orange County and is 53,500 acres. It is located at the southern tip of the county border at San Diego County line.

The architectural firm of Victor Gruen Associatees has been retained to prepare a master plan for the area's development.

RANCHO MISSION VIEJO was a part of a land grant given to Pio Pico, last governor of California under Mexican rule. Pico proved his claim to the grant after California's admission to the United States and the government recognized his title to the land.

Present ownership of the land stems from a purchase in 1883 by Richard O'Neil from the Bank of California.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Diseases That Defy Science

(Prepared in collaboration with George X. Trimble, M.D., medical education director, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER

Medical researchers still have plenty of jobs cut out for them, reminds Archives of Neurology.

The medical journal says these nervous system diseases still defy medical science:

- Parkinson's disease (shaking palsy): 1,500,000 victims. No preventive measure known. No cure.
- Cerebral palsy: 500,000 to 750,000 victims, of whom one-third are under 21 years old. No prevention or cure.
- Multiple sclerosis: 250,000 victims. Similar conditions: 250,000 to 500,000 victims. Most patients stricken between 20 and 35. No prevention or cure.
- Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease): No statistics, but no prevention or cure known.
- Muscular dystrophy: 200,000 victims. Half of known cases are children 3 to 13 years old. No prevention or cure.
- Epilepsy: 1,500,000 victims. No prevention or cure.

187,500 Apply for Retirement Benefits at 62

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new law which permits men to retire and receive social security benefits at age 62 instead of 65 has resulted in about 187,500 applications by men and their dependents for immediate payments.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said nearly 750,000 applications for all types of social security benefits have been received since the 1961 amendments were signed into law by President Kennedy on June 30.

Applications have been coming in at the rate of more than 90,000 a week, compared with a weekly rate of 50,000 to 60,000 prior to the amendments, Ribicoff said.

About 444,000 men aged 62 through 64 are expected to apply for benefits under the new provision by July.

Slashed L.B. Girl Welcomed Home

By WILLIAM JONES

Eight-year-old Susan Kipp—her throat bandaged where a crazed soldier had slashed her—returned home to Long Beach Saturday night in a welcome marked by moist eyes and large smiles.

But Susie, who lives at 1425 E. Market St., was unaffected by the reception. She was more interested in displaying the numerous toys and presents given her by doctors, nurses and the people of Yuma, Ariz.

* * * *

"IT'S JUST like a big birthday party all over again," is the way her grandfather, John Kipp, 75, of the same address, described the reception at the house.

Only Thursday, the child had been left semi-conscious and bleeding when a soldier attacked her aboard a train in Yuma.

The burly soldier, Pvt. Thomas A. Kelly, 18, stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., told authorities he has an "urge to maim things."

Kelly said he first tried to strangle the Long Beach girl with a necktie and then slashed her five times with a razor blade.

* * * *

DESPITE THE wounds, Susie made a remarkable recovery at a Yuma hospital and was released early Saturday. Escorting her home later in the day was her father, James Kipp.

Kelly, who has signed a statement admitting the attack, will appear in court in Yuma Monday for scheduling of his preliminary hearing.

Rebellion in Prison Put Down

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — About 100 prisoners at the state reformatory rebelled Saturday night and refused to leave an auditorium until a squad of armed guards brought them out.

The guards removed the prisoners 10 at a time, and an hour and 10 minutes after the sit-down strike began it was over.

Supt. Ernest Timpani said the prisoners came out meekly and were taken to their cells.

* * * *

HE SAID officials heard rumbling of plans for a fight or some kind of disturbance Saturday night and he had an extra squad of guards on duty.

When the inmates refused to come out, he said, there was some shouting among them, and a few benches were turned over, but no one was hurt.

Guards immediately locked doors and surrounded the builiding. Two shots were fired by the guards from shotguns as a warning to the prisoners.

Timpani said it will take time to pin down the men who started the disturbance and to learn the reason for it. He said the men had been perimtted a "quiet hour" in the auditorium to watch television or play games.

* * * *

THE PRISONERS' balk started about 8 p.m., Timpani said.

The superintendent said his squad of guards was having no trouble. There were no threats from the prisoners, he said.

There had been no complaints from the prisoners earlier, he said. "I can't think of a thing which might have led up to this."

The auditorium is on the second floor of a wing of the institution.

He said most of the men were watching a boxing match on TV.

The reformatory is in the Cascade Mountain foothills about 40 miles northeast of Seattle.

The Snohomish County sheriff's office said it sent four cars to the scene to bolster the institution's force of guards.

Resurgent Dodgers Rap Reds, 10-6

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—Walter Alston's long search for his best offensive lineup appears to be over.

With five outfielders in the starting nine for the third straight day, the Dodgers Saturday punched out 16 hits and subdued the first place Reds, 10-6.

The Reds also had that subdued look in the clubhouse when they realized that a Dodger sweep in today's doubleheader windup of the season series would scramble the standings. Don Drysdale and either Stan Williams or Roger Craig will attempt to climb the two big steps on the NL ladder this afternoon.

Drysdale (10-7) is to oppose Cincy Ace Joey Jay (18-8) in the first game. Ken Johnson (4-2), a stranger to the Dodgers, goes against Williams (11-10) or Craig (4-6) in the nightcap.

A sweep by the Dodgers would restore the lead they lost to the Reds in a Coliseum doubleheader, Aug. 16. A split, which Alston claims would "leave us in pretty good shape," means the Reds will maintain their 1½ game margin.

After today's twin bill, the Reds play only 24 games, The Dodgers 31. Cincinnati's schedule calls for four meetings with first division clubs, while the Dodgers must face San Francisco and Milwaukee 13 times.

Cincinnati, losing its sixth game in the last seven, depended on homers by Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman for all its Saturday's runs. The Dodger offense was considerably more diversified.

Every Dodger starter hit safely and all but Maury Wills and Wally Moon drove in runs. Winning pitcher Johnny Podres, Duke Snider and Ron Fairly were the only starters who failed to get two hits.

Frank Howard continued to be a tower of power as he celebrated his newly gained regular status against right-handed pitching. Howard hit his third homer in two games and also singled to raise his average three points to .312.

Jim Gilliam reached base via hits or walks in his 18th consecutive game and Fairly scored three runs, although he was held to one single in three official chances.

Although losing four times, the Dodgers have averaged a dozen hits per game in their last six starts, a spree unmatched even during an eight-game winning streak in July.

Jay Hook, a non-starter since June 20, was the first of six Cincy pitchers tossed into the wild slugging match and the Dodgers welcomed him like an oasis on this hot and muggy afternoon.

Hook lasted an inning and two-thirds, allowing four runs and six hits. In four outings against the Dodgers this year, Hook has been the victim of 13 runs and 19 hits in 6⅓ innings.

While the Dodgers were saddened by Hook's departure in the second inning, they were cheered once more when Howard's 13th homer made it 6-0 against Roadblock Jones in the third.

The clinching quartet was charged to the account of Jim Maloney in the seventh inning on five singles, a sacrifice fly and an ultra wild pitch on which Fairly and Willie Davis advanced two bases.

Podres (16-4) chalked up his ninth road victory without a loss, although he wilted in the seventh inning and needed help from Larry Sherry and Ron Perranoski.

Podres, four-time conqueror of the Reds in five starts, had a three-hit shutout for five rounds. In the sixth, he served up Robinson's solo 35th homer and two harmless singles. An inning later, he couldn't get anyone out. Singles by Coleman, Elio Chacon and Chico Cardenas put a crowd on the bases and on the mound. Alston came out

MARIS BLASTS 51ST

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Roger Maris blasted his 51st home run Saturday and Bill Stafford pitched a three-hitter as the New York Yankees beat the Kansas City Athletics 5-1 for the second straight day.

Maris lined his home run over the right-centerfield fence off Jerry Walker in the sixth inning and kept a 10-game lead over Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when he hit his record 60 home runs. The Babe hit his 51st homer in his 139th game. Saturady's was Maris' 129th.

Stafford had a shutout and a one-hitter going into the ninth inning. He struck out eight and walked only one and had retired 18 batters in a row when Dick Howser singled, went to second on a forceout and scored on Wayne Causey's hit in the final inning.

Maris' sixth-inning blast followed Tony Kubek's sixth home run to lead off the inning. Roger, who got an ovation from the hometown crowd of 32,149, made a bid for his 52nd home run in the eighth inning. He smashed a drive off reliever Joe Nuxhall that Jim Rivera caught at the fence in right field.

In his first three trips to the plate off Walker, Maris struck out, fouled out and walked.

MICKEY MANTLE, who has 46 homers and leads Ruth's pace by three games, singled twice, struck out once and walked twice.

The Yankees scored twice in the third inning. Bobby Richardson led off with a walk and after Kubek and Maris went out, Mantle also walked. Singles by Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron produced runs.

The New Yorkers got another in the fourth on doubles by Clete Boyer and Richardson.

Luxembourg Girl New Ski Champ

By DAVE TAYLOR

Sylvie Hulsemann, 17, of Luxembourg, the only contestant from the smallest country among 19 nations represented in the seventh World Water Ski Championships at Marine Stadium, Saturday dethroned Long Beach's 17-year-old Vicki Van Hook to become the International women's over-all champion.

Miss Hulsemann won the title by 81 points—a small margin in water skiing—with 2,911.414 points to Vicki's 2,830.050.

The buxom blonde high school engineering student took third place in slalom Saturday before a gallery of 6,000 with 973.684 points to go with her total of 937.730 in jumping and perfect 1,000 in tricks, both achieved Friday.

Vicki finished second overall with 2,830.050 points and was followed by her U.S. teammate Janelle Kirtley, Cypress Gardens, with 2,677.117.

Janelle became the new International women's slalom champion Saturday, whipping past 38 buoys at speeds up to 34 miles per hour. Vicki finished second in the slalom with 37 buoys, and Sylvie was third, also passing 37 buoys.

For a feature story on Sylvie Hulsemann and another picture from ski championships, turn to page C-5.

Vicki copped the second position by outscoring Sylvie 4-3 in a second run to break the tie.

The fatal ax fell on defending over-all champion Vicki when judges returned a decision Saturday morning awarding first place in Friday's trick event to Sylvie. The event had ended Friday in an undecided three-way tie between Sylvie, Vicki and Dany Duflot, 18, France.

* * * *

AFTER pondering motion pictures of the girls' trick runs for more than six hours the judges returned a verdict Saturday giving Sylvie the trick event first place with Dany second and Vicki third.

The trick event was definitely the deciding factor in the women's division competition, for a first place there, or even a second, would have won Vicki her second International over-all crown. Vicki won the title in the last World Water Ski Championships at Milan, Italy, in 1959. In the current meet, she placed second in slalom, third in tricks and fourth in jumps.

Renate Hansluwka, 18, Austria, was named the new International jump champion Friday with an 82-foot flight which landed her within seven feet of Nancy Rideout's 89-foot world record.

McBRIDE NOTCHES 11TH WIN

Angels Stave Off Late Bosox Rally in 9th, 5-2

By ROSS NEWHAN

Fired by Bill Rigney's pre-game, locked-door, clubhouse lecture, the Angels beaned Boston, 5-2, Saturday night to jump back into seventh place tie with Minnsota.

Ken McBride (11-10) was within three outs of registering his 11th complete game of the season, but a ninth-inning Boston rally sent the righthander to the clubhouse—where three hours before, Rigney shook his team out of its lifeless ways of Friday when the Seraphs lost to the Bosox, 12-6.

While Rigney did not divulge the exact nature of his lecture, the skipper said: "What with the Yankee series over and the end of the season approaching, a few guys think they can ease up. I just wanted to get their minds back on baseball."

* * * *

THE ANGELS were all business as they played sportless ball in support of McBride's near route-going performance. The Seraphs made the most of six hits, enabling the painter of rainbow curves to register his third victory over Boston at Wrigley Field.

On the road, where they play without Jackie Jensen, the Red Sox have a horrendous 20-46 record—which is the same as the Angels' road mark. Of its last 19 games in enemy territory, Boston has lost 16.

* * * *

McBRIDE carried a seven-hit, 5-1 victory into the ninth when Russ Nixon laced a single to right. In no mood to take chances, Rigney rushed Jack Spring to the scene, but the southpaw got into a well of trouble when Pete Runnels beat out an infield roller.

After Pumpsie Green flied to right, Carroll Hardy singled to right to cut the deficit to 5-2. When Don Buddin was announced as a pinch-hitter for pitcher Billy Muffett, Spring went to the showers and Tom Morgan relieved.

Bosox pilot Pinky Higgins countered with southpaw swinging Joe Ginsberg, but Rigney proved the master chess player as the ancient catcher bounced into a double play.

McBride revealed that he was forced out by a strained elbow. He said, "I felt strong, but I hurt my elbow at bat. I've been using a Ted Kluszewski model and it might have been too heavy. I don't think it's too serious."

* * * *

McBRIDE fanned nine and had allowed only three hits going into the seventh when Boston ruined his shutout bid on singles by Nixon and Runnels and Green's double.

The Angels, meanwhile, were making the most of their meager hits off Tracy Stallard. Ignited by their manager's fiery words, they struck for two runs in the first inning as Lee Thomas followed a walk to Joe Koppe with his 17th home run deep into the rightfield bleachers.

Two innings later they made it 3-2 on a two-out sin-

SIXTH IN ROW FOR REDBIRDS

Gibson Knocks in Four Runs as Cards Dump Giants, 8-5

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Gibson batted in four runs Saturday while pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-5 victory over the third-place San Francisco Giants, although he needed relief in the ninth from Ed Bauta.

The victory, Gibson's ninth to go with ten setbacks, was the Cardinals' sixth in a row and their 19th in 25 games.

St. Louis pounded out 13 hits off five San Francisco pitchers in gaining their 11th consecutive home victory.

Gibson allowed ten hits and gave up six walks, but struck out five Giants.

Bauta came on with one out in the ninth to retire the side after Gibson had given up a double to Jim Davenport, a home run to Willie McCovey, his 15th, and a walk to Willie Mays. Bauta got Orlando Cepeda to bounce into a force out and Hobbie Landrith to ground out to Bill White.

Gibson delivered a two-run double in the second inning and drove in his other runs with sacrifice flies.

A 5-5 Record in Rose Bowl?

The AAWU football team that goes to the Rose Bowl might sport only a 5-5 record—or so insists John McKay, the top sergeant at SC.

"Not all of us have schedules which include games with teams like Idaho," cracked McKay the other night at a Trojan Club soiree in Chuck Steinman's Seal Beach backyard. John's "slap" was aimed directly at the Washington Huskies, who annually schedule the Vandals as a gesture of interstate friendship. The Huskies' "friendship," that is.

DAVE LEVY
Hits Northern Woods

"UCLA, Cal and us have the roughest schedules in the country," McKay continued, "so it's very possible that any of us can go to the bowl with as many losses as wins."

McKay appeared more optimistic over SC's chances of landing the next Jan. 1 bid than he ever did last season when his Trojans were pre-picked in some circles as the nation's No. 1 football club.

"I like our team this year because we don't have the 'name' players like we did last season," McKay declared firmly. "To me a 'name' player means only trouble."

In the next breath, John tagged UCLA as the best bet to wind up as the next Western representative in Pasadena, "because they're three-deep everywhere." Since Washington's coaches already have pegged the Bruins as the toughest AAWU club, the "kiss of death" has been applied very neatly to the Westwooders.

"Somebody told me the Trojans should go all the way because they're three-deep," snickered McKay. "Well, I'll concede our first squad is pretty good. The second unit is much weaker, but if we're forced to go to the third team I'll ride that Trojan horse right out of the Coliseum."

Earlier, McKay told the red-and-gold beany wearers that he, not a student, would ride the famed Trojan horse in the Coliseum this season.

"That way, when we lose, I'll be able to get out of the Coliseum alive," cracked McKay. "I'll also be able to get on the freeway before anyone else, too."

McKAY CLAIMED THAT Poly High's Willie Brown might become the greatest running back at SC since Jon Arnett.

"I can see three great seasons ahead for Willie," enthused John, "and when I say he could be the greatest since Arnett, I'm saying a lot. There's no question in my mind that Arnett's the finest runner in football today—or maybe ever."

Dave Levy, the ex-Poly coaching great, made a surprising comment when discussing SC frosh prospects:

"For the first time we recruited strongly in Northern California. The Southern California woods are getting too crowded with scouts, so we went North and landed four top boys.

"One of our freshmen is particularly interesting. He is the brother-in-law of Leon Clarke. Right now he's as big as Leon when Leon played with the Rams."

The 260-pound brother-in-law should be an awesome sight in freshman togs, indeed, whether or not he can play football.

Only Trojan Clubber missing at the football gathering was author Bob Wells, who was conducting an anti-Communist meeting at the Pike, or something.

GRABBING THE BRASS RINGS:

. . . 'Tis heard the Dodgers Dick Farrell will have a nice off-season bonus check, whether or not the Alstons make the World Series. Both he and the Phillies' Jim Owens are due for settlements from a magazine which commented in no-uncertain terms about their post-game activities.

. . . Mike Salta, the auto man, won an award in the San Diego-to-Ensenada yacht race last week—and the jokesters haven't let up on him since. The award: The Governor of Baja Trophy!

. . . Those who know won't reveal his name, but they're saying that one well-known pro quarterback did a great job of hushing-up an off-season shooting incident in which he was shot in the leg. The man's done well in pre-season games, but they say he's sworn off wild parties for the duration.

. . . If I entertained any doubt about whom the fans considered Mr. Ram, I lost it completely when I started that "most valuable Ram" contest. When Les Richter gets a load of the results, he'll demand a new contract. Keep sending nominations for your most important Ram . . . the contest has been so popular we may expand the number of Ram tickets for the best responses.

Miss Reno Sizzles in Gold Cup Trial Heat

RENO (AP) — Home town queen Miss Reno, the defending champion, and Miss U.S. 1 of Detroit Saturday captured the opening heats in the $35,000 Gold Cup championship for unlimited hydroplanes.

Miss Reno, piloted by Air Force Col. Russ Schleeh, took the first heat, beating five other 2,000-horsepower speedsters in 103.604 average miles per hour.

Miss U.S. 1, driven by Floridian Donnie Wilson, scored a wire-to-wire victory in the second heat, and was timed in 94.844 mph after posting the fastest qualifying time earlier this week of 110.656.

Wind accelerated between the first and second heats Saturday and could have been the reason for the difference in winning times.

In this national championship of the big speedboats, the heats are each 30 miles, 10 laps of the three-mile course on Pyramid Lake, near here on an Indian reservation.

After Miss Reno posted her opening tryout to the delight of a crowd of 25,000, Wilson sent Miss U.S. 1 roaring ahead in the second heat. He never had a serious challenger.

Finishing behind the Detroit boat were Miss Spokane at 94.035, Seattle's Tempest at 93.913 and Gale V of Detroit at 90.316.

Miss Spokane moved ahead of Tempest in the final straightaway.

Fascination I lost power in the final lap of the second heat even as her sister ship from Seattle, Fascination, had failed in the first section.

Three races are scheduled today, with the final matching the seven leading contenders.

In Saturday's first heat, Miss Reno sped past Miss Bardahl on the last lap when the Seattle craft, leader most of the race, suffered engine trouble.

GREENBERG 'RETIRES' AS CHISOX' GM

CHICAGO (AP) — Hank Greenberg bowed out Saturday as general manager of the Chicago White Sox, saying he just wants to take it easy.

His job was immediately given to 42-year-old Ed Short, the club's traveling secretary. Short has been with the White Sox since 1950.

The front office shift was announced by White Sox president Arthur C. Allyn at a news conference attended by Greenberg and Short.

Greenberg, 51, said he quit his post "for personal reasons" and added: "I got a lot of personal problems."

He declined to elaborate except to say: "I'm going back to New York and just breathe."

Narrow Win for Moffitt

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Cathy Crosby, of Arcadia, Calif., defeated top foreign-seeded Mary Habicht, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, 6-1, 6-8, 7-5, Saturday in the fourth round of the U. S. girls grass court tennis championships.

Billie Jean Moffitt, top-seeded American entry from Long Beach, Calif., beat Julie Heldman, of New York City, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, after Miss Heldman led by 4-3, 30-all in the deciding set.

Strong Australian contender Robin Ebbern, of Brisbane, also had a tight match but managed to defeat eighth-seeded Roberta Allison, of Alexander City, Ala., 7-5, 6-4.

* * * *

OTHER fourth-round winners were Kathy Chabot, San Diego, Calif.; Victoria Palmer, Phoenix, Ariz., and Carol Hanks, St. Louis, Mo.

Judy Alvarez, of Ybor City, Fla., also advanced on default of lefty Justina Bricka, of St. Louis, fifth-seeded in the tourney, who was forced to withdraw because of a bursitis attack.

Darlene Scores Grudge Match Win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston laid aside their tempers Saturday to bomb Whit Reed of Alameda, Calif., and Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., 6-4, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3 in a quarter-final match of the national doubles tennis championships.

Though McKinley, 20, of St. Ann, Mo., and the 19-year-old Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif., had to battle gusty winds and slippery grass at the Longwood Cricket Club, but they never had trouble with their much-publicized temperaments.

* * * *

IN A BITTERLY contested "grudge" match, Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., teamed with Australian Lesley Turner to knock the second-seeded veterans, Margaret duPont and Margaret Varner of Wilmington, Del., out of the women's semi-finals.

The 25-year-old Miss Hard, the top women's player in the United States, was brilliant at the net in the 6-2, 2-6, 7-5 triumph though she was in constant trouble with her service.

Cubs Score Five in 9th to Clip Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Bertell's fourth hit—a homer—ignited a five-run ninth inning Saturday and carned the Chicago Cubs a 7-3 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cubs clipped reliever Elroy Face for four hits in the ninth. He had taken over from Harvey Haddix in the eighth with two aboard and struck out Andre Rodgers.

Dick Stuart's 21st homer of the year with Roberto Clemente aboard in the sixth had put the Pirates ahead 3-1. The Cubs got another run in the eighth and then broke loose for five runs in the ninth.

Fairfield Fires 65 as Hebert Leads

AKRON, O. (UPI) — Jay Hebert, a 38-year-old Louisiana pro, shot a third round two-under-par 68 Saturday for a total of 205 and a one-stroke lead over Don Fairfield, who shot a course-record 65, and Gary Player in the $50,000 American Golf Classic.

Fairfield, who started out Saturday four strokes behind Hebert and Bob Goalby, carded five birdies and 13 pars over the rugged, 7,165-yard Firestone Country Club course. The old Firestone course record was 66, set by veteran Jim Ferrier in 1960.

Player matched Hebert's 68 in the third round. Arnold Palmer, the tournament favorite, had a one-under-par 69 for an aggregate of 209, leaving him four strokes off the pace going into today's final found.

ART WALL JR., the first-round leader, came in with an even-par 70 for a total of 210. Huston La Clair, with a 72, was next at 211.

Hebert, who won the PGA championship over this course last year, started out with two birdies and then shot 16 pars.

Fairfield went out in 31, four under, and came back in 34, one under.

DECKER WINS U.S. TITLE

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) —Mrs. Ann Quast Decker, dainty 23-year-old housewife with a killer instinct, crushed blonde Phyllis Preuss, 14 and 13, Saturday to win the national women's amateur golf championship for the second time in four years.

It was the worst lacing ever recorded in the finals of the 61-year-old tournament. The previous most lop-sided win came in 1928 when the great Glenna Collet (later Mrs. Vare) walloped Miss Virginia Van Wie, 13 and 12.

Mrs. Van Wie later came back to win the crown three times in a row. But it is doubtful if Miss Preuss, a slender 22-year-old who summers in Michigan and winters in Florida, ever will come back as long as Mrs. Decker is around.

The champion, from nearby Mercer Island, Wash., never lost a hole as she played near perfect golf over a course dampened by early morning rains. Outweighing her rival by about 15 pounds, she outdrove her by some 15 to 40 yards on every hole.

"It was the best series of golf matches I ever played," said Mrs. Decker, who is married to a young dentist. "Better than when I won the title in 1958."

IT'S PIGSKIN TIME ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES

Boom UCLA for National Title, Troy for More Wins

By JEROME HALL

UCLA is expected to be better on the football field this year. So is SC. But there the similarity ends, because they're talking around the country about a possible national championship for the Uclans. For the Trojans, the hope is for more wins than losses.

The collegians begin drills this week for the season that was supposed to be the first year of the All-American Intercollegiate Conference. But the "airplane conference" hasn't materialized—just the intersectional schedule.

That schedule is a killer for both.

For instance, two of the first three games for UCLA are at Ohio State and Michigan, two of the first three predicted top teams in the Big Ten.

* * * *

THE TROJANS, in addition to a full slate of Big Five games, must face Georgia Tech, SMU, Iowa and Notre Dame in succession. They meet Illinois and Pittsburgh, also.

To prepare for all this, the squads don uniforms for camera day Thursday and begin two-a-day drills Friday. Troy opens at home against Georgia Tech Sept. 22; UCLA opens at Denver against the Air Force Academy.

Biggest man on the Trojan scene is a Long Beach lad, Willie Brown has assumed the starting left halfback position though he has yet to play in a college varsity game. The soph speedster from Poly High is the reason coach Johnny McKay says "We'll have better team speed this season."

BROWN PROVIDES McKay with the weapon he did not have last year—speed in the backfield.

SC has the makings of a good backfield, but a lot of work will have to be done on developing linemen.

At UCLA, an experience-studded crop is returning, already tabbed for the Rose Bowl and mentioned on almost all national top-10 guess lists.

The Bruins have 24 lettermen returning, with a wealth of experience at every position.

It's likely that the bundle of seasoned ballplayers will more than offset the loss of all-America tailback Bill Kilmer.

It looks like UCLA's year, but Troy Boy Willie Brown might provide most of the excitement.

GRID SCHEDULES

Complete football schedules of the Rams, UCLA, SC, LBSC, LBCC and Long Beach high schools will be printed in next Sunday's Independent, Press-Telegram.

L.B. State Braces for Toughest Slate

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State College changes from a campus of international flavor to a football fortress this week.

Housing many of the world's top water skiers in the school dorms, the picture switches with the arrival of 55 varsity grid candidates Thursday.

Coach Don Reed expects 18 lettermen and 10 men from the 1960 JV squad. Also there will be a platoon of JC transfers.

First massing of troops is Thursday for the purpose of checking out equipment. Friday has been set aside for orientation and physical exams. Saturday is reserved for photographers.

The 49er gridders get down to hard labor Labor Day when they begin two-a-day sessions.

With his team playing University of Pacific in Stockton Sept. 16 (earliest opener in LBSC grid history), Reed immediately comes face-to-face with two headaches: how to best utilize the 49ers' shortest-ever fall drill period and how to make ready for his squad's toughest-ever opening foe.

After UOP, Long Beach State travels to San Francisco a week later, hosts Sacramento State Sept. 30 in its home opener, and continues the 1961 schedule against San Diego St., UC Santa Barbara, Cal Poly (SLO), University of San Diego, Fresno St., Los Angeles St. and Pepperdine.

REED AND HIS ASSISTANTS expect halfbacks Dallas Moon and Tom Turrill, quarterback Pete Yoder, fullback Steve Hartman, ends Carl Dunlap, Bob Heberer and Tom Wright, center Lynn Hoyem, tackles Gene Farrell and Hector Alvarez and guard John Reed to lead the group of returnees.

Reed won't make any pre-season predictions, but considering the excellent spring practice, don't be surprised if he doesn't do some sabre-rattling for Fresno State's benefit. The 49ers finished second to Fresno in last year's CCAA race, their best showing ever. Will this be the year?

Vikings Set for Big Year

By BOB SHIBLEY

About a year ago at this time, Long Beach City College football followers were wondering whether or not Dee Andrews and Lonzo Irvin could perform the same gridiron magics in jaycee competition as they had in high school.

Having successfully proved that they were truly competent magicians—they led the Vikings to a 38-16 Junior Rose Bowl victory over Tyler, Tex., the Metropolitan Conference championship and a No. 1 national ranking—the question now being asked about the former Poly High greats is "can they do it again?"

Viking head coach Jim Stangeland understandably refuses to be either optimistic or pessimistic about his team's chances of recapturing any or all the successes it enjoyed a year ago. Rather, he takes the "it's too early to tell" and "we've got a lot of problems" approach.

* * * *

"IT'S TOO early to tell" comes from the fact that practice doesn't begin until late this week. "We've got a lot of problems" stems mainly from a long list of linemen—including the entire first string—lost through graduation and ineligibilities.

Members of the departed starting line—rated by many as the finest in jaycee history—included Bill Sprague and Ernie McBride (ends), Steve Cohen and Jim Smith (guards), Mike Giers and Don Crosby (tackles) and Wayne Zimmerman (center). Giers is ineligible, the rest have graduated. Also gone are defensive linemen Frank Roy, Dave Christie, Kennedy Lowe, and Duane Frederick.

Moreover, only one tackle—reserve Tom Johnson—is back from the JRB squad of a year ago.

* * * *

BLEAK AS the picture is up front, it is overshadowed somewhat by the backs that will greet Stangeland when the practice sessions begin—Andrews, Irvin, flanker Willie Martin, quarterback Ed Reddick and fullback Jerry Orcutt (the best second string fullback in the state last season).

Biggest loss in the backfield is the quarterback slot, which was handled so record-breakingly last season by Dave Groff. Reddick, at this point, appears the best bet to become the No. 1 signal-caller.

Trades in Order for Wobbly Rams

By the time the Cleveland Browns finished chewing them up Friday night, it should have become evident that the Rams have little hope of doing much this season . . . in their present form.

Thus, some major deals appear to be the order of business for general manager Elroy Hirsch in the next few days . . . providing rival clubs are willing to give up what the Rams need most—mainly interior offensive linemen.

The Rams have four or five "name" performers, including a couple of running backs, plus a half-dozen "fringe" ballplayers who could be traded for help—if available—without sacrificing too much in the other departments of play.

As it stands now, the offense appears much too inconsistent to be able to do anything more than occasionally annoy such powerful rival defensive groups as the Lions, Colts, Packers, Bears, etc.

Furthermore, as pointed out last week, while the defense would be adequate in many cases, it won't be against the stronger offensive clubs unless its own offensive crew picks up considerable more punch.

JIM BROWN
Quickness His Secret

CLEVELAND, OF COURSE, HAS ONE of the toughest attacks in the game to defense. It has the speed of Bobby Mitchell to the outside; the power and quickness of Jim Brown both inside and outside, and the pin-point passing Milt Plum, who demonstrated in the second half why he wound up atop the league last year in passing statistics.

With those ingredients, any defense has problems. Stop one or even two, and the third will hurt you.

Brown, of course, turned in another of his tremendous exhibitions of how to play fullback.

Mitchell was speaking of Brown after the game and said that the secret of the big fullback's success was his "quickness."

"Seldom do you ever need all of your sped, but you always need quickness in football," said the swift halfback from Illinois. "I'd trade my straightaway speed any day for his (Brown's) quickness."

Mitchell, of course, also showed plenty of "quickness," in addition to speed on a dazzling 53-yard touchdown romp in the third period that was nullified by a penalty.

WHAT ABOUT THE RAMS? HERE are some of the comments of the Brown players:

Mike McCormack, veteran offensive tackle: "the Rams are still disorganized and they won't start looking good until their linemen can hold their own against opponents. They don't show enough speed at guards."

Leon Clarke, ex-Ram end: "the Rams are still floundering. There are too many individual stars that just don't work together. They somehow unawaringly manage to work at cross purposes and the result is they never seem to reach their true potential."

Bob Gain, defensive tackle: "the Rams could have an explosive running game if they could get some help at guard. Maybe they'll finally swap some of their backs for help in the middle of the line. Bratkowski will do a good job for the Rams, but I don't think he's the answer to shaping up a potent offensive punch. Meanwhile, the defensive line is big, but must move faster."

THE BROWNS FEEL THEY'LL fight it out with the Giants for the Eastern Division crown. "Quiet optimism" could best describe their attitude.

As Gain pointed out, "we had looked for the Cardinals to make a big run this year, but injuries to John Crow and Ken Panfil have crippled them. The Eagles won't repeat without Van Brocklin, so it sort of boils down to the Giants and ourselves."

Even Coach Paul Brown hints it could be their year. "After all," he stresses, "we had the second best record in the league last year and our record of 8-3-1 usually is good enough to win."

The Western Division race? "We've only seen the Lions, 49ers and Rams," said a Brown veteran, "and of those three the Lions appear to be much the best. The 49ers and Rams are about even. Against us, the 49ers showed a fine passing game, the Rams the better running potential. It will be whichever type game can outscore the other when they meet."

The 49ers and Rams meet for the first time next Friday night in the Rams' final home exhibition.

Arnett, Brown or Brodie: Did Rams Choose Right?

By JERRY WYNN

One of the most fateful decisions in Ram history was made one December day in 1956. At the annual college draft meeting, the club had a choice among three outstanding prospects as its first round pick.

There was Jon Arnett, the home-town flyer from SC; there was Jim Brown, the slashing fullback from Syracuse, and there was John Brodie, the sensational passing quarterback from Stanford.

The Rams selected Arnett . . . and they've never been sorry. But neither has Paul Brown and the Cleveland Browns fretted away a second that they were allowed to sign the Syracuse boy or the San Francisco 49ers that they could obtain the Stanford boy.

For at least one game, Friday night, the Rams made the wrong choice. While Arnett was being clamped tighter than a bottle cap, Brown killed the Rams with his dynamite drives into the line as he led Cleveland to a 34-17 victory.

And this same great debate — Arnett, Brown or Brodie?—will be reenacted again Friday night when Brodie arrives at the Coliseum to quarterback the 49ers against the Rams in their annual pre-season civil war skirmish.

After being decimated by a cannon (Brown), the thought of facing a mere shotgun shouldn't phase the Rams. But such isn't the case. The word is that the shotgun is loaded with atomic ammunition.

For those fans who need refreshing, the shotgun is the novel offense sprouted by 49er coach Red Hickey that blasted his team to a surprising second-place tie in the Western Division last season. Brodie fires the gun from a formation which places him five yards behind center. He takes a direct snap.

The Rams received just one taste of the shotgun in 1960, but it was enough to make them wary. Before the largest Coliseum crowd of the year—more than 77,000 fans—Brodie paced the 49ers to a 23-7 win.

JOHN BRODIE
Shoots the Shotgun

This year, San Francisco has a second talented shotgunner in rookie Bill Kilmer, well-schooled from the UCLA single wing. Bob Waters is a third fine quarterback.

The Rams didn't play a bad game for three quarters Friday night. They led, 10-7, at halftime and trailed by only 14-10, after three quarters to a crackerjack Cleveland aggregation. But you can't give a team as many chances with the ball as the Browns had in the second half, and not expect to get hurt . . . especially when they took the ball three straight times at midfield.

So, the Ram trouble boils down once more to the familiar bugaboo, the lack of a consistent offense.

42,560 See Packers Top Bears, 24-14

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Green Bay Packers struck for two quick touchdowns early in the fourth period to pull from behind and defeat the Chicago Bears, 24-14, Saturday night for their 11th straight National Football League exhibition victory.

Set up by a brilliant 52-yard pass from Bart Starr to Boyd Dowler, the Packers went in front to stay on fullback Jim Taylor's burst off left tackle at 1:21 of the finale. They then added an insurance touchdown after a fumble recovery on the ensuing kickoff.

A crowd of 42,560—the largest ever for a game between professional football clubs in Wisconsin—turned out for the 12th annual Midwest Shrine benefit game at County Stadium.

The Packers, the defending NFL Western Division champions who have not lost an exhibition since 1959, rolled 55 yards in eight plays for a touchdown the first time they had the ball. Taylor capped the drive by leaping over the goal from two yards out.

CHARGERS, OAKLAND VIE

The San Diego Chargers, Western Division champions of the American Football League in 1960 and 2-0 for this year's preseason action, attempt to protect their record of never having lost an exhibition game when they host the Oakland Raiders at Balboa Stadium today at 1:30.

The Raiders, meanwhile, are eager to avenge three straight lacings at the hands of the Chargers, having lost two regular season games and one pre-season affair last year.

The game will be the day's only professional football action.

Mud Running Tips Scales for Steelers

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Halfback Charlie Scales ran like a mudder on a soggy field Saturday night to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 24-14 exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Scales, former Indiana star, scored one touchdown and was instrumental in setting up another.

Bobby Layne started connecting in the second quarter for the Steelers after the two teams sloshed around the Gator Bowl for a scoreless first period. Layne's passes moved the ball to the Cardinal 19 and fullback John Henry Johnson leaped over for the touchdown from inside the one after Scales put it there on four consecutive carries.

Ex-Florida star Bobby Joe Green set the stage for a 19-yard field goal by Steeler Lou Michaels when he faked a punt and ran 42 yards to the Cardinal 32. Hard running by Scales again moved the ball in position for the field goal.

See Drastic Changes in Offenses Across Nation

By Associated Press

College football teams from coast-to-coast call it quits to summer vacations this Friday when they begin pre-season practice for the 1961 season, due to begin under a full head of steam less than a month from now.

And when the drills begin this weekend, they are going to bring about changes and offensive renovations from Oregon State to Miami, and from UCLA to Syracuse.

These have been dictated by the fact that the defenses started catching up with the offense last fall in many cases, and the need for drastic changes and revitalizations to meet talent situations in others.

Independent Oregon State is adding the multiple T to its traditional single wing so that bedeviled defenses now will have to cope with Terry (The Terrific) Baker as both quarterback and tailback.

At UCLA, coach Bill Barnes is trying to contend with what he calls his all-America schedule by dressing up his multiple single wing and "W" formations. Now he's got the end-over and fullback-in-motion series.

Air-minded Stanford and Washington State are trying to inject some old fashioned ball carrying to balance their attacks. The loss of passmaster Dick Norman has Stanford going into the "spread split T." The Cougars seek to make their national championship battery of Mel Melvin and Hugh Campbell even more potent.

Giants Clip Dallas, 28-10

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The offensive power of the New York Giants, keyed to the throwing arm of Charley Conerly, overran outclassed Dallas in an exhibition football game Saturday night, 28-10.

Former Utah great Lee Grosscup took over the Giants offense in the second half after Conerly had pushed the New Yorkers ahead 14-3 at halftime.

The first Giant score came with four minutes left in the first period when Conerly passed to Joe Morrison on a 37-yard touchdown play. Pat Summerall converted all of the Giants extra points.

The Cowboys first tally came after LeBaron made two unsuccessful pass attempts and settled for a 30-yard field goal by Allen Green.

49ers Dump Vikes, 14-10

PORTLAND (AP) — Abe Woodson's 97-yard kickoff return with 13 seconds to go in the first half sparked the San Francisco 49ers to a 14-10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in an exhibition pro football game Saturday night. It marked the 49ers first win of the season.

Woodson's run came just after Minnesota's Mike Mercer had kicked a 28-yard field goal to break a scoreless tie. A crowd of 27,044 filled Multnomah Stadium, many of them drawn by Minnesota head coach Norm Van Brocklin and quarterback George Shaw, both University of Oregon graduates.

The fans saw little action until Woodson slipped past two defenders at midfield and sprinted to the end zone.

San Francisco scored its other touchdown shortly after the start of the third quarter.

Colts Rout Redskins, 41-7, With 3 TD Aerial Strikes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts shocked Washington with three airborne touchdown strikes of more than 50 yards here Saturday night and routed the Redskins 41-7 in a National Football League exhibition game.

It was the third consecutive loss for the hapless Redskins in as many tries, and Baltimore's second exhibition victory against one defeat.

The Colts scored on their first play from scrimmage on Johnny Unitas' 50-yard pass to Lenny Moore after rookie halfback Don Kern had brought the opening kickoff back 50 yards to the midfield stripe.

Derby to Speak John

Favored Apple Out of Money

BY MAC McGUIRE

Speak John, owned by Max Gluck's Elmendorf Farm, charged to a two-length win in the 17th running of the $27,800 Del Mar Derby before a cheering crowd of 17,785 Saturday.

Speak John was second choice in the betting and paid $7.80 after running the mile and one-eighth in 1.48 with Pete Moreno aboard. The colt earned $15,425.

Coming from far out of it in the early running, just as he did when finishing fast to be second to Apple in the La Jolla mile, Speak John found the added distance of the Derby to his liking and ran over horses in the last sixteenth.

* * * *

SHELBYVILLE, who left his race at the post when he jumped in the air at the start of the La Jolla, was second, and the pace-setting Aldershot third. The favored Apple, who loomed up as a winner in the stretch, faded back to fourth.

Shelbyville was a half length before Aldershot at the wire, and the latter in turn nosed out Apple. Aldershot set all the early pace, and hung on gamely as Speak John roared by on the outside of his field.

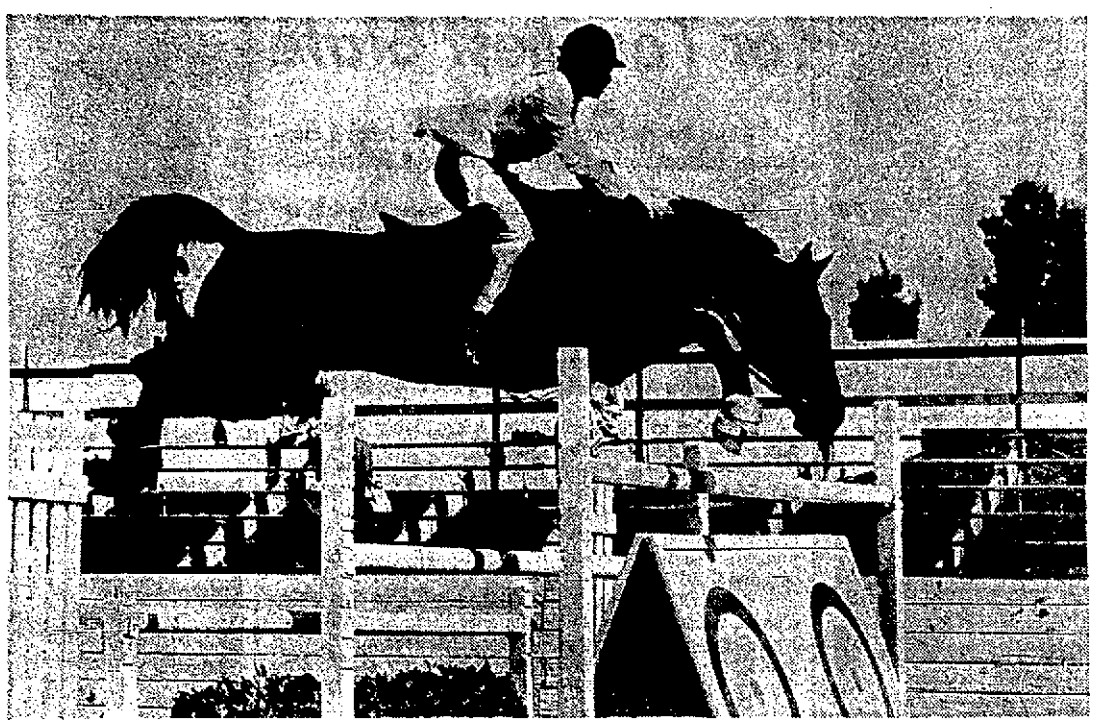

The Derby was Speak John's first stakes victory, and it left the 3-year-old title of the meeting up in the air. Of three stakes for sophomores, Shelbyville won the six-furlong Oceanside, Apple won the La Jolla mile and now Speak John.

* * * *

JOCKEY PETE Moreno observed after the Derby that if Speak John had broken well in the La Jolla mile he would have been a winner then, too.

In the supporting feature, C. V. Whitney's Killoqua, an eligible to the estimated $90,000 Del Mar Futurity on Sept. 9, made his first start of the meeting, winning by more than three lengths in 1:10 1/5 for six furlongs.

Carry Back Wins in Comeback Debut

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) —Carry Back, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and heir apparent to this year's 3-year-old honors, made a successful return to racing Saturday by winning a $6,000 allowance test at Atlantic City.

Carry Back, out of action three weeks with a leg injury, as usual, came from behard to win. He was in fifth spot at the top of the stretch before making a dash to the wire.

CHICAGO (AP) — Bluescope set an Arlington Park mile record of 1:33 4/5 Saturday while scoring a one-length victory in the $33,150 Warren Wright Memorial Handicap.

Bluescope bettered by one-fifth of a second Clem's record set in 1958. The day's racing was marred by serious injuries to jockeys Braulio Baeza and Ken Church in the fourth race.

CALIENTE (UPI) — Mutuality, this year's 4-year-old border sensation, Saturday scored his ninth victory of the year in winning the featured Winter Set Purst here. He set a track for six furlongs of 1:084/5.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI) — George D. Widener's Jaipur put at least a temporary halt on Sir Gaylord's drive to the 1961 juvenile championship Saturday when he scored an upset victory in the $75,000-added Hopeful Stakes here.

Golden Note Heat Victor in Fast Time

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. Mex. (Special)—Three California juveniles — unbeaten Bunny's Bar Maid, Long Beach—owned Golden Note and Pokay Bar swept to victory here Saturday in three of the four trial divisions for Labor Day's richest quarter horse stakes on record — the $202,425 All-American Futurity.

Ridden by Ken McReynolds, Bunny's Bar Maid streaked to her sixth straight triumph in 20.6 for the 400 yards. With Jimmy Dreyer up, Golden Note, from the stable of J. W. and D. J. Burr Wholesale Meat Dealers, knocked off her division in 20.7, and Pokey Bar, with Ken Chapman up, clicked in 20.8, thus assuring all three starting spots in the All-American.

Bunny's Bar Maid paid a prohibitive $2.20 straight, Golden Note $3.20 and Pokey Bar $4.40.

Art Bar, mild $10.80 upset winner of the final division from the Sonora Tex Stable of Jim Hunt, was timed in 20.9.

2 Speed Marks Set at Bonneville

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Two records fell Saturday in the windup of the Bonneville national speed trials on the Western Utah salt flats.

Harry Umemoto of Playa Del Rey, Calif., driving a Porsche coupe, pushed the class F grand touring record to 119.236 mph on a two-way run. The previous record of 114.157 had stood since 1958.

HAMBLETONIAN WEDNESDAY

Trot 'Big 3' Set for Classic

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Caleb, Matastar and Duke Rodney loom as the big three for Wednesday's 36th Hambletonian, harness racing's Kentucky Derby for 3-year-old trotters.

But contention will run deeply in a probable field of 14 or so, with enough spread of speed to back predictions of a record mile over the lightning-fast clay oval of the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

The closing of entries will be Monday and the draw will set up the highly-important post positions. With 14 starting in the best two-out-of-three heats race, the purse would approximate $135,000.

Last year there was a field of 19, establishing a record distribution of $144,590 and a high winning prize of $85,019. Blaze Hanover won in four heats, but Quick Song set a Hambletonian record of 1:59 3/5 and Hoot Frost matched it in a later heat.

This will be the fifth year the Hambletonian has been held in the plush setting of the Du Quoin Fairgrounds under the auspices of Gene and Don Hayes.

Sports Beat

Charles O. Finley said Saturday his Athletics will play in Kansas City next season but added that if the "people of K.C. want a team they had better get up in arms and fight for it."

Finley has been up in arms himself recently for not-so-glowing reports written about his lowly A's. His answer: "What they've said makes me sick — so sick it almost makes me want to take the club out of here (K.C.)."

MILWAUKEE executive vice president Birdie Tebbetts said Saturday "rumors to the contrary, I have no intentions of leaving the Braves, nor have I had any offers to consider."

A Milwaukee Sentinel baseball writer said Tibbetts is itching to leave Milwaukee, and is being considered for general manager's jobs with Houston or the Boston Red Sox.

BALTIMORE manager Paul Richards is another one who is apparently in line for the Houston post, and, in fact, one sportswriter has said Richards has already been hired.

A writer for the Jacksonville, Fla., Journal said Saturday Richards would resign from the Orioles as soon as they're eliminated from the AL race and then announce his move to Houston.

VETERAN outfielder Dave Philley of Baltimore, who set a one-season record with his 23rd pinch-hit Friday night, is a rarity among baseball players — he neither drinks nor swears.

Philley recalled Saturday a game in the late 1940's (he came to the majors in 1941) that an ump accused him of swearing and fined $50. Dave said he'd pay the fine but would not allow "swearing" to go on his record. He found the man who really used profanity (a teammate) and saw that his record was kept spotless.

A MAN who didn't win a single event won the overall title in the Grand American trapshoot Saturday. He is John Sternberger of Englewood, Ohio.

Sternberger broke 976 of 1,000 targets to win overall laurels.

THE NATIONAL tennis championships will get under way at Forest Hills Friday and the unwilling main attraction will be semi-retired Ham Richardson.

If the Dallas stockbroker happens to win the title, or make a respectable showing, there will be pressure from all sides for him to join the Davis Cup team. He has already been asked to do so, but declined.

THE SPORTING NEWS predicted Saturday the rookies of the year in the American and National Leagues. It picked both a top pitcher and a top player.

American League honors went to Ken Hunt of the Angels and pitcher Don Schwall of Boston; National League laurels went to pitcher Ken Hunt of the Reds and Billy Williams of Chicago.

SHORTS SHORTS—Jackie Simes of Westwood, N. J., won the 1,000-meter opening race of the National bicycle championships Saturday . . . Jim McElreath won the 20-lap feature race at the Minnesota State Fair Saturday. Hershel Wagner was second and Buzz Rose of Palos Verdes, Calif., third . . . The University of Iowa's Homecoming football game with Wisconsin Oct. 21 is a sellout . . . A $100,000 trust fund for deserving baseball players has been established by the will of the late Louis R. Nitehawks Open Title Bid Tonight

By RAY CUNNINGHAM

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. — The Long Beach Nitehawks open defense of their International Softball Congress world championship here tonight.

The Nitehawks will be seeking their seventh straight world title and eighth in nine years. Their first rival will be Davenport, Iowa, 4-3 winner over Gary, Ind., Saturday. If the Hawks win, they'll play Ogden, Utah, Monday night.

Despite boasting a hometown team that figures to be one of the tourney's toughest, Rock Island fans are centering their attention on the popular champs, whose reputation the past decade is legendary. Tonight's game already is a sellout.

* * * *

MANAGER Joe Rodgers plans to get the Hawks off fast. He's starting his great southpaw, Eddie Waymire, who has compiled a 19-2 record this season.

Rodgers remembers last year when the Nitehawks lost their opening game and were thrown into the loser's bracket. Lockily, they roared back to take the crown again, but this year they may not have the depth to perform such a feat if they lose one in this double-elimination tourney.

'Never Dreamed I Could Win'—Sylvie

By DAVE TAYLOR

Sylvie Hulsemann, the darkhorse entry from Luxembourg who captured the International women's over-all ski championship from under the noses of 18 major nations in the seventh World Water Ski Championships, had no trouble making her country's tournament ski team.

She was Luxembourg's only competitor.

The job was made even easier by the fact that, in Luxembourg, with a 300,000 population—less than that of Long Beach—there are only three people who can water ski.

"The other two are men, and they came to Long Beach only for the ride," says Sylvie.

A water skier for only four years, Sylvie competed in the last world championship at Milan, Italy, in 1959, but showed nothing of the finesse there that has won her the international crown in this tournament.

"I never in a million years dreamed I could win it," Sylvie said Saturday after it was announced she had the title.

"I was sure an American would win it. I know everyone is surprised that I am champion," she said, tripping occasionally on her school-polished English, "but they couldn't be any more surprised than I am."

Sylvie, a high school student in chemical engineering, speaks English, French, German and Italian. Tennis, swimming and horseback riding are her favorite sports.

"I am three years Luxembourg champion equestrian, and once international champion equestrian," says she.

But first of all Sylvie is a woman.

And in true female fashion, when all the cheering was done Saturday, Sylvie hustled herself down town and spent the rest of the afternoon shopping.

REAL MADRID SOCCER KINGS CLASH TODAY

World-famous Real Madrid battles Los Angeles United in the season's biggest soccer match at the Coliseum today. Kickoff is 2:30.

Real Madrid, five-time soccer cup champions, will be led by Alfredo Di Stefano, one of the finest center-forwards in the world.

Some of the top names in show business will participate in a mock game prior to the international match. Among probable starters are Ricardo Montalban, Fernando Lamas, Jacques Bergerac, John Lupton, Rossano Brazzi, "Cookie" Burns and Michael Dante.

SCHWALL, GRBA ON HILL TODAY

gle by Earl Averill followed by Ken Hunt's double and Stallard's wild pitch. The Boston righthander then settled down and retired seven in-a-row before the Angels iced matters in the sixth.

A WALK, infield out and Rocky Bridges' line single to left made it 4-0 and another walk, this one to McBride, and Albie Pearson's double produced the fifth run.

Eli Grba (6-11) will attempt to notch the Angels seventh win in the 18-game series with Boston when he faces the great rookie Don Schwall (13-2) in the series' windup this afternoon.

ABOUT ANOTHER George Thomas refuses to be hampered by the pulled muscle in his left thigh. "I can run and hit," said Thomas. "The only thing I can't do is a hard pull one way or the other." Going into Saturday night's game Thomas had a six-game hitting streak, batting .385 with two homers and six RBI.

Rigney said he plans to change his conditioning program next spring so that sore arms and legs and pulled muscles will be averted during the season. "I think next spring," said Rigney, "the first week we'll just have a little batting practice and a lot of running and easy throwing. There will be no infield practice. That's where muscles, not loosened properly, get hurt."

With two hits Friday, Albie Pearson upped his average to .400 against Boston. At Wrigley, Pearson was batting .438 against former teammates.

Ted Bowsfield will pitch Monday night's series opener with Baltimore while Ryne Duren and Jack Spring are slated for Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader.

est competitor 15-year-old Norah Del Paso, Mexico. The stalky, black-haired, rabbit-eyed Norah has been the color contestant of the tournament, consistently capturing first place for popularity both among the fans and her ski competitors.

A field of 45 men also took to the water Saturday for the men's trick skiing event, but there had been no decision from the judges grading the trick runs when the day's competition closed.

Sylvie Hulsemann will be officially named women's over-all champion in special awards ceremony at 10 a.m. today.

Dodgers, Reds Tiff in Twin Bill Today

for a conference with Podres, who convinced him he still had his stuff.

It took one more pitch to convince Alston otherwise. Pinson lined a grand-slam homer into the right field bleachers, reducing the Dodger margin to 10-5. It was Pinson's 14th homer, the Reds' first slam of the year and the third of Pinson's career.

Sherry came in and retired the Reds in order, but yielded to Perranoski when Coleman hit his 23rd homer, Chacon walked and Cardenas doubled with two out in the eighth.

Cardenas' drive disappeared in the left field scoreboard and so did the Reds' chances. Perranoski took care of the last four batters and secured the Dodgers' first Crosley Field edge since 1954.

The Dodgers hold a 6-3 edge here, but lost at the Coliseum, 4-7.

Callup Includes College Youths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The callup of National Guard, Army Reservists and Air Force Reservists provides no exemptions for college students, a Pentagon spokesman said Saturday.

However, the Navy has taken steps to ease the impact on some of its reservists faced with a conflict between active military duty and schooling.

A Navy spokesman said reservists accepted for the coming fall semester in colleges will be eligible for deferment from active duty, with some limitations depending on beginning dates and other factors.

"I just stood there in my trunks, dumbfounded," he said.

Dixie Pattern of Segregation Fades With Each School Year

By JIM THOMASSON

ATLANTA (AP)—Slowly, but relentlessly, public school integration has pushed deeper into Dixie in each of the seven years since the U. S. Supreme Court made its historic segregation decision.

When school doors begin opening next week for the eighth time since the 1954 ruling, the traditional pattern of racial separation will end officially in two more of the South's major cities, Atlanta, Ga., and Dallas, Tex.

It also will bring additional Negroes into previously all-white classrooms at New Orleans and Little Rock where integration began in turmoil.

* * * *

IN ONLY three of the states which operated separate schools when the Supreme Court outlawed segregation—Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina—will there still be no white and Negro children occupying the same public school classrooms.

Resistance has increased as integration has reached toward the deep South areas of denser Negro populations. Violence and disorder have flared even in the border areas.

A wide assortment of legal barriers have been thrown up, only to be overthrown. An example was Virginia's program of massive resistance. It, too, crumbled, and its fall was perhaps a turning point.

Georgia, one of the last four hard-core states, also had a similar plan, together with Gov. Ernest Vandiver's campaign pledge that no Negro and white child would ever sit in the same classroom during his administration. But when forced to decide between integration or closed schools, Vandiver and the Georgia Legislature capitulated.

* * * *

SO, IN this 100th year since the Civil War brought emancipation of the Negro from slavery, 10 carefully screened Negro pupils Wednesday will begin attending the 11th and 12th grades of four previously all-white Atlanta high schools. They were admitted under a grade-a-year desegregation plan evolved upon order of a federal court.

Likewise by court order, Dallas and Galveston, Tex., will integrate their schools on Sept. 6, but have not disclosed how many Negroes will be involved.

With the benefit of seven years of hindsight, Atlanta and Dallas officials hope to avoid disorder such as that which accompanied the beginning of school integration in some other cities.

After its original decree holding the separation of students on the basis of race alone to be illegal, the Supreme Court in 1955 issued an implementing decision ordering public school desegregation "as soon as practicable."

* * * *

BOTH THE Atlanta and Dallas cases illustrate the endeavors of federal district courts in the South to apply the Supreme Court's instructions.

Upon banning separate schools in Atlanta, Judge Frank A. Hooper allowed the board of education liberal time in which to submit a desegregation plan and then delayed the effective date of his final order.

The judge took judicial notice of state laws on closing integrated schools and granted the delays, he said, to give the people time, through their legislature, to act.

The segregationist Georgia Legislature, never too sympathetic toward Atlanta, was showing signs of yielding on Atlanta integration to forestall action which might affect other areas. But the showdown came at the University of Georgia.

* * * *

WHEN rioting erupted in Athens last January over the admission of two Negroes to the university, the Legislature and the governor were faced with closing the institution, in which the entire state has a great deal of pride. The result was a proposal by Vandiver which wiped out school segregation laws and set up others designed to limit integration as much as possible.

Except for outbreaks of violence when Autherine Lucy was admitted to the University of Alabama and when Charlayne Hunter and Hamilton Holmes entered the University of Georgia, integration of state colleges and universities has increased, also slowly, but with scant fanfare.

Dallas faced a problem similar to that in Atlanta as the result of a 1957 Texas law cutting off state aid to schools which integrated without approval of a referendum.

Last year, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson of Texas resolved that question by ruling that schools facing federal court orders to integrate would not lose state aid since they did not desegregate voluntarily.

NEW DELHI (AP)—More than 210 million persons will be eligible to vote in India's general elections next Feb. 22-28. The 500-member Lower House of Parliament and legislatures in 13 of the nation's 16 states will be elected.

CHP Service Extended for 6 New Cities

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Six newly incorporated cities in Los Angeles County will have their traffic laws enforced by the California Highway Patrol for an additional four months.

The patrol agreed to continue service in Rosemead, Cudahy, Commerce, Walnut, Temple City and South El Monte until Jan. 1.

Enforcement by the CHP was due to end Sept. 1, but Gov. Brown said the cities need more time to develop their own traffic control or contract with the county for service.

Solar Energy Can Provide Most of Heating in Home

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sunlight on its roof can supply a three-bedroom New England house with two-thirds of the energy required for heating and domestic hot water supply.

It could do better but total solar heating in New England weather would require more storage space than is convenient in a small house.

The cost of equipment required for solar heating remains higher than can be justified by fuel savings.

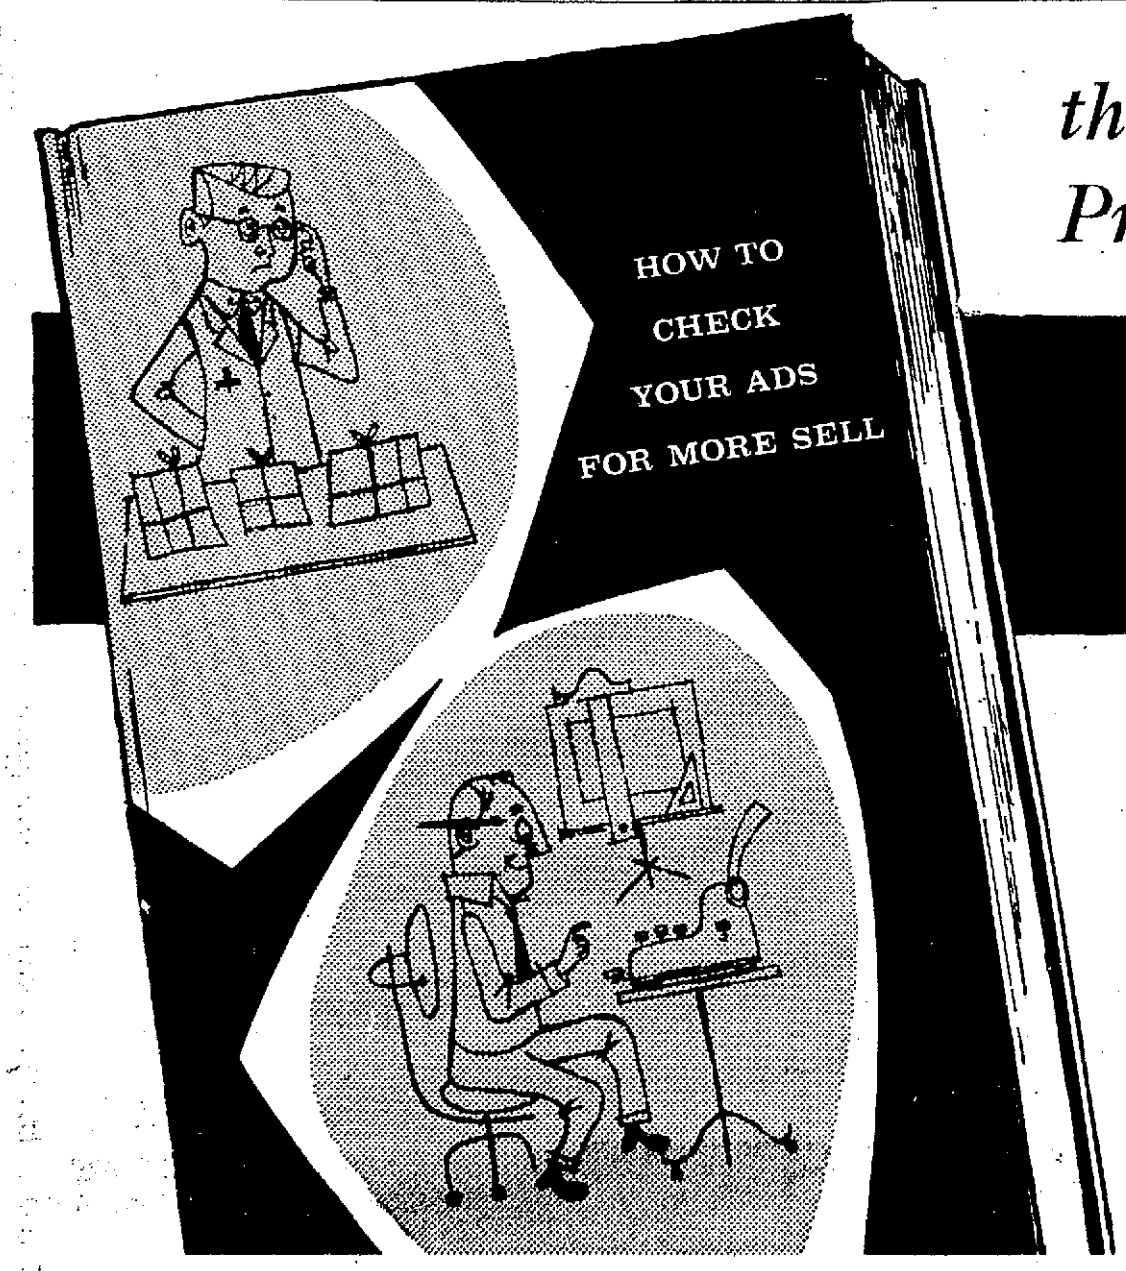

These are some of the conclusions reached after three years of experiment with Solar House IV in Lexington, Mass., conducted by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MIT released the results simultaneously with MIT Prof. Albert G. H. Dietz at the United Nations conference on new (non-nuclear) energy sources held in Rome. Dietz is professor of civil engineering and a member of the space heating committee of the MIT solar energy conversion project.

Dietz said the most valuable result of the experiment was the engineering knowledge gained in constructing and operating a complex solar heating plant.

"Somewhere and sometime this knowledge will be a resource," he said. "In countries where conventional fuels are abundant, the use of solar energy for heating is economically attractive only where the climate permits an unusually high yield of sunshine per square foot."

HOME-LIKE WINDOW DISPLAYS FEATURED

This night view of Henry's new furniture store, 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., shows the large home-like settings for window displays. Opening of the big store is another step in the continued progress in business for Wallace Edwards, who opened a small 10th Street store and in a few years has expanded to two major Pacific Coast Highway stores.—(Staff photo.)

Henry's Furniture Into Big, New Store

Spacious window displays of home-like settings feature the new, large Henry's Furniture at 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. The attractive store already has drawn considerable favorable comment by the eye-catching window displays and the spaciousness of the store.

Opening of the new Henry's is another step forward in successful retailing by Wallace Edwards, the owner.

A native of Long Beach, Edwards was employed in several major Long Beach furniture stores until he entered the Navy.

After retiring from the Navy with the rating of lieutenant, Edwards opened a modest furniture store on East 10th Street.

* * * *

FEATURING quality furniture at modest prices, Edwards found business was outgrowing his small location, he moved to Pacific Coast Hwy., and opened Edwards Furniture Co.

Successful from the start in his new location, he began planning for expansion and acquired the two-month-old firm of Henry's Furniture, 3030 E. Anaheim St. Success continued and the need of even larger quarters became apparent.

On a site three blocks west of his store, Edwards constructed this newest addition to the Long Beach retailing field.

"I decided I best could serve the community by operating a contemporary store, concentrating on the moderate price field," says the owner.

* * * *

PLANS WERE made with the architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady and Smith for the new store, which now is considered one of the finest contemporary furniture centers in the Southland.

He will continue to operate his other store as an annex to the new.

With 33,000 square feet of floor space, the store carries an inventory of more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of furniture. Henry's now has 350 feet of frontage on Pacific Coast Hwy. plus two big parking areas.

The new store is air conditioned. A decorating staff is available for consultation on any home decor problem.

Departments in the new store include: Furniture, carpets, accessories, dinner ware, draperies and gifts.

Park Shore Homes Are Selling Fast

The builders and developers of Park Shore homes in Long Beach voiced strong appreciation for the tremendous turnout of interested people who attended the grand opening last Sunday and for the many comments and compliments received.

At Park Shore residents may enjoy all of the advantages of living in a dream community of modern two-story, bay view homes and anticipate the increase in value of property adjacent to the water, a spokesman points out.

These three-bedroom, two-bath homes feature all-electric built-in kitchens with double oven and rotisserie, automatic dishwasher, color matched range with hood, and service bar. Marble pullmans and ceramic tile showers in the bathrooms are accented by ornamental 24-karat goldplated and decorative silver fixtures.

* * * *

SMART FIREPLACES, all wool wall-to-wall carpeting and professional color coordination and decoration add to the impressive custom appearance. Extra features include underground electrical wiring and built-in TV antennas.

All property at Park Shore will be architecturally landscaped and will have complete sprinkler systems. For relief from gardening and maintenance chores, the Park Shore Community Association is being formed. This unique association will enable each resident to have, in effect, a gardener and caretaker. Lawns will be mowed, flowers planted in season and exterior windows cleaned every month.

* * * *

RECENT COMPLETION of the bridge on Appian Way brings Park Shore residents within a minute or two from Marina facilities.

Park Shore is conveniently located near fine schools and complete, modern shopping centers such as Belmont Shores and the smart new Buffums' Department store in Long Beach.

More than 50 per cent of the homes have already been reserved and the balance are selling fast. There is still good selections of style and location.

The sales office is at Bayshore Drive and Appian Way, fronting on the Marine Stadium in Long Beach. Sales agent is the Clive Graham Co. of Long Beach. Prices at Park Shore range from $35,000 to $39,750 with a low down payment (only 10%) and long term financing if desired.

BUILDER HONORED

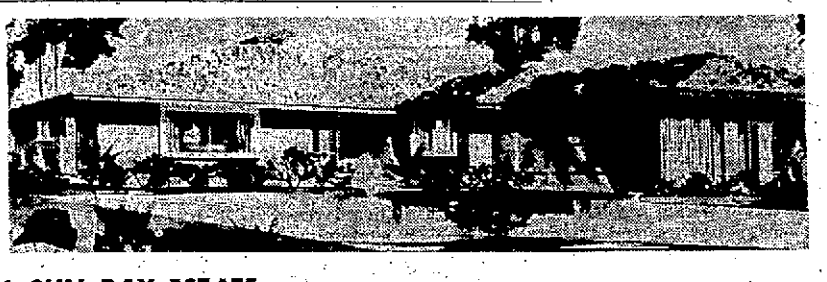

For special community interest in a housing development, after the homes had been sold, the Independent, Press-Telegram has presented a plaque and award to the builders of Golden West Estates. The builders developed a community park and Little League baseball park for the residents in the development. Shown presenting the award in recognition for after-sales service to the homeowners is Murray McDonald, of the I, P-T advertising staff. Receiving it are Max Tipton of the Coleman-Parr Advertising Agency and James McCarthy, sales agent for the homes.

Richard Boone on Busy Schedule

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Richard Boone of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" television series has returned to Hollywood after a month's location filming at Bend, Ore.

Boone directed two of the seven segments of the show filmed there. Andrew McLaglen directed the remainder.

The veteran actor, one of the few Hollywood stars to successfully switch TV characters—Paladin in this series and a doctor in "Medic"—next goes on location in Arizona for new backgrounds.

A SUN RAY ESTATE

Veterans need no cash to buy a home in Sun Ray Estates and the purchase price includes carpeting, block wall fencing and other extras. This is one of the models.

Vet Needs No Cash in Sun Ray Estates

A revolutionary concept of home purchasing is making Sun Ray Estates in Westminster the "hottest tract in Southern California," says a spokesman.

An innovation in financing permits a veteran to buy one of these award winning homes without one cent of investment (no down, no costs and impounds) and the purchase, starting at $19,300, includes wall-to-wall carpeting, concrete block fencing, plus over 15 other features distinctive of the Providence Series as seen in the recent Los Angeles Home Show.

FHA terms are also available, requiring a minimum of investment.

* * * *

CREATING a great interest is the 64-inch decorative concrete block fence that encompasses the rear yard of all the homes in the tract, making it a truly "walled city". Not only does the inclusion of this feature eliminate a costly initial expense to the new home buyer, but it prevents what has been in the past a source of many a feud between neighbors based on "what kind of a fence to put up and who is going to pay for it."

* * * *

THE HOMES are three or four-bedroom plus family rooom with breakfast bar. All have forced air heat thermostatically controlled, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe and Merritt, natural pine cabinets in the kitchen, and the front yards are landscaped. Attached or detached garages are available and several elevations have fireplaces with log lighters.

The tract is now nearing completion, assuring occupancy before the start of the school fall term.

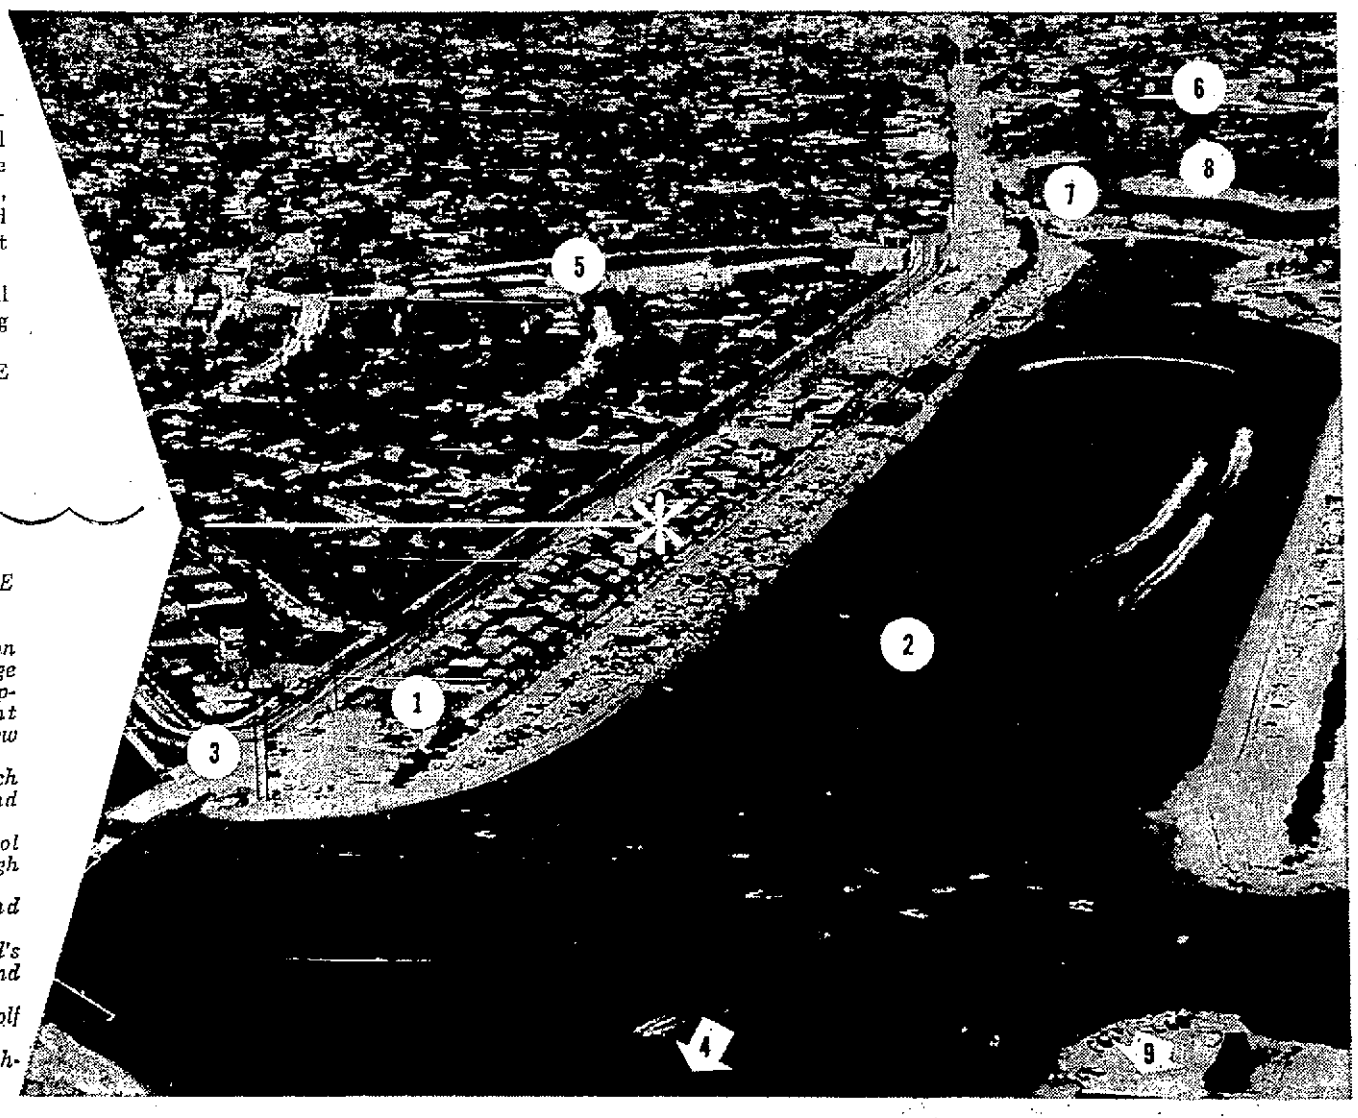

* * * *

THE SPECIAL offer of free drapes is connected with the Home Show promotion and is promised only to those who pick out their home before Aug. 31.

The location of these homes in Westminster, sometimes referred to as "south of the smog and east of the fog," is one of the most pleasant climatically in the Southland.

The model homes are on Garden Grove Boulevard at Seneca, which is about five miles east of Seventh Street and Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach, or about one and one-half west of Highway 39 (Beach Boulevard) if coming from the other direction.

Pre-School Occupancy Offered Buyer of Pacific Sands Home

Heavy demand has led to scheduling of several homes for early completion, making it possible for buyers to move in before the beginning of the fall school term, said Betty Patterson, sales manager for Walker & Lee, Pacific Sands' sales agency. More than 600 people are already living in this year-round-resort community, the sales manager revealed.

Situated just one minute from Huntington Beach State Beach, the Pacific Sands homes enjoy summer temperatures much cooler than six miles inland, she said.

Buyers moving into Pacific Sands' new third unit will join other residents as members of a private Cabana Club, plans for which are now being drawn. Included will be facilities for tennis, shuffleboard, handball, and swimming.

* * * *

CUSTOM DESIGNED for beach-close living, the Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor beach showers designed for every washing up after surf-side fun. Some models include special garage boat doors which permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance.

Offered with low $390 total move-in costs, the Pacific Sands homes may be purchased at prices said to be as much as $5,000 below current market valuation. According to the sales manager, any fair appraisal would place their value at $17,000 to $20,000 . . yet the actual pricing ranges from just $12,500.

Included in the distinctive new homes are three or four bedrooms, family room, and 2 baths, plus such desirable features as luxurious ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas range and oven, kitchen cabinets of natural birch, Waste King garbage disposal, breakfast bar, aluminum sliding doors, over-sized gas forced air furnace with summer cooling switch, Pioneer Flintkote roofs and floors, used brick fireplaces, double garage with boat door in some plans, and 17 different exteriors enhanced by used brick, concrete block, and Palos Verde stone.

* * * *

LESS THAN 10 minutes from Pacific Sands homes is the new Long Beach Marina, with complete facilities for small boat enthusiasts. Five minutes away is Newport-Balboa. Also nearby are such pleasure areas as Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland. Included in the area are excellent schools, complete shopping centers, and diversified urban facilities.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving southeast on Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39), then left.

Middies Aid at Accident

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)—A group of Naval ROTC midshipmen put their physical and medical training to practical use at the scene of a highway accident here.

The accident occurred when a delivery truck collided with two cars. The midshipmen, about 20 of them, were returning from a tour of Concord Naval Ammunition Depot and saw the accident.

They used their strength to lift the truck—holding it up for 10 minutes—while the driver, pinned beneath, was removed. Other cadets moved two women from a burning car and applied a splint to a woman's leg. The midshipmen were part of a summer training group attached to the carrier, Coral Sea, at Alameda.

Actor Will Take Family With Him

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Nick Adams, young star of "The Rebel" TV series who currently is filming "Hell Is for Heroes" for Paramount Studios, plans to take his wife and two small children to Germany this fall for five months while he films a picture for the Mirisch brothers.

BOAT RACES BIG ATTRACTION

Here is a portion of the crowd attracted to recent boat races at Salton Sea. Developers of Salton Riviera point to the growing popularity of the area for recreational events.

Salton City Is Growing Resort Area

Salton City in three years has become one of the leading headquarters for boat enthusiasts and recreational-minded persons, Sam Winograd, president of Pacific Community Management Co., declares.

He pointed out that the resort city, located on the shores of Salton Sea on Highway 99, midway between Indio and Brawley, has played the role of host to over 50 speedboat racing events the past three years. Such well-known clubs as the Western Outboard Association, United Speedboat Association, Mission Bay Yacht Club and others are regular users of the Salton City marina and recreational facilities.

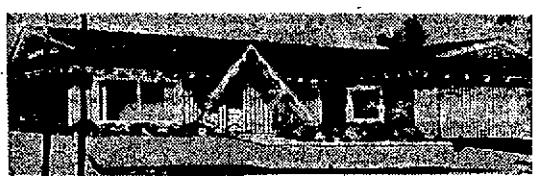

* * * *

THE STAGING of the first Salton City Annual 500-Mile National Championship Race on Nov. 11 and 12 high lights the acceptance of Salton City boating facilities by enthusiasts, Winograd stated. The 500-mile race will have a guaranteed prize money of $12,500, largest ever offered for this type race. Over 400 of the nation's finest racers and boats are expected to take their best shots at the big purse.

Several factors are attributed by Winograd for the widespread recognition of Salton City facilities by the boaters. He points out that the Salton Sea is generally acclaimed as one of the finest bodies of boating water in the country. It is already the site of several world records. Add that to the two marinas, boat docks and repair facilities, the Salton Bay Yacht Club, two boating restaurants, boat storage warehouse and launching facilities, and it is easy to see why Salton City has so rapidly become a boating headquarters, says Winograd.

For the non-boater there are recreational playgrounds, ample beach area for swimming and even a children's marina.

The Salton Riviera development at Salton City, under the auspices of the Pacific Community Management Co., is one of the major developers at the Sea. Available property at Salton Riviera ranges from residential to commercial sites and includes a limited number of homesites on the Salton Riviera Keys where the boater will be able to dock his boat right in his own back yard.

Man 'Shot' at Curbside

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Mrs. Frank Turner watched from her window.

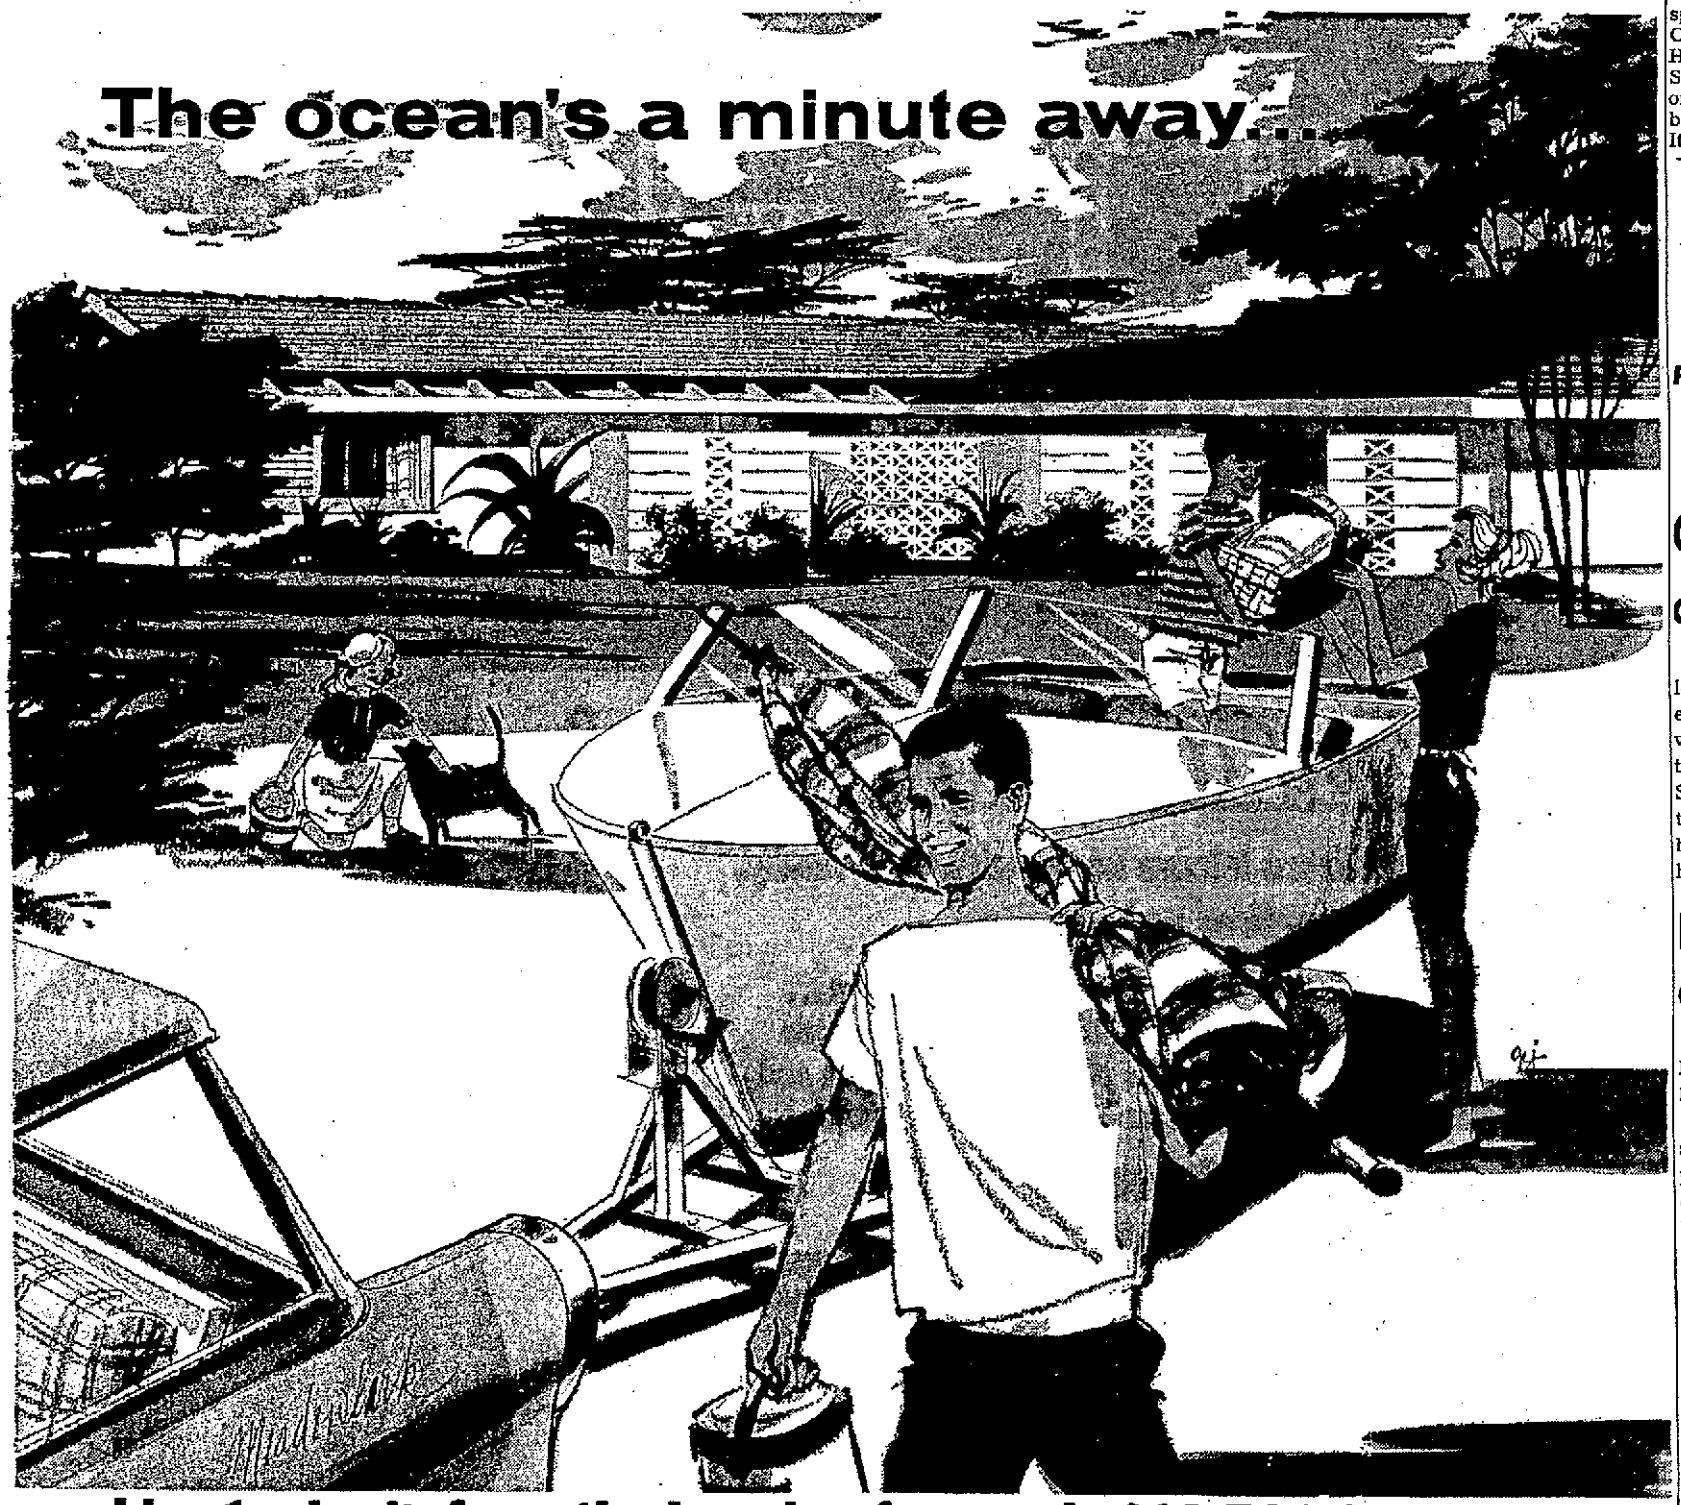

A man and a woman in an automobile couldn't find a parking place. The couple circled the block twice. Then the woman got out of the car and raced into a doctor's office.

The man continued slowly around the block. When he reached the doctor's office again, the man stopped the car.

The woman and a nurse emerged from the doctor's office. The nurse reached in and gave the man a "flu shot."

The man and woman drove off. The nurse returned to the doctor's office.

BOLSA PARK HOME
Priced from $19,200, homes in Bolsa Park are attracting throngs of homeseekers. This is one of the varied models offered.

Big Crowds Viewing Bolsa Park Homes

This weekend's showing is expected to continue drawing crowds to Bolsa Park, the new subdivision on Bolsa Chica Road at Bolsa Ave. in Huntington Beach, a spokesman for the developers said.

Featured are four completely new floor plans by William M. Bray, AIA, award-winning architect who designed the 1961 Research Home. Bray's plans include such striking features as custom entry and loggia areas. Builder Roger C. Werbel reports that buyers are showing great interest in the loggia area, which offer access to all rooms while avoiding wear and tear on living areas. Interest especially centers on a four-bedroom plan, which includes a sleeping wing separate from the living-entertaining area. In general the homes include three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a family dining room.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $19,200, the Bolsa Park homes are offered with new 35-year, 5¼% FHA financing, as well as exceptional VA no-down-payment terms and conventional financing at 6%. Titles are insured by the Title Insurance and Trust Co.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via 7th Street (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Only Fake Goods Kept in Stock

MIAMI (AP) — Shoplifters don't worry the operators of a couple of liquor and tobacco stores at Miami International Airport.

All the stock is fake. The real articles are under bond in a warehouse for purchase tax-free by travelers leaving the country.

"We miss a few of the fakes every day, mostly cigarettes," says William Taylor, one of the store operators. "We don't care. The companies that distribute the merchandise give us the fakes."

Mr. J. W. Klug and Mr. W. R. Gayner, developers of Inner Circle Custom Homes and Pacesetter Homes in Mesa Verde, Costa Mesa. Below, Mr. Gayner's own Medallion Home on the Mesa Verde Country Club.

"WE BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT WE PREFER MEDALLION HOMES"

"Medallion Homes will never be outdated," says Mr. W. R. Gayner. "That's because they're built for the future. They contain more than enough wiring to take care of the many new electric items that will be a standard part of life in the future.

"That's one reason for the tremendous popularity of Medallion Homes—a popularity that's growing every day.

"Another reason, of course, is that a Medallion Home offers more benefits today. A person can move right in and start enjoying all the comforts of electric living that exist right now."

Mr. Klug and Mr. Gayner build Medallion Homes because these homes offer more to the buyer—in any price range. When you consider a new home, why not be guided by the experience of such expert builders? Make sure the home qualifies for the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

New Seal Beach Marina Vista Homes Attracting Big Crowds

Since the opening of the new Marina Vista group of homes in Seal Beach three weeks ago, traffic has been unusually heavy. This has resulted in sales well above the early expectations, salesmen say. The unusual feature of a fireplace in the master bedroom has been one of the major attractions.

Sake Going Modern; to Get Bubbles

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TOKYO (UPI)—They're going to put bubbles in Sake, that mild-tasting Japanese rice wine which looks like water and packs a delayed-action punch.

But the bubbles won't take the bite out of the drink. Sake makers promise so.

The reason they're putting the bubbles in the wine is to give it a nice, "modern" look so they can boost sagging sales.

* * * *

ALMOST SINCE the time of Amaterasu Omikami, the sun goddess, Sake has been the number one drink of Japanese tipplers.

But in postwar years Sake's been slipping. The younger set, unlike their elders, don't consider it fashionable to sit in western style air-conditioned bars and sip old-fashioned warm Sake.

They prefer beer and fancy sounding cocktails made with whisky and to western recipes.

* * * *

THE SAKE makers decided to follow the age-old rule—if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. And so they are—with bubbles, fancy-named cocktails and all.

They're going to push new cocktails which use Sake as one of the main ingredients, get some airlines to serve the Sake concoctions on their flights and generally get Sake back on the shelves in the bars by making it "fashionable."

Oldtime Sake-sippers (you never drank Sake, you always just sipped it) must be cringing at the thought of people actually gulping the stuff down, and cold, too.

No respectable Sake-sipper of old would have it hot.

Quick Sellout Expected for Dutch Haven's Newest Unit 18

Since the August grand opening of Dutch Haven's unit 18 on Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach, sales have continued to spiral to phenomenal highs, promising an early sell-out for this newest Dutch Haven community, Edward S. Boyd, sales agent for the subdivision, said that over 3,000 prospective home - buyers have already viewed the "American Home Series" models on display and that the percentage of viewers who conclude their visit with an immediate purchase has been remarkably large.

"This," added Boyd, "can mean only one thing. These homes are located right, priced right and have the custom features that buyers want these days. They sell themselves. All the buyer has to do is compare the moderate price tag with what he sees."

* * * *

LOCATED WITHIN an area which has long been a favorite Southern California resort city, Dutch Haven's unit 18 enjoys an ideal climate and is but minutes away from several of the Southland's finest beaches. Facilities for boating and surfing are excellent, tax rates are unusually low due to city-owned oil royalties, school facilities are nearby and a new shopping center is presently under construction in the area.

Prices of Dutch Haven homes start at $14,950 with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Also available are Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5¼% interest rate.

* * * *

PURCHASE INCLUDES title to land, with property rights protected by Title Insurance and Trust Co. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments, salesmen stress.

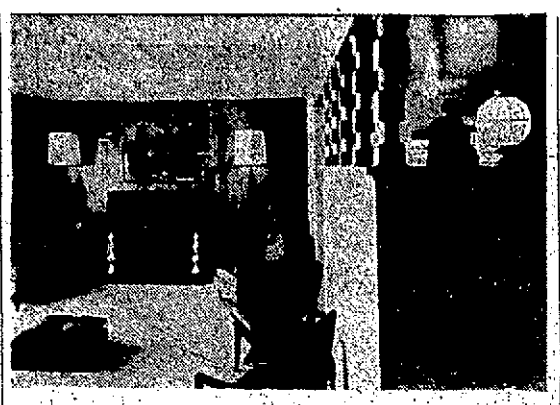

Homes are either three or four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Sixteen exterior elevations are available, including the popular Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been top sellers in other Dutch Haven communities.

* * * *

BOYD SAID that visitors touring the model homes have commented favorably upon the quantity of "custom features" offered in the homes. These include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top range, accoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, oversized wardrobes and garages, copper plumbing service, colored range-hood with fan.

The Beach Blvd. development is the 18th complete Southern California community planned and constructed by Luxury Homes Inc. within the past 10 years.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach: Drive East on 7th St. to Beach Blvd., then south to the models. Or drive south on Coast Hwy. to Beach Blvd., then left on Hwy. 39 to models north of Slater Avenue.

Dutch Haven's Unit 18 in Huntington Beach is selling rapidly, reports a spokesman. Here is a view of the interior of one of the models showing a design which is appealing to buyers.

Homes for Retired Are Open

One of Southern California's most unusual retirement home developments comes under the public spotlight this weekend as Sun Park—Hemet holds its grand opening.

Featuring two-bedroom homes in a cluster about a central, fully landscaped and equipped recreation area, Sun Park—Hemet has already hit a receptive note with the public as nearly 25 per cent of the 59-unit development were purchased during the week of its preview showing.

Early buyers of Frazar Bros.' latest home project, according to Gordon Frazar, include families from the Los Angeles and San Diego metropolitan areas, Long Beach and other coastal cities and from the Inland Empire of Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $11,900 to $13,000 with 24-year conventional financing, Sun Park—Hemet represents a new subdivision design concept. Homes are built on minimum maintenance "retirement lots" which encircle the recreation area. Facilities include an air-conditioned Club House, heated pool, putting green, croquet and shuffleboard courts and covered patios.

Homes are equipped with built-in range and oven, wall-to-wall carpeting and colored fixtures. All rear yards are walled for maximum privacy.

One member of each family must be 50 years of age to qualify for purchase at Sun Park—Hemet at State and Maryberry, five blocks from downtown Hemet, a city popular with retired families because of its dry, smog-free and fog-free climate. Dreams Really Do Come True for Debutantes

Nine Young Ladies Debut at Gala Ball

By JOYCE KENT
I, P-T Women's Staff

"Ladies and gentlemen, the Assistance League of Long Beach presents to you these nine beautiful young ladies . . ."

With these words, Dr. Milton Van Dyke last evening introduced to the 600 formally clad guests assembled in International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel, the daughters and granddaughters of league members selected to make their debut in the organization's second annual Presentation Ball.

The ball, though only in its second year, has become established as high light of the summer social season in Long Beach. Saturday's event climaxed a gay whirl of parties and entertainment that left the nine presentees breathless and starry-eyed, their parents, proud and misty-eyed.

Individual introduction of the debs by Dr. Van Dyke, acting host for the league, took place against the muted melodies of Joe Moshay and his orchestra, with each girl escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father to take her place on a platform richly decorated in replica of a Marie Antoinette garden scene.

* * * *

LARGE TREES, wisteria and magnolia blossoms were used in profusion and completing the wonderland setting was a white balustrade against a cloud filled sky.

The same classic decor, with multitudes of hanging flower baskets holding pink carnations, wisteria and stock, was carried out throughout the ballroom.

The debs, all in traditional white bouffant floor length gowns and holding nosegays of pink rosebuds, delphinium and bouvardia framed by delicate French lace, stood quietly until all were assembled. The only piece of jewelry worn by each girl was the engraved gold medallion on a fine gold chain presented by the League as a keepsake of the evening.

* * * *

AND THEN, as the orchestra broke into a waltz, the girls were swept to the dance floor by their fathers for the first few bars of the dance, there to be claimed by their escorts to begin a gala evening of dining and dancing.

Activities for the presentees, their escorts and members of the stag line opened with a punch party in the Cameo Room hostessed by Mrs. Fred E. Tucker Jr. and members of her committee.

Guests proceeded to the ballroom through a breezeway banked by ferns and greenery and emphasized by statuesque topiary trees abloom with white gardenias.

* * * *

OFFICIALLY offering league greetings at the door were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Exley and Dr. and Mrs. William Rhorer. Mrs. Exley, president of the league, wore a floor length gown of emerald green peau de soie while Mrs. Rhorer, general chairman of the ball, selected a gown of floating blue chiffon. Honor greeter in absentia was Mrs. Melvin Campbell, founder of the Long Beach Chapter of the league, who is on an extended vacation in Europe.

Proceeds from the ball will go toward support of the league's two girls clubs.

Princess Lee Radziwill
... Jackie's kid sister ...

JACKIE'S KID SISTER

Transatlantic Beauty

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Mistress of one of London's most exquisite smaller homes, one of the world's best-dressed women, and a gracious hostess — that's Princess Lee Radziwill. The fact that her brother-in-law happens to be President of the United States hasn't affected her life very much, except for 28 hectic hours.)

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Even if her sister were not America's first lady, Princess Lee Radziwill would be a standout, a quiet but sure dazzler in the brightest of company.

At 28, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's younger sister is an elegantly dressed, soft voiced, transatlantic beauty, slightly uncomfortable in the glare of unsought publicity.

Resident in London for the past eight years, she was nestling on a solid little perch in international society before the American people voted her brother-in-law into the White House.

* * * *

"IT'S NOT that I want to appear elusive, or uncooperative," she said in her slow, almost breathless way of talking, "but . . ."

She hesitated for a moment.

"I shrink from talking about myself because I believe that a person should have accomplished something on her own before she starts giving interviews."

Princess Lee has accomplished much in her own way.

She's the mother of two beautiful children, the happy wife of Prince Stanislas Radziwill, son of an ancient Polish family which for generations has been intermarrying with the Hohenzollerns and Romanovs.

She runs one of London's most beautiful small homes, furnishing it and keeping it with immaculate taste.

She is a gracious hostess with many friends who never seems ill at ease in any company.

And she succeeded in persuading the President to stay privately in her London home, rather than accepting more elaborate and official hospitality.

* * * *

SHE POSTPONED from month to month the christening of her second child, until a time when President Kennedy could come to London to become the tot's godfather.

Princess Lee has also been elected one of the best-dressed women in the world, a development on which her comment is:

"I can't imagine how I got on the list."

She got on because she has that beautiful coloring, that way of wearing clothes that make her look well dressed no matter what she's wearing.

Her wardrobe is uncomplicated. She wears clothes to the season, but never trick clothes. She favors black accessories.

She wears her dark hair in a firm bouffant, and it sweeps back in a graceful curve to the nape of her neck.

Her cheek bones are high, like her sister's. Her dark eyes are set apart, but not so wide apart as Jacqueline's.

Like the lady in the White House, Lee's mouth is a cupid's bow—but a longer, narrower bow than Mrs. Kennedy's.

The Princess' figure is trimmer and Lee is an ever-so-slightly toned down, or more finely drawn, version of her 32-year-old sister.

* * * *

BEING CLOSE to America's first family, she obviously does not like to discuss her relatives in Washington, but to the question, "Has Mr. Kennedy's becoming President made any difference in your life?" she replied:

"Not really, I suppose. We go along about as usual . . ." She smiled again. . . . "I'm not referring to those 28 hours that he spent here."

"Were they hectic?"

"In what way do you mean?"

"Did we — did the press give you much trouble?"

"Of course the telephone rang all night and day, but we rather expected that. No. Everyone was awfully nice, I think."

* * * *

PRINCESS LEE eyed the clock above the antique fireplace in her Georgian home, located in a quiet backwater close to Buckingham Palace.

"It's 12 o'clock," she said. "Wouldn't you like a drink?"

The butler was only calling distance away, but she mixed the drinks herself and sat back on a sofa in her living room, furnished in antique French furniture.

"How do you prefer being called?"

"How do you mean?"

"Princess Lee, or Princess Radziwill, or Princess Lee Radziwill?"

"Oh, Princess Lee Radziwill will do."

She said it as if she

COEDS TELL WHAT'S HEP WHERE

Here's How to Make the Grade, Fashion Cum Laude

—Photos by Ken Henderson

FASHION WITH A FLARE for back-to-campus set, here modeled by Nancy Nickel, junior at Seattle University. Reminiscent of "Roaring Twenties," dress is all-wool jersey with satin trim; features wandering waistline, flared skirt.

By MARY ELLIS
L-T Fashion Editor

So you're going to college?

Then it's time to take a studied view of what's hep on the campus of your choice. Remember: what's "in" in Wisconsin may be "way out" at Marymount.

True, some teen-age fads (short skirts, trench coats, long-long sweaters, hair bows and circle pins) are "the most," coast to coast. But others (blast jackets, leotards, long sweat shirts) have strictly local acceptance.

So to give college-bound gals a send off in style, we asked a group of seasoned college sharpies to give us the low-down on what's "high fashion" at their respective colleges.

BLOND, BUBBLY Nancy Nickel, junior at Seattle University, says, like Caesar's Gaul, a girl's college wardrobe is clearly divided into three parts: classroom and study clothes; outdoor, street, sports clothes; and party clothes.

At Seattle, says she, the girls are up-to-the-minute in styles, but subdued. The sloppy-casual look (dirty sneakers, droopy sweat shirts) is out; the neater look is in.

Musts: short skirts, non-bulky sweaters (they fit better under heavy coats), kahki raincoat, heels and gloves for shopping or lunching downtown, pleated skirts (no gathered skirts), lots of scarves (rainproof silks are good for protection from the elements), capris rather than Bermudas.

Also popular: culottes, big handbags (straw ones year 'round), penny loafers with nylons, soap and water saddles with ankle socks, white wool blazers, fake fur coats, flowers (fresh, yet) in hair year 'round, basic dresses and suits for dates.

Leave at home: leotards, formal dresses, clutch purses, galoshes, big petticoats.

HOODS ARE GOOD

Parka coats and hooded sweaters are tops among college crowd; are especially smart with Bermudas, bulky knits.

BROWN-TRESSED, dewey-eyed Diane George, who attended Stephens last year, an exclusive women's college at Columbia, Mo., notes "there's a wide variation in dress at women's colleges, influenced both by background or financial status of students and climate of the region."

At Stephens, climate makes the difference, says she. On the "absolute must" list: warm winter coat (fake furs are good), snow boots, bulky sweaters, long woolen pants (permitted for cross-campus jaunts on cold-cold days), trench coat, scarves.

Culottes dominate the skirt scene (knee or above-knee length), tennis shoes are standard, otherwise flats or loafers. Knee and mid-calf socks are in; bobby socks are out. Umbrellas go on every trip to town.

Heels and nylons are required subjects in the dining room every evening. Dorm wear features muu muus and furry slippers.

Dressy sports clothes with flats go dating Friday nights; basic dress-up sheaths or flares with heels on Saturday. "It's an old Stephens custom," says Diane.

Another Stephens trademark (many other campuses, too): sun-glasses indoors and out, day and night.

FOR COLLEGE TEMPO, UCLA, Charlene Voorhees says the "classy" look includes hooded sweaters, Bermuda skirts and wool short culottes; all worn with leotards, Bermuda socks, tennis shoes in every color.

Also "hep": pleated skirts, white blouses, ski-type headbands, "Parka" coats, non-frilly date dresses with smooth, sleek look; trench coats in mannish style, khaki color; shirtmaker dresses, especially in paisley prints.

"Have a good silk dress," says Charlene. "And take along a large purse (handy for carrying books)."

For dressy occasions and "dates on the town," two-tiered foxes in gray and white are popular; also cashmeres, fox-trimmed or mink-trimmed.

"EVERYTHING IS above the knees in Utah," says Joan Hayes, student at Brigham Young University. Gored and flared skirts (short, of course) tweeds and other woolens are more popular than pleated styles.

To out-smart changeable weather, Joan recommends reversible and/or zip-lining coats that can be dressed up or down; also snowboots, preferably black or navy. (Many girls bring skis).

Also popular: cut-off jeans, sweatshirts and capris for off-campus wear.

In general, whether you're entering a big university on the other side of the continent or here in Long Beach, your way of dressing should be your first "entrance examination."

Study wardrobe needs in terms of your figure, the kind of school you've chosen, its climate and campus activities.

With the proper preparation, every to-be coed can make the grade, fashion cum laude.

THE GREEKS had a word for it: tunic. But Diane George, who attended Stephens last year (will enter USC this fall), says it's "ginchiest new look of all" for after-class leisure hours. Fringed pancho is all-wool knit; pants, also knit, have side zippers. (Fashions available locally.)

Expect 400 to Attend Labor Meet

Esther Peterson, who last week was sworn in as assistant secretary of labor, will be keynote speaker at the Western Regional Conference on Problems and Prospects of Working Women slated Sept. 8 and 9 on the USC campus.

Mrs. Peterson, who also is director of the Women's Bureau, Department of Labor, will speak at the opening banquet Friday in Town and Gown foyer at 7 p.m.

* * * *

REGISTRATION is slated in Marks Hall Lounge from 5 to 6:30 p.m. More than 400 delegates representing labor, civic and professional organizations interested in problems relating to the working woman are expected.

Persons interested in attending are invited to make reservations by writing to Working Women's Conference, P.O. Box 5788, Metropolitan Station, Los Angeles, 55. The $10 registration covers cost of the Friday banquet, Saturday luncheon and attendance at all sessions.

couldn't have cared less.

"I was born Caroline Lee Bouvier," she said as she placed a cigarette in a long white holder, "but I've always been called Lee—and I hate it."

* * * *

THE FORMER Caroline Lee Bouvier came to London eight years ago as the wife of Michael T. Canfield, then secretary to Winthrop Aldrich, United States Ambassador.

That marriage ended in divorce.

Then Caroline, or Lee, met Prince Radziwill, a tall, broad-shouldered handsome man whose first marriage had been formally annulled by the church.

Now a naturalized British subject, the mustached, dark-haired prince arrived in London after World War II from Switzerland, where he had performed ably in raising funds for the Red Cross.

A hard worker, and obviously a splendid salesman, he was soon in the London real estate business. He entered it before the present boom and reportedly is doing quite well.

DURING THE presidential campaign, when Princess Lee was expecting a baby, the Radziwills went to the United States where both worked for the election of John F. Kennedy.

"There are an awful lot of Poles in America," said Princess Lee, "and I think he must have spoken to most of them."

Princess Lee had to interrupt her campaigning to hurry to a hospital in New York where her baby was born prematurely.

Today, little Anna Christina is looking and feeling fine.

With the President as her godfather, she was christened on June 5.

After the christening, the Prince and Princess invited scores of their friends to their 18th century home to see the baby and meet the President.

Among those present was another Prince Radziwill, Anthony George Nicholas, cousin of Lee's husband, and known to many Londoners as Toto, a waiter in a Chelsea restaurant.

Remaining an American citizen, Princess Lee lives on in London, one of the most beautiful members of a social set that includes some very beautiful women.

Party Heralds Horse Show

RUFFLED CAPS and bathing middies worn by (left) Sherry Davidson, Mrs. Douglas H. Shaw and Mrs. Joseph J. Ventura, remind Mrs. William Hancock that she'd better be looking ahead to past styles for coming "Pony Island" Promenade. Event, a beach party keyed to Gay Nineties, will take place at Abalone Cove, Portuguese Bend, Sept. 22, as lively forerunner to two-day Portuguese Bend National Horse Show, Sept. 23 and 24.—(Staff photo.)

music of a caliope, a whirling carousel, a seaside boardwalk bright with lights.

Those are just a few of the fun-filled gay-90s attractions to be offered at this year's debut party for the 1961 Portuguese Bend National Horse Show.

The party, a "Pony Island" promenade, will take place Sept. 22 at Abalone Cove, a picturesque small private cove in Portuguese Bend, where smugglers once brought their cargo in the days of the Spanish dons.

Festivities will take place on the terraces that lie along the sand. Costume for the evening will be the sporty attire that the gay blades and their Gibson Girls wore at the turn of the century.

* * * *

MONEY from the party, presented by the sponsoring Palos Verdes Peninsula Committee of the Children's Hospital, will benefit the building fund of the hospital.

Mrs. Rubel McKelvey and Mrs. Albert W. Day are chairmen of the event. Mrs. James Franks is president of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The promenade precedes the horse show which takes place Sept. 23 at 9 a.m. and Sept. 24 at 10 a.m. in the Portuguese Bend Riding Club, Narcissa Drive, Portuguese Bend.

Mrs. Harry H. Welzel Jr. aand Mrs. Andrew D. Shaw are chairmen of the horse show, which will also benefit Children's Hospital.

More than 600 entries are expected to compete in the two-day event. Allen Ross will be manager and announcer for the show.

* * * *

SPECIAL EVENTS will include the appearance both days of the Golden Horse Quadrille," a nationally known riding group whose Palomino mounts perform intricate square dance routines.

The all-junior show Sept. 23 will have three medal classes among the 18 classes competing. The open show Sept. 24 will have eight stake classes competing, along with classes of hunters, jumpers, Shetland ponies and Arabian horses.

Martin Bogdanovich Weds

A recent marriage of wide interest in Southland circles is that of Martin Joseph Bogdanovich, son of the Joseph James Bogdanovichs of Rolling Hills, and Korleen Ann Dillabough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Dillabough of Philadelphia, Pa., at Valley Forge, Pa.

The bridegroom is the grandson of prominent longtime residents of the area, Mrs. Roland G. Swaffield of Rolling Hills and late Mr. Swaffield, and the late Martin J. Bogdanovichs, former residents of San Pedro.

He was graduated from Chadwick School and Brown University, R. I., where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta. He now is attending Wharton Graduate School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania.

The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory peau de soie with bodice of Alencon lace and a full court train. Her veil of illusion fell from a cap of silk roses, and she carried a cascade of roses and stephanotis.

BLUSH PINK taffeta gowns and ivy circlets for their hair were chosen for attendants, Kay Kristine Anderson, Mrs. Larz Kennedy Anderson, Mrs. Edward S. Bromage, Judith L. Wright, Diana D. Logan and Elizabeth D. Wistar.

Robert Roland Bogdanovich was his brother's best man. Ushers were Joseph James Bogdanovich Jr., Kenneth Dillabough, Leslie Smith, James Masters, Ronald Laraneta, Hugh Conover, John Holland and Richard Abbott with Gilbert Chase and Ens. Russell Preston Jr., USN, as honorary ushers. A reception followed at Philadelphia Country Club.

Mrs. Martin J. Bogdanovich

The new Mrs. Bogdanovich was graduated from Pembroke College in Brown University. Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds will reside in Philadelphia.

Attending will be Mmes. Kenneth Newton, Thaysen Schwalbe, Tom Christensen, Edward Len and Miss Geri Robinett, members of North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, and their coordinator, Mrs. John Garrels.

Bosses' Wives to Be Spotlighted

Executives' Secretaries, Inc., of Long Beach will fete their bosses' wives Monday evening with a cruise aboard the SS Princess, dinner at the Ports O' Call and a fashion gala, according to President Dorothy Thompson.

The wives will return the compliment by serving as some of the models in the presentation of "Fashions a la Americana," a show produced expressly for them by Buffums' and commentated by John Hersey, fashion coordinator.

Roster of the models includes Mmes. Edwin W. Wade, David Tallichet, Myrl Ott, Vaile G. Young, Ray Lake, Verna Larsen, Misses Agnes Herbst and Suzie Bond.

* * * *

WEARING everything from formal evening fashions to spectator sportswear, they will bring to life the new fit-and-flare silhouette as expressed by America's leading designers, the splendor of Arthurian-inspired pageantry colors, the easy-going ways of 'round-the-calendar knits, all expressive of the casual elegance synonymous with the Southern California mode of living.

* * * *

ARRANGEMENTS for this gala evening are the coordinated efforts of Violet Dovey, program director; Connie Richards, Buffums', and Mary Filiatrault, Point Pacific Co. The cruise and cocktails are by courtesy of David Tallichet and Banjo, Inc. Mary H. Cuso of Pipe Linings, Inc., will be introduced as a new member by Martha Belof, Ridings Motors.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

While Women's Editor Iola Masterson is on vacation this column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

Late this morning many a youthful belle will sniff her slightly wilted nosegay, admire once again her shining gold medallion, and sigh in happy retrospect over last evening's glamorous Assistance League Ball when she was formally presented to society with elegance and fanfare.

"Home at Dawn"

The memorable once-in-a-lifetime event finally drew to a close when the nine charmers and their escorts went on a pre-dawn breakfast in the charming tea house of Dorothy and Harry Formans' garden at 1425 La Perla. The Formans entertained with Libby and Bill Spawr; the couples being parents of debs Linda Forman and Sharon Spawr.

* * * *

AND NOW for another group of young women who have their debuts in prospect at the Junior League's holiday ball on Dec. 27. They've been bidden by Norma and John Craig for a fun agenda this afternoon which includes swimming in their pool and a picnic supper. The girls, plus their dates, have been invited from 4 to 7 p.m.

In introducing-people and passing-things roles will be Audrey and Harold Romeyn (Audrey is Mrs. Ball Chairman, herself), Helen and Clare Hamman and Virginia and Bill Stanton.

* * * *

HAPPIEST romantic news of the week is the surprise announcement of the forthcoming wedding of Julie Woodard and Greg Lawson on Sept. 7.

Julie's parents, Mildred and Sam Cameron, have been in Florida and return today, hence leaving the family of the bride exactly 1½ weeks preparation time. This we're confident they can do in great style, but we don't expect to see any of them sitting around languidly reading a good book.

Greg's parents are Janice and Howard Lawson of San Marino, former localites.

Julie and Greg have been a twosome for several years, so maybe we shouldn't say that the announcement is a total surprise. They'll be wed in Our Savior's Lutheran Church with reception at the Virginia Country Club. Thence they go to Santa Barbara where they'll continue their education, he at UC, and she at CC.

DOWN AT Sunset Beach they made an outstanding haul last week. Digging around in the sands they were unearthing buried treasures like sixty. Among the startling booty was a can of sardines, bottle of hair spray and a cute little chest filled with pesos.

You might well say that you can't be bothered digging for stuff like that. A point well taken. However, if you'd gone to the shipwreck party at Dick Chance's and Tom McBride's you'd doubtless have vied with the best of 'em.

The Bachelorettes actually gave the party which began with volleyball and swimming and wound up with a great barbecued turkey dinner. (Note this, fellas — these girls are mighty handy in the kitchen). Pat Brinkerhoff, general chairman, was warmly lauded for the decor by all the strange and wonderfully clad guests.

We heard that the egg throwing contest was won by MaryLou Sparbel and Ed Braden. Seems to us, being the cautious type, that if you win you lose at that type of thing.

* * * *

WE HAVE TO hurry and tell you about this banquet, y'understand, because we said we'd help get some of those Whittier College alums off the dime so they'd send in reservations for the banquet.

It's not until Sept. 7, but the alums haven't been very active the past few years, and it takes time for alums —you know how they procrastinate — to get re-activated.

Their whingding is to be at Alfred's Restaurant, according to Don Wells (he's new prez for alums in this area), and absolutely everybody who ever went to Whittier will be there. F'instance, Paul Smith, president of the college, will be on hand to describe latest campus developments, and John Godfrey, head football coach, will bring the lowdown on this year's Poets' team.

Call Willa Gilmore or Joan Seymour about reservations, and just say that Wild Waves sent you!

THEY HAD a luau Saturday night at Barney and Maraleigh Shannons' in College Park Estates, and they faithfully followed the highly successful script for such evenings, with Hawaiian costumes, delicious foods, etc., so we won't repeat on that.

They had different cohosts from some scripts, i. e., Dean and Marlene O'Hare, and they had Barney's gutbucket which is strictly cool and different.

He upends a washtub, pulls an old rope or clothesline through a hole bored in the bottom and secures it with a mop handle. Sounds kind of like a bass viol and the 50 or so guests loved it. Among those beating it out with Barney were noted Jimmie and Joanne Gray, Don and Sandy Gill, Andy and Winona Anderson, George and Joan Gehring and Monica and Jim McBride.

THERE'LL BE Matthews to the right and Matthews to the left, with a couple of furriners named Harris thrown in at a big celebration party today honoring Mrs. Norma Matthews on the proud milestone occasion of her 85th birthday.

Those Harrises (William T. J., that is) infiltrated because Norma Harris was formerly Norma Matthews, and, in fact, they're giving the party at their Santiago Avenue abode.

Clan members gathering (all Matthews) will be Bob and Helen with son, Don. Thousand Oaks; Harold and Anieta; Jim and Rosalie plus Suzy; Chuck and Nina with Peggy and Judy. Missing will be grandson Bob Jr., who with his wife, Justine, is a little far afield in Okinawa.

Golfers Trekking on Down to Swing at Indian Club

There's a gang of avid golfers who play once a month on different courses, and have dinner afterwards followed by a friendly game of cards. This month they're getting into their plus-fours and picking up some new golf balls to tide them over for four days at the Prescott invitational at Hassayampa Country Club. (You've heard about Indian clubs—sounds like we've got a real live one here).

"Watchum Drivin'"

Anyway they're leaving Thursday and are taking the little woman along, by gad, like the gallant crew they are. If the gals want to play they have to go to another course, but they don't care.

Here's a list of those sporty fellows and their spouses—Susie and Norm Meager, Francine and Larry Collins, Julia and Bill Cheney, Bev and Dick Matlock, Ginny and Bob Hall, Margaret and Bob Sully, Mary and Bob Lintz, Marcia and Ty Ellis, Bonnie and Mike Cunningham, Mimi and Bernie Wishney, Betty and Larry Hunt, Hazel and Bub Crow, Joanne and Bill Dummit and Vera and George Chalmers.

'The Blacks' Is 'Hot' Ticket

Jean Genet's "The Blacks" has become, in theatre parlance, a "hot" ticket. The show, which premiered Off Broadway in early May, has moved into the front ranks as one of New York's top sell-out attractions.

Called "A Clown Show" by its author, the striking all-Negro drama symbolically deals with the universal problem of the reactions of people of different color to one another. It has been playing to capacity houses the entire summer.

COUNTER ACTION

Off on Busman's Holiday

By MARY NETH

When the woman of the house takes a day off from kitchen duty and household chores, where does she head?

Surprisingly enough, you'll find her often as not in the household section of her favorite store. Seems that seeing what's new in kitchen and home gadgets holds almost as much attraction as does trying on the latest hats.

So, for the housewife planning a housewife-holiday, here are a few items we've already spotted in a local housewares department.

UNDER $1.00

This plate holds the stuffing — in. When it comes time to sew up the bird, the cook can forget about needles, thread or skewers. Plate takes care of the job quickly. Skin of stuffed poultry is secured to hooks on sides and top of metal plate. Set includes three plates for all size birds, from three to 24 pounds.

* * * *

What's its line? Just to stay on the line. Plastic tag along clothes pin basket holds more than 100 pins; stays with you while you are hanging up the laundry. Easy to carry, it won't rust; can't fall off the line.

* * * *

Dry-frying (without fat) reduces budget and figure. New product is not an ingredient but a tasteless cooking aid. It does not spoil, needs no refrigeration. When thin film is spread on frying pan, baking dish or other cooking utensil, there's no worry about sticking. With a few drops, you can fry eggs, meats, even chicken and potatoes without greasing pan. Four ounce bottle lasts two to four months in average home. The fatless fat can be used on stainless steel, aluminumware, griddles, roasting pans, broiler racks and gelatine molds.

* * * *

Ovenly spray away. The chore of cleaning the oven is not so bad when new spray is used. It eliminates painting on and messy scrubbing off of other cleaners. Just a spray away and then wait, wipe away. The oven comes clean in a jiffy.

UNDER $2.00

Don't peel that potato. Hand operated ricer does job, skins and all. A time saver, it's made of aluminum and besides turning out excellent riced potatoes, it's fine for making home made apple sauce.

* * * *

Stackable bins have loads of uses. Of unbreakable plastic, they can be placed in cabinets or under sink counters for storage of everything from potatoes and tomatoes to tools and toys. Each is 7½ inches wide, 3½ inches long and 7⅛ inches high. They're easy to clean and are sold individually.

UNDER $3.00

It's a handy kitchen foursome in one. Rectangular, covered dish with inset grater, slicer and shredder makes each job easy and keeps kitchen counter neat. Dish has handy handle; is of plastic boilproof, unbreakable material. Can be used for refrigerator storage too.

UNDER $10.00

A cooking convertible. Bright yellow utensil serves as two quart casserole with top up. With top down it is a saucepan without cover. Top itself is eight inch skillet. Of porous cast iron with porcelain finish, Belgian ware can be used in oven, on burner or put in refrigerator. Excellent gift for newlywed who has too few pots and pans.

DEAR ABBY

Curlers Curl HIS Hair!

DEAR ABBY: Sunday is the only full day my boy friend and I have together. It is also the day I like to wash and set my hair.

He told me one time that he didn't like to see me with a "headful of iron," as he put it. My hair is very straight, and I have to use those large rollers. Well, last Sunday he blew his stack. He came over and I had those rollers in my hair, so he left early and went bowling with a boy friend.

ABBY

Abby, we are getting married in four months, and he will have to get used to seeing me with a headful of iron. He thinks my hair looks beautiful when it is all done, so I can't understand his objections. We are both very stubborn. Is there a solution to my problem?—"IRON HEAD."

DEAR IRON: Wash and set your hair in the morning when your boy friend isn't around. And use one of those portable electric hand dryers (they aren't expensive) to dry it quickly. DON'T insist on shoving those rollers down his throat or you'll be the prettiest old maid on the block.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a very upsetting one. I can't match colors for the life of me. I thought I could match colors pretty well, but I guess I can't, because almost everytime I go out in public, someone says something about the way my colors clash. Is there some rule I can go by? I am getting so self-conscious about this that I don't want to wear anything but all black.—"COLOR BLIND."

DEAR COLOR BLIND: Perhaps you ARE "color blind." Have your eyes tested for color perception. If they are all right (even if they are not), buy "ensembles" with the guidance of a sales person, and wear the outfits together, as you bought them.

DEAR ABBY: We have trained our children never to address an adult by his first name, but always by "Mr." or "Mrs." We have some neighbors who have a little girl the age of our daughter. Our daughter is at their home a great deal. The child's mother has asked our daughter to please call her HILDA. Now, our daughter is confused. She doesn't think it is right to call this woman HILDA, but when she calls her MRS. F—, the woman corrects her and asks her to please call her HILDA. How should we handle this?—STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: Tell your daughter to address adults by "Mr." or "Mrs." unless asked to be addressed otherwise.

— ★ ★ — ★

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

King Is Hindrance

The doctrine of divine right of kings has never applied at the bridge table. The king can do lots of wrong.

Now take a look at the West and North hands only and defend against South's three no-trump contract.

You open the five of spades and South wins the trick with the jack. This should tell you that he started with exactly the king, jack and ten of the suit. If he held a low spade, he would surely have let dummy hold the trick. If your partner held a high spade, he would have played it.

	NORTH 28 ♠ 98 ♥ 532 ♦ 109876 ♣ 653
WEST ♠ AQ654 ♥ J7 ♦ K4 ♣ J972		EAST ♠ 732 ♥ Q9864 ♦ Q5 ♣ 1084
	SOUTH (D) ♠ KJ10 ♥ AK10 ♦ AJ32 ♣ AKQ

No one vulnerable

South	West	North	East
3 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ 5

Now South slaps the ace of diamonds on the table and your king of diamonds becomes a problem child. It will be a sure trick if you hang on to it, but maybe you ought to throw it away and hope for your partner to show up with the queen.

* * * *

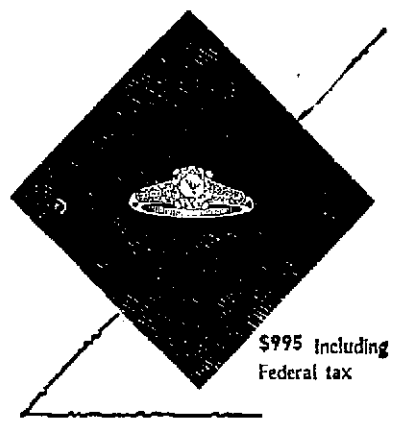

YOU DO a little point counting and, after adding your 11 to the 24 to 26 shown by South, you mark your partner with from 3 to 5 high card points.

He could actually hold an ace in which case you should save your king of diamonds, but it is much more reasonable to assume that he will have a couple of queens so you drop your king of diamonds and hope for the best.

Looking at all the hands you see that your king of diamonds play has been the winner. Your partner will get in with the queen and a spade lead will set the hand.

Keep Warm

The printed pique jacket is another answer to the problem of what to wear when the air conditioning cools you off. Some styles are collarless.

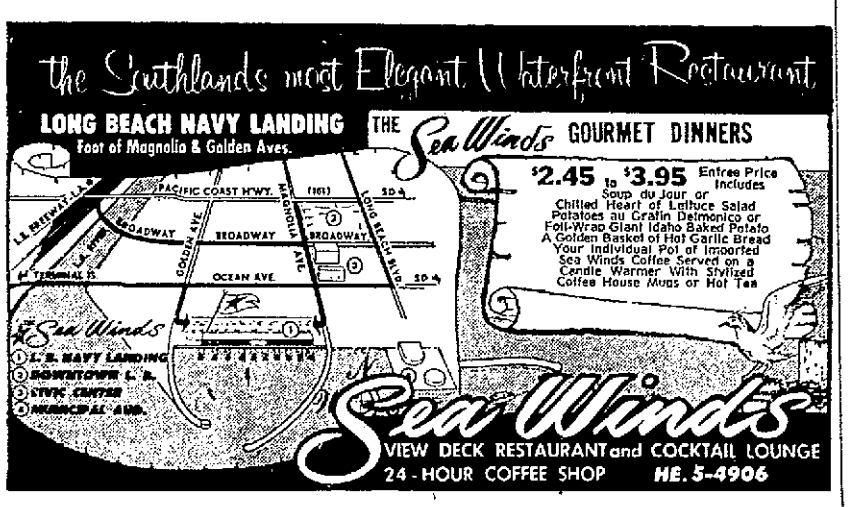

Quality is Paramount

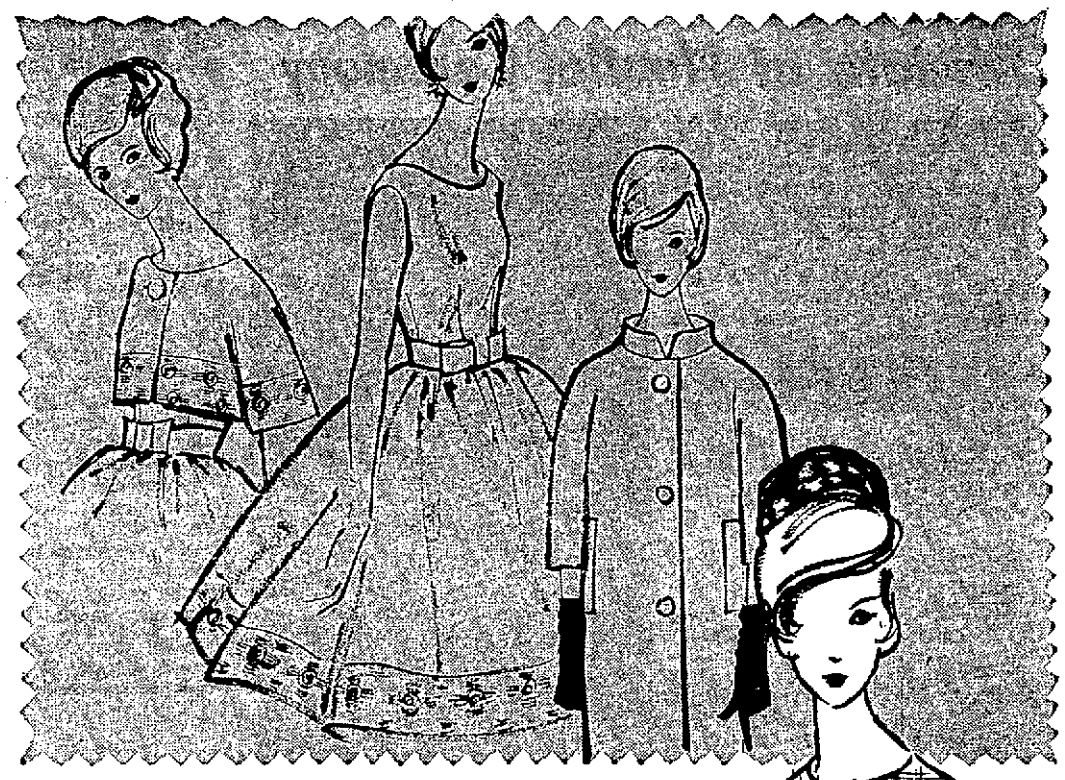

In this diamond - quality so fine that it is apparent to the untrained eyel Exquisitely mounted in round prongs with graduated side diamonds for a graceful and rich effect.

Our Security Is in Their Hands

By MARY NETH
I. P-T Women's Staff

When dedicated fliers at March Field take to the sky in atomic-bomb-loaded planes, they won't expect to see home or family again.

For such a flight would mean World War III and the men who man our jet bombers have little hope that California would be spared in an all-out nuclear war.

They hope instead that they'll continue to fly unloaded bombers on purely practice flights and the loaded planes will never leave the runway.

No bomb shelters for them!

Operating on the principle that the best defense is a good offense, they're not putting their money in underground protection.

Should a true bomb-run be called, their mission will have failed.

That's what this reporter learned on a recent news junket to SAC (Strategic Air Command) base near Riverside.

* * * *

WHAT IS the SAC mission? The 15-year-old military force has two goals: to prevent war by show of strength and in case of war to destroy the enemy's war-making capability.

Its motto is "Peace is our Profession."

But no group of men ever worked harder to prepare for something they don't want to happen.

They are on alert around the clock and can take-off in minute's notice.

And they all but did just that while this and other members of the press stood by.

* * * *

FOLLOWING a briefing by Col. Ross Annis, the visitors were shown the airmen's living quarters and recreational area.

Then the alert siren sounded and reporters scrambled to get out of the way as pilots and crew sped down the runway in cars and on foot. In three and a half minutes the jets were ready to go. It was a fast few minutes.

Shouting above the roar of the jet motors, Col. Annis pointed out that just one of the revved-up B-47s held enough atomic power to completely destroy a city the size of Los Angeles.

"That's a lot of destruction sitting there," he said.

Who could help but agree?

* * * *

THE BASE at March Field is one of more than 65 in the world, including 45 in the United States. Connected by the fastest communication system in the world —the famous red telephone network — SAC can have bombers in the air simultaneously from all runways within a maximum warning time of 15 minutes.

And time is the threat.

With Moscow only 30 minutes away from Los Angeles by missile, the 15 alert planes at March Field must be ready to go in half that time.

Now with the crisis in Berlin, the operation is being speeded up even more. Instead of having one-third the force on constant alert, SAC is following President Kennedy's orders and keeping one-half its staff always standing by.

This means that the Air Force men, most of whom are married, must spend seven days on 24-hour duty beside their planes.

* * * *

WHAT DOES SAC consist of in the way of atomic war equipment? The mainstays of the mixed bomber and missile force are the B-47 and B-52 jets.

"One bomb dropped from these planes will equal all the bombs dropped during World War II," said Col. Annis. "It's a very lethal weapon."

SAC's newest aircraft include the B-58 Hustler, a supersonic jet bomber capable of speeds up to 1,300 miles per hour and the B-70 Valkyrie, which flies three times the speed of sound and may someday replace the B-52.

Two kinds of nuclear missile, Hound Dog, with a range of approximately 600 miles, and Skybolt, with about double the range, are carried by the planes.

In addition SAC has a number of supersonic pilotless missiles which are being integrated into the bombardment units, including the Atlas, a liquid-fuel ICBM, and the Minuteman (the missile of the future), America's first solid-fuel ICBM—which can be fired from underground blast-proof silos.

* * * *

SAC IS DEFINITELY a far cry from the dress style of similar name — it's no fad.

From it's Command Post located in an underground labyrinth of rooms and equipment 10 miles south of Omaha, Neb., it maintains an around-the-clock monitor of forces all over the world.

Everything is checked, double-checked and checked again. Radar equipment is constantly being improved and the communication set-up has been worked out so there is no danger of a false alarm resulting in a globe shattering war without cause.

"Even should the planes leave the ground, they would not go beyond a set point, or drop a bomb, until each received further direct orders," said Col. Annis.

* * * *

HOW ABOUT the men who work so closely with the deadly nuclear war equipment? Do they worry about the future?

Those who chatted with the reporters didn't seem to at first. They are just as interested in the schooling of their children and the future of their families as anyone else.

But several admited they'd lots rather be up there in a plane, than down here in a shelter if anything should happen.

And they don't altogether eliminate the possibility that it could.

"The next global war would only last three days or so," said Col. Annis. But to the families of the men who fly the SAC planes, as well as the rest of us, that's a bit of information that's far from reassuring.

Let's hope, as do the men of SAC, that the time never comes for them to take-off for real.

Frozen Hose a Thrifty Dessert

Housewives can get longer life from frozen nylons. But its a do-it-yourself project. Place the new stockings in a refrigerator tray, cover with cold water and freeze until solid. Let them thaw slowly. Rinse and dry. Advocates say that stockings thus treated outlast three pairs of unfrozen hose.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Is Honeymoon Over?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

The honeymoon is over, that's for sure. We've only been married for six months, and Mary Jane is already tired of me.

I love her as passionately as ever, but she grows cooler every day. Now she doesn't want me to kiss her in front of peopple. She likes to sit up and read late at night when she knows I have to get up early and I like her to come to bed when I do.

She gets up and gets my breakfast, it's true, but there's no purring and cooing the way there used to be. She says I'm "too ardent," and that one can't be in a lovey-dovey mood all the time.

I remind her that's not the way she talked when we first married, and she says you can't expect a honeymoon to last forever. Why not? If she still felt the way she did at first we'd still be having a honeymoon. If I feel that way, why can't she?—WORRIED JOE?

DEAR WORRIED JOE:

Face it, pal, honeymoons just DON'T last forever, and a good thing, too! If they lasted on and on, just think, you'd never have a chance at that "second honeymoon" —which, believe me, can be just as ecstatic as a first one, and frequently more fun.

And there can be third and fourth, etc., honeymoon, too. So don't try to prolong the first one. Simmer down. Cool off. Mary Jane's ardor isn't gone for good. Right now is a good time to dampen yours.

A low flame burns longer. —M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

People can talk about their trouble with teenagers, but try chaperoning a 76-year-old great grandfather!

My mother-in-law went to Europe with two lady friends and left Pop at home. We promised to look in on him every day—and we have.

The apartment is a shambles. He has friends in almost every night and they drink and play poker. At least nights when he is home. He takes young women out to dinner, and on two occasions we know about has brought them home for a nightcap.

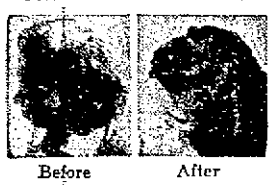

My husband got after him and Pop just laughed and said, "Why not? Your ma is over there in foreign parts kicking up her heels. Guess I can do the same right here!"

My mother-in-law is due back next week, so Pop is simmering down a little now. We dread telling her how he has acted. My husband thinks we should, but I'm wondering.—FRAN

DEAR FRAN:

Why should you? This marriage has lasted a good long time. Don't you think it has a better chance of lasting on without any well-meant interference?—M. M.

Oils Vary in Quality at New LBAA Exhibit

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The oil painting show in the Long Beach Art Association Galleries in the Villa Riviera opens today with a reception from 1 to 9 p.m. While the caliber of the works is uneven and the all-over tenor of the show lacks sparkle, those paintings which are good are very, very good.

Head and shoulders above the others is the head and shoulders of "Fisherman" by Ed Rugels. Its mood of massive brooding is conveyed in a gorgeous harmony of greyed blue, green and orange in a free technique which conveys many layers of subjective expression.

* * * *

"MATILDA" by Neva Smith is real fun in its primitive treatment of a primitive lady in her billowing best out for a stroll in the forest primeval.

Wanda Morgan's "Meditation" is that seldom-found thing, a tasteful and unhackneyed treatment of waves breaking in a small bay. Her color and method of application leave little to be desired. The painting would have been even more successful had she resisted the impulse to put a human figure in the pensive seascape.

* * * *

"LUNAMIST" is hung in show on its own merits, the more remarkable because its author, Lloyd Pazik, is a member of the occupational therapy group at the Veterans Hospital who are honorary members of the Art Association. Like "Meditation," the subject, moonlight reflected in the waves, has been done times without number, but something in the artist's vision saves this one from the ordinary.

Monochromatic treatment of "Antiqued Still Life" in shades of orange by Marie Bucher is an unusual treatment of bottles, pitchers, goblets and spoons in a delightful harmony of both color and composition.

One corner, called the "Little Gallery" holds a charming array of small works at little price by such fine artists as Grace Dimmick, Margaret Bradbury, Jim Green and others.

Family 'Pop' Program Set

Italy will be the theme of a Patio "Pop" Concert, Tuesday at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., at 8 p.m.

"Venice Theme and Variations," a film of Venice as seen by generations of artists from the 13th century to the present, and "Land of Enchanted Fountains," will be shown.

Recordings played will be "Fountains of Rome" by Respighi Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting.

The public is invited to this family program. There is no admission charge.

Artists Await Prize Awards

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Artists from San Diego to Santa Barbara — 179 of them—await announcement of winners in the 1961 Annual Exhibition of Artists of Los Angeles and Vicinity which goes on view Wednesday at Los Angeles County Muscum.

Names will be announced during an 8 p.m. Museum Association reception and preview, open to the public, Tuesday evening. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 1.

Winners of the 16 prize awards, totalling more than $3,000, were chosen by a jury of three art authorities who selected the 180 art works to be displayed from 2,394 entries submitted by 1,452 artists. On the jury were Una E. Johnson, curator of prints, Brooklyn Museum; Misch Kohn, leading American printmaker from Chicago; and William Seitz, associate curator at Museum of Modern Art, New York.

WHEN the "Arts of Denmark, from Viking to Modern," exhibit opens Sept. 28 in Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery, Barnsdall Park, it will occupy every inch of space in the gallery. Prehistoric stone age spears, harpoons and utilitarian objects foreshadow the design and elegance of 20th century furniture, glass, silver, ceramics, jewelry and textiles.

One of the world's oldest wind instruments, a six-foot "lurs", comes from the Bronze Age; jewelry, helmets and battle axes are reminders of intrepid Viking explorers.

A spectacular "golden altar" from Jutland church will be a high light of the medieval collection, and a life-sized figure of St. George slaying the dragon, dated around 1520, will dominate the gallery.

More than half of the display will be devoted to contemporary furniture and crafts, many created by leading artists and craftsmen to show new trends in Danish design.

OILS and water colors by Geneva Basinger, longtime Long Beach artist, may be seen at Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Ave., Saturday through Sept. 30. She will be honored at a reception in the library from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sept. 16.

A featured picture will show the Greek freighter "Dominator", on the rocks off Palos Verdes.

Mrs. Basinger and her husband reside at 3760 Olive Ave., where she maintains a studio. She has had numerous shows in the Southland area.

LONG BEACH Art Association sends a reminder that its annual art fair is being held today in Bixby Park from 1 to 6 p.m.

THE EXHIBITION of the permanent collection at Long Beach Museum of Art closes in part today. Works in the downstairs galleries will be cleared for the incoming exhibit, oil paintings by Noriko Yamamoto, to be shown from Sept. 3 through 24.

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA OPENS IN L.A. OCT. 27

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

The music critics of greater Los Angeles area honored Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera Company at a luncheon given at the Ambassador Hotel recently.

Kurt Adler is a soft-spoken man with many illuminating ideas. Originally from Vienna, he was for some time chorus master of the San Francisco Opera; when Gaetona Merola died, Adler took command of the company and it has flourished under his direction. He talked and we critics listened. He carefully went over the entire list of operas to be given at the Shrine Auditorium this fall, from Oct. 27 through Nov. 19.

THERE WILL BE three operas having their first Los Angeles performances: "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Benjamin Britten; "Nabucco" by Verdi and "Blood Moon" by Dello Joio. In two of these operas, "Blood Moon" and "Midsummer Night's Dream," our own Mary Costa will take the lead. She will also be heard in "Rigoletto" by Verdi as Gilda. Another favorite from our own home town is Marilyn Horne who will sing in "Fidelio" by Beethoven and in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

"Blood Moon," as Adler graphically described it, sounded most intriguing. It is the story of a mulatto girl, so light, that she is taken for a white person, thus incurring her love and life problems. The opera is being produced under the Ford Foundation program.

VERDI'S OPERA "Nabucco" is being revived with the famous baritone, Tozzi, a role in which he made his opera debut. It will have a special performance for the Festival of Faith and Freedom Foundation and the American-Italy Society of San Francisco when prices from $50 down will be privately subscribed. A repeat performance will be included in the regular season however.

Exciting interest was evidenced when Adler announced that the fabulous Australian soprano, Joan Sutherland, will sing the title role in "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti, in two performances.

FAMILIAR FAVORITES who are returning this season are Della Casa, Leontyne Price, sopranos; Katherine Hilgenberg and Irene Dalis, contraltos; Tozzi, Schoeffler, Evans, baritones; and Zampieri and Konya, tenors. The conductors will be Ludwig, Molinari-Pradelli and Varviso.

Pageant to Feature Spine-Chilling Dances

Los Voladores, the spine-chilling Aztec flyers who dance on a 24-inch platform 100 feet in the air, then circle to the ground on ropes, will highlight the Mexica, Kingdom of Fire, pageant opening in San Gabriel Sept. 3 for a two-week run.

The Aztec flyers will perform in the parking lot adjacent to the Mission Playhouse, 532 W. Mission Dr.

The Mexica pageant will feature songs, dances and other Mexican lore and will give in detail the story behind the centuries-old Los Voladores, the birdmen.

In the Mission Playhouse, the religious story of how the ancient Aztecs sent couriers into the woods to find a suitable tree for the Los Voladores flight will be presented by professional singers and dancers brought from Mexico by Lyric Theatre International, sponsor of the Mexica event.

Other dances, including the Aztec fire dance, the color-splashed quetzal and El Chileno, will be part of Mexica, Kingdom of Fire.

* * * *

MEXICA, Kingdom of Fire, will offer evening performances for a two-week run. There will also be matinee performances on Saturdays.

The Los Voladores performance is rooted deeply in Aztec culture. For the centuries-old "flying pole dance," a straight tree trunk is sunk deep into the ground.

The top of the shaft is fitted with a 24-inch, cap-like, revolving platform. To this is added a frame with ropes attached for the flyers.

The ceremony is believed to represent the Aztec century of 52 years; the dance was originally performed by four flyers who made 13 circles around the pole as they descended to the ground. Thus the four, multiplied by 13 equals 52—the number of years in the Aztec century.

* * * *

FOR IMPRESSIVENESS, two more flying-dancers were added in later years. The performances here may feature eight flyers, provided technical problems can be surmounted.

Pioneer show business figures in the Southland indicate that "Los Voladores" has never been performed in California. Although, audiences in other parts of the United States and in England have thrilled to the "escalofriente" (spine-chilling) birdmen and their graceful, 100-foot plunge to earth.

Last Week of Music at Bowl

Another wonderful season of "Symphonies Under the Stars" at the Hollywood Bowl goes into its final week on Tuesday when William Steinberg conducts the orchestra and Birgit Nilsson appears as soprano soloist.

On Thursday night Steinberg again conducts with soloists and a chorus.

"Folksongs Around the World" will lure a wide audience on Friday with The Weavers, Odetta, Bud Dashiel and the Kinsmen, and Dean Jones on the bill.

Saturday night the bill is a "Salute to Romberg" and promises a tuneful evening of hits.

Jane Powell, soprano, will be featured with Earl Wrightson, baritone, and Chris Lachona, tenor. Johnny Green will conduct the Bowl Pops Orchestra in such favorites as Student Prince," "Desert Song" and "New Moon."

On Stage--

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 5021 E. Anaheim St., "Ganoway," 7:45 p.m. Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

MAGNOLIA THEATRE, 7400 Magnolia Ave., "Marriage-Go-Round," 8 p.m., closes tonight.

OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 231 Lime Ave., 8 tonight, three original one-acts; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, "Li'l Abner."

Awards First Scholarship to Billy Tarpy

Billy Tarpy, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Tarpy, 236 Temple Ave., left Saturday for New York City to enroll with a full scholarship at the School of American Ballet. He will pursue advanced studies under a staff headed by George Balanchine.

Tarpy's trip was made possible by a special grant of $300 from the Scholarship Fund of Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association.

Harvey Waggoner, general manager of the association, announced that the executive committee voted to appropriate the money after careful consideration of letters written in Tarpy's behalf by outstanding Southern California teachers and choreographers.

James Boyd, association president, said, "We are proud to initiate our new scholarship program with this grant. We feel this is a demonstration of (our) contribution to the education and development of youthful talent in our community."

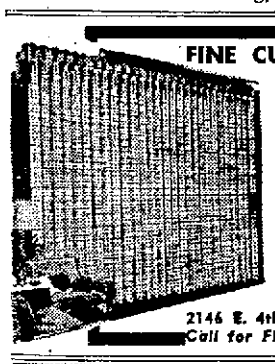

Attend Conclave

Two members of Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc. attended the AETA (American Educational Theatre Association) convention in New York City Thursday through Saturday. They are Miss Charlotte Shuman, 204 Ocean Ave., Seal Beach, and Mrs. Fritz Ruprecht, 40 63rd Place. Theme of the annual conclave was "Theatre and the Human Bond."

Set for Biltmore

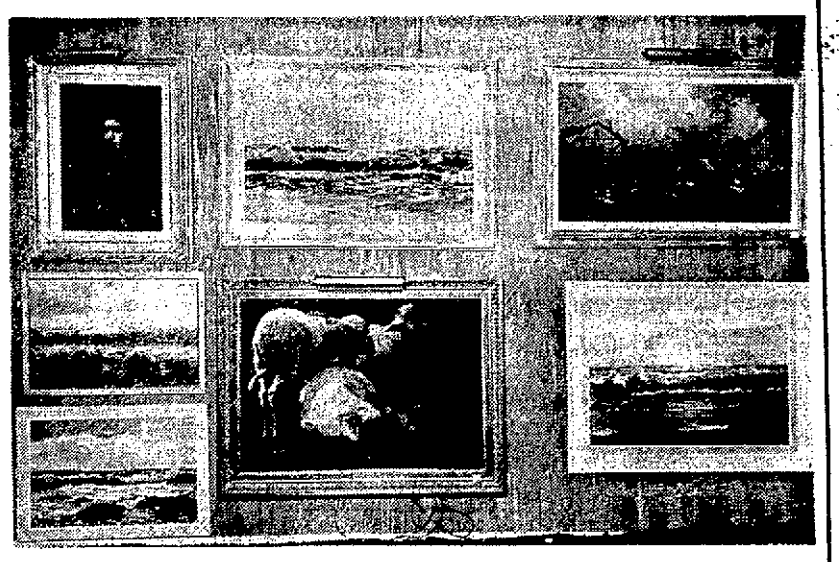

"Toys in the Attic," prize-play by Lillian Hellman with Constance Bennett in the starring role, will appear at Biltmore Theatre, Los Angeles, for four weeks beginning Feb. 20.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He Knows What's Cooking

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

It's very apparent that his right hand knows what his left hand is doing. That "state" applies to him professionally, too, for if you want to know "what's cooking" at the Proctor & Gamble plant, just ask today's Chef of the Week, Kenneth (Ken) W. Austin.

He's in the "know" on all 16 products manufactured at the Long Beach facility. He performs as community relations specialist in charge of plant tours, films for showing at service clubs and churches, and supplies other pertinent information.

* * * *

THOUGH he started out in Kansas, (Le Roy), he has been a Californian since 1916. He moved with his family, first to Taft, where he remained to finish junior high school. They came to Long Beach in time for him to play football for Wilson High, and to receive his diploma.

With the depression hanging around, Austin accepted a position with the S. H. Kress Co. He remained with them two years, which was long enough to meet another member of their staff, the girl who was to become his wife.

The Texaco Co. next lured him into their employ, and it was there that he learned the painter's trade professionally. Yet, alas, and alack, 11 years have gone by since his wife first asked him to paint a certain door in their home.

* * * *

IN APRIL of '31 he joined Procter & Gamble, and in 1934 was promoted to the employes service department, which included, for a time, duty of safety engineer. Under his supervision, the Long Beach plant set a world record for safety—4,000,000 man hours, equal to approximately four years without a lost-time accident.

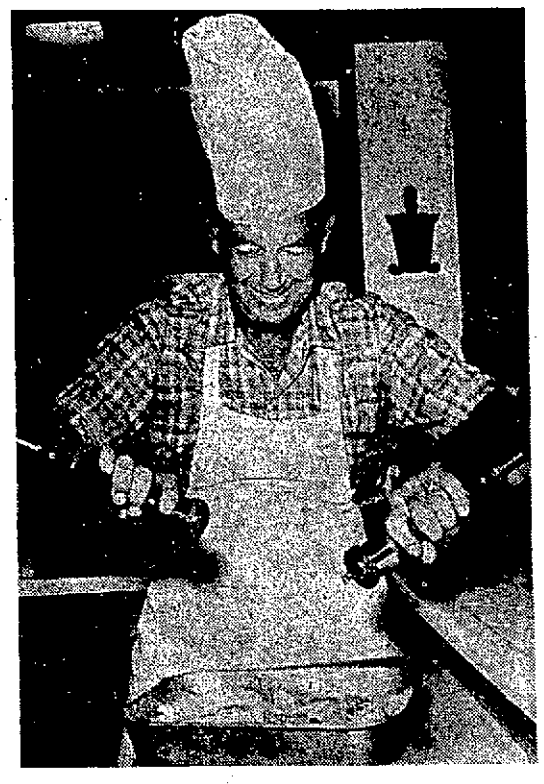

With an avid interest in sports, he is serving as finance chairman on the Mayor's committee for the 7th World Water Ski championship which concludes today at Marine Stadium. Last January, he was a member of the committee which welcomed the Washington "Huskies" upon their arrival for the Rose Bowl game.

* * * *

THERE WAS a time when he'd grab for his golf clubs at the drop of the hat. But today a 16-foot speed boat and several pair of water skis take precedence. He's even hauled the boat as far as the Colorado River for a spin. He does find a few stolen moments to bowl, however, and was fortunate enough to chalk up a perfect 300 in the Procter & Gamble League.

A member of the American Society of Safety Engineers, he also belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and Elks Lodge 888.

The next time you're hungry for chicken—try his "Austin Special."

Ebell Brunch Wednesday

Summer brunches at Ebell Club continue this Wednesday with Group E serving as hostesses. Mrs. John Searles, group chairman, will be assisted by Mmes. L. A. Clapp, Betty Miller, Lorraine Robinson, Dan Gridley, Vina Kunzman, Ethel Byers and E. J. Wightman.

The brunches are served buffet style from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Door awards and card games will follow. Reservations may be made with Mmes. Searles or Clapp.

AAUW President Entertains

Mrs. Vaughn M. Abrams, new president of Long Beach Branch, American Association of University Women, will entertain her board of 37 at luncheon Monday in her home, 5286 Appian Way.

Mrs. Abrams has announced the year's program theme as "Support for Fellowships Through Broadening Our Horizons," and will announce such coming events as the membership tea Sept. 24; spring house tour for the building fund; a fellowship-benefit fashion show and an AAUW sponsored art show at Long Beach Art Center.

Society to Open Year

Two reciprocity luncheons of State Society, Daughter of the American Colonists, will open the club's 32nd year in September.

The Southern luncheon will take place in Whittier at the William Penn Hotel on Sept. 6 at 12:30 p.m. sponsored by the Ann Hutchinson chapter.

Northern section luncheon will be held at the Marine Memorial Building in San Francisco on Sept. 20.

Mrs. Leonard E. Weisenberg, state regent, will preside at both sessions, purpose of which is to acquaint state officers, chairmen and chapter regents with program and outline of work for the ensuing year.

Elsie Farris to Address GOP Unit

"The New Challenge in Latin America" will be topic of a talk by Elsie Farris, Long Beach attorney, at the legislative and education meeting Monday of North Long Beach Republican Women Federated.

The meeting is slated at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Arthur Brookover, 6479 Walnut Ave., and guests are welcome.

Miss Farris returned in January from a tour of Central America and her 12th tour of Mexico. Her interest in the education of young men and women at the university level has resulted in the raising of funds for more than 300 students in many countries.

ANIMAL CHILDREN, LIKE THE HUMAN KIND SPEND MOST OF THEIR WAKING HOURS IN PLAY...

AND, LIKEWISE THEIR ROMPING AND CAREFREE ANTICS MUST BE DIRECTED BY THEIR PARENTS

FOR EXAMPLE, LION CUBS ENJOY BOUNDING ABOUT AND, WITH PADDED PAWS, SLAPPING AT MOVING OBJECTS.

AND TO ENCOURAGE THEM THE LIONESS OFFERS THE END OF HER TAIL, AS A PLAYTHING

THE TWITCHING AND VIBRATING TIP INTRIGUES THE YOUNGSTERS, AND THEY MAKE RUSHING LEAPS TO PIN IT DOWN

THOUGH TO THE CUBS IT'S AN EXCITING GAME, THE LIONESS IS TEACHING THEM THE HUNTING SKILLS OF THE CAT TRIBE....

THE SWIFT POUNCE AND PINNING DOWN OF PREY FOR THE KILL

EARLY CHILDHOOD FOR BOTH MAN AND BEAST, IS PRETTY MUCH A WORLD OF FUN AND FROLIC.

FROM MOCK FIGHTING AND TAIL CHASING, YOUNG PREDATORS SOON GRADUATE TO CHASING CRIPPLED GAME BROUGHT BY THE PARENTS, AND THEN TO THE SERIOUS BUSINESS OF STALKING AND CAPTURING THEIR OWN PREY

ON YOUR SHOULDERS, ESMERALDA

Topsy-Turvey Move 'Revitalizes,' Says Yogi

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Pack up your overnight creams and face lotions, Esmeralda, and throw them into the trash.

All you have to do for a peaches-and-cream complexion is to stand on your shoulders for three minutes a day.

Said shoulder-standing, in addition to providing complexion bloom, will:

1. Give you tranquility.
2. Normalize your weight.
3. Physically revitalize you.

This package deal, ma'am, is promised to you by Richard L. Hittleman, 34, who daily conducts the "Yoga for Health" program on KTTV (channel 11) at 9:30 a. m.

OF WOMEN IN GENERAL, Hittleman says:

"Look at them. They're falling apart. They're misshapen."

Wait! Don't march on the studio and shake Hittleman until he falls apart. Let the man finish.

"We want to bring out the beauty in them," he added. "This beauty is within every female."

See, Esmeralda, that means you, too.

Of course, if that beauty is buried very deep within and you're slightly over-ballasted amidships, you may have difficulty retaining the shoulder-standing position.

So borrow a wall, Esmeralda, and prop yourself against it until your muscles gain tone.

Within 15 days, your muscles should be so tone tuned you won't need the prop wall.

When you start shoulder-standing, do it only a minute a day for the first three days. Do everything slowly, with symmetry and think gracefully.

AND LISTEN, ESMERALDA, it doesn't make any difference how old you are. Because you're not too old for yoga.

Of course, if you're pushing 80, maybe you'd better check with your doctor first to make sure he doesn't prefer you with your amidships over-ballasted as long as you're right side up.

What's that you say, Esmeralda, yoga, smoga, phooey!

Methinks you scoff.

Well, Hittleman is used to scoffers. He's been running into them ever since, as a youngster, he became interested in yoga. An interest, incidentally, which led him to the founding of the American Academy of Yoga in 1957.

HE'S FOUND MOST SKEPTICS are so because they misunderstand yoga.

They confuse one who practices yoga with a fakir. And a yogi is not a fakir.

The fakir sleeps on beds of nails, walks barefooted over hot coals and charms snakes.

"He's a magician and very good at what he does," says Hittleman, "but he is not a yogi."

Those who practice yoga are simply seeking to integrate the body and mind, to have them work together so that the individual functions without considerable conflict and tension.

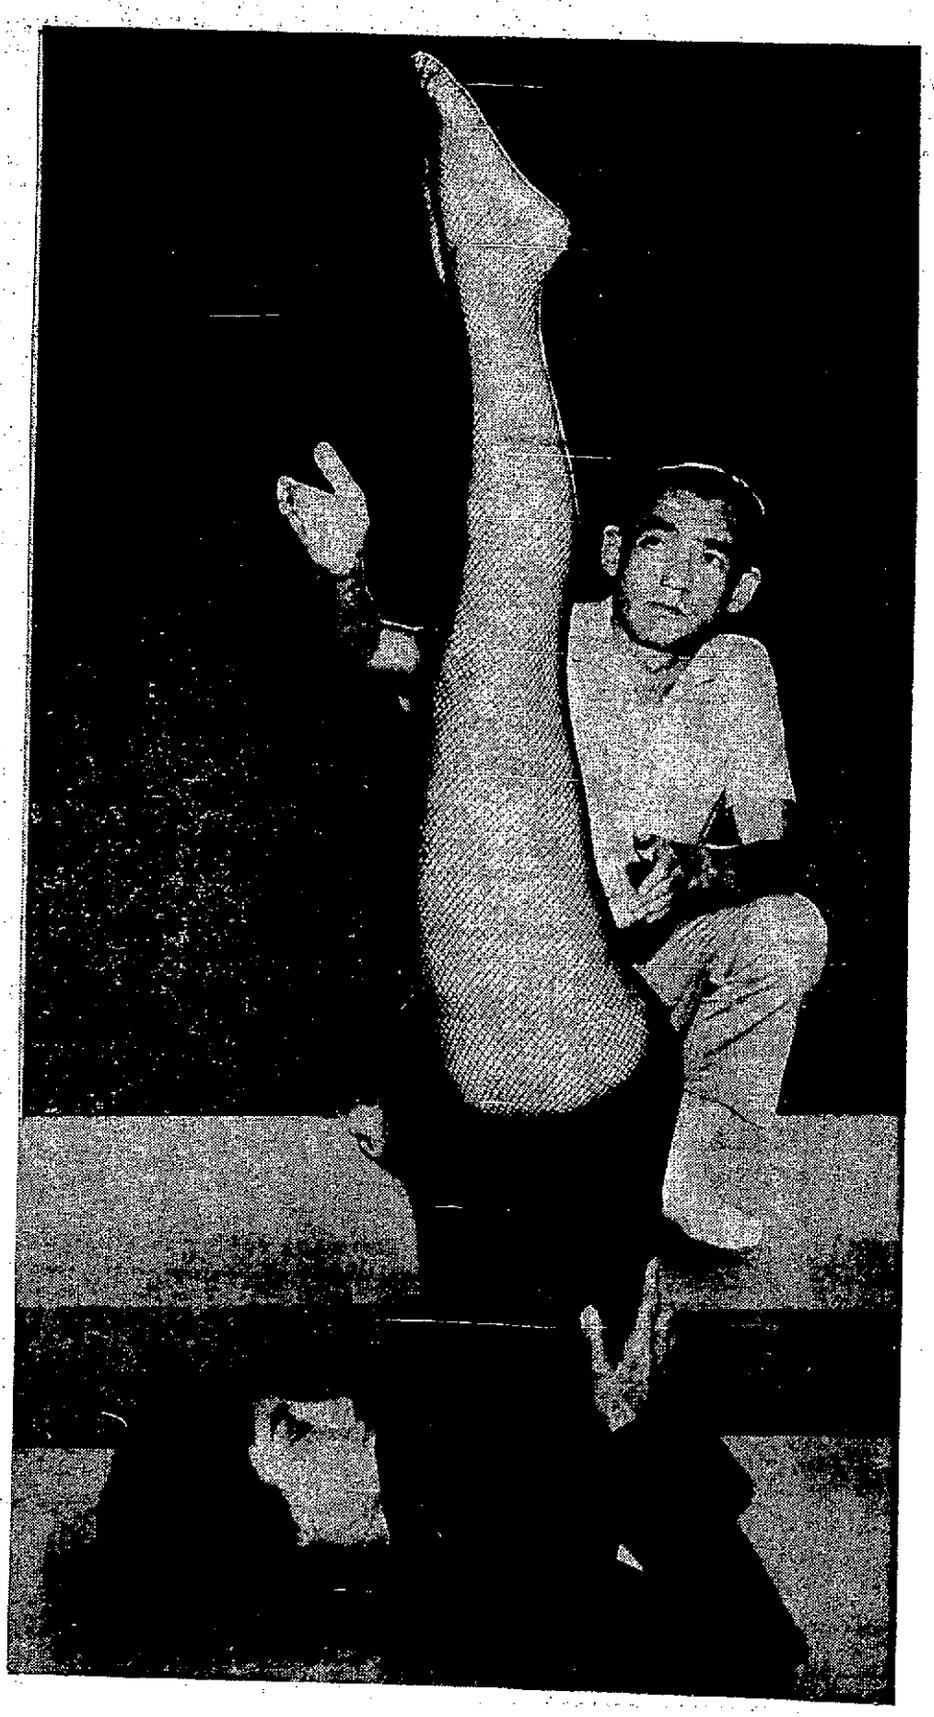

Yoga, according to Hittleman, is not a religion. Its practice, however, will provide mental and emotional maturity.

Designed 20 centuries ago, yoga is the only physical culture system that works internally to stimulate vital organs and glands. It is the oldest physical and mental health development plan.

"Most of us run on two or three cylinders instead of eight," said Hittleman. "Yoga will put you up to your full capabilities."

It contrasts most sharply with the up-and-at-'em, daily-dozen type of exercise in that yoga is basically slow-motion movements and has you holding extreme positions.

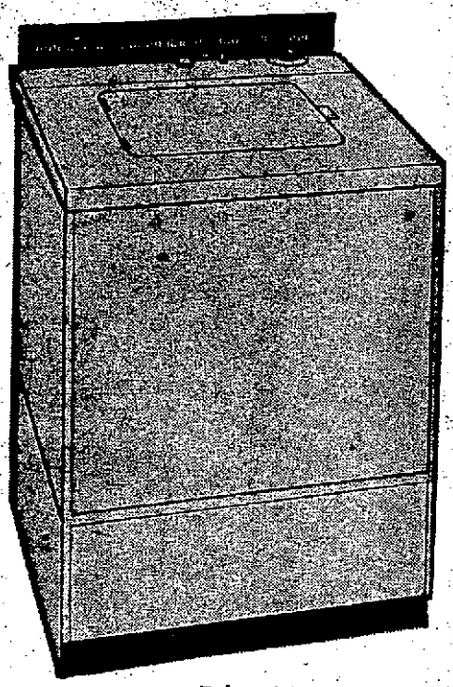

So up on your shoulders you go, Esmeralda. Let's bring that inner beauty out.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

I'm glad you're glad.

To have "TeleVues" back every Sunday, I mean.

The return of the television section last Sunday, after three weeks of inaction due to new press installation, brought phone and mail greetings from many of you.

Which gave me an idea—a contest idea.

Sit yourself down and write me a letter—100 words or less—saying "Why I Like TeleVues."

The winner will receive $25. The runner-up will be conducted on a tour of Warner Bros. studios with a guest and have lunch in the commissary with TV star Donald May, featured on ABC-TV's "The Roaring 20's."

Deadline for entries will be Sept. 23 and the winner will be announced Oct. 1.

Address your letters to "TeleVues, care Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif."

Good luck.

AND NOW, A WORD FOR RE-RUNS.

"Its is absolutely, flatly ridiculous to assume everyone has seen everything on television," said Dick Woollen, vice president in charge of programs for KTTV (channel 11).

"In a seven-station market, such as we have in Southern California, that means you're missing one or two good programs a time period no matter what you're watching.

"I think people should be glad we are re-running some of the shows they have missed.

"I think the industry would be doing a disservice not to re-run them. What a waste it would be."

A case in point, noted Woollen, are the Groucho Marx programs KTTV will re-run 7:30 to 8 p. m. Monday through Friday starting Oct. 2.

Fans of "The Untouchables," which covered the same time slot Groucho was in last year, now will have an opportunity to see him in action.

And the earlier re-run time slot will enable children to view the comedian.

Woollen emphasizes his independent station doesn't operate solely with re-runs.

On Nov. 3, for example, the program "Age of Kings" makes its debut between 8:30 and 10 p. m. It will be shown twice weekly.

"Only an independent station would have the courage to devote prime time to such a totally different kind of television experiment," said Woollen. "This is quality Shakespeare."

Summarizing his station's position, Woollen said operations were based along three major lines:

Counter-programming to that offered by the networks.

Re-runs.

Constant concentration on what is going on in Southern California.

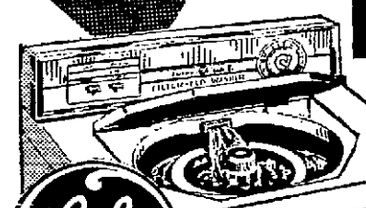

In the latter category, he included such things as community parades, sports, major speeches, a great many hours per week of interview and discussion, and the Miss International Beauty contest.

"Our biggest problem is to get people to sample us," he said. "Viewers will fall into network habit patterns and not have the energy or imagination to try other shows."

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....AUGUST 27, 1961

OUR COVER

The two worlds of Mt. Palomar meet in today's unusual cover photograph of the mountain's famed observatory by Roger Coar. Summer blooms of a variety of buckthorn peculiar to the California chaparral glisten in the light of the earth's nearest star—the sun. The dome covers the famous 200-inch Hale telescope, named for George Ellery Hale who pioneered the Yerkes (Williams Bay, Wis.) and Mt. Wilson observatories. Hale also was noted for his solar discoveries which included determining of solar vortices and the magnetic fields in sun spots. Palomar is a mecca for visitors from many walks of life: Dedicated men who probe the heavens, amateur astronomers who search for more knowledge, Sunday tourists who come only to look, children with eyes full of wonder. . . . For more about Palomar of a summer's day see Page 9.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give history on SKINNER—M. O., Harbor City; Mrs. J. B., Long Beach.

M. O., J. B.: Skinner originally "Skynnere" meant a dealer in hides and a man who prepared furs and skins for sale. A fur store in old England was called a "Skynnery." One Skinner ancestor was Lord Mayor of London in 1596. The coat-of-arms of the Skinners of Hereford, descended from Stephen Skinner who died in 1557, has a gold chevron between three silver griffin heads on a black shield. John Skinner of Windsor, Conn., was married in that town in 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on MASON?—M. M., Long Beach; Mrs. J. M., Lakewood.

M. M., J. M.: MASON was used by a professional artisan, an expert British "stone mason" who dressed stone for the construction of castles, churches and public buildings. The work of the master stone masons has lasted more than 1,000 years in beautiful cathedrals. The main coat-of-arms of the Mason lineage has a two-headed, blue rampant lion centered on a gold shield. The most famous American ancestor was John Mason of Norfolk, England born in 1586, who founded New Hampshire and was later governor of Newfoundland and vice admiral of New England. Next in prominence was Maj. John Mason, born in England in 1600 who settled in Massachusetts in 1635 and led the Pequot Indian War.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on ALCORN.—F.A., E. A., Long Beach.

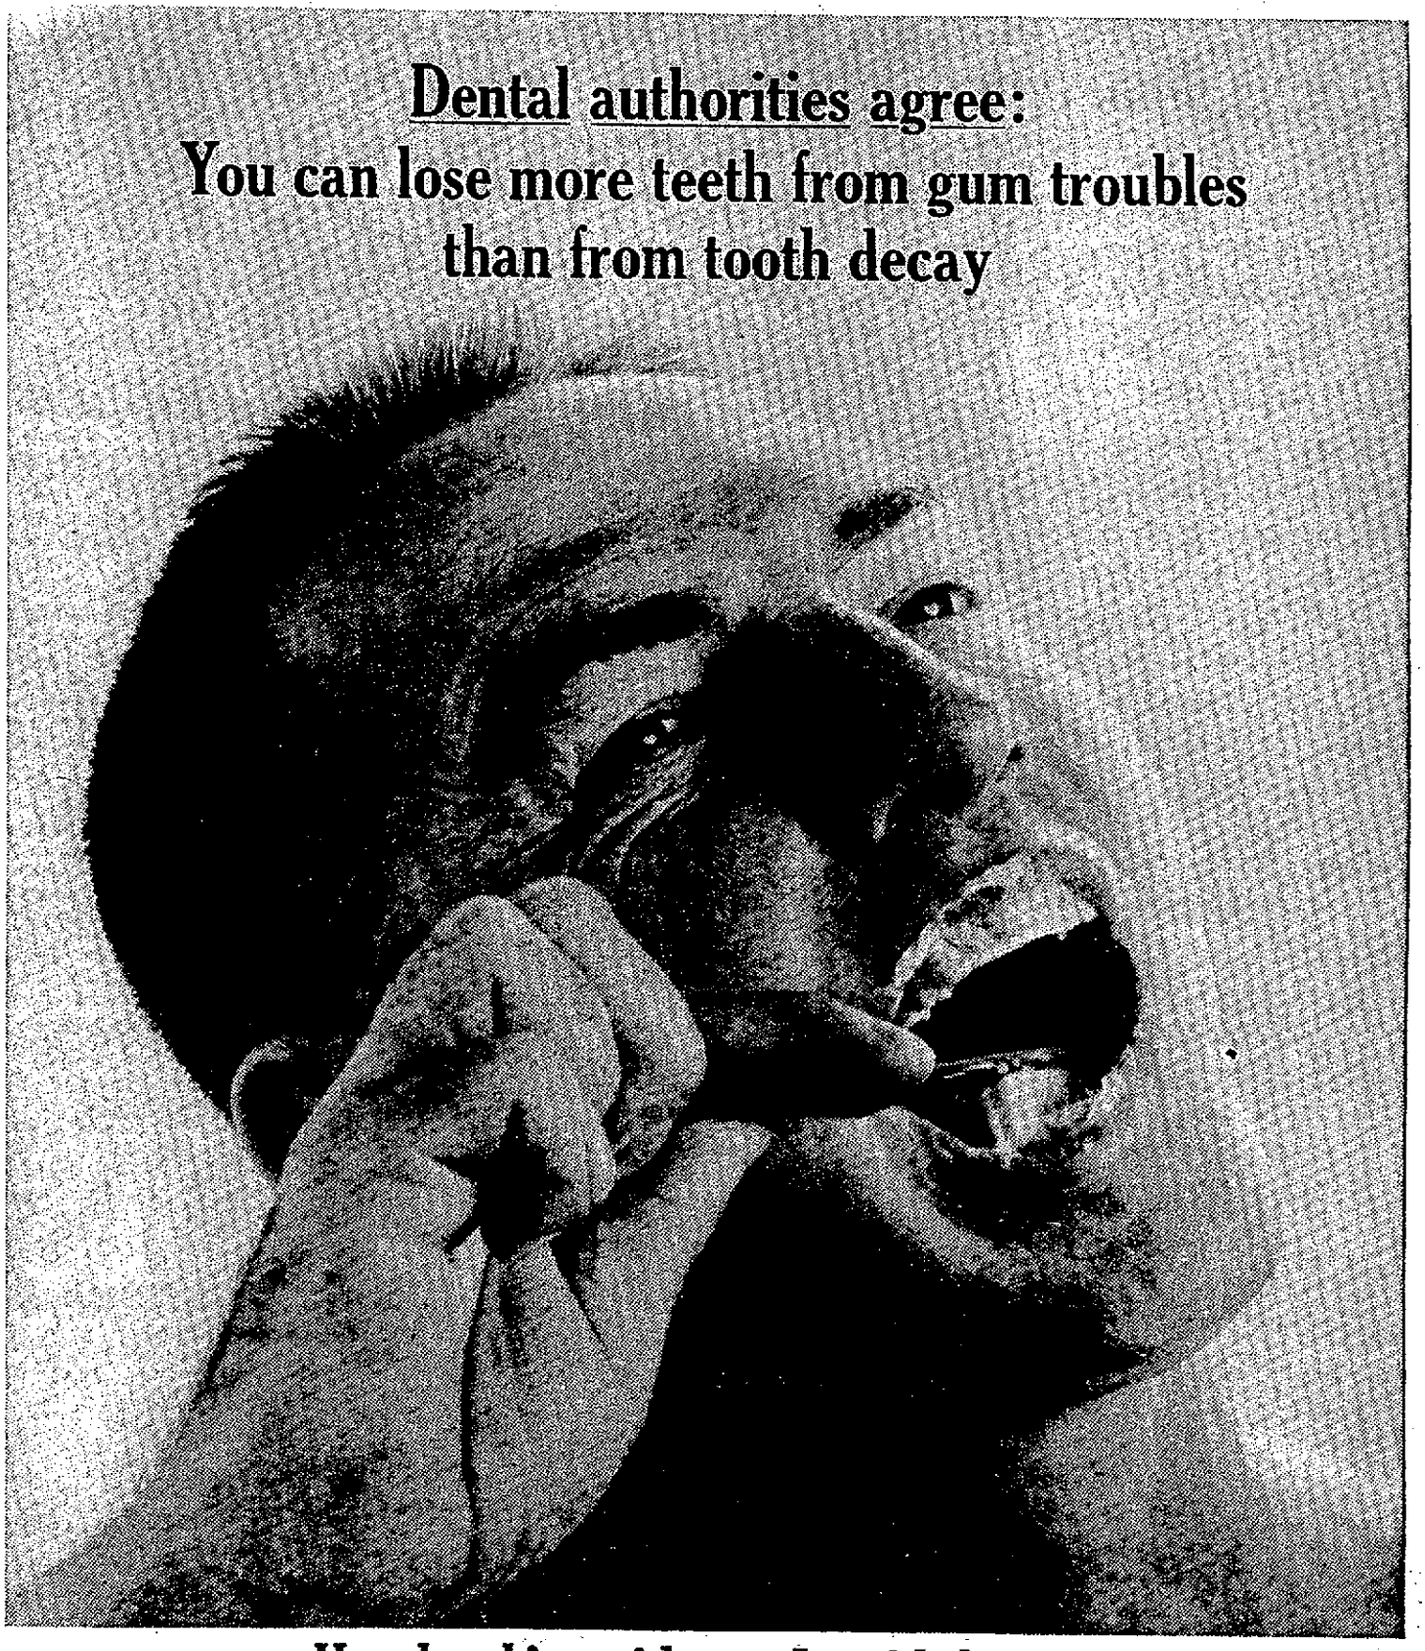

F. A., E. A.: ALCORN has a long English history, traced back to a family originating in Sussex. The source of this was "Alh-Horne" meaning "Sacred piece of land," referring to an estate built on blessed ground. John Alcorn is registered in Sussex in 1273. The Alcorn coat-of-arms has a black buck deer head below a black stripe on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give history on LANNING.—G. L., Inglewood; J. M., Long Beach.

G. L., J. M.: LANNING, taken from a village-name in England, originated as "Leoning" meaning "Estate of Lion-Brave," a noted Saxon ancestor. Lanning may also be Irish, from O'Leannain meaning "Sons of the Cloaked One." The Irish ancestors were natives of Fermanagh, Mayo and Galway.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this column.

Dental authorities agree:
You can lose more teeth from gum troubles than from tooth decay

How brushing with new Ipana® helps you protect your gums as you protect your teeth

Don't just do half the job! Gum troubles are often caused by tartar that forms on teeth when soft film is not properly cleansed away. Dental statistics prove that it is gum troubles, not tooth decay, that cause most loss of teeth after age 14. So don't do just half the job. Protect your gums as you protect your teeth.

If you brush properly with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you can help prevent gum trouble due to tartar before it starts. Ipana's film-removing agents help you brush away the soft film that naturally forms on teeth before it hardens into tartar that irritates and inflames gums.

Only your dentist or dental hygienist can remove tartar once it hardens. But proper brushing, according to Ipana directions, can help prevent tartar before it attacks gums.

A superior decay fighter, too! Laboratory tests prove that new Ipana kills more decay germs than any other leading tooth paste—even the leading fluoride tooth paste!

Every time you brush your teeth with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you destroy decay germs by the millions. Laboratory tests have shown that other tooth pastes leave behind many more decay germs because they don't have Ipana's superior germ-killing power.

Old Cabinet Could Echo an 'Ouch!'

By Helen L. Gillum

IF THIS curious piece of furniture could talk and tell its life story, there would doubtless be many an "Ouch!" scattered throughout the tale. For this cabinet (see Photo) once stood in a dentist's office, where it held instruments and other equipment the "tooth-doctor" used in his profession.

The old oak piece dates to about 1880; it is an example of the standard models built at that time for dentists. It now belongs to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Boughn of 207 E. 69th St., who purchased it at an antique shop several years ago. The cabinet was once covered with green paint, but a former owner had it stripped and refinished in natural tones, which brought out the beautiful grain of the hardwood. The 20-odd shelves, drawers and compartments in the old professional "cupboard" provide bountiful storage space, while its handsome design and lovely golden oak finish make it an interesting addition to the Boughn's kitchen.

Remindful of dental offices of generations ago is this cabinet in Long Beach home.

A NOVEL FEATURE is the pivoted corner section on the upper left side, which contains 10 expertly-made matched shallow drawers, 9½ inches wide. Between this lower tier of drawers and the upper cupboard is a sliding board which once contained the marble mixing slab where the dentist prepared his toothache remedies.

The right side of the cabinet consists of an upper storage compartment, which is covered when not in use with a "rolled front" door. Just below this is a deep shelf with a swing-down door. This door, the front of the pivoted cupboard, and the end of the cabinet all have beautiful decorative scroll-work panels.

THERE IS an additional shelf-compartment beneath the swing-down door section, also equipped with a "rolled front" door, and, below that, a deep, roomy storage drawer. Across the top of the cabinet is a full-width mirror.

This sturdy old piece demonstrates interesting ways in which such antiques can be utilized. Mrs. Boughn finds that the shallow swinging shelves keep her collection of silver souvenir teaspoons very nicely. She uses the lower section of her cabinet to hold her books on antiques and souvenir spoons. Other compartments contain eye-catching arrangements of favorite antiques and household ornaments.

Story and Photographs

By Roger Coar

IN A YEAR, perhaps not too far distant, the navigator with a space-exploration crew may well turn to a "Map by Palomar."

It will be a big switch from days of the adventurous Vikings, or even 470 years ago when Columbian discoveries-by-default made Christopher hero of the world-in-the-round. Columbus gained fame for going half the distance, while the Vikings apparently set out merely in the spirit of adventure. (Was it because no queen's monies were involved that their forays into the North American continent went virtually unrecorded?)

At any rate, since 1948 a group of absorbed men have been busily tracking the far reaches of space from a mountain-top in Southern California. Mt. Palomar, home of the famed 200-inch Hale telescope, is, in current jive talk, "where they have astronomers . . . those guys who dig the sky the most."

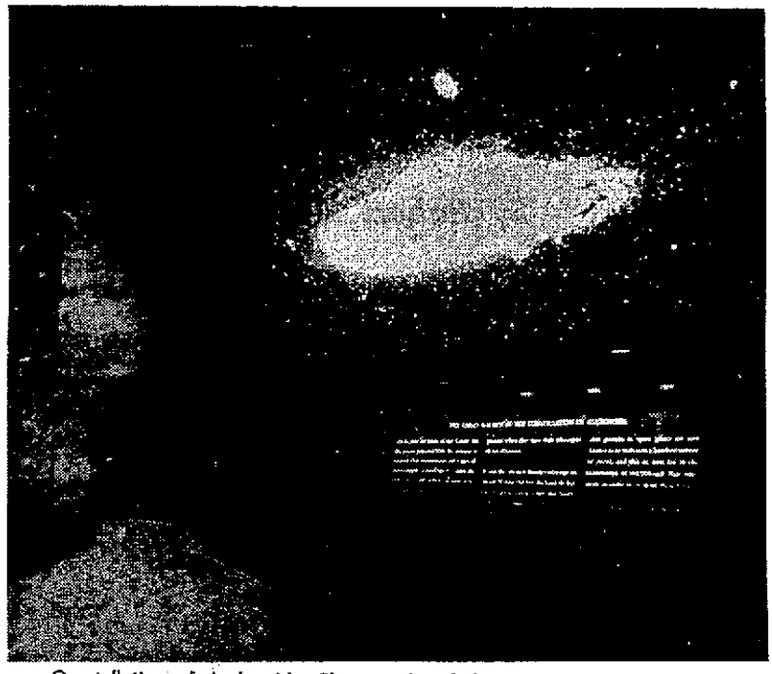

THE SIGNPOSTS and road markers these men employ to note the way are indicative of the full circle in which technology has been traveling. Voyages in Columbus' time were measured in months or years over any great earthly distance. The age of steam brought to us a now familiar term "miles per hour"—which soon may be out of style. Variations of the latter now in use include "miles per second," a little over 1 m.p.s. being the rate at which the X-15 travels. Vehicles which travel at rates of 700 miles an hour or multiples thereof are given "mach" ratings (speed of sound). One who travels "like a streak of light," goes 186,000 miles each second.

In dealing with the speed of light, men such as those busy on Mt. Palomar are back to measuring distance by the year. But it is a light-year. Most persons today are familiar with the term, and the ready explanation that it refers not to time, but dis-

Giant dome of the observatory tops Mt. Palomar, a structure which is of this world, yet, of another. Site is popular with weekenders and tourists.

Constellation of Andromida: Photographs of distant astronomical features present a good picture of outer space for all who take time to see them.

Complicated machinery of the giant Palomar "eye" may be viewed by public from special glassed in area. The 200-inch mirror is lower center.

Palomar's beauties are of the earth as well as the sky. This is a scene in Palomar State Park, down the mountain but not far from the observatory.

Hours of hand, lathe and bandsaw work go into detailed models of prairie schooners made by Harold Angier. Covered wagon (left) is Conestoga type.

An eye for detail and a TV show helped to build . . .

Westward Ho Wagons

By Robert Hazelleaf

YEARS AGO, Harold Angier, 250 E. Artesia St., saw Conestoga wagons working their way across the great Canadian plains of Ontario where he lived on a farm.

Much later, he worked as an animater for a couple of years in Walt Disney Studios, learning many of the techniques that make for realism on the screen.

LATER, making his living as a draftsman gave Angier a sense of detail and design to go with his bent for things artistic and a talent for wood carving.

And then the television show, "Wagon Train," came to the viewing audience with Harold Angier as an ardent fan. Finally, an idea came to him. Why not build a model wagon train, complete with wheeled vehicles, horses, families and household goods?

"I THOUGHT I KNEW something about wagons," says Angier, "but I went to the library and spent hours reading and looking at old pictures. Whenever I could, I'd study the wagons at ghost town exhibits to see how they were made."

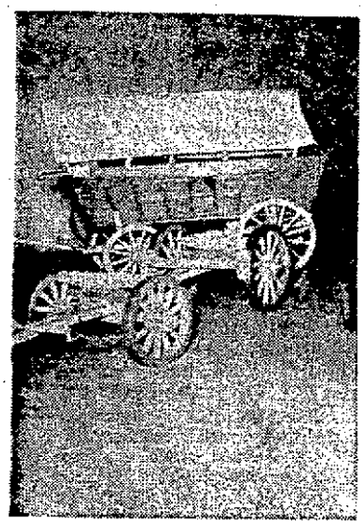

"You know," he continues, "you can look at a prairie schooner and tell what state it was made in by the design. The Conestoga wagon, made for hauling four or five tons of freight, differs from the Ohio wagon or the New England wagon.

"Many of those built in New England were put together by shipwrights. That accounts for the sweeping curves and rugged construction that went into them."

Angier's models are meticulously worked examples of the wagon-builder's art, reduced to a scale of 1⅛ inches to the foot.

"I SELECTED redwood for the boxes," he says, "looking for fine-grained pieces that would take an antique finish when completed."

Patternmaker's pine, sugar pine and alderwood go into the underpinning and wheels. His only concession to mechanization is in the wheel spokes that are made from doweling, but even those must be tapered to match the design of the real thing. Brass tires and hub tips add the final touch.

Wagon chassis is in accurate detail and will be antiqued later.

The axles are joined to the bolsters or chassis by wooden pegs, just as the originals were. Hand brakes work, tailgates drop, boxes and barrels have removable lids. Everything is carried out to the finest tolerances.

"What I'm aiming for is a night scene," says Angier. "It will show 13 wagons drawn up in a circle, camp fires in the center, utensils over the fires for the evening meal, picket riders posted against an Indian attack."

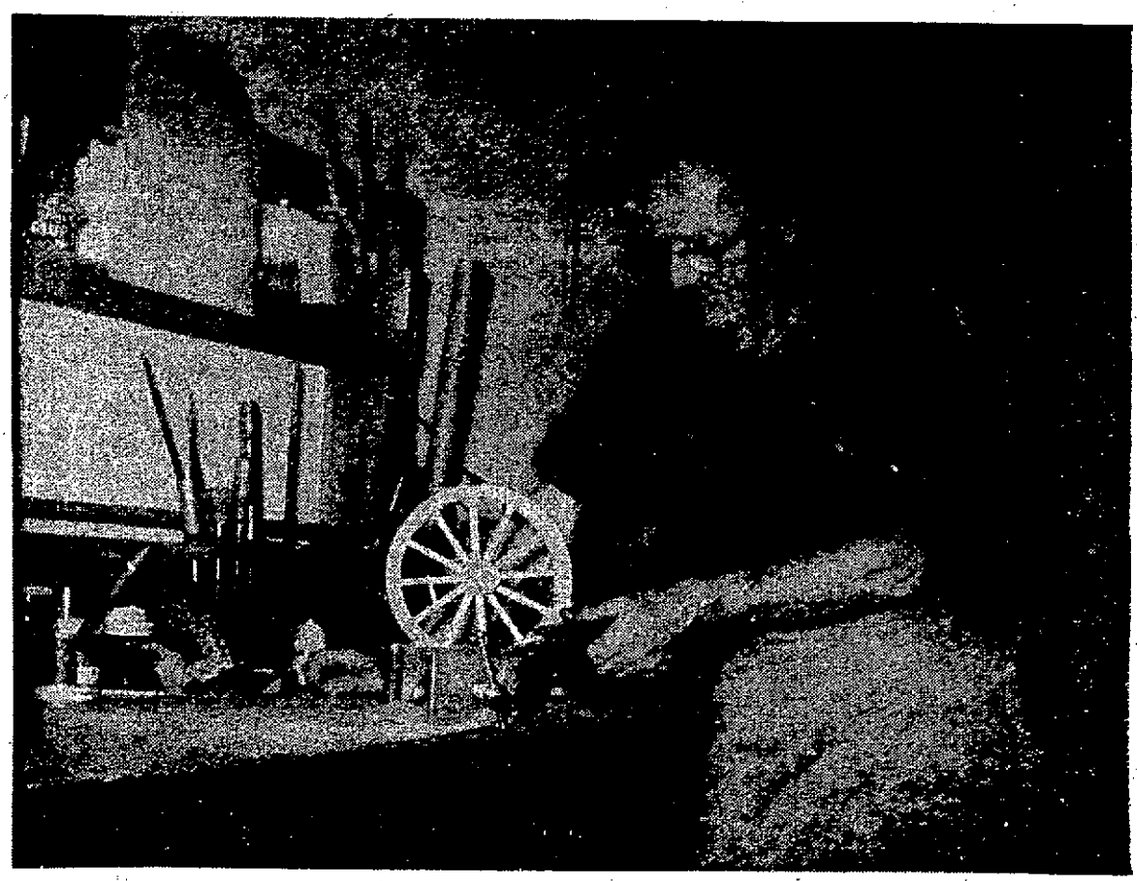

HERE, MRS. ANGIER will go to work. Besides making the wagon sheets that go over the steamed wooden bows, she will work up the model families and riders and help with the horses that must be made—all this to be accurately scaled.

Following that, Angier's studio experience will pay off. The night scene will show the sandy ground, cactus and mountains, all to be built with realism the keynote.

"I think the crowning touch might be a burned-out wagon," the modeler says. "I'd like to build one that shows the results of an attack—wagon sheet burned, the vehicle turned over and scorched, household goods on the ground. It'll point up the sacrifices men and their families made when they came west."

Originally, Angier was willing to settle for his models of the program's rolling stock.

"But you know," he says, "I've decided these would make some pretty nice mantel pieces or planters. I think I'll try that when I get caught up."

Angier is pictured in his shop, working out the fine detailing of a model wagon wheel. Dowels used for spokes must be tapered after wheel is assembled for realistic effect and for true-to-life reproduction.

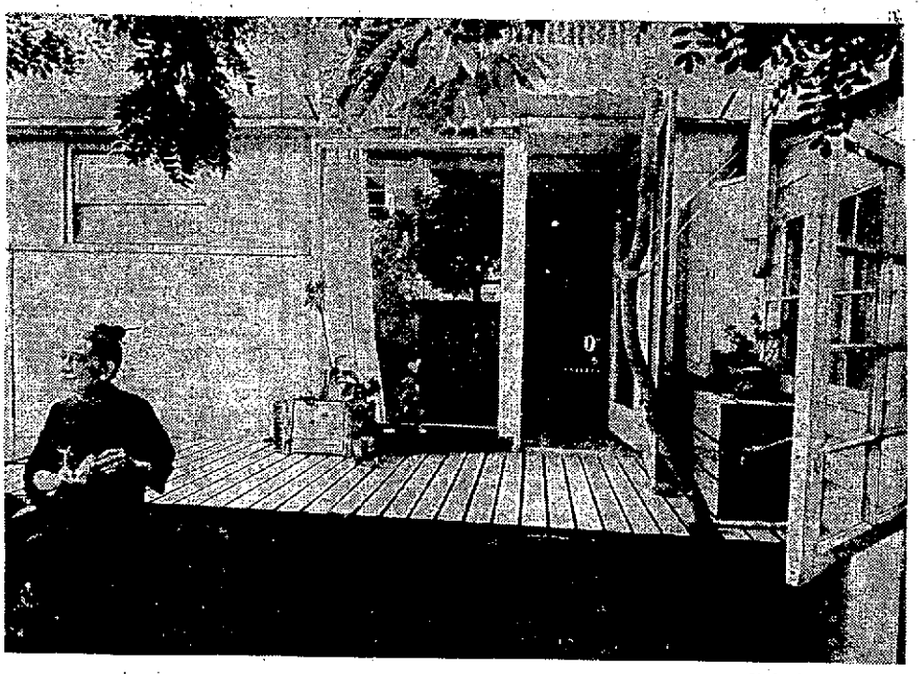

Home of Fran Soldini, Long Beach artist, as it looked at about the time Mrs. Soldini's family purchased it.

There's the feel of the sea in Long Beach artist's home

Houseboat Atelier

By Stella George

Mrs. Soldini stands at the rear of her home-atelier at its present land-borne location. Many improvements have been made for comfort and studio needs since "Houseboat Atelier" once floated on the gentle inland waters of Long Beach.

HOME TO FRAN SOLDINI, artist of 39 56th Place, is more than just "sweet home." It is a residence involving an unusual history and a varied career.

Her home was built in 1905 as a houseboat and floated on Long Beach inland waters while the occupants enjoyed life in leisurely style.

Years passed and, in 1919, the vessel was purchased by Mrs. Soldini's family for weekend fun near the shore. It then stood on piling and was reached by a gangplank. In 1922, the houseboat came completely ashore to rest on land-based foundations.

MRS. SOLDINI has, over a period of time, designed the old houseboat into an ideal setting for her artistic and home needs. The former cabin on the lower deck is now a reception-living room.

What was once the open sun deck has been converted into a miniature apartment complete with kitchen, bedroom and bath, comfortable for visiting friends and relatives. The upper deck is reached by way of a stairway in the main cabin, and it is here that Mrs. Soldini spends most of her time. A large room with adjoining dressing room, it serves as her studio where she teaches art.

A sturdy door set on cement blocks makes an excellent and substantial desk. Chaise longue and chairs are here and there. Corner windows provide fine light and a nice view of the bay beyond.

ANOTHER PART of the upper deck houses a bedroom, and a small galley is a recent addition. Here students may have frequent coffee breaks in the still nautical atmosphere. Another small bedroom completes the upstairs.

Serviceable old Franklin stove continues usefulness in heating and is a homey touch in this interior view.

Former sun deck of the houseboat is now a guest apartment and this is a view of dinette with its glass wall.

Guests admire the many interesting touches that have been retained in the decor. For example, there is an old Franklin stove in the main studio, and one in the bedroom. Now gas burning, the stoves still have all their original interest. Unusual features are in evidence everywhere, as might be expected in the home of an artist. The "curtain" between the galley and the hall, for instance, is made of burlap. Knotted clothesline serves as a cupboard door handle. Pieces of driftwood, left unadorned in their original state, are table decorations.

Paintings done by Mrs. Soldini and by some of her talented students adorn the walls, adding a modern touch to the setting. The entire home, casual and inviting, has an appeal that surpasses formal elegance in many respects. It is definitely the type of background that inspires art students to express themselves in their work.

Mrs. Soldini has led a fascinating life as a dancer and musician as well as artist, and it seems fitting that she would settle down in a unique and different setting. "Houseboat Atelier" is a place with a decided personality of its own. One can almost feel a slight rocking motion walking along the creaking boards. The houseboat is now on land, but the feel of the sea will remain with it always, and those with a little imagination would not be too surprised to look down and see ocean wavelets softly lapping below the railings of the lower deck.

Upper deck space has been converted to a studio and there Mrs. Soldini spends much of her time at work and teaching.

Studio corner: Quilt pillow at left is made of pieces from the dresses in the trousseau of Mrs. Soldini's grandmother.

Betty Tesman (left) and Grace Meteer pose in symbolic thanks for the help Albert Ruiz has given to careers.

COMPLETE reversal of the song, "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," is found in the fact that more and more "little girls" are singing "Thank Heaven for Albert Ruiz."

Ruiz, head of the Dance-Drama Center in Long Beach, has seen five of his students headed for careers in dancing and dramatics over the past few weeks, and has prepared a number of others to compete in nationally known beauty pageants.

The girls include Gloria Vasquez, now dancing with Los Angeles Civic Opera Association's production of "The Merry Widow" in San Francisco; Bonnie Baker and Gracie Meteer, just home from their first professional engagement with Jimmie Durante in Lake Tahoe; Beverly Hages, enrolled in the American School of Ballet in New York City after keen competition for that privilege; Cindy Gillette, contender recently for the Miss California title as an entry in the Miss America Contest; Gail Cason, Miss Realtor of Long Beach, recent contender for Miss California as an opening to the Miss Universe Pageant in Florida; and Betty Tesman, who has had a number of professional engagements, and recently was accepted by Desi-Lu productions for their advanced drama preparatory classes.

MISS VASQUEZ, a granddaughter of Mrs. Molly Sturdivant of 2281 E. Sixth St., with whom she makes her home, was selected by Ada Broadbent, noted choreographer, for the difficult dance sequences in "The Merry Widow," including the famous cancan. She has been told that she has an excellent opportunity to appear in this fall's production of "Guys and Dolls," at Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Bonnie Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Baker of San Pedro. Gracie Meteer is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Meteer of Corona del Mar and Ford J. Meteer of Long Beach. She was a 1960 graduate of Wilson High School.

Both girls tried out for the Jimmie Durante show and were selected by the famous comedian from a line-up of 30 for the eight-girl chorus. At the conclusion of their engagement at Lake Tahoe, Durante indicated that he would try to have their act included in a forthcoming TV spectacular.

Formal ballet is the promising career for Beverly Hagen who was graduated this June from Millikan High School. The daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Robert Hagen, she tried out in New York City ballet last year and was qualified for the American School of Ballet. There she will work toward a future Ford Foundation Scholarship.

THE YOUNG ballet dancer has studied with Albert Ruiz for the past six years. The other girls have been his pupils for from 2 to 5 years.

Ruiz has been teaching in Long Beach for 10 years and has won acclaim for his choreography in local musical productions. He spent six years as a dancer with Paramount studios and was loaned out to Goldwyn and Universal-International. Prior to coming to California he was lead dancer in the original cast of "Brigadoon" in New York City in 1948. He also made many shorts while at Paramount and was both teacher and coach.

Combining drama with his interest in the dance he acted in the Actor's Lab in Hollywood and studied with Benno and Botami Schneider as well as Lee Strausberg, and is an advocate of the Method system.

He believes that dancing is a form of acting, taking movement and symbolizing as words. The dance drama is a particular interest and several which he has conceived and directed have received the acclaim of critics.

OF HIS GIRLS and his part in bringing them to the point of professional standing, he says simply that hard work and "drive," self-discipline and a "heart" for it have been combined with his own understanding of technique and the dramatic to spell success.

He has been particularly thrilled with the progress of Miss Vasquez in "The Merry Widow."

As the girls will confirm, "A pretty girl is like a melody," but it takes more than three-quarter time to make that melody linger on. It is the versatility evidenced by Miss Vasquez and the others, from ballet to modern jazz, that gives promise of carrying them and Albert Ruiz to the top.

Two Ruiz pupils, Gloria Vasquez (left) and Beverly Hagen, have won acclaim for their dancing abilities.

Palomar's Triple Threat

tance light travels in the course of a year . . . nearly SIX TRILLION miles. So a year's a year!

ANYWAY, back at Palomar the 200-inch Hale telescope (the largest reflecting scope in existence . . . any 800-inch telescope you may hear about will refer to a radio-telescope system) is kept busily at work tracking galaxies, star clusters and "Outer Space Smog Banks" (gaseous nebulae). This telescope is, in effect, a huge camera, for it takes pictures rather than offering the human eye a peep-hole at the universe. Measured in light-years, the optical range of this behemoth is about a BILLION LIGHT-YEARS. If this is incomprehensible as a figure, let's just call it a "ZILLION MILES," and, like they say, "That's away out!"

A trip to the Palomar Mountains offers a triple treat. First, the area is blue-sky country of scenic quality. The climb to higher levels reveals what loomed as scrub-covered rock from below actually is forest primeval. And, finally, added to the natural thrills is the visit to the observatory.

A glassed-in gallery provides for visitors a view of the monstrous instrument, which by virtue of size and nature of its functional design immediately gives the impression of being of another world.

AND ANOTHER world is what one is prepared for. At the entrance to this California Institute of Technology operation is a museum housing a full-sized replica of the famous 200-inch mirror. The walls around present as good a picture of "space" as can be seen on earth. This is done through a progressive series of astronomical photographs. Also shown are some color photographs of distant nebulae, which represent perhaps the most sophisticated work ever done in the realm of astro-photography.

In the meantime, the buckthorn blooms abundantly around these buildings which are of this world, yet, of another.

With Smart, Provincial Decor

Photos by Skip Shuman

Careful placing of furniture takes nothing from livability but gives maximum space, minimum clutter in the living room of Rossmoor home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morgan.

SMART, provincial decor is used in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morgan, 3141 Hillrose Dr., Rossmoor. Mrs. Morgan did her own interior decorating, and artistically made over some old pieces of furniture into things of beauty that blend with the new provincial sets. The total effect is so pleasing that it is difficult to tell the new from the old.

While there is no formal entrance hall, the effect of an entry was cleverly created. Two chairs flanking a marble coffee table are backed to the door on the right. A green velvet upholstered occasional chair is against the wall on the left. The former is a good example of Mrs. Morgan's skill, since the chair was once an old item that was painted and done over to look like a treasured antique.

Pecan wood paneling is used on the wall in back of the couch which faces the large front window. This particular wood complements the smooth furnishings in the room, and is very effective against the champagne upholstery on the couch. Too, it blends well with the off-white carpeting used throughout the home.

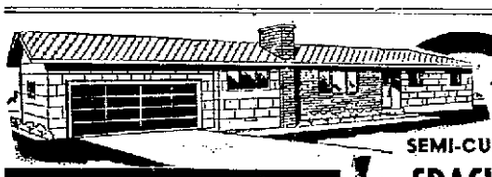

THE COFFEE TABLE in front of the couch is topped with marble. The coffee table mentioned before (between the twin chairs) is entirely marble, an unusually handsome piece, reminiscent of the type of furniture one might expect to find in a huge mansion or even a castle.

A small, long and very low table is in front of the window, leaving the view intact. A chair and hassock nearby face the room, again leaving the window scene uncluttered.

Simplicity marks the decor of the dining room with the polished table and black leather upholstered chairs. A striking color accent is found in the occasional chair in one corner, another of Mrs. Morgan's artistic pieces, done in rich red velvet.

The buffet is really a long tea table, large enough to serve as either when needed.

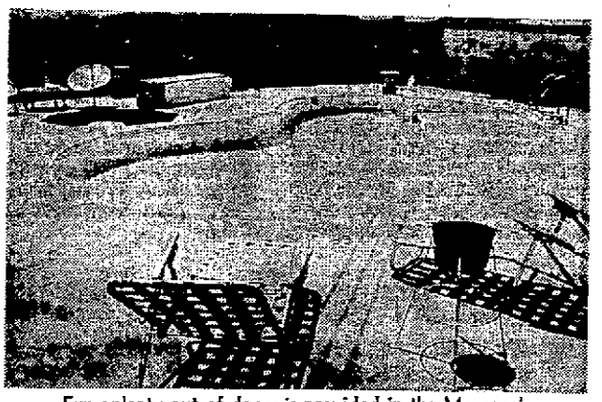

The kitchen opens into the dining room with a small bar separating it from the living room. Glass doors in the dining area open to the patio and pool.

THE MASTER BEDROOM is large, with a full-length window seat in bright red adding to the size. Furniture is provincial, fine pecan wood that has a rich, substantial look and feel. A dainty, glass-topped table flanked with two pink wrought iron chairs is in one corner.

The guest room has a four-poster bed and chest, antiqued with white and gold. Both were refinished by Mrs. Morgan. Closets are ample.

The den is bright and modern with colorful pillows on the couch and a television set in the corner.

The back yard lends itself perfectly to the well-planned pool and surrounding deck area. Cement is everywhere, reducing upkeep to a minimum. — STELLA GEORGE.

Fun aplenty out of doors is provided in the Morgans' back yard, a concrete "spread" cuts down upkeep.

now—your dog can take pills to stay tick and flea free all season long

imagine a pill that kills fleas, lice, even ticks

Veterinarians now have ECTORAL, the incredible new pill your dog simply takes with his food. ECTORAL works from the inside out to kill fleas, lice, even ticks that come in contact with your dog. Just one dose of ECTORAL every week can control these parasites all season long.

ECTORAL is the worst news external parasites ever had—an extraordinarily effective way to get rid of ticks, fleas and lice. It was tested for over two years by veterinarians in every region of the United States. Even though ECTORAL is more effective, it is just as economical as old-fashioned powders or sprays—and far more convenient.

During warm weather, disease-carrying parasites lurk everywhere, waiting to attack your dog. Ticks hide in weeds and brush. Fleas hide between floor boards, in the dog's bedding, under rugs. And any passing dog may be carrying these parasites.

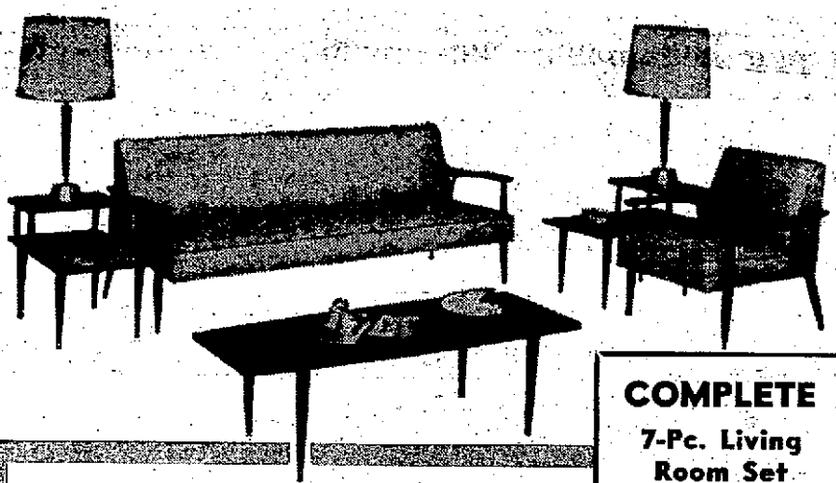

Now—all season long—you can keep these troublesome, dangerous pests under control—with ECTORAL. Your veterinarian will tell you how to use ECTORAL. (You can find his address under "Veterinarians" in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.)

Chest disguised as moving van me'es toy pick-up fun.

Today's Problem: What can be done to encourage a child to keep his toys in his own room?

DESIGNER WILLIAM MEYERRIECKS of Huntington, N. Y., answers:

The tried and true method is a toy box. Having an adequate place to put his toys will not guarantee that a child will pick them up after a play session, but at least your chances of training him to be neat are better if storage space is available.

Naturally, the more attractive and interesting you make the storage chest the more success you'll have in getting your child to use it. To help in this respect, this toy storage box has been disguised as a moving van—complete with driver's cab and rolling wheels.

The chest itself is the van section, 17½ inches wide, 36 inches long and 20¼ inches deep on the inside. It has a hinged top. The cab increases over-all length another 14½ inches to make the total just over 4 feet. The project requires no special tools and utilizes ¾-inch thick scrap pine and plywood or a new solid wood panel called Widewood.

To order, specify Moving Van Toy Chest Plan S-18 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Room Divider That's Flexible

FURNITURE in this modern age should be flexible and the room divider (see photo) made of two sections and hinged is about as flexible as it can be. It can be used at right angles, along a wall or in a corner. Sections may be used separately.

Divider has sliding panels, finished as desired, and it has space for decorative accessories, for hi-fi components, radio, TV, records, books and similar items.

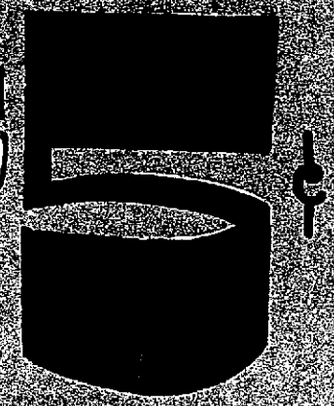

To build this divider from an easy, full-sized pattern, specify room divider pattern No. 225 and send name, address and $1 in currency, check or money order payable to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

A COACH OF GOLD, fragile looking but sturdy enough to serve as a summer party centerpiece, is simply made with two strawberry boxes. Other materials needed are a 12-inch square of poster board, the cap from a hair spray can, four small gold doilies, a can of gold spray paint, white glue, scissors and a sharp blade for cutting the poster board.

Dainty little coach in gold is a centerpiece crafted from the principal materials of two strawberry boxes.

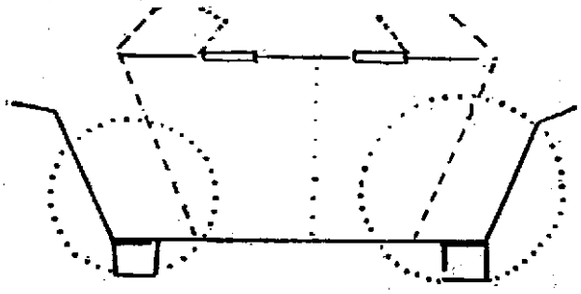

Diagram shows how the coach wheels are applied to the sides and the bottom brace. See story for directions.

Leaving the rim of the basket untouched, cut a triangular window from each side of the basket that is turned over for the top of the coach. Loop a piece of tape several turns over the joining rims of the top and bottom baskets where the triangles were removed. Make the tape tight and inconspicuous as possible.

On the top center, glue any ornament or can top that more nearly resembles a crown.

For the base of the coach, cut the poster board 3½ inches wide and 11 inches long. Lay this strip flat and score across the bottom side of the board a distance of 2½ inches from each end. Turn the board over and score again across the top of the board only one inch from each end. Do not cut too deeply.

TO FORM the carriage box, simply bend up at center scoring, then bend the last inch that was scored, outward, at each end. To hold it in position, make a brace by pasting an inch-wide strip of board four and one-half inches long, like an axle under front and back base of the box. A half inch will extend at each corner. Score and bend these down.

The basket may now be pasted in the center of the carriage and the wheels glued firmly at the bottom to the brace. Also glue the wheels to the basket sides and to the carriage extensions both front and back. Spring clothespins and rubber bands will hold them until dried.

Front wheels measure two inches in diameter, 2½ inches at the rear. Trace the wheel patterns around small and large glasses.

The scallops from small gold doilies are cut apart and used to decorate the corners of the carriage top, also the front and rear of the coach box. The doily centers fit on the wheels.

When the coach is finished and a firm unit, set it in an upended box and spray lightly but thoroughly with gold paint. Shake the can a lot before spraying.

Small plastic flowers and fern thrust through the sides of the coach will create a durable and charming summer centerpiece.

A Trek to Manana

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

MEMBERS of Golden Tours, Long Beach Recreation Department's senior citizen travel group, find their share of pleasure along the trail. And they'll be up to their necks in it beginning Nov. 4 when about 50 of them depart on an especially-planned, share-the-expense 16-day trip to Mexico.

With a prominent Long Beach tour agency as their travel advisor, senior citizen director Pat Tannehill and chairman Mrs. Clara McKinley have mapped out an itinerary which should be great fun as well as educational.

The group leaves by chartered bus for Tijuana, from where they will fly to Guadalajara. From there the itinerary includes not only the usual stopovers at Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco.

History will come to life many places along the way: Aztec Tenochtitlan (now Mexico City); Toltec Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon at Teotihuacan; granary at Guanajuato where "Turkey Neck" Martinez became a hero of Mexico's independence; the Hill of the Bells in Queretaro, where French domination of Mexico ended with the execution by Juarez' soldiers of Emperor Maximilian and his top generals Mexia and Miramon; and Patzcuaro, center of the proud Tarascan Indians conquered neither by the Aztecs nor the Spaniards.

Sites of violent history will be interspersed with the more light-hearted visits to Cuernavaca, Acapulco and San Jose Purua. Meetings with prominent Mexican and United States officials should bring about a better understanding of Mexican-U. S. relations and add an interesting aspect to the trip.

The group returns on Sunday, Nov. 19.

WHAT'S REQUIRED in the way of papers from Americans visiting Baja California for short periods? Many are asking.

Camara Nacional de Comercio de Mexicali explains: No permit is required for periods of three days or less. However, since only American citizens are entitled to this privilege, they must be able to prove their citizenship when required to do so by Mexican authorities. Birth certificate, draft card or any other similar documents are good proof of nationality.

For longer visits, two kinds of permits can be secured at any Mexican consulate or port of entry: Form F-5: Good for one visit only, with time limit of six months; cost, $3. Form F-14: Good for an unlimited number of visits during a period of six months; three passport-size pictures required; cost, $5.

WITH THE AIRLINES: Robert J. Juppe, former public relations officer for the Pacific States for British Overseas Airways Corp., San Francisco, has been promoted to senior public relations officer (Special Projects) in New York . . . Continental Airlines now offers a new "night coach" rate of $47.25 (plus 10 per cent Federal tax) for homeward-bound travelers from Denver to Los Angeles . . . Western Air Lines, effective Sept. 1, will offer 30-day round trip excursion fares between Los Angeles and Calgary and Edmonton, Canada (L.A.-Calgary tickets will be $165, compared to $219.50 at present). . . Training has begun for 19 crews that will fly four Boeing 720B turbofan SuperJets which TransWorld Airlines will put into service late this summer.

SIXTY-SIX FREE films featuring travel and vacation attractions have been released by Modern Talking Picture Service, distributor of movies sponsored by business and industry for showing to group audiences. All are 16mm-sound, and most are 15 to 50 minutes in length, and in color. Requests for information and prints should go to Modern's headquarters at 3 E. 54th St., New York 22.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

"Hotels in Rome, please . . . and prices."

THE BIG THREE are the Grand, the Hassler and the Excelsior. Plush with prices to match. For first-time American travelers, I'd suggest the Mediterraneo.

Prices are deceiving. First, there's a 5 per cent tax on the expensive hotels. Ten per cent on others. If your room is listed at $8, take a close look at the extras. In Rome there is a flat service-tax of 18 per cent added. Then a general tax called IGE that amounts to 3 per cent. On top of all that, almost every city will add the "tassa di soggiorno" (a travelers' tax) up to 32 cents per person per night. And there might be another dollar or two for a bath. And another for heat, if you need it.

Try to get a total price for lodging. It's a little like getting a house assessed. But you won't be so shocked when you're presented with the bill.

"My mother-in-law is coming to San Francisco and my husband asked me to write and see if you have a list of restaurants and other places in town to go."

Yes, I have compiled a list of my favorite places. And, happily, it's for free. We call it "San Francisco Blue Book."

It's really not a book at all, but as I said, it's free.

"Is it very difficult to bring a French poodle back to the States?"

Not if you come back by ship. The cost for boarding a dog on most lines is about $50. I wouldn't advise it by air. There is no duty on the dog. That is, you can apply his cost against your exemption. And no quarantine.

"Can you give us some advice for a cruise to Rio de Janeiro in September?"

WEATHER will average around 70-72 degrees and headed for a warm season. Sports clothes on the ship. (If it's a big ship, you'll need evening clothes.)

Rio is pretty formal. Women wear a lot of black and downtown you wear just about what you would in New York. Ties and coats for men no matter how hot the weather gets.

They say alligator purses are a good buy in Rio. But I never found any that were great. They make a little charm for a charm bracelet that is unusual. A sort of clenched fist that holds off bad luck approaching from behind you. Ask for a "figa."

"I shall be in Madrid and wonder if there are night spots where a woman can go without an escort?"

Last time I was in Madrid, a few years back, there were a lot of unescorted Spanish ladies. And they did not look like they wanted any competition. I think you'd feel pretty uncomfortable.

Weight watchers will enjoy this chicken barbecue with Chinese sauce, sweet corn, tomatoes—served outdoors.

Chicken a la China

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

GOOD FOOD just naturally tastes better when cooked at an outdoor barbecue. And, when the menu consists of chicken with Chinese barbecue sauce, ears of sweet corn, and ripe tomato slices, the success of the barbecue is guaranteed.

Chinese Barbecue Sauce is made with soy sauce, honey, dry sherry, pure vegetable oil, ginger and carefully selected seasonings. It's used to marinate the chicken, then to baste, and finally, for gourmet "dippings".

When prepared according to this recipe, it "costs" the weight watcher a mere 120 calories per 3 tablespoon serving.

Chicken With Chinese Barbecue Sauce

½ cup poly-unsaturated pure vegetable oil
⅔ cup soy sauce
1 small onion, chopped very fine
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 broiler-fryers to serve 6 to 8
⅔ cup honey
⅔ cup dry sherry, or ¼ cup vinegar and ⅓ cup bouillon
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

Mix together all sauce ingredients to make 2½ cups of sauce. Let chicken marinate in sauce for 30 minutes to 2 hours. Broil chicken at distance of 8 inches from coals, 20 minutes on inner side first, 10 to 15 minutes on skin side. Baste frequently with marinade during broiling. 335 calories per serving, including 3 tablespoons of sauce.

A Fox Among the Fascists

By Vera Williams

Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A FINE new novella, "THE FOX AND THE CAMELLIAS" by the long-admired Italian writer Ignazio Silone recently appeared in English translation (Harper, $3.50.)

From 1928 to 1944 Silone lived in exile in Switzerland where he organized underground resistance groups against the Fascists. Not too coincidentally, then, the locale of this story is Ticino, Italian Switzerland; the time, before World War II, perhaps the mid-1930s.

The title is both referential and allegorical. A fox has been preying upon the chickens of the local farmers. Daniele, the book's central figure, makes an analogy between the crafty, devious fox and a young Fascist agent who has come to Ticino to ferret out information about resistance activities.

The Festival of the Camellias, an annual Spring celebration, receives almost exclusive attention from the Ticinese who appear to be unaffected by the fact that they share their borders with a potentially dangerous nation.

The central theme of this short novel is clear enough: sacrifice for human values in the face of obligations to a totalitarian regime constitutes full redemption. The agent can not betray Daniele when he discovers his position in the resistance group because he is in love with Daniele's daughter. Therefore he gives up his own life.

That the events which precipitate the crisis and suicide seem a bit contrived does not detract from the strength of their moral implications. Characterizations are succinct.

Readers will be particularly struck by a scene of repulsive power in which Daniele expresses his fierce hatred for the Fascists by brutally slaughtering the fox, which finally has been trapped in his chicken-run.

This is a book of only 139 pages, but needs no more space to communicate a singularly human and compassionate picture of an era in which affirmation of positive moral values often involved dying for them.

"ACADEME — An ancient school where morality and philosophy were taught.

"Academy — A modern school where football is taught," wrote Ambrose Bierce in "Devil's Dictionary."

The modern malady implied in that biting satire is the subject of a controversial novel about West Point by a former cadet Norman R. Ford, "THE BLACK, THE GRAY & THE GOLD" (Doubleday, $4.95).

NATALA DE LA FERE

The French author, Natala De La Fere, has a new triumph "SOUPE DU JOUR" (Putnam, $3.50) about a famous recipe for soup and the family affected by it.

Ford's sweeping look at military life encompasses much more than a make-believe scandal at the Point when a board of inquiry is called to investigate reports of widespread cheating among the cadets, it is a look backstage of officers and Army society.

A Doctor's Story

Medicine has been a successful and perennial subject of American novels.

One area of medical endeavor, mental illnesses and mental institutions, has been consistently avoided.

This makes "GOODBYE, DOCTOR ROCH" by Andre Soubiran (Doubleday, $4.50) all the more interesting.

Dr. Roch is the medical director of Melun Psychiatric Hospital. Only a few years away from the horrors of Dachau concentration camp he finds conditions little better at Melun.

Dr. Roch battles a cynical staff, bureaucratic directors and overworked attendants.

A moving and even frightening look into the world-next-door of insanity and care of the mentally ill.

WHEN Alexander Frazier, noted Beverly Hills surgeon, took one more drink than his self-assigned "quota" he kept on drinking. This was on a New Year's weekend in a little Mexican coastal town. And after 24 hours of steady imbibing he conducted something of a reign of terror involving his pregnant wife and vacationing professional associates.

After the drinking sequence was over he couldn't remember a thing about it. But the shambles of his motel room and his bruised and abrased body bore evidence of catastrophe.

When his wife, Peg, finally told him of the physical and mental abuse he had handed her and his friends he sank to the depths of remorse. "I have ruined everything," he thought.

But the horror of the day revealed a number of people, including Frazier, to themselves in the light of truth. Particularly, it established a much firmer footing for the relationship of Peg and Alex, already married 20 years.

"THE IDENTITY OF DR. FRAZIER" (Knopf, $3.95) is a profound novel, with emphasis on the harm done by vestigial prejudice and misunderstandings between Jews and Gentiles. Author is George Sklar, who also has written plays and movies.

THE CIVIL WAR Centennial (1961-65) is tapping a vast reservoir of heretofore unpublished memorabilia and history.

Newest among these books is a handsomely bound, exceptionally well-edited volume, COLUMN SOUTH," (Colton, $12.50.)

This is the story of Matthias Baldwin, a private and his brother, William Francis Colton, a captain, of the 15th Pennsylvania Cavalry, by Suzanne Colton Wilson, niece

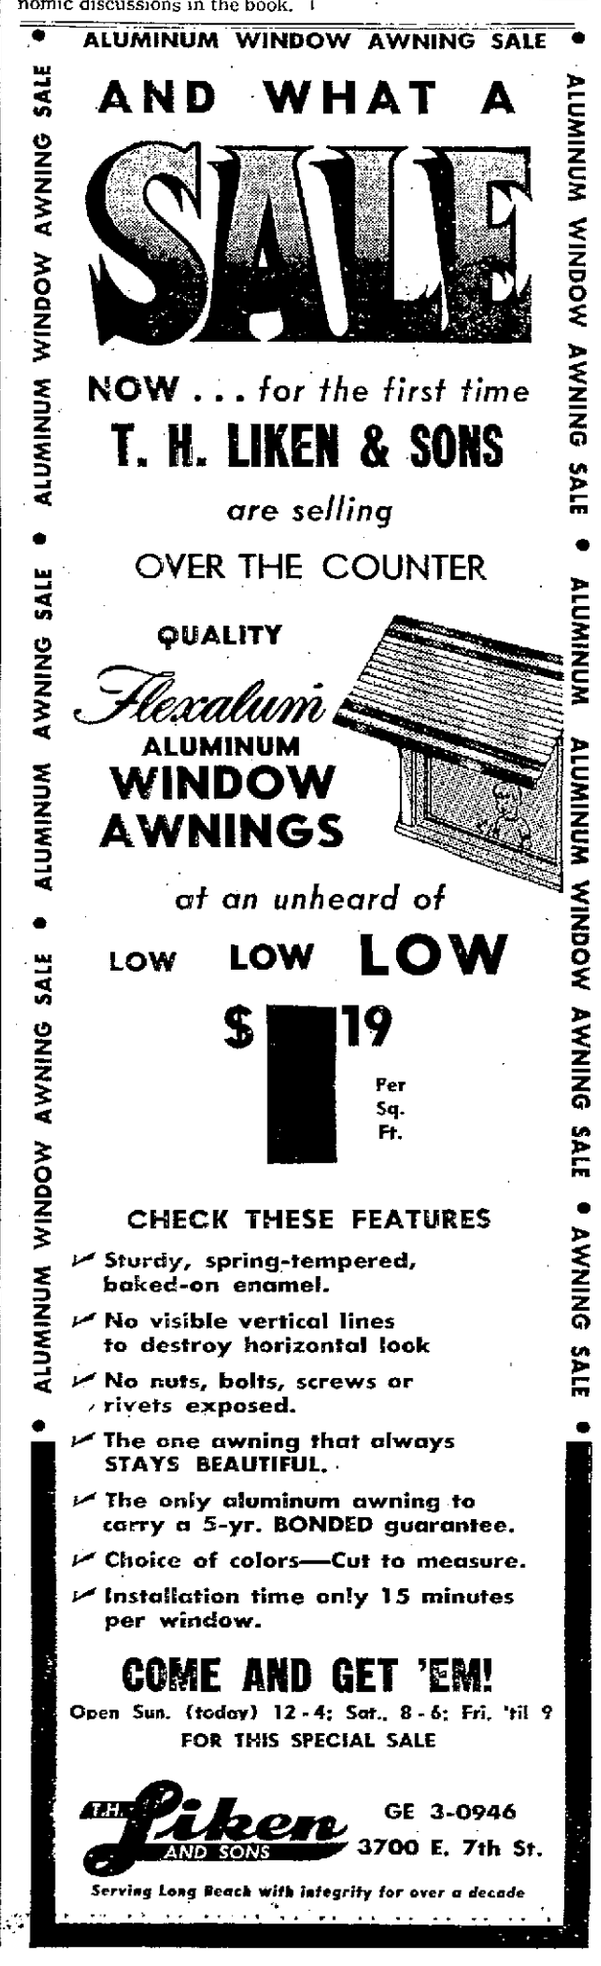

The book covers three years service with the Army of the Cumberland as they rode south through Antietam, Stone's River, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Nashville and other places with sabre-rattling names.

It is not just the story of battle, but the whole face of war — the humorous, the tragic, the inspiring—the prison, the furlough and the spine-chilling patrol deep into enemy country.

"Column South" is a rare moment in Civil War literature.

EVERY FIVE YEARS, because of technological changes, the world has to prepare for a new type of war emphasizes "ARMS CONTROL, DISARMAMENT AND NATIONAL SECURITY" edited by Donald G. Brennan (Braziller, $6). Twenty-three contributors wrote the volume, which is an enlargement of last fall's issue of Daedalus, the Journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Frequently it is stressed that an international body, such as the United Nations, is needed to bring all possible order out of the chaos. The publishers have assembled a battery of endorsements from President Kennedy and various top level figures, testifying to the worth of the technical, diplomatic, military, legal and economic discussions in the book.

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY people buy puppies, feed them correctly, give them veterinarian attention, and love them, only to have the pups develop traits that make the owners feel they cannot keep them as pets.

Some nervous habits, sadly enough, are based on heredity. One of the most common is dribbling, or losing control when the puppy gets frightened or upset, sees a familiar person, or when it is teething. This weakness is sometimes overcome as the pet matures, but only if the general environment in which it lives is confidence-inspiring.

If your new puppy has this problem, try to be calm, cheerful, attentive, and reassuring. Sharp words, ugly tones, and harsh cuffings will always cause this type puppy to show the insecurity it feels. Of course, if the pet is indoors and then deliberately soils, it can be given a very minor scolding and taken outside to the proper place. However, always try to get the dog outside frequently to prevent having to reprimand the pet.

NEVER OPEN the outside door and let a nervous wriggling puppy dart into the home. Instead, step outside, greet the pup in a casual pleasant tone, then walk about for a moment as though there is something that needs your attention. If the puppy soils upon seeing you, at least you won't have an unattractive spot on the rug. And chances are good that with this approach, the pet will control itself, and soon you can walk back into the house with the little fellow at your heels. If there is someone inside the house, pick up the puppy and carry it cradled in your arms so it can greet the person in this position.

Two puppies are always happier, better adjusted than one, enjoying greater feeling of security in a home.

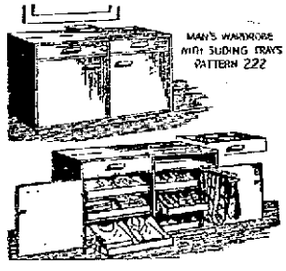

Ask your friends to co-operate by not making a big fuss over your pet when they come to call. Children, too, should be taught to greet the nervous pup with calm devotion, not lavish attention.

Take the puppy on every outing possible. Get it accustomed to people, noise and traffic. And help strengthen its bladder muscles by confining it to small quarters at night.

OFTEN JUST making an indoor pet of the pup will give it the confidence of being loved that it needs and promptly correct the problem. Also, the introduction of another puppy into the family may end this unpleasant trait. It is usually when the pup is taken from its dam or litter mates and thrust into a strange environment that insecurity sets in, with its accompanying nervous conduct.

If, after giving loving attention to the puppy, grooming it, and letting it know you approve of it, there is no improvement or if you become irritable, try to place the pet in a new home. But don't blame yourself harshly if you have tried to help the puppy. This is a very annoying weakness, and, with all the wonderful stable puppies in the world, there surely is one somewhere for you.

New Compact Has Electric Eye

By Irving Desfor

SEARCH FOR an all-purpose camera—one that is inexpensive; small enough to slip into a pocket; always ready and extremely simple to use; in 35mm film format; brainy enough to set its own correct exposure and produce good quality pictures — has turned up a candidate.

It's the Olympus Pen-EE, one of the newest electric eye compacts in the half-frame — or single frame, as some call it—35mm field.

The Pen will fit into a man's shirt pocket or a woman's handbag for instant availability. It has a 28mm f/3.5 lens and can be set for automatic or manual operation. It doubles the number of pictures obtained on regular 35mm films: 40 from a 20-exposure and 72 from a 36-exposure roll. Each one measures ¾x1 inch or 18x24mm, half the normal 35mm frame.

THE CAMERA is simple to operate and costs were cut because it has a single fixed speed and fixed focus lens. Its only shooting speed is 1/60th of a second and its short focus lens gets everything sharp from five feet to infinity, wide open.

Automatic operation on the Pen-EE starts by turning the lens collar to a click-stop at a white ASA number (from 10 to 200) for whatever film is in the camera. It will not take a picture, however, until: 1. the film has been turned to a fresh frame by a simple thumb motion across a knurled knob and 2. only if there is enough light. The light meter cell surrounds the lens, surveys the scene and sends a red flag signal in the bright-line viewfinder if the illumination is wrong.

For flash or manual operation, the lens collar is turned to a set of orange-colored markings from f/3.5 to f/22. The shutter speed is the same, of course — 1/60.

THESE CONCLUSIONS were reached after testing: They produced excellent black-and-white negatives which made sharp, grainless 8x10 inch enlargements with good detail in the shadow and high-light areas.

A perceptible effort must be made to hold camera firm for utmost sharpness.

Automatic shooting with no focusing to worry about is veritably an amateur photographer's heaven.

The 200 ASA limit is too short for today's fast films like Tri-X (400) and Super Hypan (500). You can shoot available light interiors and low-light outdoors with these films by setting the lens collar for manual operation at f/3.5 if the red flag pops up during automatic operation.

Photo Treat

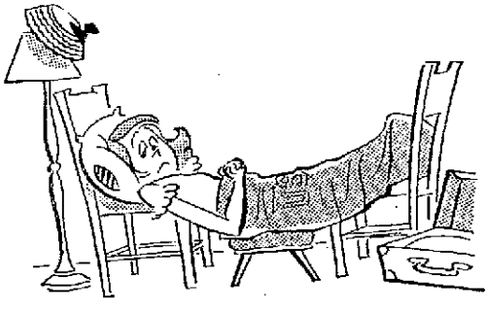

Camera-bearing tourists visiting this year's Kansas Centennial will find a real photographic treat in the authentic vividness of the re-enactment of the historic race for the land on the Cherokee Strip. Scheduled for Kansas City on Sept. 16, the mammoth spectacle will include hundreds of resurrected frontier vehicles, real-style frontiersmen and their families.

YOUR GARDEN

Accents Enliven the Garden

By Bob Gilmore

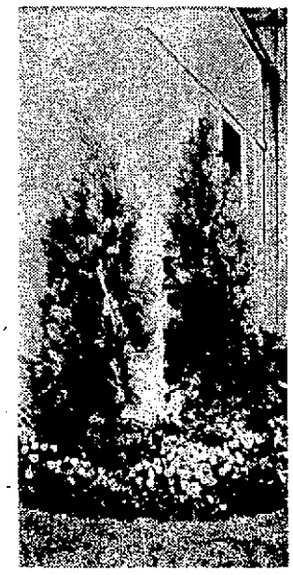

YOU CAN accent or highlight your garden scene by intelligent use of those ornaments referred to by landscapers as specimen plants. These have a strong and definite individuality; and may be characterized by a white trunk, a tall, aspiring growth, a peculiar formation of the leaves or an outstanding habit of growth. Plants that possess a distinctive trait will keep your garden from becoming monotonous.

Modern landscaping is of a relatively informal nature. Yet certain features of the old-fashioned garden may be utilized today for the purpose of presenting a garden accent. Clipped hedges that are shaped to form a round head or a columnar effect will perk up a drab-appearing scene. For this purpose buxus microphylla japonica will prove a splendid choice; especially interesting when trimmed to a pyramid or globe and grown in a tub.

SALIX BABYLONICA will prove to be an exciting garden plant and, in addition, it has a very famous history. This is the tree that historians claim was such an outstanding feature of the gardens of Babylon. It is known today as the Weeping Willow. It grows to about 40 feet; the branches are long, pendulous and arch gracefully to the ground: As a specimen plant this ornamental should be planted alone and in a somewhat isolated location.

The Chinese pistachio, which should be more widely planted than it is, provides a rich show of color through its foliage tones. The leaves take on brilliant shades of yellow, crimson and scarlet and have a distinctive shape as they are extremely long and pointed. This pistachio attains a height of close to 50 feet at maturity; it grows rapidly and thrives along the coast as well as in the inland valleys.

One of the most interesting small trees is cotinus coggygria, better and more familiarly known as the smoke tree. Its name is due to the feathery panicles of tiny purplish gray flowers that give the appearance of a dance cloud of colored smoke. The foliage is equally colorful, the leaves turning brilliant gold during the fall months. The smoke tree wants a spot in the sun and thrives throughout this area. It grows to a height of about 15 feet.

Golden column arborvitae is used here to relieve monotony of bare walls at corner jutting into the garden.

THE QUEEN PALM, often called the cocos plumosa, is a very familiar sight on California landscapes. It is perhaps our most popular palm and is characterized by its tall, slender, smooth trunk, topped with a plume-like crown of feathery fronds. This is a splendid subject for the average Southland garden; it provides a tropical appearance and is a natural for lawn plantings. It thrives with relatively little care or maintenance.

The flame tree is another interesting subject that qualifies as a specimen plant. During the summer months the cup-shaped blooms of rich red appear in profusion on scarlet-toned stems, this trait accounting for its name. It is perhaps one of the showiest of all flowering trees. The tree grows to about 40 feet and thus may be accommodated on the average-sized scene. It is relatively winter hardy.

Other subjects that may be utilized for creating dramatic effects in your garden include: scarlet flowering eucalyptus; the white lily tree; raphiolepsis, phormium tena; echium fastuosum; crotalaria; the Trinidad flame bush; Australian ferns and the scarlet bottle bush.

Color Perks Ivy Bed

Mexican pink primrose planted in dwarf ivy lends a pleasing pink contrast to ivy's green.

By Joe Littlefield

DWARF IVY forms an interesting ground cover in parkings, on banks, slopes, or as a lawn substitute. The ivy may be planted in sun in milder Southern California areas but where excess heat is a summer problem, it usually is planted in partial shade.

When pink evening primroses are interplanted with the new ivy, the ground cover looks as if wild pink poppies were growing there. The pink gives the green ivy a bright color lift along in late May and June.

Don't worry about the pink primroses whether they'll hold their own against the smothering growth of the dwarf ivy. They'll take care of themselves because they're hardy perennials, die down in late fall and grow back up sturdier than ever next blooming season.

WE'VE SEEN these primroses growing and blooming in poor soil, and adverse growing conditions. Some folk call these primroses, the Mexican pink primroses.

Care of the ivy should include flooding the soil without wetting leaves, then spraying thoroughly with an insecticide that controls sap-sucking as well as chewing insects. Occasional dousing with a sharp stream of water from the hose helps to knock off insects. Where ivy has become infested with red spider mites or mealybugs, spraying as above at 10-day intervals will clean up the pest colonies.

By Dorothy Jonson

Loganberries, raspberries and other cane fruits (also roses) are sometimes afflicted by a growth at the crown of the root, just above the ground. The substance resembles cork in appearance and weight. This condition is serious. It is known as crown gall.

If the bushes appear healthy and have not begun to show any ill effect from the disease, you have a chance to save them. The treatment is to prune away the gall, cutting down to the healthy cane or root. Disinfect the wound thoroughly with undiluted vinegar. Be careful not to scatter prunings as they are highly infectious and might infect other plants with which they come in contact.

When you've cleaned the roots in this way, spray them thoroughly with a strong fungicide and do not be in a hurry to cover the base area of the plants which you have uncovered in your pruning operation. Air and sunlight are beneficial to assist in clearing up crown gall.

It's Versatile

One of the most versatile shrubs to come along in a generation of gardeners is India Hawthorn. The delicate spring bloom of this shrub belies its rugged nature. Plant it in sun or shade, in poor soil or good, in hot valley gardens or wind-blown seashore settings, it is all the same to India Hawthorn.

Ask for it by the name of Raphiolepis indica in CAN nurseries, or simply India Hawthorn.

RAY WEIDEMANN
It's Southern, Suh!

YES, it's true that Ray's Range is located in Southern California. It's also true that it's located at 1190 E. Carson St. (near Orange Ave.) on the southern side of the street.

Moreover, the stove on which owner Ray Weidemann does his cooking is located in the southern part of this nifty restaurant.

So it's perfectly natural, isn't it, that Ray's Range serves terrific southern fried chicken? Ray's chicken is so doggoned delicious, suh, that many of his customers swear he must be a southern boy. Ray isn't (he's a Missourian), but he sure knows how to fix this southern delicacy the way it's done below the Mason-Dixon line.

Ray buys the highest quality chickens obtainable. He cooks each dinner to order, requiring much extra time and care. The result is well worth it. Ray's chicken is as tender as a southern belle's little pinkie and a hundred times as tasty. It's $1.55 on the chicken plate or $1.99 on the chicken dinner which includes choice of soup du jour, tomato juice or fine salad; cream-whipped potatoes, scrumptious old-fashioned gravy, fresh garden vegetables, hot yeasty rolls with honey and choice of beverage.

Also outstanding at Ray's are his tender, juicy Ruchti baby beef spencer steak dinners, $1.99; ground sirloin steak, $1.60; halibut, $1.60, and Guaymas shrimp, $1.70.

The restaurant, which starts serving Sunday dinners at 12:30 p.m., also features Ray's wonderful homemade pies, such as spicy apple, cherry, chocolate cream, peach, apricot, banana and coconut.

Footnote: Pretty Joan Weidemann, Ray's wife, will remain away from the cash register for a few more months to care for their newest son, 3-month-old Jonathan, born May 7. Congratulations, folks!

It took defeat for Long Beach to prove itself a fully grown up, nationally important center of bowling activity.

When delegates presented the Long Beach bid for the 1964 American Bowling Congress Championship Tournament at the ABC convention in Detroit this year they were presenting one of the West Coast's best qualified cities to host the largest tournament in bowling.

With its new Auditorium-Exhibit Hall Long Beach offered a 42-lane facility second to none with spectator capacity far outstripping that offered by other bidders for the tournament. A resort city, Long Beach was prepared with unequaled housing and recreation facilities, and most important, the number of local area bowling enthusiasts Long Beach could have drawn as tournament participants and spectators was more than twice that of its nearest competitor.

* * * *

THE ABC site selection committee overlooked these special qualifications, but expert observers, editors, sports writers and top ranked bowlers all over the country had better vision.

No sooner had the ABC directors passed over the Long Beach tournament bid in favor of Oakland than a cry went up from practically every quarter of American bowling society. Loudest in their reproach of the ABC directors for passing over Long Beach were the bowling writers and editors.

BECAME ONE OF GREATEST KEGLERS

Rainy Day for Football Gave Merle Matthews Bowling Start

Probably no one individual star can claim the influence of Long Beach's Merle Matthews in stimulating interest in women's bowling on the West Coast.

The ten-pin career of the 45-year-old Procter and Gamble secretary who brought home the west's first BPAA All-Star championship crown in 1958 so caught the public imagination that it has drawn thousands of California women into the pin sport.

Holder of five series over 700 with a high 745, Merle has shot the final round of the BPAA All-Star classic five times out of nine entries. She has been a member of LA City Team Champions seven times since 1944. Her championship titles include LA City Singles, All Events and Doubles, California State All-Events, National All-Star Singles, Southern California Match Game, and WIBC Doubles Champion.

* * * *

ALL BUT THREE of these titles she has held more than once.

With a composite average of 191 the past six years, Merle was 1958 Southern California "Bowler of the Year"; has been a member of the Southern California All-Star Team every year but two since its inception and a member of "300" Magazine's Western All-Star team five years.

These are broad outlines of the career of one of bowling's all-time great stars, but none of it might ever have happened if it weren't for football.

The tall, "tom-boy" brunette was on her way to a football game with friends on New Years Day 1940. It started raining so, rather than get soaked, the party stopped into a bowling alley.

A MASTER MISS

Long Beach's Merle Matthews, 1958 BPAA All-Star champion, has created more interest in bowling among Southern California women than any one other national star. A Procter & Gamble secretary, Merle has been on the championship bowling trail 21 years.

"IT WAS PRETTY BAD," Merle remembers. "I think I shot 98 and nearly broke my fingers in the ball return."

But that was enough for Merle to discover a challenge in bowling. She joined two leagues that season and shot about 30 games per week-end in open play to finish her first year with a 158 book average.

"I never had a chance to study with a qualified instructor," she explains, "people going into the sport these days have a lot of advantages that way that weren't available then."

Besides being a perennial champion, Merle is a confirmed bachelor bowlerette, marriage being one game she's never tried.

"And I don't think I'll ever get started in that one," she comments. "After all, where could I find anyone who'd let me bowl four nights a week and do as I please the other three?"

Bowling Today Is Game for Everyone

By ALAN ALEXANDER
Secretary Long Beach Bowling Association

What is LBBA?

The initials stand for Long Beach Bowling Association with a membership for the 1960-61 season of nearly 9,800 men. While most of the membership is comprised of residents of Long Beach, Lakewood, Wilmington, and surrounding Long Beach area communities, files show that more than 55 cities are represented in the ranks.

LBBA is the official sanctioning organization for men's bowling activities in the Long Beach area affiliated with the national American Bowling Congress.

* * * *

The association was chartered by the American Bowling Congress as a non-profit organization after LBBA separated from Los Angeles South East District Bowling Association in 1948.

Since its inception, LBBA has grown from an original membership of approximately 2,000 bowling in eight houses to our present 9,800 membership shooting in 17 bowling establishments. Of the original eight houses operating in 1948, Ken Mar Bowl and Premier Bowl no longer exist, but many new "palaces" have taken their place.

The original eight houses of the LBBA carried a total of 112 lanes while members today shoot across 352 lanes in 17 houses—not counting 36 lanes at Marina and Crown Bowls.

* * * *

TO REMINISCE a bit, how many remember bowling in the "old Long Beach"? Remember the Bath House alleys, Arcade, Club alleys, Premier Bowl or Ken Mar? The last two are of fair recent vintage, but the others should bring back fond memories, even though remembering might make us feel like old-timers.

The game has changed a lot since those times. In the old days the idea was just to win, not how you won, but "win" in any way you could, and anything went.

The game was once played in back-alleys, basements and saloons.

Now bowling alleys are clean, plush establishments often visited more by women and children than men, and there is as much sportsmanship and creative diversion in bowling as in any other sport.

American Bowling Congress, the organization of which LBBA is a member, is largely responsible for these improvements in the pin game.

* * * *

Today bowling is a game for everyone. If you can hold a ball, you can bowl.

They used to say, "if you can walk, you can bowl," but even that has become outmoded. Today many disabled people confined to wheel chairs find healthful, stimulating recreation in bowling. Age, too, is no barrier.

Cal Bowl Big Boost to Sport

Cal Bowl, 2400 E. Carson St., made its official debut April 9 of this year in one of the most spectacular grand openings ever held in the Southland.

The bowling program was star-studded and featured pro bowler Morrie Oppenheim and Mary Hoyt, both from the AMF staff of champions. Oppenheim climaxed the festivities by firing a perfect game. Since then, three perfectos have been scored.

* * * *

THE SUMMER LEAGUE season is winding up for most Cal Bowl leagues and winter schedules are set. A filled bowling establishment is the keynote of success, so Cal merits the stamp of approval, having filled the center through the summer and bulging at the seams with winter leagues.

Homer Chesnut, general manager, is not one to wait for success to come to him. With an expert staff from lanes to desk, Chesnut opened Cal with the policy to serve each bowler's individual needs. Knowing the problem of a large establishment creating a cold and impersonal relationship, Chesnut vowed this must not happen regardless of the fact that Cal Bowl's 40 lanes ranked it the largest in the city. And so, an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness has become Cal Bowl's most outstanding feature.

Facilities at Cal Bowl are second to none.

OUT OF the national debate, comment and controversy which this defeat stimulated has come the most important triumph Long Beach could have hoped to attain—national recognition as an important capitol of the bowling sport.

To assume this position among the champions of U. S. bowling cities Long Beach has displayed inherent enthusiasm and natural talent for the sport as well as the willingness to devote whatever effort has been needed to continually improve its game.

Endowed with these essential characteristics, Long Beach's progress through the ranks has been rapid since those beginning days in the early 1900s when the city could boast only three bowling establishments totaling just 23 lanes.

* * * *

TODAY THE TWO Long Beach city bowling associations claim a combined membership of more than 17,700 bowlers in more than 550 leagues shooting across 388 lanes in 19 Long Beach establishments.

When Women Took Up Bowling Alleys Became Plush Palaces

By ALICE MEGLEMRE

Thirty million bowling Americans can't be wrong so bowling must be stamped the nation's number one indoor sport.

Strange to think that the introduction of the ten-pin sport to this country came about because business was bad at a little German restaurant on Greenwich St. in New York back in 1880. The proprietor installed two alleys, (now referred to as lanes), in his basement which resulted in booming business for him and the start of the gigantic bowling empire which now extends into other countries.

* * * *

WE DOUBT that bowling exists in Russia although we have not officially confirmed it. If the Russians bowled they would have to spend more time worrying about their averages thus, less time being so troublesome. They certainly can not claim credit for inventing the game because evidence shows Egyptians bowled in 200 B.C.

Martin Luther called the sport his favorite 1700 years later and history tells us there was bowling in New Amsterdam in 1620. One doubts however, that early participants in the ancient game of ten-pins ever dreamed of the growth that bowling would attain.

* * * *

VETERAN BOWLING proprietors say women are mainly responsible for the clean-up campaign in the game. When the distaff group invaded the maple and pine fairways the smokey pool-room bowling alley gave way to plush ultra modern ten-pin palaces. Shady individuals, who hung out in the back alley type of bowling establishments, vanished and the sport took on the flavor of family recreation.

High point scoring is an everyday occurance for these Long Beach Junior All-Stars, ranking among the highest Southern California junior squads, but they still get a bang out of watching the big numbers go up on the board. Crowding coach Audry McCain here are Jimmy Turner, Gary Murphy, Marilyn Travis and Tom Sears.

Big Junior Bowling Program Under Way

Right in step with the boom in Long Beach bowling is an expanding program for junior shooters.

Junior leagues sponsored by junior high school, high school and college athletic departments, churches, service clubs, business, industry, and often by the bowling houses themselves have brought local youngsters flocking to the pin sport.

A conservative estimate for the coming season predicts Long Beach will have more than 2,000 juniors on about 400 teams in 50 leagues shooting across 300 alleys.

Ranging in age from about 9 years, barely big enough to heft a bowling ball, to 19 years, junior shooters are rated among the best bowlers in Long Beach.

On Parade

THE RECENT ASSASSINATION of Rafael Trujillo was a world-shaking event. Recalling how the secrets of Stalin had come out after his death, PARADE sent Washington correspondent Jack Anderson and photographer Larry Fried to the Dominican Republic to seek the truth about Trujillo.

Anderson's penetrating article (see page 6) not only gives PARADE readers the fascinating untold story of Trujillo's last days, it is also a lesson in the folly and inevitable doom of all tyrants.

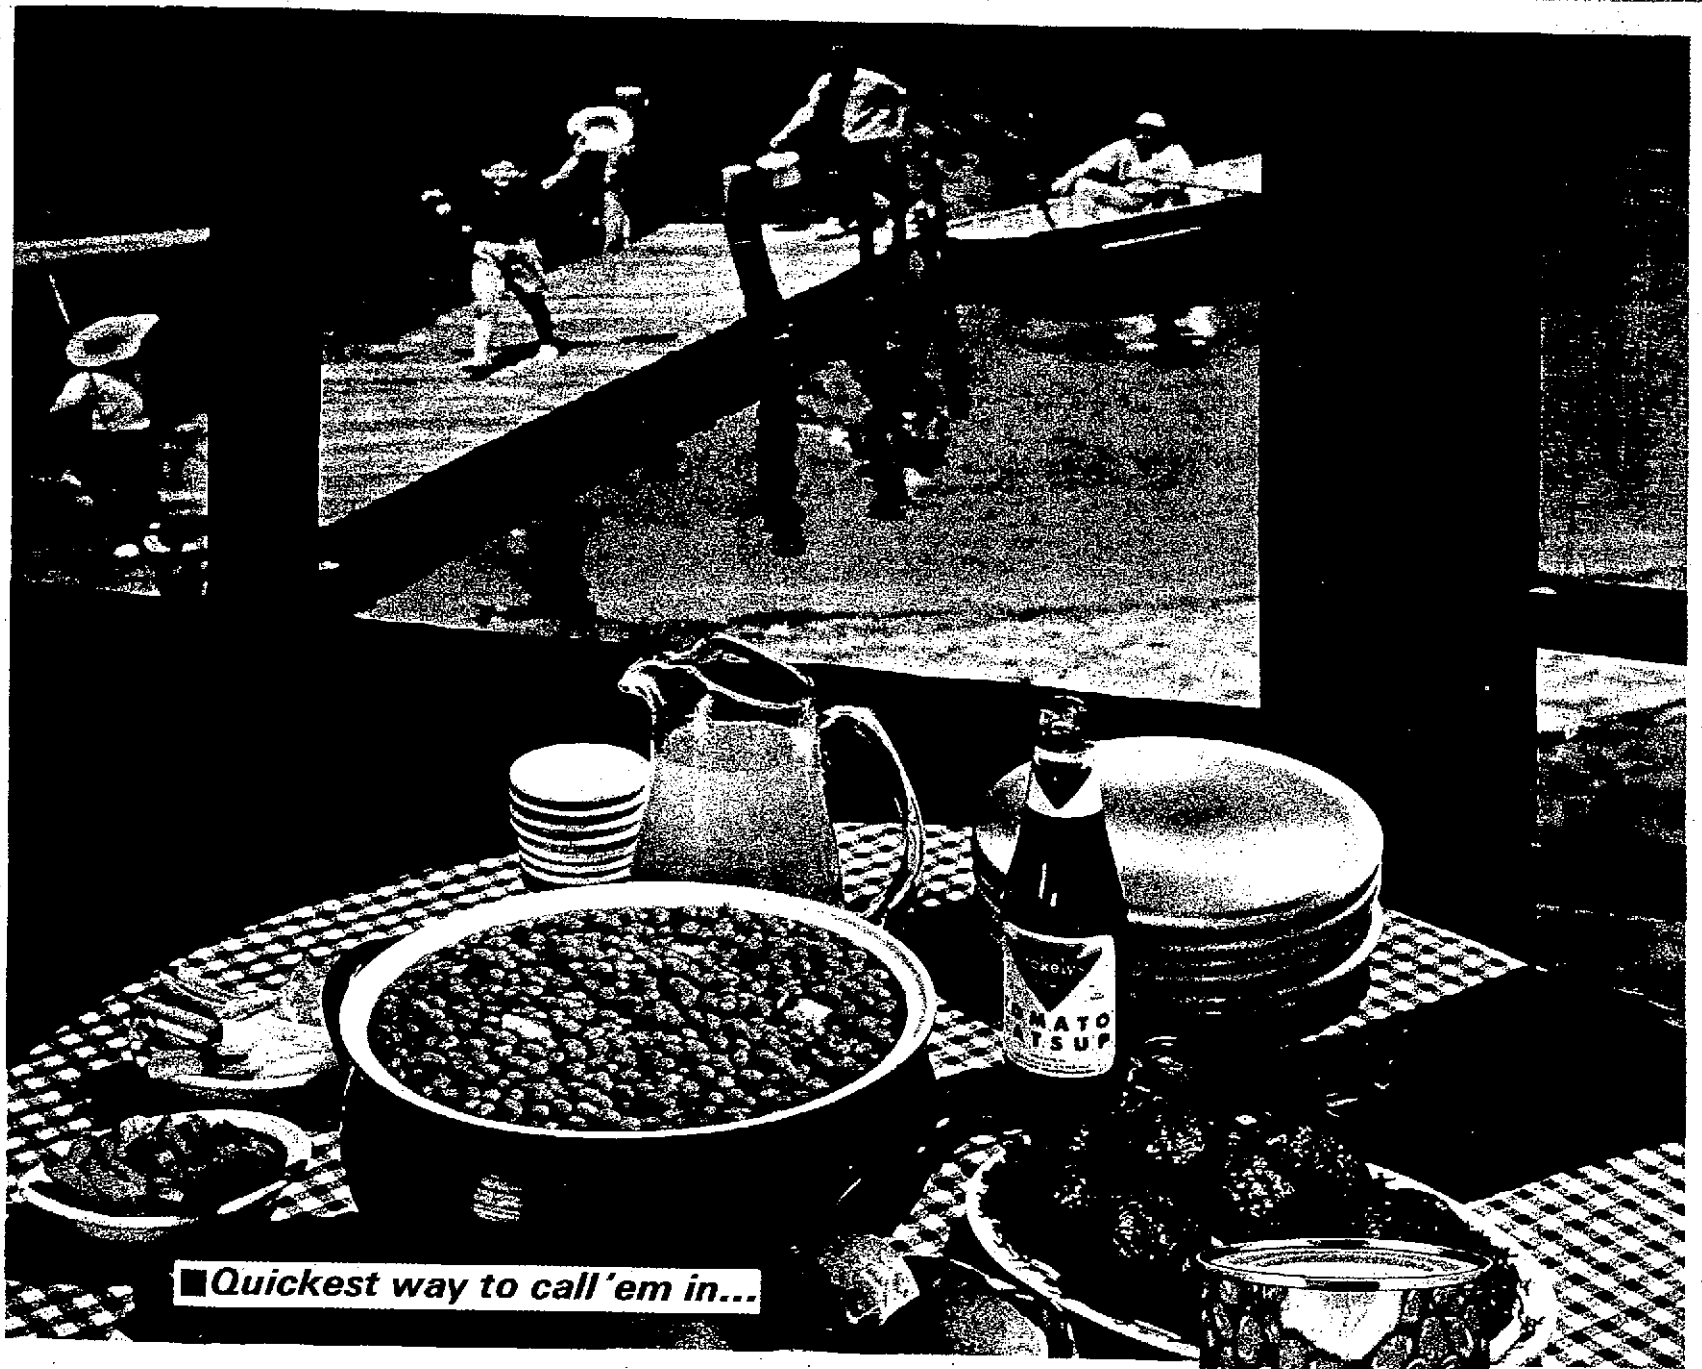

The importance of Anderson's findings goes beyond these pages. Hearing about his trip, Sen. Wayne Morse (D. Ore.), who heads the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin American affairs, has invited Anderson to testify on his first-hand observations in the tiny Caribbean republic. In photo below, Anderson looks at idealized statue of Trujillo.

Could you pick a beauty queen?

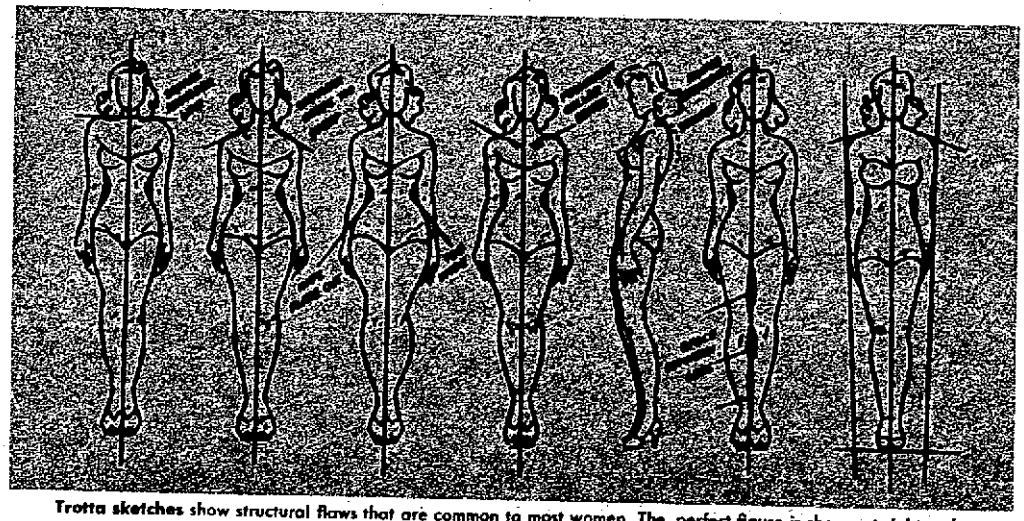

by DOROTHY WHEATLEY

NEXT WEEK, the annual wave of beauty contests culminates in the famous Miss America pageant at Atlantic City. Fifty-five girls will match curves, looks and talent for the nation's best-known beauty crown. And every red-blooded American male will envy the 11 judges who make the final choice.

But is rating pretty girls really such a snap? "I thought it would be perfect duty," groaned Air Force Maj. Bill Lookadoo after judging last year's Miss Press Photographer contest. "Boy, was I wrong! It was worse than serving on the jury at a murder trial. We had to judge on straight beauty—and the more you learn about standards for beauty, the more elusive beauty becomes."

Could you judge a beauty contest? Your first hurdle would be to overcome your prejudices. The judges' manual for the Miss Press Photographer contest warns: "Too many beauty judges pick queens who remind them of someone they love, someone they consider beautiful by past experience or, all too often, a girl whose personality is so overwhelming that it overshadows all other considerations."

No judge should look for the perfect face, because it doesn't exist and can't be defined, according to Vincent Trotta, veteran judge of Miss America pageants and dean of judges for the International Beauty Congress. About the best a judge can do is look at proportion of features and skin texture. He also looks at the contour of face and smile.

But today's perfect figure can be defined, Trotta says. The drawings above are his definition of what to look for. Here's how he describes the perfect beauty:

"She should have gently sloping shoulders. She should stand erect. When her hands fall naturally along her hips, her arms should form a gently tapering line inward from her shoulders to the floor. When she stands with her legs together, there should be little or no space between them all the way to the floor."

There aren't many such girls around, but it's the search for perfection that makes the world—and beauty contests—keep going. ■

Dictator Rafael Trujillo ruled Dominican Republic with iron hand, liked to dress up in fancy uniforms.

President Joaquin Balaguer (right), installed by Trujillo in '60, talks to PARADE's Jack Anderson.

Chauffeur, Zacarias de la Cruz, fired at assassins with machine-gun, still bears bullet scar on head.

TRUJILLO

by JACK ANDERSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: The recent assassination of Dominican Dictator Rafael Trujillo ended a long, twisted and too-little-known career. In this important article, PARADE'S Jack Anderson has penetrated the tight secrecy that has shrouded Trujillo for 31 years. This White Paper is a document against all dictators.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO.

WEEKS AFTER Dictator Rafael Trujillo's bloody death, the lawn outside his residence here had grown ragged. There was no one with the initiative to tell the gardener to cut the grass. A band continued to parade past the mansion each morning, playing the dictator's favorite marches. No one quite dared to suggest that the ceremony could be suspended.

Men still took care to wear khaki shirts and pants of different shades, not to carry their coats over their arms. It didn't seem to occur to them that they might now disregard the dictator's silly whims.

For 31 years "El Benefactor," as they were obliged to call him, ruled this peanut-sized sovereignty with a brutal, though sometimes benevolent, sway. He came near to being the most durable despot in Latin-American history. Only Porfirio Diaz of Mexico (1876-1911) remained in power longer.

Recalling how the secrets of Stalin had come out after his death, PARADE dispatched a reporter-photographer team here to seek the truth about Trujillo. His subjects (he arbitrarily set their number at 4 million, fired the census taker for finding only 3.1 million) were still fearful. They behaved uneasily as if the old dictator's ghost still marched upon the land. They could almost hear the sharp, snapping stride of the highly polished riding boots which had trampled them into subjection. But a few were beginning to talk.

HE READ THE PRESIDENT'S MAIL

Even President Joaquin Balaguer, a Trujillo lackey, plucked up enough courage to admit the old tyrant had made mistakes. Trujillo installed Balaguer as President in 1960 as a sop to democracy, went through the ritual of paying a formal call on his puppet. It pleased Trujillo to order a 21-gun salute, not for the new President, but for himself. Thereafter, Balaguer was treated like an office boy. Often he learned about his "decisions" when he read about them in the controlled press. All his mail was opened by the dictator, even the most personal letters. Trujillo also kept the presidential suite; the President was obliged to scurry back and forth when summoned.

Those who dared to talk about Trujillo—mostly prominent Dominicans and diplomats—say he had become living proof that "power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely." Here's how they remember his last days:

- He had become a slave of superstition and suspicion. Because a fortune teller had predicted he would go out with a hurricane, he would call anxiously for weather reports. Perhaps before the end, he came to realize that the hurricane most to be feared was not one of nature but the gale of world opinion against his ruthless rule.
- He had become entangled in a web of his own weaving, an embroidery of intrigue. He would plot feverishly against enemies who he suspected were plotting against him. "He saw shadows on the walls," says a diplomat.
- The raw edge of Trujillo's temper lay ever closer to the surface. The most trivial matter could set him off. He would spring to his feet behind his ornate desk with a strident, soprano scream: "Imbecile! Good-for-nothing!" As passion seized him, he might slap or spit at the offender, or deliver a well-aimed kick to the groin. President Balaguer himself is said to have experienced the humiliation of Trujillo's slap.

HYPOCHONDRIA AND FOPPERY

He had become a hypochondriac, morbidly interested in his own health. Except for kidney trouble, which forced him to sip his drinks, he was in good shape for a man of 69. But he would bring renowned specialists to the Dominican Republic to check his symptoms.

Trujillo did not grow old peacefully but with despair. He once had his face lifted, which left him with an insipid grin. (Result: he censored most smiling photographs of himself.) But he couldn't stop the erosion of his youth. He tried to compensate for it by wearing ever more splendid garb. One uniform, dripping with gold braid, cost $10,000—not counting the plumed cocked hat, which he regarded as his own special status symbol.

This foppish dictator had already given his name to the country's chief city, highest peak and more streets, parks and places than anyone cared to count. He erected over 2,000 statues of himself, forced his subjects to display his pictures, plaques and busts in their homes and offices (a sideline on which he took a profitable rake-off). But he needed more honors to feed his ego. During his last days he would make pilgrimages throughout his domain and soak up the admiration of the crowds, which were virtually driven out to cheer him. He would gloat over the banners that read "Trujillo, Greatest Man of the Continent," or "Trujillo, Your People Adore You."

The wild but wily tyrant made two basic errors that started his slide down the steep incline toward the black pit. His first was a ruthless campaign to destroy the island's proud old families, whose ancestry went back to the Spanish conquistadores. As a spanking new general in 1928, Trujillo was turned down for membership in their exclusive Club Union, a snub he never forgave.

After he seized power, he forced them to rename the club after him, delighted in humiliating them. But he also used them to build up his regime. He did so by knowing exactly who could be bribed, flattered or terrorized.

But in 1958, Trujillo's long-smouldering hatred of the Dominican first families blazed out of control. By a series of financial decrees, he set about to wipe out their fortunes. He held them at bay as he systematically robbed them with renewed terror and torture.

His secret police, the dreaded SIM (Servicio de Inteligencia Militar), were given free reign. They tortured not only for information but also for pleasure. Supposedly plainclothesmen, they wore a familiar uniform of slacks and checked shirts. They roamed around in plain Volkswagen cars. The sight of a Volkswagen was enough to strike terror into the heart of anyone on the streets; the conversation would freeze as the car crept past in agonizingly slow gear.

Trujillo selected as his SIM chief the sadistic John Abbes, a radio and electronics ham who rose from court jester to court assassin, who sported a down-turned mustache to make himself more frightening. He was the impresario at a torture chamber with the whispered nickname of La Cuarenta—after its location on 40th Street here. A top-ranking diplomat told PARADE: "I have seen sworn statements that Abbes showed Trujillo a list each morning. The old man would personally check off the names of those he wanted picked up and tortured."

JOKES ABOUT EL BENEFACTOR

Driven to the wall, the old aristocrats fought back. They struck first at his vanity. After three decades of keeping a straight face, they began to snicker at him, to tell bold jokes about him. They whispered such stories as these:

With his two sons, playboy Ramfis and neurotic Rhadames, El Benefactor was making a flight over his fief. He suggested magnanimously that he might throw out a $100 bill "to make somebody happy." Ramfis suggested that he throw out two $50 bills and make two people happy. Rhadames, even more economical, suggested ten $10 bills would spread the joy still wider. The pilot capped them all by suggesting the Trujillos throw themselves out "and make everybody happy."

Then there was the one about Trujillo's arrival at the pearly gates. He was greeted like a long lost brother by a character with horns and a tail who thrust a pitchfork into his hand. "I'm so glad to see you," said Satan. "I've been waiting for centuries to take a vacation."

The sting of whispers only goaded Trujillo into taking harsher measures. This time the aristocrats retaliated with a plot against his life: a hopeless, bungled affair. They planned to booby-trap his box at the December 1958 livestock show, failed to get suspicious when he abruptly postponed the show. Within a few days, hundreds of leading Dominicans with their families had been rounded up.

El Benefactor, in his fury, decreed a special punishment for them. They were stripped naked and herded into cages, men and women together. In some cases, men were handcuffed to other men's wives to complete their degradation. The last laugh, he thought, was his. At a party he boasted: "There are only poor people here tonight. All the best families are in jail."

THEY SHOT UP THE WRONG CAR

More cautiously now, the surviving aristocrats formed three-man cells, established tighter security. Once they mistakenly shot up the wrong car in his motorcade; another time, they tried unsuccessfully to plant a bomb in his car. At least a half-dozen attempts were made on his life before he was eventually brought down.

Trujillo's second big mistake was pursuing his enemies across international borders. He was not the least deterred by the uproar over the kidnapping in 1956 of his critic-in-exile, Professor Jesus de Galindez, from the streets of New York City. In May 1960 he sent his gunmen to Mexico City to eliminate Jose Almoina, who had written a slavish book called I Was Trujillo's Secretary, then defected and denounced the dictator. Trujillo's killers not only ran Almoina down with a green Ford, but pumped three .38 slugs into him for good measure.

The following month he began stalking bigger human game: Romulo Betancourt, President of Venezuela. Twelve years earlier, when Betancourt was on the run from the dictatorship in his own country, he was granted brief asylum in the Dominican Republic. Trujillo even became friendly with the idealistic refugee. Then, so the story goes, Trujillo began to suspect Betancourt of paying too much attention to his wife. Personal dislike was added to a distaste for Betancourt's politics. And Trujillo prided himself on never forgetting a snub, a slight or a suspicion.

On June 17, 1960, Trujillo received four Venezuelan plotters in person and told them in his harsh, staccato manner: "The enemy must be hit hard. If we don't do it to him, he will do it to us." SIM chief Abbes supplied them with dynamite and a radio triggering device, disguised as luggage.

In Caracas a week later, they blew up a car loaded with dynamite as Betancourt's car was passing. Two of Betancourt's party and an innocent bystander were killed. But the Venezuelan leader, though badly burned, escaped alive. The plotters were quickly tracked down, and gave confessions that led straight back to Trujillo.

This time El Benefactor had really over-stepped his bounds. When it comes to plots, purges and revolutions, Latin-American politicos can be broadminded. But here was an attempt to bump off another head of state! The repercussions shook the Western hemisphere.

Betancourt placed his complaint, fully documented, before the Organization of American States. Sanctions were ordered. The United States, for its part, cut off Trujillo's share of the Cuban sugar quota and broke off diplomatic relations.

Trujillo flew into a rage. All his career, he had gone out of his way to woo the United States, whose Marines had trained him. One of the few statues he permitted of others than himself was of George Washington; the main seaside boulevard is named for Washington. Trujillo felt he had received a stab in the back. He struck back by trying to court Castro in Cuba and Khrushchev in the Kremlin. Both gave him the cold shoulder.

For Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, the writing was on the wall though he would not read it. When he heard of the sugar cut, he mourned to a friend: "My God, this means I will make only $150,000 on the sugar I sell. I spend that much on one party."

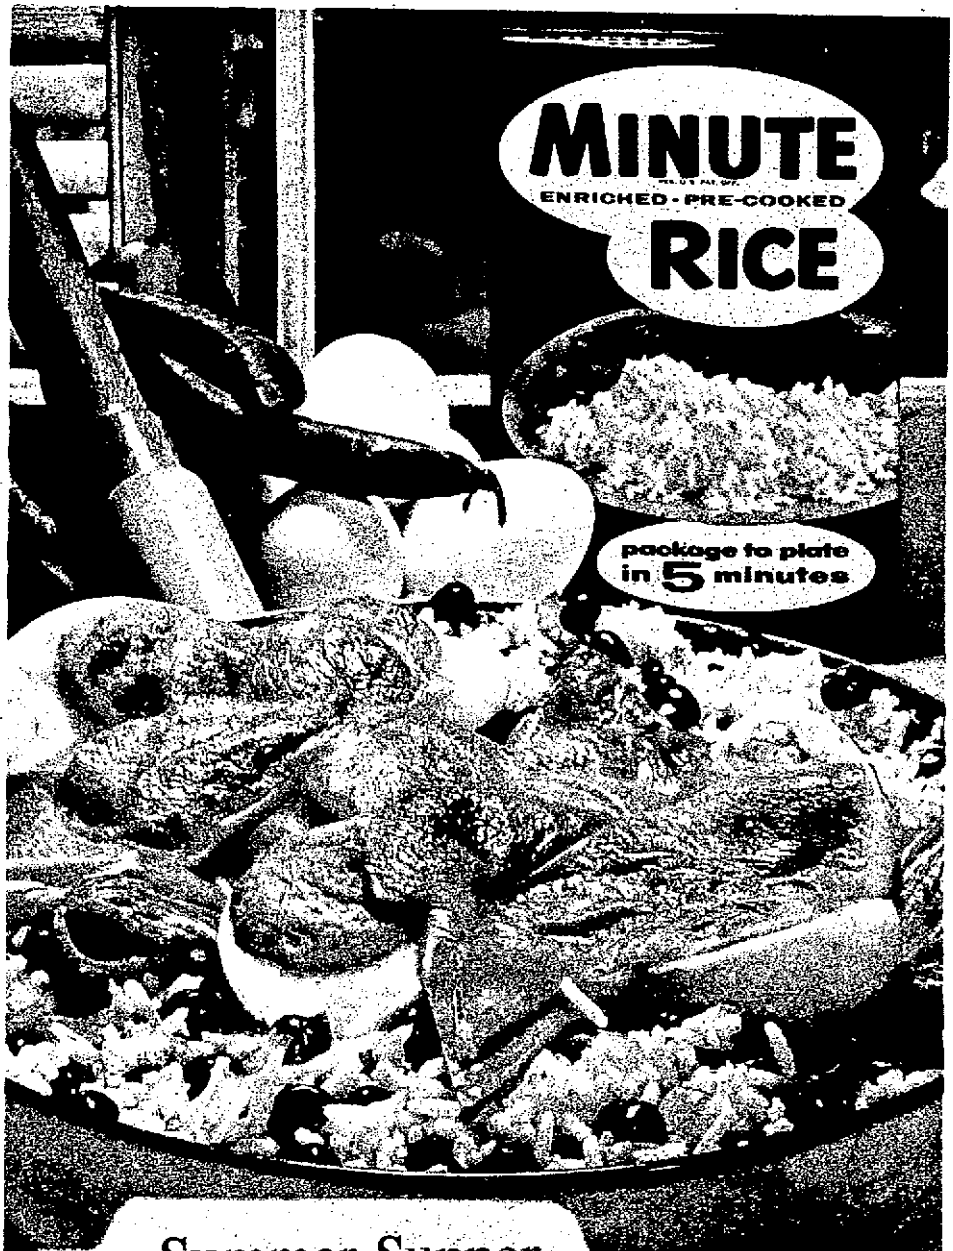

THERE WAS NO HURRICANE

Ostracized by other nations, plotted against by the best families at home, the old tyrant finally came to his end on May 30, 1961. It was a balmy, tropical night without a trace of the hurricane he feared. In his contempt for his enemies, he had become careless. He lost out to the clumsiest plot ever hatched against him.

Yet Trujillo had a raw animal courage. When his car was cut off by the assassins, he barked to his driver: "Take the machine gun! Let's fight it out!" He died firing the .38 pistol he always carried in a small holster on his left side. It may have been some satisfaction to the vain Trujillo, who liked to pretend he was still a great lover, that on his last ride he was headed to visit one of his many mistresses, Moni Sanchez, at his San Cristobal farm.

Behind him he left a fortune estimated near $1 billion, 30 palaces and villas, two yachts, a fleet of 50 automobiles, strings of race horses and polo ponies. He also left his people in bewilderment. For he had imposed no ideology—only personal power—upon them. Without him to make the decisions, they could only flounder until they regained their lost initiative.

Perhaps the uncut grass outside his mansion, and not his many statues or the city named after him, was his real monument. ■

HOLLYWOOD.

WHY IS IT that so many children of so many movie stars run afoul of the law?

Only recently Jackie Coogan's son John, 19, was found guilty of a morals charge. Ken Murray Jr., 18, son of the comedian, was arrested on suspicion of operating a robbery gang in the movie colony area. Barbara Burns, daughter of Bob "Bazooka" Burns, was picked up on still another narcotics charge. Lana Turner's daughter Cheryl, 17, was sent to a private psychiatric sanitarium in Hartford, Conn. Arthur Lake Jr., 18, son of the actor who played Dagwood Bumstead in the Blondie movies, pleaded guilty to robbery.

Tragically the list runs on, proving that world-famous parents plus the social privileges and comforts that money can buy constitute no protection against delinquency.

What causes this anomaly in the special environment where the per capita income of the population is larger than in any other section of the country?

Maria Cooper, 23, tall (5 feet 8), blue-eyed, beautiful brunette daughter of the late Gary Cooper, says, "In many cases it may be the desire of children to equal their well-known parents in fame. If they can't do it through social achievement, they do it through notoriety."

A long, willowy stem of loveliness, quiet, well-bred, intellectual, a young woman of soft, refined, almost Mona Lisa-like beauty, Maria Cooper is now an artist who was raised and educated in the movie colony.

Here's why
many house paints blister...

Ever-present moisture vapor inside your home builds up. It pushes out through walls and siding, finally reaching the "skin" of paint protecting your home. If it is conventional non-breathing paint, the moisture is trapped, forcing the paint away from the siding to form blisters.

Here's why
SPRED HOUSE PAINT won't

Applied over unpainted wood, or previously painted surfaces not damaged by internal moisture, SPRED HOUSE PAINT won't blister or peel. Both the primer and the finish coat of SPRED HOUSE PAINT are formulated to allow moisture vapor that constantly accumulates inside your home to escape without damaging the protective "skin" of paint.

Her dating is 'just for laughs'

vaceous figure and the best executive contacts here, and although many cameramen insist she's the prettiest young woman in Hollywood, Maria has no desire to rival her late father in acting.

"All I'd like," she says, "is to become as good an artist as he was. Dad could draw and sketch very well. In fact he was an artist, a cartoonist, long before he became a movie star. In our old house in Brentwood, Dad built a studio where all three of us used to paint.

"But Dad never had the time to concentrate on his art. If he had he would've been great, because he had a perceptive eye and a sensitive heart and a talented, steady hand."

Maria, born in Los Angeles, educated at Marymount, a Catholic school run by the sisters of the Sacred Heart of Mary, says that ever since she was a little girl she preferred art to acting. The Cooper residence, a modern structure of rock and glass, located in Holmby Hills, houses a million-dollar art collection, rich in the works of Picasso, Renoir, Braque and others.

An Art Career

Cooper acquired the collection in his world travels. Whenever possible he took his wife Rocky and their daughter with him.

"My love of art," Coop's only child explains, "is the result, I guess, of both environment and inheritance."

When Maria was graduated from Marymount, she entered the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles, studied there four years.

Two years ago when her father was filming They Came to Cordura, with Rita Hayworth and Tab Hunter, she was hired by Columbia Pictures to make sketches of the stars in action. It was her first job.

Last year she accompanied her father to London where he was filming what turned out to be his last motion picture, The Naked Edge. There, Marlon Brando Sr., of Pennebaker Productions, signed her to do sketches and some art work for the film's titles and credits.

When the movie was finished, Maria returned to Los Angeles with her parents where she learned for the first time that her father was dying of cancer.

A Tower of Strength

Intimates of the Cooper family say she was a tower of strength and a source of great comfort to the actor in his last days. Of this period, Maria understandably does not like to talk.

"Grief and dying," she says, "are very private topics."

She does, however, freely speak her mind about the waves of juvenile delinquency that have hit the movie colony.

"You must remember," she says, "that most children of movie stars live a fishbowl existence. If John Jones of Detroit is arrested for speeding, few people know or care. If a movie star's son is arrested, it gets plastered in all the newspapers, because names make news."

In her 23 years Maria has never been touched by even the slightest breeze of scandal. "My parents," she explains, "always taught me the difference between right and wrong, and I was raised to do the right thing—not necessarily because I was Gary Cooper's daughter and had to do it—but because all normal and decent girls behaved that way.

"A lot of movie stars' children consider themselves under pressure and constant scrutiny. I never did."

The major reason Maria has never been involved in filmland gossip is that her parents were members of the international society group which traveled widely rather than people who confined their personal and professional lives to Hollywood.

Sketching film stars during shooting of They Come to Cordura in Utah was Maria's first job.

Maria's mother, Veronica, is the daughter of Paul Shields, Wall Street investment banker. Maria spends many summers at Southampton sailing, many of her winters at Sun Valley skiing. For all the "Yup" and "Nope" cowboy tradition with which he was characterized, her dad Gary Cooper was actually the well-educated, intellectual son of a Montana judge.

Cooper had been educated in England and at Grinnell College, Iowa, had read widely, was just as much at home on the French Riviera as on the back of a horse. He gave the impression of being an uncomplicated man who had never looked into his own psyche. In truth, he was a man of sophisticated taste, as anyone who has visited his home can testify.

In No Hurry to Marry

His daughter Maria is equally sophisticated, but like her father, endowed with a pleasant sense of humor, a charming and winning way with people, kind blue eyes, and a down-to-earth frankness.

For example, when I asked her about the actors she'd been dating from time to time, handsome young men such as Tony Perkins and David Hedison, she said, "It's just for laughs. I'm not in any great hurry to get married, even though I'm 23. One of the big troubles out here is that girls get married too young. I'm Catholic and I only intend to get married once, so I'm giving myself a long long time to find the right guy. Until I do I'm staying very close to my sketching pad." ■

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances...the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

BARBECUE: Choice and inexpensive

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Whether Labor Day marks the end of the cookout season or not, depending on climate and temperament, the barbecue you plan for next weekend should be super, like the one shown here. Everyone likes steak and Family Steak puts no undue strain on the pocketbook. The rest of the menu lives up to the steak. So feast and be merry!

LABOR DAY MENU
Family Steak
Barbecued Stuffed Pears
Potatoes Baked in Foil
Picnic Salad
Savory Italian Bread
Crackers and Cheese

Family steak: Buy 3 to 3½ lbs. boneless beef (top or bottom round, sirloin tip, heel of round or rump) cut 2 inches thick. Just before placing on grill, slash fat edges of steak to prevent curling. To tenderize, moisten all surfaces of meat one at a time with water. Sprinkle seasoned instant meat tenderizer, like salt, over moistened surfaces. Pierce deeply with fork at ½-inch intervals. Cook immediately on hot grill, 4 to 6 inches above hot coals, for 25 minutes (rare) or 30 minutes (medium), turning often. To carve, cut in thin, diagonal slices across the grain. Makes eight to 12 servings.

Barbecued Stuffed Pear Halves

1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) Bartlett pears
¼ cup bottled all-purpose barbecue sauce
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
¼ cup finely diced celery
1 teaspoon minced pimiento

Drain pears, reserving ½ cup pear sirup for marinade. Combine sirup with barbecue sauce. Place pears cut side up on baking dish. Pour marinade over pears; let stand several hours or overnight. Drain. Combine pickle relish, celery and pimiento; spoon into pears. To serve hot, place stuffed pears on aluminum foil plate; cover with foil; heat on grill about 5 minutes.

Picnic Salad

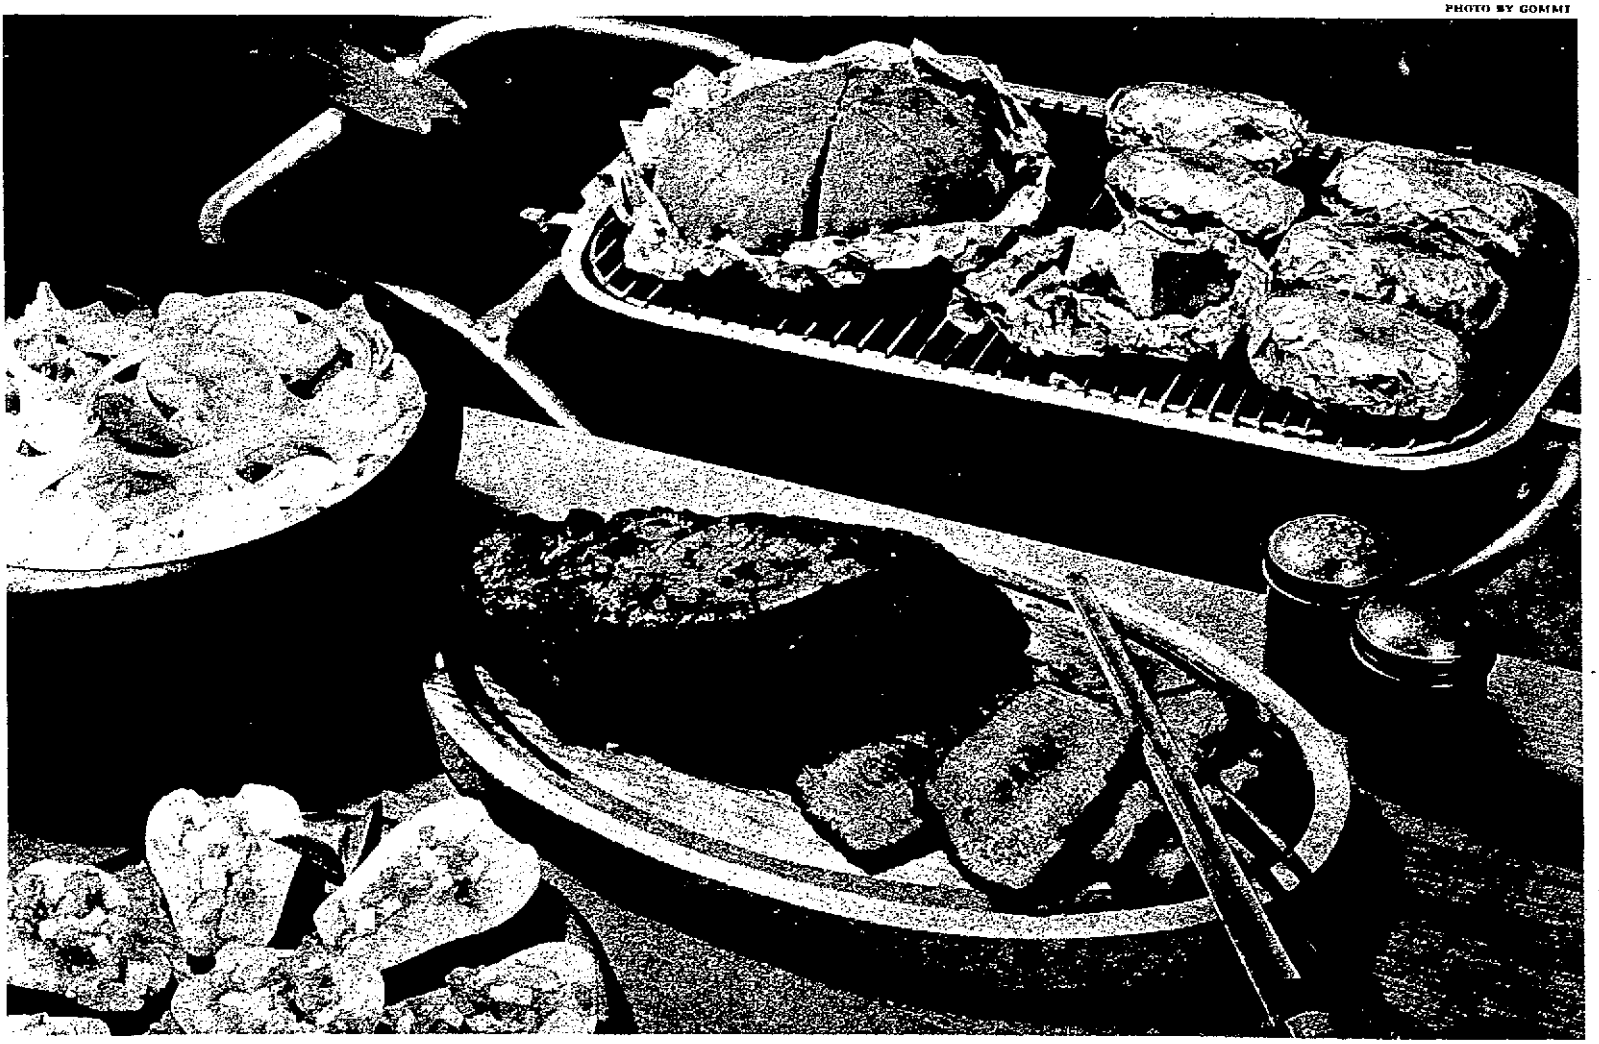

1 large head lettuce, chopped
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup chopped dill pickles
4 medium-sized tomatoes, sliced and quartered
Rings from 1 large sweet onion
⅔ cup salad oil
⅓ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 garlic cloves, crushed
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
2 eggs, raw

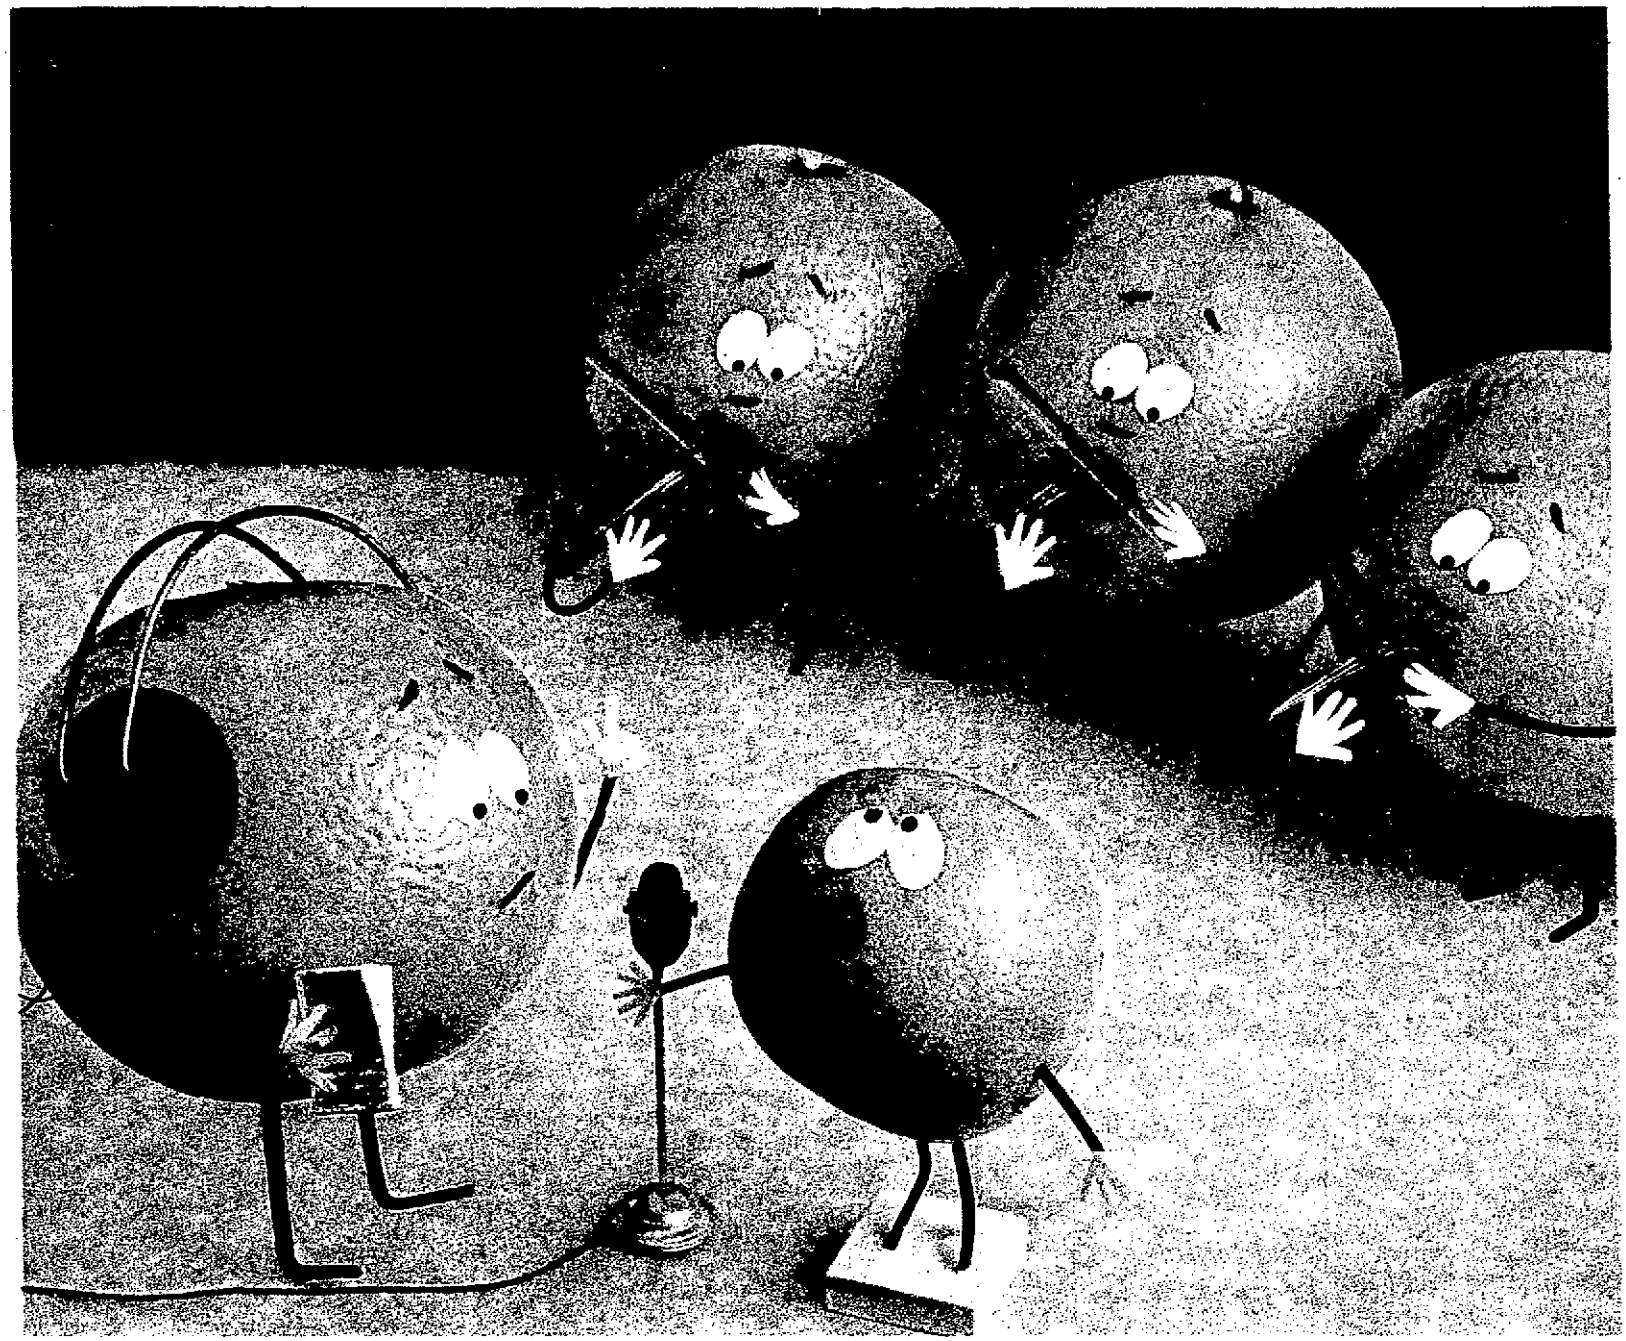

Combine lettuce, hard-cooked eggs, pickles, tomatoes and onion rings. Combine oil, vinegar, lemon juice, garlic and seasoned salt; mix well. Pour oil mixture over lettuce mixture; toss lightly but thoroughly. Break raw eggs into lettuce mixture; toss until all traces of egg disappear. Serves eight to 12.

Savory Italian bread: Slash 1 round loaf Italian bread into 8 wedges, almost through to bottom crust. Combine ½ cup mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon garlic powder, ⅓ cup minced parsley, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon herb seasoning, dash cayenne pepper. Spread cut surfaces of bread with mayonnaise mixture. Wrap in heavy duty aluminum foil. Heat on grill 12 to 15 minutes. Makes eight servings.

What happens when two WORLD

by ROSALIND MASSOW

WHEN ELIZABETH TAYLOR and Gina Lollobrigida turned up recently in Moscow wearing an identical Dior dress, the world gasped in horror and amusement. The beauty queens smiled bravely and prettily for the "birdie" and at each other.

Anyway, that's the picture we got over here the day the dresses met.

No one knows for sure, except the principals and their dressmakers, what really went on underneath those layers of crispy white lace. After all, the girls weren't just wearing a little number they picked up at a rummage sale. It was high cost couture.

What happened to Gina and Liz was a colossal statistical happenstance, but fashion blunders like this are occurring more and more frequently.

Why should such a thing as two women in the same dress cause such a global commotion?

"Why?" shriek the ladies. "Men can walk around in similar looking tuxedos as much as they like, but we women have to be different."

Nothing whips a lady's ego as much as seeing her dress walking into the room on an older, heavier and less attractive woman. However, if you really want to see the fur fly, watch her when she spots another in her dress who is younger, thinner and prettier.

THE SHOCK OF IT ALL

A lady in Rochester, N.Y., who lost 30 pounds so she could wear a new French creation to the country club dance, almost cried when another club member just back from Paris walked in with the same dress. To make matters much worse, their shoes were dyed the same color.

Dr. Edmund Bergler, practicing psychiatrist for many years, has a simple explanation for the appalling, galling shock of watching the same dress come marching in.

"Every woman wants to be different and a dress is an extension of her individuality. If a woman wears the same dress as another she gets the subconscious feeling that somebody is playing a dirty trick on her and trying to rob her of her individuality."

Girl teenagers and children have no such problems. They want to look alike because it gives them a sense of identification and togetherness. But when boys take on that special quality, suddenly the plumage undergoes maturation and each little chick wants to have its own colors.

When she was First Lady, Mamie Eisenhower saw herself coming and going on numerous occasions.

Once at a White House reception for Senate wives, Mamie, looking pert and pretty on the receiving line in a blue-green Mollie Parnis dress, shook hands with another lady wearing an identical frock.

Mrs. Eisenhower, on top of the situation, said to her guest—"My, how lovely you look." The same thing happened to her in a Sally Victor hat. The two hats nodded to each other. Mrs. Eisenhower was not embarrassed, but the other lady was—and so was Sally Victor.

Gina Lollobrigida and Elizabeth Taylor smile

Dina Merrill, the socialite actress, is another often caught in a carbon-copy clothes situation, but she doesn't let it bother her.

"I do get angry, though, when I buy a dress and they tell me it's an original and there's not another one like it, and then I find someone else wearing the same thing. The funny part of it all is that if I buy an inexpensive dress off a rack in a department store, I'm less likely to find another one like it."

Not everyone has the aplomb to laugh it off on the inside, especially when there are hundreds of dollars involved in the purchase.

Nancy Walker, the comedienne, didn't think it was so funny privately when she bought an expensive dress and met it at a party.

"The other woman and I looked at each

women wear the same dress

CRISIS

outwardly--but are they laughing on the inside?

other and gagged it up and all that, but I never went back to that store again. After all when you spend that much money for a dress you don't want to have to worry about running into yourself."

THE JOKE WAS ON HER

If you think Nancy Walker had problems, consider the plight of lovely Jean Kerr, author of The Snake Has All the Lines. When Mrs. Kerr first came to New York with her husband, Walter, then the new drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune, the couple was invited to a party given by one of the editors.

Mrs. Kerr went out to buy a new dress, something special that might attract attention. She choose a Steinberg print made by the whimsical cartoonist.

When she walked into the editor's apartment for the party, she discovered that her dress was the same material as the curtains and the wallpaper. She tried to move, but she couldn't. There she was, swallowed up into the décor of the room. There was no escape. Her dress really was a conversation piece, but the joke was on her.

How do dresses meet? Well, the days are long past when designers made one dress and threw the pattern away. No matter how much a woman pays for the "chef's" special dressing, it won't be a one-and-only creation. It can't be. The cost of producing a dress has gone sky high.

AN ERA AT AN END

Dior, Trigere, Sophie of Saks, Givenchy, Balenciaga and others have one thing in common. They have to go public to survive. A woman who goes to an exclusive custom order house in New York, Paris or Rome thinking that her original will be a one-and-only is just kidding herself.

There are exceptions, but few. Designers like Edith Head, Charles Le Maire or Helen Rose, who design for the movie industry almost exclusively, can afford to protect their clients with one-and-only dresses, but those who create clothes for a variety of clients can't stay in business with such limitations.

Sophie of Saks Fifth Avenue, whose clothes cost $1,000 and more, points out that the era of exclusivity is over.

"We can't make clothes individually for people any more, unless you're doing the clothes for a Broadway show." (Before a dress is produced, the style may be changed three or four times in muslin before the fabric is cut, which makes a high-style dress very expensive.)

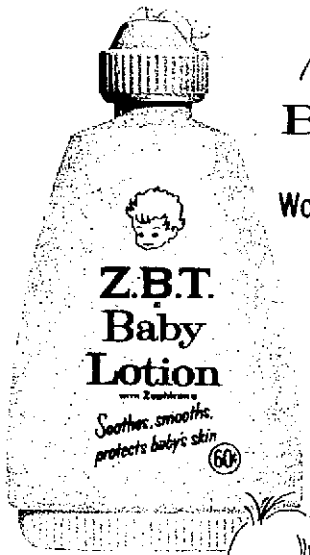

"We try to protect ourselves by keeping a record of every dress we've sold, but there are slips. The woman who can afford to pay $1,700 for an evening gown will be seen in some of the best places. Anybody else who can afford to pay that much for a dress, could very well be seen in the same very best places," Sophie says.

No designer is exempt from the nightmare of having two good clients turn up in the same dress. The Liz-Gina affair was an unfortunate accident, according to officials of Christian Dior, New York. Miss Taylor bought the dress from the Dior collection in Paris and Miss Lollobrigida bought it from a vendeuse in Italy who had a license to copy Dior clothes.

Top fashion houses in the United States have similar worries about duplication. Robert Trigere of the famed Trigere house in New York claims the designer is not to blame. "We do try to confine styles in small shops throughout the country, because there are only a few people in one city who could afford to buy our high fashion. But we can't help it if the woman travels to another city and turns up at a party with the same dress."

Maybe the only road to exclusivity is to design it and sew it yourself. ■

Here is a fraction of the 47:*

THE OTHER DAY my wife went to a beauty parlor. Every woman who comes out of a beauty parlor nowadays looks like Jackie Kennedy. Not my wife—she came out looking like Lyndon Johnson.

I LOVE IT in Las Vegas. You see so many funny things. I saw a man running up and down the street dropping dimes in parking meters. I said, "What's the idea?" He said, "I just love outdoor gambling."

TWO DRUNKS were walking up Broadway in New York. One went down the subway entrance by mistake, came up through the other entrance where his friend was waiting for him. The friend said, "Where were you?" He answered, "I was in some guy's basement—and boy! Has he got a set of trains!"

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW isn't staying with us this year. She is in the Congo teaching them to fight dirty.

A GUY BUYS all kinds of Scuba diving equipment — $2,000 worth. He goes 150 feet down in the water, sees all the strange fish and scenery, and says to himself, "This is worth $2,000—I'm really enjoying it." He goes down another 150 feet, sees more beautiful fish and scenery, and all of a sudden coming toward him is a fellow in just plain swimming trunks. He takes out his underwater pad and pencil and writes a note to the guy in the trunks, saying, "I just spent $2,000 on all this Scuba equipment and here you are all the way down in just a pair of swimming trunks. What's the idea?" He hands the pad and pencil to the man, who writes back, "You idiot—I'm drowning."

MY WIFE JUST LEARNED how to drive her sports car. One day she drove it up the side of a building. There was another woman driver coming down. It was a one-way building.

MY WIFE IS RIDICULOUS. At night she puts big globs of cold cream all over her face, puts those daggers in her hair and puts a net over the whole thing, and then says, "Kiss me." I say, "Take me to your leader."

I TRY TO DO everything to make my wife happy. She complained about the housework so I bought her an electric iron, an electric dishwasher, an electric dryer. Then she complained there were so many gadgets around the house that she had no room to sit down, so what could I do? I bought her an electric chair!

HEARD ABOUT the rich Texan who bought his dog a boy?

THE HUSBAND ran into his house. "Honey," he said, "there's oil on the property."

Honey was overjoyed.

"Now I can get that mink stole," she screamed.

"First I think we better fix our car," the husband explained, "because that's where the oil is coming from."

A PASSENGER on an airline noticed a parachutist floating past the window.

"How about joining me?" yelled the chutist.

"Not on your life," said the passenger. "I like it here."

"Suit yourself," said the chutist nonchalantly, "but I'm the pilot." ■

As a relief from peanut-tossers, the zoo's five performing pachyderms now get one day off in seven. Like people, they often spend their holiday picnicking in the woods near the city. There, as photos here show, they romp, hike and even eat. And occasionally they come across human picnickers, who find them quiet, friendly and civilized. Whatever would Sabu say to that? ■

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators have been told that Moscow has ordered "a frontal attack" on the anti-Communist movement in the United States and made use of agents who infiltrated the White House.

The testimony was given behind closed doors to the Senate internal security subcommittee on July 11 by Edward Hunter of Port Washington, N.Y., a writer and lecturer.

The subcommittee, in making his testimony public Saturday, described Hunter as a psychological warfare expert and as the originator of the term "brainwashing."

Hunter testified that the Kremlin has set out to crush what he termed a grassroots anti-Communist movement he said has sprung up in the United States in the last couple of years.

Orders for this "Red anti-Communist drive," he said, went out through a manifesto issued Dec. 5, 1960, at the conclusion of a strategy conference of 81 Communist parties of the world in Moscow.

"A quick Red operation is being attempted, like that of a sleight-of-hand artist, to push this administration, the press, and public into a trap that would 'eliminate the anti-Communist program in the United States," Hunter said.

He testified that "such operations require a new sort of agent, on which the Kremlin places its main trust nowadays," in contrast to what he described as the old-style cloak-and-dagger man who buys or steals secrets.

Then Hunter went on:

"Moscow simply acquired agents who mingled with the new, intellectual elite at the top on terms of equality, and were sometimes members of it themselves. They infiltrated the White House and other topmost government offices.

"These were gentlemen all. Gentlemen talked frankly between themselves in comradely manner. Secrets were much easier to steal this way, and immensely more reliable.

"We might cringe at the idea that Red agents, bought and paid for by the enemy, had entree and became members of the White House entourage, but we can brush it out of our minds only at our own peril. As such things hap-

City Tax Rate Decreased by Tenth of Cent

Valuation Drop Will Prevent Lower Taxes

By GEORGE WEEKS

The new city tax rate for bills collectible in November will be $1.37330 for each $100 of assessed valuation — one-tenth of a cent under last year's rate.

City Auditor Murray T. Courson announced the final figure Saturday following receipt of the one item missing until last week, the State Board of Equalization's assessment of privately-owned public utility property in Long Beach.

* * * *

CITY councilmen, who will be asked to ratify the rate Tuesday, will thus be able to keep their pledge to hold the tax line. Last year's rate was $1.37430.

The new rate is fractionally higher than the figure estimated in City Manager John R. Mansell's preliminary budget, $1.37308.

One reason was a decrease of $170,730 in the utility assessment roll, which went down from $68,641,720 to $68,470,990.

Of the five rate categories that make up the city's composite tax picture, three are slightly higher and two are lower.

Total assessed valuation of Long Beach taxable property, announced by City Assessor J. R. Cole, is lower this year by $41,020,530. The current figure, including utilities, is $675,530,410. Last year's total was $716,550,940.

But the lower assessed valuation, combined with a tax rate virtually unchanged, won't mean lower taxes for most property owners.

* * * *

ASSESSMENT figures for both land and improvements were increased this year, the former by $8,699,330 and the latter by $13,989,770. The lower total came about primarily from a drop of $60,995,180 in personal property valuation.

Comparable assessment figures for last year and this year are: Land, $173,884,010—$182,583,340; improvements, $179,893,050 — $293,882,820; personal property, $228,698,620—$167,703,440.

RETIRING AT 17

L.B. Girl Loses Water Ski Title

Protests of unequal scoring by the judges, lodged by Long Beach's 17-year-old Vicki Van Hook and the entire United States team, threw the seventh World Water Ski Championships here into a furor Saturday.

But by nightfall:

The judges disallowed the protest, leaving the former world's champion in second place behind Sylvie Hulsemann, 17, of Luxembourg, the new champion.

MISS VAN HOOK announced she is retiring from competitive skiing.

The controversy, which nearly brought attorneys into the world sports classic, arose Saturday over judges' ruling of the crucial women's trick skiing event.

The Americans contended judges had misinterpreted the tournament rules which resulted in the loss of more than 180 points in score for a trick Vicki performed in the event Friday.

On the judges' advice the American skiers and Vicki and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly E. Van Hook, filed an official protest and the judges themselves called for an attorney to interpret the rules for them, it was reported.

* * * *

THE CONTROVERSY involved a decision reached by the panel after six hours of discussion in which they gave Miss Hulsemann of Luxembourg first place in the tricks event with 2,554.13 points; 18-year-old Dany Duflot of France, second place with 2,418.94 points, and Vicki, third place with 2,413.13 points.

The Van Hooks contended the judges failed to count two tricks Vicki did which, if counted, would have added more than 180 points to her total and put her almost 40 points ahead of the Luxembourg skier.

No legal opinion ever actually entered the final resolution of the controversy, judges said, but Chief Judge Harry Sherwood, of San Diego, reported late Saturday that the protest over Vicki's trick run had been disallowed, and that Miss Hulsemann is officially the new women's over-all champion.

* * * *

FOLLOWING the decision, Vicki told the I-PT she will retire from competitive water skiing because of the lack of practice and training facilities in the Long Beach area.

"You just can't keep in tournament shape when you have to travel hundreds of miles to find a practice course to train on," Vicki said.

Vicki won the International Women's Over-all Water Ski Championship at the 1959 world tournament in Milan, Italy.

Tell Pro-Red Not to Take Presidency

Defense Minister Threatens to Halt Goulart Inaugural

BRASILIA (UPI) — The Army warned political leaders Saturday night that any attempt to make leftist Vice President Joao (Jango) Goulart president of Brazil could lead to civil war.

War minister Odilio Denys said that Goulart, now en route home from a visit to Communist China, "will be arrested as soon as he sets foot on Brazilian soil" unless he gives up his claim to the presidency which Janio Quadros resigned Friday.

A special Congressional commission including members of Goulart's own Labor Party, was preparing to fly to Paris to persuade the Vice President to resign. Goulart is en route to the French capital from his Far Eastern trip.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, the nation's acting president, Ranieri Mazzilli, named a new cabinet in a move indicating he intends to hold office for some time. Mazzilli was chairman of the Chamber of Deputies.

Plans were being drawn up in Congress to amend the constitution and authorize the legislative body to elect a new president who would finish out Quadros' term which runs until 1966.

This represented a switch in plans to hold general elections within the next two months.

* * * *

MOST POLITICAL groups accepted Denys' firm edict—given in direct interviews with Congressional leaders—as uncontestable. But some Goulart backers began a campaign to arouse public opinion and bring on a general strike to challenge the military.

Reports from Rio Grande to Sul State said pro-Goulart political forces there headed by the local governor were prepared to fight a civil war to get Goulart into the presidency.

There were also reports that the Labor Party would try to set up a separate government in southern Brazil with Goulart as president.

If Goulart refuses to resign, it was understood that his political opponents

East Berlin Reds Fortify New Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists built a new wall and stronger fortifications at the Brandenburg Gate Saturday and brought up Communist troops while the Western ambassadors protested the Reds' "flagrantly illegal measures."

In addition to notes from the American, British and French ambassadors in Bonn, the American commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, crossed into East Berlin and delivered a stiff oral protest to the Soviet commandant.

* * * *

THE FOUR protests were delivered as the Big Three Western envoys in Moscow delivered a solemn warning to the Russian government it must keep its hands off the air corridors to Berlin or risk the consequences.

While the diplomatic activities were going on thousands of West Berliners poured into the streets on their day off from work and looked over the Communist fortifications and the newly arrived Communist troops who took up positions behind the newly-built wall.

West Berlin police were out in force to try to prevent border incidents. The Communists have ordered West Berliners not to get closer than 300 feet of the border and in the past have lobbed over tear gas grenades and shot water cannons.

Watson's protest chiefly concerned illegal harassment of American military traffic by Communist Police (Vopos). The protests delivered to the Soviet ambassador in East Berlin by envoys of the three Western ambassadors dealt chiefly with harassment of diplomatic traffic.

* * * *

THE AMBASSADORS also warned of "serious consequences" if the East Germans tried to enforce their 300-foot "no man's land." Their protest was delivered by representatives who zigzagged past triple red and white barriers erected by the Vopos and through the only East-West passage left open.

The U. S. note to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail G. Pervukhin said:

"In addition to purporting to limit even more severely the crossing points for residents of West Berlin and the Federal Republic of (West) Germany, these measures would limit foreigners, diplomats and civilian or military members of the allied forces

Moon Motor Test Firing 'Successful'

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Aerojet General Corp. Saturday test fired the largest solid-fuel rocket motor ever built and called it an "unqualfied success."

The company, which hopes to get a contract to build a booster motor to lift a man to the moon, said the motor produced more than one-half million pounds of thrust.

Newsmen who flew over the site of the test firing at 2,000 feet saw a bright orange flame and a towering cloud of rust-colored smoke. The flame lasted 87 seconds and presumably consumed about 75 tons of solid fuel.

While the one-half million pounds of thrust is only about one-third that achieved in a recent test firing of a liquid-fuel motor built by Rocketdyne Corp., Aerojet claims it can increase the thrust by adding more sections. The motor fired Saturday had four sections, one more than a model successfully test fired in June.

Aerojet says it can link a number of the motors and produce 17 to 18 million pounds of thrust, sufficient to lift a manned vehicle to the moon.

Enlistees Increase 39 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department disclosed Saturday that Army enlistments in the weeks after President Kennedy's July 25 Berlin preparedness speech jumped 39 per cent over the comparable period last year.

They also increased by almost that much over the period immediately preceding Kennedy's speech in which he outlined plans for building the armed forces up to 2,743,000 men. That is about 250,000 more than the Eisenhower administration proposed.

In answer to UPI questions, the Pentagon said the Army enlisted 9,117 men between Aug. 1 and Aug. 21, compared with 6,541 in the same three weeks of 1960. In the three weeks from July 1 to July 21, 1961, it enlisted 6,959.

* * * *

THE PENTAGON revealed the figures in the wake of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's order calling 76,500 military reservists to active duty. Most of the reservists will report on Oct. 1. They are being drawn from the reserves of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The Pentagon said it does not yet have figures on Navy, Marine and Air Force recruiting for the period immediately after Kennedy's speech. While there was no "direct evidence as to any unusual spurt," the department said all three recruiter services reported increased numbers of inquiries from young men.

Irvine Heiress in Blast at Board Member

By BILL DUNCAN

SANTA ANA — Pepper-pot Joan Irvine Burt, who has often battled other directors of the Irvine Co., Saturday released a letter attacking board member N. Loyall McLaren for making statements "impugning my integrity and my motives as a director and stockholder of the company."

Mrs. Burt, largest stockholder on the board of directors, made the letter public after failing to get McLaren's statements about her included in the minutes of the board meeting. The letter revealed another rift between Mrs. Burt and the majority of the board members.

She wrote:

"You (McLaren) refused to permit the charges made by you to be entered in the minutes of the meeting when I asked that a record of them be made. . . . I will request that this letter be incorporated in the minutes to reflect what actually transpired at that last meeting."

The blonde heiress said in the letter that McLaren, a San Francisco resident, charged that articles recently circulated by the Associated Press concerning the Irvine Co. were directly Mrs. Burt's responsibility. She denies this.

She asserted that McLaren had charged her with seeking public credit for arranging the resignation of A. J. McFadden as president of the company. "This is a gross distortion," she wrote.

She claimed that McLaren charged that she asserted she was responsible for hiring former Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas as president of Irvine Co. This claim she laid back to McLaren, writing that he publicly boasted about hiring Thomas.

The letter tells that McLaren accused her of boasting about bringing the University of California to the Irvine Ranch. "This is in error," she asserted, "I have consistently done whatever I could to assist in attracting the University of California to Orange County."

Irvine Co. donated 1,000 acres to the university for a site in Orange County on Irvine Ranch land in Corona del Mar hills.

Mrs. Burt is the largest individual stockholder in the Irvine Co. and is the only stockholder serving as a director. She was elected to the board in 1957.

She concluded the angry five-page letter to McLaren with these remarks:

"Instead of making undignified and scurrilous personal attacks upon me, you might consider the interests of the Irvine Co. by engaging in an . . . examination of your own motives and aspirations as they may relate to the Irvine Co."

L.A.C. Says:

Who Will Pick the Candidate?

Assemblyman Joe Shell and former Senator and Lt. Gov. Butch Powers insist upon being heard and having the Republican voters pick their candidate for next year's election. Both have announced they will be candidates for governor. They are objecting to the maneuvers to freeze out all candidates not chosen by the party machine.

Every successful party has a machine made up of party leaders from each Assembly District. Sometimes a powerful personality moves into the picture and takes charge of the machine. Three years ago Sen. Bill Knowland did so and the result was the worst defeat the Republicans had experienced in their history. With that defeat it seemed the party was badly crippled. But last year the rank and file members of the party and conservative Democrats brought it back to power by carrying the state for the party.

Shell and Powers argue that the machine politicians should not try to eliminate candidates as was done in 1958. They say all candidates should be encouraged to run in the primaries and let the voters choose which one they want to be their candidate in opposing Pat Brown. They say this is the only way the voters will have the feeling that it is their choice rather than that of the small group who seek to eliminate all but the candidate it may choose.

These are, we believe, sound arguments. The Democratic Clubs operate a machine which the state has seen operate. It, and Gov. Brown, assured the Kennedy forces that they would deliver a million-vote majority for Kennedy. But they failed to carry the state by any majority. It is apparent the rank and file Democrats do not follow that state Democratic machine.

The voters do not like the feeling that such a machine can decide on one candidate and eliminate all others. There is a real danger to the upsurging support of the Republican Party if its leaders try the same tactics as the Democrats or those used by Knowland supporters in 1958. The State Central Committee's proper function is to support the candidate chosen by the voters—not to endorse a candidate before the primary election and attempt to discourage all other party candidates.

Five possible candidates are before the voters at this time. They are Nixon, Knight, Christopher, Powers and Shell. All have fine vote-getting records in past elections. Each has many supporters from both parties. If they were on the ballot in the primaries each would get the votes of their supporters. They could then hold most of these votes for the party candidate who is nominated. But if bitterness is created by trying to eliminate them before the primaries, it is doubtful their friends would support the hand-picked candidate. If we are to profit from past experience we will welcome a strong primary campaign with the voters choosing the candidate. It is the surest way to maintain harmony and a united party in next year's election.—L.A.C.

Moonport Loss Disappoints Calif.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — There was still some crying in the fog here Saturday because Florida's Cape Canaveral — not Vandenberg AFB — is going to become America's moonport.

But not much.

Most of the missilemen at this West Coast research, training and combat-ready rocket center knew from the start that they had little chance of watching this country's initial moon-bound space travelers take off.

SO THEY took in stride this week's announcement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that 80,000 more acres are being added to the Cape Canaveral test complex, Congress and President Kennedy being willing.

This additional acreage at the Cape will be the launching port for such space giants as Nova, the rocket that will carry the men of project Apollo toward a lunar orbit.

But if the missilemen at Vandenberg AFB took the announcement in stride, it was a blow to the chambers of commerce of many of the communities along this stretch of the bustling, hustling Southern California coast.

CITIES from Oxnard through Ventura, Santa Barbara, Lompoc and Santa Maria to San Luis Obispo are already growing by space-size strides. But their city fathers had hopes that the center of their expansion — Vandenberg — would get the moonshoot task.

The announcement by NASA in Washington said Cape Canaveral was selected after many sites had been surveyed as to safety, launch trajectories and accessibility.

To a UPI correspondent who has watched launchings from Cape Canaveral and toured the ever-growing facilities at Vandenberg, it would seem that the main factor against California getting the garage job for the lunar vehicles was its coastal fog.

Sometimes, particularly during the summer, the Thor and Atlas missiles roar off their pads at Vandenberg in a "zero-zero" fog condition—visibility zero vertically and horizontally.

THAT'S OKAY for a military firing, like a test Atlas. But should there be a man aboard, the problems would be different.

When Ham the Chimp, Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom took their Redstone-powered Mercury project suborbital rides from Cape Canaveral, they were launched in practically clear weather.

This was essential not only for observation, but for safety. Had there been a serious malfunction and an "abort" been ordered, good visibility would be necessary if the passenger was to be saved.

Trajectory is all-important, too, for an orbital flight. Vandenberg's Discoverer series satellites are fired into a polar orbit, then recovered—when possible—in the Pacific Ocean near Hawaii.

On these, obviously, the projectiles pass over territory where America would not want one of its spacemen to land, should there be a mishap.

Air Crash Kills 3, Traps 3 Children

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Three small children were found alive Saturday strapped to their seats in the wreckage of a private plane almost 12 hours after the crash that killed their parents and sister.

The children, Leslie, 10, Tommy, 11 and Marty Hughes, 5, were rushed by ambulance to Brown County Hospital. Their condition was listed as fair.

The ambulance driver said the frightened children, weakened and in pain, were able only to whisper their names when rescuers spoke to them: "Leslie . . . Tommy . . . Marty."

The three children, their parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes, and their sister Marlene, 8, had been flying from Florissant, Mo., to Cincinnati, where they used to live, to pay a surprise visit on the children's grandparents.

NATHANIEL BERGMAN
$25,000 Bail Set

3 Held in Bribe

BOSTON (AP) — Three lawyers were arrested Saturday on charges of trying to bribe an internal revenue official so he would not prosecute one of the lawyers for alleged income tax evasion.

The three were taken into custody after a 10-week investigation in which the revenue agent, Charles J. McCaffrey, pretended to go along with the alleged $10,000 offer.

The lawyers are Nathaniel Bergman, 53, of Hartford, Conn., and Saul Glassman, 45, and Paul Gorin, 49, both of Boston.

All three appeared later before U.S. Commissioner Peter J. Nelligan who set bail at $25,000 for Bergman and $15,000 each for the other two. All arranged bail.

A Justice Department aide said McCaffrey is a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve and that Glassman, a colonel in the Marine Reserve, is McCaffrey's superior officer.

Dependents to Go Overseas Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said that National Guardsmen and reservists who may be sent to Europe cannot take dependents with them during their travel overseas.

However, once the serviceman arrives, he will be entitled to apply for permission to bring dependents, if he qualifies. To do this, he must be of a grade of at least corporal and have four years or more of service in a unit.

Dean Picked as U.N. Aide

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday chose Arthur H. Dean, an old hand at negotiating with the Communists, as a U.S. representative to the United Nations General Assembly which opens next month.

The announcement came as the President took another weekend break at his Cape Cod summer home.

Kennedy got a 20-minute briefing on Berlin and other problems, and conferred with White House advisers by telephone on the resignation of Brazilian President Janio Quadros. There was no White House comment on the resignation.

Robber Mauls Envoy's Kin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The wife of Costa Rica's ambassador and her sister were mauled by a robber who invaded the embassy residence early Saturday, police reported.

The robber escaped with jewelry valued at $5,000 and with $85 in cash, police were told. The women were the ambassador's wife, Mrs. Manuel Escalante, 38, and her sister, Mrs. Carmen McCurdy, 35, of Stone Mountain, Ga.

CROSSING WAS HOAX

Aviator Punctures Balloon Ocean Flight

NEW YORK (AP)—A teenager's toy ballon flew to England, all right; but it was borne by an air liner, and not by wind currents as he had thought.

Capt. John H. Bash, 32, a pilot for Pan American World Airways, said Saturday he had just been trying to have a little friendly fun with the boy.

The youth, Jonathan D. Simon, 14, of Westbury on Long Island, an amateur meteorologist, sent the five-cent, helium-filled ballon aloft with a postcard attached, asking the finder to communicate.

He received a reply from London on Friday, saying the blue and white ballon had been found in a garden there.

Actually, the balloon had landed near Bash's backyard in East Islip, Long Island, about 15 miles from young Simon's home.

Bash took it with him on his next flight and mailed the postcard from London.

Young Simon became a neighborhood celebrity when stories were published that his ballon had been windblown across the Atlantic Ocean.

Then Bash disclosed what really had happened.

"It was well meant," he said on arriving at Idlewild Saturday. "I never expected it would get any publicity.

"I had planned to call the boy up and tell him the truth when I flew back. I'm very sorry about it. I didn't realize it would cause all that commotion. I meant to give the kid a kick."

8 Gatherings Mark Close of SA Meet

The fourth annual Salvation Army summer conference and camp meetings close today with a schedule of eight gatherings at which the total attendance is expected to exceed 7,000.

Three of today's services will be held at Municipal Auditorium and five open-air meetings are scheduled for 6 o'clock in various downtown Long Beach locations.

The street services will culminate with a grand march to Municipal Auditorium in which five Salvation Army brass bands and five corps of timbrelists will participate.

BANDS participating in the street services are from Long Beach with Captain Robert Stillwell in charge; Pasadena, under the leadership of Major John Ritchie; Los Angeles Congress Hall, with Captain Arthur Smith leading; Los Angeles Tabernacle, led by Major Herbert Wiseman, and Inglewood Citadel, with Lieutenant David Riley leading.

Young women attired in the traditional Salvation Army uniform and bonnet will accompany each of the bands.

Commissioner Robert Hoggard, veteran international Salvationist leader, speaks three times at Municipal auditorium, at 10:30 a.m., 2:30 and 7 p.m.

Karen's Family Asks Prayers

Churchgoers were asked by the parents of a missing 11-year-old Torrance girl to pray for the daughter's safety when they go to religious services today.

Police officials late Saturday said they still had not uncovered a trace of Karen Lynn Tompkins, 21110 Dalton Ave., who disappeared a week ago.

"I KNOW that every church in Torrance is praying for Karen," said the girl's mother, Mrs. Laura Tompkins. "I feel that prayer will help."

All day Saturday, a mounted posse of sheriff's deputies conducted an unsuccessful search of the brush-covered Palos Verdes hills for a clue to the disappearance.

NAMED

Lt. Col. Philip E. Robinson, formerly of Long Beach, has been named chief of the plans office of the U. S. Army Transportation Terminal Command Brooklyn Army Terminal. Col. Robinson is married to the former Leah Dana Nelson of Long Beach. The couple now live in Long Island, New York, with their three children.

At the same time, police cleared a young airman of any connection with the case.

* * * *

THE AIRMAN, whose home is only 20 blocks from Karen's residence, was questioned by Santa Barbara County deputy sheriffs after his locked car was found six miles north of Vandenberg Air Force Base near the city of Lompoc.

He was released after records showed he checked out of the air base in front of witnesses at 5 p.m., Aug. 18—the same hour that Karen was last seen.

In another unsuccessful search, sheriff's deputies checked the San Gabriel River in the Paramount area after receiving a telephone call from a woman who said she had spotted a body in a ditch.

Only Wave in 60,000-Man 7th Fleet Admits She's 'Not a Darn Bit Lonely'

YOKOSUKA, Japan (UPI)—Lt. (j.g.) Paula Fish's job with the U. S. Navy makes her a little watchful but "not a darn bit lonely."

The 26-year-old Wave lieutenant from Cripple Creek, Colo., is the only Wave assigned to the 60,000-man U. S. 7th Fleet, bulwark of America's Western Pacific defenses.

Old salts can say what they want about the way things have changed in the modern Navy, but Lt. Fish's assignment proves as well as anything that the old axiom rank-has-its-privileges is as true as ever. She's the admiral's social secretary.

"I think it's something of a privilege to be the only woman assigned to the whole fleet," she said. "I think I'm the only one ever assigned to the 7th Fleet."

The tall (5 feet, 6¾ inches), well-built (135 pounds) brunette lamented that she's never been aboard a 7th Fleet ship at sea but said "I just love my job, anyway."

"I'll tell you, it's just fabulous," she said. "I never thought I would ever end up with a job like this when I joined the Navy."

When she joined the Waves in 1958, she had few thoughts about making it a career.

"But now, I don't know," she said. "I'm so pleased, I don't know any possible reason why I should get out, unless, of course, I find the right man.

"But," she added hastily, "I'm told that the 'right man' often turns out not to be the right one. So maybe I'll just get married to the Navy.

"I'll say this, I certainly am pleased now and cannot see any possible reason for getting out of the Navy."

What are the chores of the 7th Fleet's only woman?

"Well, she explained, "I just take care of the admiral's (Fleet Commander Vice Adm. Charles D. Griffin) invitations ashore." She said she forwards the invitations—from various Japanese officials, businessmen and others as well as Americans—to the admiral. Her title is "Protocol Officer Ashore, Commander 7th Fleet."

Sen. Jackson Wants to Curb Local Gambling Payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Saturday called for federal laws to jail local officials who connive with or refuse to prosecute intertsate crime syndicates.

Jackson said testimony in the Senate rackets hearings makes it clear that lax local enforcement is a major factor in interstate gambling — much of it crooked — which takes billions of dollars a year from a gullible public.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is exploring the possible need for new federal statutes to break up organized crime and vice.

* * * *

WITNESSES have testified that many gamblers, publicly identified when they pay the federal gambling stamp tax, still operate unmolested in some local areas. No one named any enforcement official as a taker of graft.

Jackson, a subcommittee member, exploded at one point in the hearings, however, that the answer is obvious—that hoodlums "buy off the judge, they buy off the prosecutor, they buy off the sheriff and the local police."

He said in an interview Saturday he will propose federal legislation to do something about it. He said severe criminal penalties should be provided for local officals who "knowingly permit interstate gambling, vice and other rackets" within their jurisdictions.

JACKSON said such a law could be brought into play in "the blantant instances, which are not many, where the local people refuse to do their job and an interstate problem results."

Jackson's exploits as a crusading young county prosecutor in 1939 and 1940 provided the springboard which launched him into a career in Congress. His raids on vice and gambling joints in Snohomish County, Wash., won national attention.

He has argued throughout the hearings that any prosecutor who shows he means business can clean out the rackets, whether they be interstate, syndicated or local.

"Clean up the states by enforcement at the local level, and you'll have no syndicated crime," Jackson said. But he emphasized he believes some new federal laws to strengthen the hands of local police officials should be enacted.

Dissentions Stall Hoffa 5-Year Plan

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some revolting developments — literally — have stalled James R. Hoffa's ambitious five-year plan for the Teamsters Union before it really got under way.

Two months ago Hoffa sounded like a man who had the world by the tail. Now something has reached back and bitten him—hard.

Hoffa emerged from the Teamsters convention in early July with considerably increased powers over the nation's largest labor organization and a brand new five-year term as the union's president.

Never more cocky, he promised to take in "all unorganized workers regardless of where they are" and either force an end to the Teamsters expulsion for corruption from the AFL-CIO or start up a rival federation with some of the AFL-CIO's own unions.

* * * *

TWO MONTHS is too short a time to pass judgment on Hoffa's program. And in fairness he has been kept from minding the Teamsters store because he's been steadily occupied in West Coast contract negotiations.

But events since the Miami Beach convention have nevertheless been a one-step-forward, two-steps-back sort of thing for Hoffa.

There have been revolts in Teamsters ranks in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has broken a long silence about Hoffa and come out fighting. He welcomed the Teamsters defections and in effect encouraged others.

* * * *

A FEDERAL Appeals Court has upheld broad government powers to subpoena Teamsters books and records in a search for possible corruption. Hoffa, fighting what he calls "witch-hunting," will carry the case to the Supreme Court.

Arthur J. Goldberg, President Kennedy's labor cabinet member, said if anybody wants to know where he stands on Hoffa it is the same as in 1957 when, as an AFL-CIO counsel, he helped expel the Teamsters after sensational Senate Rackets Committee hearings.

* * * *

HOFFA CAN be depended upon to strike back. Already he has assembled a squad of aides in Cincinnati to try to coax back the four Teamsters locals that have defected under leadership of James T. Luken. Hoffa's immediate aim is to get back at least seven members in each local, the number required to preserve the Teamsters charters.

While Hoffa has been unavialable for comment, his headquarters spokesmen here will talk. "Hell," said one Hoffa aide, "we lose 4,000 members—out of 1.5 million—and it's supposed to be an all-out revolution."

Hughes Tool Co. Building Light Copter for Army

CULVER CITY (UPI)—Hughes Tool Co. announced it is building a new lightweight helicopter to compete in test trials being conducted by the Army.

Rea E. Hopper, vice president of the Hughes Aircraft Division, said contract negotiations with the Army for the craft are under way. Development of the choppers will begin soon at the Culver City plant, he said, adding that value of the development contract has not been determined.

The contract calls for delivery of five of the four-place, turbin-powered craft to the Army for evaluation about 24 months after contract work begins, Hopper said.

Ancient Burial Grotto Uncovered

LYON, France (AP)—Archaeologists have uncovered near here an ancient burial grotto containing human remains dating back 5,000 years to the neolithic age when man learned to make the wheel.

STUDENTS AND THE DRAFT

Call Deferred If Grades Kept Up

By GEORGE J. MARDER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army will step up its Berlin crisis draft calls sharply just about the time the fall school term starts.

But if the prospective draftee has made plans to go to college he doesn't have to change them. And there is no chance he will be called up in mid-term.

That is the word from Selective Service director Lewis B. Hershey.

In fact, according to present plans, no student will be called up before he finishes college — if he keeps his grades up.

* * * *

THE DRAFT CALL for September is 25,000, about double the call for August which also was stepped up considerably. The October call is expected to total 20,000. The low this year was 3,000 last February.

However, the 45,000 to be called in September and October will hardly make a dent in the manpower pool available for call.

Draft headquarters says about 1.6 million young men have been classified 1-A. And even if there are a lot of rejections when they appear for induction, the pool should be ample to handle planned and future calls without any change in deferment policy.

Selective Service officials figure the only effect the larger calls will have is to lower the average age of the man inducted.

AT PRESENT the national average is 23 although it varies from section to section. Those who become fathers are automatically deferred.

Just getting married isn't ground for deferment.

Selective Service figures that as it stands now the increased calls, to be spread throughout the nation, will be taking those 22 years old on a national average as well as those 23.

* * * *

HERSHEY SAID he did not expect that physical standards would have to be lowered. But he also said a matter of equity was involved in the standards.

"The more people turned down," he said, "the fewer there are participating in the draft calls. Therefore, it becomes more and more difficult for me to be equitable."

Driving--It's DYNAMITE!

(Editor's note: Here's a dramatic new approach to highway safety over the long Labor Day weekend. Driving tips from a dynamite truck driver!)

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — If you want to stay alive this coming Labor Day weekend, drive your car as if it were loaded with dynamite.

Truck driver Ken Manning drives that way all the time and lives to tell about it.

For the last eight years, he's been hauling dynamite for DuPont's explosives division through West Virginia's rugged coal mining country and to construction sites and powder magazines along the East Coast.

Prior to that, he pulled a glass-lined milk trailer over the road into Chicago and, during World War II, ran ammunition up to the front in France and Germany.

* * * *

IN 20 YEARS of hauling critical cargoes Ken Manning has seen some harrowing sights. None of them involved his own truck.

"Amateurs take chances. We don't," he bluntly sums up his driving philosophy.

As a group, dynamite truck drivers are the safest on the road. DuPont, for instance, has been transporting explosives by truck since 1909 without a catastrophe. Other powder firms have been similarly successful in avoiding shock headlines.

Part of this is due to the nature of the commodity carried. Part of it is due to the care and foresight with which it is carried.

* * * *

CONTRARY to popular misconception, there is little danger of a dynamite truck going boom on impact with another vehicle. The real danger is fire, the aftermath of many an accident and the hazard that Ken Manning and his comrades of the dynamite run drive carefully to avert.

They call it "defensive driving," a system of common sense highway safety that can be applied to any driving situation.

To understand what defensive driving is and how it can save your life, hop aboard Ken Manning's dynamite truck, as this reporter did, and learn from an expert.

His run that day went from the Martinsburg powder plant to a storage magazine north of Baltimore, a four-hour trip over winding, hilly roads. From the way Ken handled himself, his truck and his cargo, 10 simple safety rules stood out. They are worth learning for handling any kind of precious cargo. Particularly a family.

* * * *

(1) PLAN YOUR trip. Before picking up his truck, Ken drove in his own car from his Martinsburg home to Jim Young's truck center out on the highway to fill a couple of vacuum jugs with coffee and check highway conditions with other over-the-road truckers.

* * * *

(2) CHECK YOUR equipment carefully before setting out. Ken's bright red, enclosed body truck already has been loaded with 14,000 pounds of dynamite and had been gone over thoroughly by the mechanics before he arrived at the plant. Still, he grabbed a flashlight and personally checked 56 items of equipment on his truck.

* * * *

(3) ALLOW PLENTY of time to get there. It was 2:30 a.m. when Ken buckled his safety belt (a company requirement for all drivers, even salesmen) and drove out the plant gate into a moonless West Virginia night. He was due in Baltimore by 7 a.m., but Ken doesn't like to be hurried. "I always allow a half-hour or more leeway," he explained, "in case I have to detour around any traffic jams or road obstacles."

* * * *

(4) AVOID CONGESTION. Because dynamite usually is delivered for immediate use, Ken does most of his driving at night. Like most truckers, he prefers it that way. "At night the roads are emptier. It'll cooler, easier on tires and there's less glare." Crossing the Potomac into Maryland, Ken took the back roads, avoiding well traveled U.S. 40 and by-passing several of the larger towns. Throughout, he showed no inclination to close in on the pack and kept his distance fore and aft from other vehicles, even to the point of shaking of "tailgaters" by slowing down to a crawl.

* * * *

(5) MAINTAIN a safe, steady speed. Where speed limits permitted, Ken kept moving at a steady 40 miles an hour, slowing down for curves, hills and intersections and coming to a full stop at all railroad crossings, including one where he hasn't seen a train in eight years. Outside Boonsboro, a hot rodder and his girl barreled by in an unmuffled roar of cut-down exhaust pipes. "Teen-agers," Ken sighed, "think they're the best drivers, but they're the worst. They take chances and play games, like cutting you for kicks when they see that 'explosives' sign. Next come old men who veer to the left to make a right turn, then women who fail to accelerate going up a hill."

* * * *

(6) LOOK FOR trouble. Every few seconds Ken kept shifting his gaze from the road far up ahead to his rear and side view mirrors. He pulled far to the right to let a mail truck by; later got as far left as he could in his lane to pass a row of parked trucks. His constant vigilance enabled him to deal smoothly with such developing hazards as a traffic bunch-up, blind drives, hidden crossroads and narrow bridges.

* * * *

(7) LET OTHERS know you're on the road. When Ken passed a slow cement truck on an open stretch, the driver blinked his lights to let him know he had sufficient clearance to get back in line. Ken blinked the same signal to the passing mail truck. Going up over South Mountain through a light skrim of fog, Ken kept flashing his brake lights as a warning to other vehicles back of him. He also flashed his brake lights when slowing down for a crossroad and honked his horn to warn a driver waiting to leave a gasoline station. "Truckers are constantly signaling each other, and it wouldn't be a bad idea if the general public did the same," he said.

* * * *

(8) STOP REGULARLY for a check-up and a rest. About an hour and a half out of Martinsburg, Ken found an isolated stretch and pulled off on the shoulder to check his tires and wipe off his mirrors, and have a cup of coffee.

* * * *

(9) STAY ALERT, stay awake. As the night wore on, Ken guarded against fatigue by chewing gum and turning on the radio.

* * * *

(10 IF IT'S dangerous, don't do it. Ken is always looking for trouble but never disappointed when he doesn't find it. Defensive driving means avoiding the danger spots. If there's a fire up ahead, Ken pulls off the road until the hazard is removed. If there is heavy fog, snow, sleet or ice, he doesn't go at all or, if already on the road, pulls off until conditions clear.

In fact, Ken and his cohorts of the dynamite run have one sure method of staying alive over Labor Day. Says he with a grin, "On holiday weekends, we don't go at all. Too many nuts on the road. I don't even take my own car out. Who wants to live that dangerously?"

DRIVER KEN MANNING has been hauling dangerous cargoes for 20 years without an accident. He and fellow drivers on the dynamite run follow a system of what they call "defensive driving," which means common sense care.—(AP photo.)

U.S. Quits U.N. Fight on Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States has dropped its 10-year fight to keep the U.N. General Assembly from debating whether to seat Communist China.

In the assembly's 16th annual session starting Sept. 19, the United States will not introduce the usual resolution to postpone consideration of the question for the session's duration.

Informed diplomats said the U.S. delegation advised others that to do so would be useless because the resolution could not get the simple majority needed for adoption.

But they added that the United States was still dead set against substituting Communists for Chinese Nationalists in China's assembly seat and probably could forestall that, at least this year.

In each of the last 10 assembly sessions, the United States has put through what has become known as a moratorium resolution to keep the assembly from debating the issue that year.

But last year that resolution, prompted by a Soviet request that the question of Chinese representation go on the agenda, passed by only eight votes—42-34.

At one point, Nepal proposed an amendment by which the assembly would "accede to" rather than "reject" the Soviet request.

That amendment was defeated by only four votes—38-34. Among those that voted against it or abstained, at least four now are ready to vote for it—Brazil, Pakistan, Samalia and Tunisia.

That would make the vote 38-36 in favor of the amendment—and the Chinese question then would be on the agenda.

So instead of drafting a moratorium resolution doomed to defeat, the United States is studying how to meet the issue head on when the assembly takes it up.

Some diplomats hold that to unseat the Nationalists and seat the Communists would simply be a matter of refusing to recognize the credentials of the former and then recognizing the credentials of the latter. They say that is a procedural question that can be decided by a simple majority vote.

The informants said U.S. delegates were talking with others about the possibility of having the assembly declare it an important question to be decided only by a majority of two-thirds of those voting.

The assembly can make such a declaration by a simple majority vote. Many delegates believe that the United States could get that majority—and thereafter could easily keep Red China's Communist and neutralist friends from getting the two-thirds vote that would then be needed to bring her in.

The United States, they say, could well argue that the issue is more than procedural because it has far-reaching political implications, among them the question of the Chinese Communists' willingness to live up to a U.N. member's obligation of peaceful behavior.

The Chinese Communists, while claiming China's U.N. seat, have said they will never sit in it till they take over Formosa, stronghold of the Nationalists.

While it lasts, this all-or-nothing attitude is expected to help the Nationalists keep the seat.

Buddhism Wins in Burmese Vote

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Parliament passed a state religion bill Saturday proclaiming Burma a Buddhist state.

The bill, backed by Prime Minister U Nu, won an easy 324-28 majority. U Nu had told parliament it would not lead to religious discrimination. Police were reinforced and reserves were alerted. But demonstrations from protesting non-Buddhists failed to materialize.

The prime minister said the main reason for the bill was that some governments are destroying religious foundations in their countries. He said it was up to governments of countries such as Burma to promote religion.

U.S. Cuba Stand Hit by Kuchel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R.-Calif., said Saturday the United States should make no compromise with Cuba.

In a televised speech for release in California, he repeated earlier demands for economic sanctions.

"It makes no sense whatsoever to continue trade relations at all with this totalitarian government," he declared.

* * * *

THE SENATE Republican whip said it was an amazing fact that the United States still carries on trade amounting to $5 million a month with Cuba. He said he was repeating his advocacy of economic sanctions because of reports that some Latin American leaders were in favor of an "accommodation" between the United States and Cuba.

"The world knows that Cuba is a Communist satellite," Kuchel said. "Latin American countries should know that Cuba is a menace to the cause of free government in this hemisphere.

"What the United States needs now to do is demonstrate that there will be no accommodation of any kind or of any character with Cuba."

KUCHEL SAID it had been suggested that Premier Fidel Castro would adopt a "softer party line" on orders from Moscow because the Soviet Union had found itself "unable or unwilling to continue underwriting Cuba's economy."

Missing City Cash Sought in Irwindale

By JOSEPH ST. AMANT

IRWINDALE (UPI)—This small city of 1,400 persons, a few miles east of Los Angeles, has an income of almost a half-million dollars a year. But it's in a financial hole as deep as some of the sand and gravel pits that gave it its existence.

A lot of city revenue has disappeared. Some of it went for an elaborate recreation hall which cost $500,000.

The Los Angeles County district attorney's office is trying to find out where the money went. In a sweeping investigation of the city's finances and election procedures, four persons, including the former mayor and the former city manager, have been indicted by the County Grand Jury on vote fraud charges.

* * * *

A CIVIL SUIT has been filed in Superior Court seeking to remove from the voting rolls the names of 23 persons who, it is charged, are not residents of Irwindale or cannot read 100 words of the U. S. Constitution, as required by law.

An accompanying affidavit states that Antonio Silva, 53, an alien and an ex-convict, is, or at least was, a behind-the-scenes political boss of Irwindale.

Former Mayor Justin Garcia was recalled last month along with City Councilman Santos Diaz.

The newly constituted council immediately fired City Manager James McLean.

McLean, Garcia and Silva were named in the grand jury vote fraud indictments along with former Registrar of Voters Mrs. Ernestine Solorio.

* * * *

JOHN T. REVIS, an attorney from nearby Glendora, has been appointed acting city manager and city attorney.

"This is a city of loopholes," he said in his office in the ramshackle City Hall. "It was incorporated four years ago at the instigation of the sand-and-gravel-pit companies as a protection against tax encroachment from surrounding cities. It is a municipal monster made possible by the California state sales tax law."

Fifteen sand-and-gravel-pit companies which produce building materials and asphalt are the backbone of Irwindale's economy, he explained. The state collects a 4 per cent sales tax and then hands over to the city 1 per cent. In the fiscal year 1959-60, Irwindale's share was $428,507.44.

IN THE FIRST two years of incorporation, Revis said, the city banked $515,000 as savings. In the past year, all that has been spent, and the city went about $55,000 in the hole.

The depletion of savings occurred, according to Revis, after Silva returned to Irwindale from a stretch in prison. Silva, now fighting a deportation order to his native Mexico, was convicted in 1953 of embezzlement in a home-appliance business. He served two years and was paroled but was returned to prison for violation of parole. The U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has labeled him an undesirable alien.

Silva has definite ties with the city administration. In addition to his wife, a member of the city council, he has a son who is a sergeant in the Police Department, another son who is a city clerical employe and a daughter who has worked as an election judge.

* * * *

IN TRACING the financial decline of the city, Revis said expenses were running about $80,000 a month but he has cut them to $18,000.

"That recreation hall," he mused, "some people are calling it the Taj Mahal. It cost about $500,000 — almost twice as much as it was supposed to."

The accepted bid on the imposing brick and tile building, standing in the middle of a rocky wasteland, was $252,401, but 27 so-called "change orders" were approved by the old City Council, boosting the price tag up to the half-million mark. The building has an $11,245 vault to store valuables, a $4,000 bus shelter, and a parking lot that cost $4,700 but accommodates only 14 autos.

France to Ignore U.N. Order for Pull-Back in Bizerte

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle will ignore the United Nations action on the Bizerte crisis despite urging by the influential newspaper Le Monde to follow the American cue in the crisis, reliable sources said Saturday.

An Afro-Asian resolution approved by the General Assembly called on both sides in the Bizerte base dispute to withdraw to positions held before the outbreak of fighting July 19 and to begin immediate negotiations for evacuation of the base.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Saturday there would be no comment from the government on the U.N. resolution. This is in line with De Gaulle's policy not to recognize the United Nations as competent in the dispute.

Other French sources said De Gaulle regards the U.N. moves as interference in France's affairs and will apply the same policy to the Assembly resolution as he did to a July 22 Security Council injunction to withdraw his forces. He simply ignored it.

De Gaulle's position is that the question of Bizerte was left for settlement at a later date when Tunisia gained independence in 1956 and that France has a right to use the base until then.

Le Monde, one of the most influential newspapers in France, said passage of the General Assembly resolution was a serious blow to French foreign policy.

"The double axis on which our foreign policy would seem to rest, Atlantic solidarity and Franco-African cooperation, has been reached with dificulty," it said. "Now we must find out."

"The passing of such a resolution has not, we realize, any actual power behind it and is only valuable as a recommendation," Le Monde said. "But we cannot deny that the approval of 66 members of the United Nations without any declared opposition has singularly reinforced Mr. (Tunisian President Habib) Bourguiba's position."

It pointed to U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's recommendation that precise arrangements for the free disposition of the Bizerte base installations be made by negotiation and that they be made on the understanding France recognized the principle of Tunisian sovereignty.

Le Monde said the Stevenson suggestion pointed to a possible way out for France without giving in to "Tunisia's inadmissible claims."

Ukrainians Work on Red Army Chorus

TORONTO (UPI) — Six Ukrainian anti-Communists rushed to the Maple Leaf Gardens and threw hundreds of leaflets at members of the Red Army chorus, suggesting they defect to Canada.

The 180-man cast kicked the leaflets off the stage and continued the performance while a crowd of 4,000 booed the anti-Communists.

Leftist-Leaning Jagan Poses Hemisphere Threat

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Cheddi Jagan, a slight, handsome man with flashing brown eyes, can quote the U.S. Constitution and rattle off the battles of the American Revolution like a quiz kid. In the next breath he is just as likely to say:

"Marxist philosophy will one day be the philosophy of the world."

At 43 Jagan is the new—and first—nominee for prime minister of this British South American colony as it nears internal self-rule. A dentist by profession and a political zealot by conviction, he is an open admirer of Fidel Castro and a keen student of international communism.

He will lead British Guiana for the next four years. And where he will lead it worries the West.

* * * *

AS HE WON popular support for the Guiana leadership last week Jagan was again denouncing his old professed enemy—"our imperialist masters"—serving notice that he will press for full independence within the Commonwealth.

The British make no secret of their uneasiness over Jagan and his decided friendliness toward the Communist bloc. They tossed him out of the government once. And they may do it again.

But Jagan is a formidable opponent. The son of an East Indian foreman on a sugar plantation, Jagan draws his support from the descendants of East Indians brought to the colony to work the cane fields and rice paddies. They make up more than half the colony's 560,000 population.

JAGAN CALLS them "comrade" and they cheer when he declares:

"We believe in only one race, the working class race of the world."

Jagan never experienced real poverty. But as the son of a foreman, he was surrounded by it.

He attended high school in Georgetown, but instead of following tradition and going to Britain for advanced education, he went to the United States.

He attended Howard University in Washington, then went to Northwestern University near Chicago for a degree in dental surgery. Dentistry was his compromise with economics. To satisfy other urgings, he went to YMCA college at nights and won a degree in sociology.

* * * *

HE MET AND married Chicago-born Janet Rosenberg, a student nurse two years his junior and a member of the Young Communist League. She is no less a militant politician than Jagan.

It has been claimed that Jagan also became a Communist in Chicago. He has never denied it.

Jagan and his bride returned to British Guiana in 1943 and plunged into politics. In 1945, Janet Jagan formed the Women's Political and Economic Organization and soon won the British tag as "the firebrand of communism in British Guiana."

In 1953, Jagan and his wife founded the People's Progressive Party (PPP)—he as party leader and she as executive secretary. The same year Jagan carried himself, his wife and 16 colleagues into the 24-seat council.

* * * *

UNDER THE old constitution, Jagan, as minister of agriculture, forests and mines, headed the government, subject to the veto of the British.

After he was in office 133 days, the British exercised the veto. Jagan was ousted and the British labeled his reform program an attempt to establish a Communist beachhead in the Americas.

Jagan continued his dental practice and continued to stump for independence. He came back stronger than ever in 1957 as the PPP captured nine of 14 legislative seats at stake.

He again was in effect chief of government—under the British—as minister of industry and later negotiated trade agreements with Castro's regime.

IN LAST Monday's election the PPP captured less than 50 per cent of the vote, but took 20 of the 35 seats in the new Legislative Council. British Governor Sir Ralph Grey asked Jagan to form a government.

Jagan professes what he calls a foreign policy of active neutralism along the lines of India and Ghana. He disclaims intentions to nationalize industry, but last week he called for unity of the colony's many races "against the exploiters of the working masses."

Despite its leftist leanings, Jagan's PPP is first of all a nationalist party and Jagan himself a nationalist.

THE BRITISH, while granting internal self-rule conceded the eventuality of independence. But they only promised to talk about it in the next year or two. Jagan wants to talk about it now.

British officials indicate privately they will wait and see how Jagan runs his government. Actually, they have little choice. Jagan's opposition is split between the Negro-dominated People's National Congress, a Socialist-oriented party with 11 seats in the assembly, and the conservative United Front, with four seats. Even together they can't match Jagan's 20 seats.

Strauss Urges More A-Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, discounts the danger of fallout and urges the United States to break the present 3-year nuclear test ban with the Soviet Union.

Writing in the current Readers Digest, Strauss claimed the ban has worked to the Russian advantage. He said:

"First, if there is any validity to the belief that the U.S. stockpile of nuclear weapons is the free world's only effective deterrent to Soviet aggression, then the weapons in that stockpile must be in a state of constant readiness — which can only be ascertained by periodic testing."

"Second, nuclear science—its peaceful applications as well as weapons development—will not stand still; yet, advance cannot be made without nuclear testing."

Arguing against the danger to world health by radioactive fallout, he cited examples of persons and animals which had no permanent ill effects from what had been considered dangerous contact with fallout material.

* * * *

STRAUSS ended the article with this plea:

"Ultimately, the destructive potentials of nuclear energy must be placed in the custody of an absolute and foolproof international authority . . . until such an authority is created, the United States and the Western Democracies must be free to develop all the potentialities of nuclear power—for its control can make deserts bloom or, in Communist hands, could end freedom on earth."

NEW MICROFILM telephone directory device invented by Fullerton man, Verneur Pratt, is shown in comparison to bulky phone books now in common use. Pratt has sold his invention to General Telephone Co. It is only one of many ideas he has developed successfully over the years. Pages of a phone book are reduced to 1/2500th of the original size by his special cameras; then by special projection system the names and phone numbers are reproduced for easy reading. His device is expected to be included in future phone instruments so numbers can be dialed from small microfilm about the size of a playing card.

LAW LIBRAARY IN A CIGAR BOX

Inventor Races in Sport Car Gift to Self on 70th Birthday

By MARGARET BURRELL

FULLERTON — Tired of leafing through that heavy phone book?

Like to have a law library in a cigar box?

Inventor Verneur Pratt, 2030 Skyline Dr., just finished making these things a reality.

Yet he admits "I haven't really done a day's work in the past 20 years—I've done what I wanted to do and made it pay."

Pratt, who perfected the microfilm process and only recently sold all his 70 patents, is a restless, intensely curious man to whom the appurtenances of everyday living present a constant challenge.

* * * *

TAKE THIS Micro-Projector which I sold to the General Telephone Company — I got tired of battling with the nine phone books I keep in my office and decided there was an easier way. . . Made several models, got the bugs ironed out, took it to the people in charge and they bought it.

"Of course it will be several years before they'll be in circulation — for several reasons—but when they are, it's the plan now to microfilm each directory on one or two playing car size films which will slip into a small viewer, and to mail out a revised one each month."

The law library in a cigar box is one use of his "Domino Micro-Book," so called because a cartridge the size of a domino containing a complete book or periodical will slide into a handsized viewer.

Pratt sees the invention as a boon to bored service men in isolated posts without access to current reading material. He also sees it as a help to law and medical students, indeed foresees its future application in classroom work of all types.

* * * *

"THE ECONOMY of the thing is tremendous. Paper backs are billion dollar business, and they cost between $1.25 and $3.50. Micro-Book can be marketed for a fraction of that," he adds.

Descendent of five generations of photographers including the co-worker of the inventor of Daguerrotype, Pratt decided to have nothing to do with photography at an early age.

Instead, he was running his own "Pratt's Practical Printery" in Aurora, Ill., at 13. It was the result of a gift of a toy machine which made calling cards. He expanded it to a three-room office where he spent so much time profitably he neglected to finish high school. From printing he went to reporting on the Aurora Daily Journal where he found out "a lot of things I didn't really want to know, mainly that I didn't want to be a reporter."

* * * *

NEXT IT WAS a "literary taxicab" life for Pratt — "that's where you go 500 words for the current fare regardless of your own interests. I never reached the point of being an independent traveler, although I sold consistently, especially to the old 'Liberty' magazine," he recalls.

Next came advertising, his own agencies in Chicago and New York, a job as advertising manager for McKesson and Robbins pharmaceuticals, inauguration of the "controlled circulation" idea, and several sales training methods.

Lessing Rosenwald, son of the founder of Sears, Roebuck was his first backer in microfilm work, and Pratt opened a microfilm plant in Norwalk, Conn., which later was sold to Diebold Co. when executive duties began to interfere with his inventing.

* * * *

"NO, I DIDN'T invent microfilming," he says. The first use ever made of the process was during the siege of Paris in 1870, he explains. Vital records were photographed and collodion impressions, which would correspond to film negatives, were peeled off glass plates, wrapped in light weight metal capsules and flown out of the city by homing pigeons.

Today the complete records of the largest factory in the country can be filed in a four drawer cabinet and duplicate negatives can be sent to any branch.

The world's smallest microfilming was done during World War II when Pratt produced a page of a book which could be hidden under a period mark in a newspaper.

* * * *

TODAY PRATT Enterprises is housed in five plants in Anaheim where his son Edmond is manager. This leaves Pratt free to jaunt to Nassau and Mexico and to plan a trip to the Orient.

"I don't suppose I'll ever retire—too many things still buzzing around in my bonnet. One thing I won't do and that's invent anything to do with missiles or a destructive media. My pleasure is the many letters I have telling me how my home fire alarm system has saved lives." (This works via an indium metal spot which dissolves at 136 degrees and sets off a warning bell.)

Other Pratt inventions: The aptigraph reading machine, laxative chewing gum, monobath (a developer-fixer solution which permits film development to required density regardless of time and temperature variants), pocket comparator measuring device, a grainless film, a children's microscope with labeled slides, provements like a ceiling-high TV with audio in individually controlled receivers under the bed pillows. Pratt does all his own drafting and specifications for specially ground lenses, and makes all his own models in his shop.

In his spare time Pratt devours books at the rate of about 900 words a minute, makes cabinets, dictates an autobiography, helps a few other inventors on a consultant basis, enjoys his six grandchildren and races his white Corvette, which he gave himself for his 70th birthday.

"That's how I celebrated my birthday—in a rally race in Riverside. Why not? Peps you up quite a bit," he laughs.

MAN IN SPACE

All Risk Can't Be Removed

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (UPI)—Man will just have to take some chances if he wants to explore space in person.

That is the gist of recent statements by a couple of companies which studied the feasibility of manned flight to the moon for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The Martin Co. minimized such space hazards as weightlessness, the radiation zones around the earth, solar flares and meteors. It said its studies indicate these dangers are not as serious as once believed.

* * * *

THEREFORE, Martin suggested, it will be possible to build moonships without the heavy shielding and artifical gravity equipment which would add to the cost and slow progress.

Dr. George R. Arthur of General Electric's missile and space vehicle department had said earlier that preoccupation with absolute safety and exaggerated fear of the unknown could delay manned exploration of space.

Arthur said it still is necessary to launch unmanned test flights of spacecraft and equipment before attempting manned flights. But he said all risks cannot be removed in advance for space pilots. He indicated he felt the Mercury program delayed manned hops too long.

* * * *

"I OFTEN FEEL," Arthur said, "that if we followed the same path in aircraft development we might still be flying Jennies."

He said aircraft pilots regularly take life-or-death chances without setting off a public furor.

Both Martin and the General Electric scientist discounted the chances of pilots getting a dangerous dose of radiation on a round trip to the moon.

* * * *

THE WORST radiation an astronaut could run into would be that which streams from flares on the sun. Martin likened the chance of encountering a solar flare "to the chance of an ocean liner encountering an iceberg in the South Atlantic."

Arthur put it this way:

"It may very well be the case that the danger of dying from over-exposure to solar flares for the lunar astronaut is considerably less than the danger of being smashed up in a three-car crash on the Hollywood Freeway."

Brazilian Army Ready to Revolt

would try to persuade the Congress simply to refuse to inaugurate him. In either case the office of president would be considered vacant, reliable quarters said.

The plan to amend the constitution drew immediate fire from leftwing nationalist deputy Sergio Magalhaes who has succeeded Mazzilli as chairman of the House.

* * * *

DENYS' FIRM attitude has left Labor Party leaders in doubt as to how to proceed, reliable informants said. But the war minister's determination not to permit the vice president to become president and to arrest him if necessary is regarded as "an accomplished fact," they added.

The threat of a possible civil war was underscored by reports that Gov. Elonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul state, a Goulart backer, had "alerted" state troops to "enter into action at any moment if necessary." Brizola is a leader of the Labor Party and wants Goulart to take office in accordance with the constitution.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Saturday denounced Russian and Cuban charges that the United States was behind the resignation of Brazilian President Janio Quadros as "nonsense" and "the work of international mischief-makers."

In a statement issued with White House approval, the Department said the United States has had "friendly and close" ties with Quadros.

Reds Fortify New Wall in East Berlin

to a single crossing point.

"These flagrantly illegal measures have as their purpose further sealing off of East Berlin and East Germany from the free world. They are in clear violation of the quadripartite status of Berlin."

* * * *

WEST BERLIN police doubled their guard forces Saturday for fear the West Berliners would demonstrate against the Communists on their day off but no major incidents were reported. At one point near Friedrichstrasse in the U. S. sector police continually had to chase groups of 20 or 30 off a rubble pile overlooking the closed border.

On the east side of the border East Berliners were held well back from the barriers and showed no inclination toward challenging the guards.

Many on each side waved at friends across the barricades.

Watson backed up his protest by sending four busloads of American military dependents in Berlin through the triple-barrier checkpoint at Friedrich Street to emphasize U.S. determination to move freely in Berlin and ignore Communist border police.

* * * *

THE BUSES passed through without trouble, toured the streets of East Berlin and returned without difficulty.

Other Berlin developments:

East German Propaganda Chief Gerhart Eisler urged Communist youths to climb up on roofs and tear down television antenna of East Berliners suspected of tuning in on West German broadcasts.

Information Bureau West, a private West Berlin intelligence agency, said the East German government ordered all foreigners living in East Germany to surrender their passports by today. About 800 foreigners thus are prevented from traveling to the west.

The East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland warned the Western allies it would not "tolerate" much longer illegal "anarchy" in the air corridors to Berlin. It accused the Western powers of flagrant misuse of the corridors.

Construction of a second wall Saturday at Brandenburg Gate came as a surprise. The second wall is about 50 yards behind the gate.

Kremlin Aims at Anti-Reds

pened, they can happen again."

Hunter gave no names, dates, or other details in testifying about this, but he said "the new-style, pro-Red agent has his role to influence policy, stalling or frustrating it, making it fail or end up by hurting ourselves."

He testified that the primary target of the anti-Communist drive is the Pentagon, "specifically the program to train and alert our troops and our people to the Red techniques and the inherent evil in communism."

Hunter said the Reds have seen that "unless this program can be destroyed, the anti-Communist movement cannot be liquidated."

Shown copies of Defense Department's directives issued this year, Hunter said that in effect they warned against the use of anti-Communist films in troop training programs and marked successes for the "Red anti-anti-Communist pressure drive."

* * * *

HUNTER testified this campaign "won a stunning victory for itself" when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said at a May 26 news conference that military officers should confine themselves to defense matters in public discussions and avoid foreign policy matters.

At another point Hunter said "a fundamental objective of the Red drive is to cut off Pentagon participation in the (anti-Communist) grassroots movement that is at long last awakening our people."

"By forbidding the participation of the military in seminars or forums where politics and policy are discussed," he said, "anti-Communist preparedness can be torpedoed, and the character-building aspects of the program can be eliminated."

EDWARD HUNTER
Author of Report

* * * *

HE SAID "communism cannot meaningfully discussed without reference to Soviet Russia, the satellites and Red aggression and infiltration in places such as Southeast Asia and Africa."

Hunter testified that prior to the Moscow manifesto of Dec. 5,, 1960, anti-anti-Communist maneuvers took the form mainly of Red fronts, hush-hush methods, and economic pressures.

But since then, he said, anti-anti-Communism "has come out into the open, taking the offensive.

* * * *

"DURING the years of hush-hush," Hunter said, "our channels of communication, to all practical purposes, closed their pages to anti-communism, ignored or downgraded anti-Communist books and writings, neutralized or squeezed out anti-Communist editors, authors and speakers, and made the anti-Communist a socially undesirable person."

He said Moscow has now decided that it is necessary to combat the anti-Communist movement in the United States head-on.

"We shall witness a seemingly spontaneous outpouring of articles and persuasions of every character that will rise all along the fringes of the communications field where the Reds have influence and, from then on . . . penetrating all channels of the press and all attitude-changing segments of our society, such as schools and churches.

Door-to-Door MS Campaign Closes Today

The annual multiple sclerosis house-to-house fund drive, which began Thursday in Long Beach, will end today.

More than 1,200 volunteer workers have been conducting the campaign to raise funds for research and treatment of persons stricken with the disease.

Duane Weisel, chairman of the local campaign committee, said that donations should be mailed to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 622 S. Kenmore Ave., Los Angeles, 5.

Though the actual house-to-house drive ends today, the campaign to point out the seriousness of the disease continues through next Thursday.

Macmillan Sees No War Over Berlin

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, Aug. 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, away from it all at a golfer's haven in the Scottish highlands, said "Nobody is going to fight about Berlin."

The British leader had just played a round of golf on the famed King's Course with his wife, Lady Dorothy Macmillan, and was talking informally with newsmen.

A reporter asked whether the Berlin situation, where troops of East and West are facing each other over Red-barricaded borders, frightened him?

* * * *

LANGUIDLY Macmillan replied:

"I think it is all got up by the press."

Later he brandished a golf club and smiling broke up the impromptu news conference with these words:

"Mr. Khrushchev is playing golf in the Crimea. Perhaps that is rather encouraging."

ERWIN AND ESCORT

Erwin Schabe, 12, shakes hands with Pvt. Alwyn Davis of Treochy, South Wales, driver of small armored scout car for British forces in West Berlin. Red 'School Blockade' Broken by Soldiers

BERLIN (AP)—Eight British soldiers in a jeep and a small armored scout car see that Erwin Schabe, 12, gets to school these days.

Erwin lives in an enclave on the northwest edge of Berlin called Eiskeller (Ice Cellar). The enclave is surrounded by the barbed wire and wooden observation posts so dearly loved by the Russians.

Eiskeller, so named because Berlin brewers once used it to store the ice they cut on nearby lakes, juts into the Russian zone which surrounds Berlin. Eiskeller is part of the British zone.

A corridor only eight feet wide connects Eiskeller with the British sector of Berlin.

East German policemen stopped Erwin two days ago as he set out for school in West Berlin on his bicycle. They stepped out of the goldenrods bordering a small woods along the corridor and shouted "zurueck" at Erwin. That meant go back for Erwin and he did, missing school.

His parents complained and the British moved fast.

A Welsh regiment patrol picks up Erwin in Eiskeller at 8 a.m. he gets on his red bicycle and rides in between the jeep and the scout car. The patrol takes him the 400 yards through the corridor. Then he rides to school about three miles away.

Promptly at noon Saturday, Erwin came riding up through the fields of cabbages and rye to the checkpoint outside Eiskeller.

Erwin will stay well within Eiskeller's tight borders, about 20 acres in all, until Monday morning then the patrol will be waiting again to escort him past the Russians and the people's police.

'Die' Rather Than Dicker, Tshombe Says

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe shouted defiantly Saturday night that "we are ready to die" rather than negotiate with the Central Congolese government under threat of United Nations arms.

Tshombe's declaration at a news conference, called after talks with U.N. representative Conor Cruise O'Brien, appeared to rule out all hope of Katangese negotiations with Central Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Tshombe cut short a north Katanga tour to fly home Friday when he learned the U.N. had moved 800 Indian troops into Elisabethville. Reliable U.N. sources said they would be used to disarm Katanga's 13,000 gendarmerie and police.

Saturday night, Tshombe said he wanted to cooperate to find a peaceful Congo solution, "but if the threat of cannons and machine guns of the Indian soldiers is used against us, we are ready to die."

Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo accused O'Brien of giving Tshombe only 30 minutes Saturday morning to decide whether to fly to Leopoldville to meet Adoula.

49 MILLION ENROLL

Students in U.S. Hit Record High

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Enrollment in public and private schools will hit an all-time high of 49,300,000 in the new school year beginning next month, the U.S. Office of Education said Saturday.

The official estimate covered schools of all levels from kindergarten through college in 50 states and the District of Columbia.

The prospective enrollment marks an increase of 1,400,000 (m) students over the 1960-61 school year, the 17th consecutive year in which the total was reflected a continuing rise in the birth rate.

* * * *

THE TOTAL enrollment breaks down into 34,200,000 in elementary schools (kindergarten through grade 8) 10,800,000 in high schools (grades 9 through 12); and 4,300,000 in colleges and universities.

The largest increase will be felt at the high school level, where enrollment will be up 700,000. Elementary enrollment will rise 400,000, and college enrollment 300,000.

With the U. S. population now nearing 185 million, the fall enrollment estimate means that 27 per cent of the American people will be attending school.

* * * *

OF THE 45 million young people attending schools below the college level, 38,200,000, or 85 per cent, will be enrolled in public schools.

About 300,000 will attend federal schools on military bases and Indian reservations or other special types of institutions, and 6,500,000 will ben enrolled in private schools. About 5,600,000 of the latter will be Roman Catholic parochial schools.

The Office of Education estimated that 1,684,000 classroom teachers will be needed by public and private schools below the college level during the coming academic year. This is an increase of 3 per cent over the 1,636,000 teachers employed during the 1960-61 school year.

Fedeast MEATS

REMEMBER Miss Singapore and the illness that put her in the hospital and out of the competition at the Miss IBC contest? What happened to her and how does she feel about her experience here?

Well, Julie Koh slowly recovered and on July 29 left for her home. And now at Memorial Hospital a letter has been received from her addressed to "all my dear American sisters and mamas." It was intended especially for the nurses at the hospital.

"I miss all of you so much," she wrote. "I sincerely thank all of you for enabling my stay at Memorial Hospital to be a very comfortable one. I shall never forget all the wonderful things you have done for me."

Julie asked about a young man with a broken leg she saw at the hospital, and she promised, if ever she returns to Long Beach, to visit the hospital. "It will be a friendly call and not as a patient," she hoped.

Obviously, the girl from Singapore, despite a stroke of bad luck, has carried home a message of good will from here.

THE OTHER day I relayed query from a young reader as to the origin of the term "hot dog" for a frankfurter or weiner. Other readers rushed to her aid with some rather bizarre reports.

Dee Hull says that when weiners first became popular, some jokers spread the word they were made from the meat of stray dogs—and that started the term.

Somewhat similar and in more detail is Charles Gerlach's theory. He says that a half century ago, when burlesque was in its prime, there was a comedy stunt involving a box-like contraption with a hopper on top, a chute at one end and a handle on the side.

Live dogs would be put in the hopper, the handle turned, and from the end would emerge a string of items in the shape of weiners. These were called dogs. Apply a little heat and you had hot dogs.

For a long time, manufacturers of weiners objected to having them called dogs. Public opinion won out—but it also favored the manufacturers' product, so everybody is happy.

THE "boogie-woogie bugle boy of Company M" has just been heard from.

He is Richard R. Williams, now city editor of the Okinawa Morning Star, Naha, Okinawa (Box 282).

Bro. Williams writes about his days with Company M of California National Guard, based at the Long Beach Armory early in World War II. He says he was a lousy bugler, but that was his assignment and the boys gave him the boogie-woogie title in good-natured banter. He'd like to hear from any other members of Co. M, which was commanded by Lt. Cecil Lynn when he joined up.

GOING BACK to the subject of dogs, my Samoyed, Sycan, whose eating exploits have recently made national news, has done it again.

This time he consumed two $1 bills.

The currency "made the route" and was recovered. It bears some teeth marks but otherwise is ready for a return to circulation.

BE THANKFUL California has a statewide adoption of daylight saving time.

Mrs. Wayne Martin has just returned from Oregon, which has no official DST but where about half the people and half the businesses are on fast time, half on regular. "It's horrible confusion," she reports.

MORE AND MORE SADDLE UP IN SOUTHLAND

By BOB WILCOX

An ancient sport that knows no season or age limit and combines the longing of the city-bound for the outdoors with most persons' innate love of animals is experiencing a boom in the Long Beach area.

From Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mercer who operate the Equestrotel Riding Academy here to the Equestrian Trails, Inc., which is in the process of acquiring 3,000 miles of trails throughout California, the word is the same: horseback riding, always popular, is on the upsurge.

The reasons for taking up riding are as varied as the ages of the horseback enthusiasts.

Take Charlene Sutera, a 16-year-old Wilson High student of 4131 Patero Way, who got the horse fever not from watching television but from witnessing an old-fashioned parade nearly two years ago.

* * * *

CHARLENE "fell in love" with Proud Rebel, plain "horse-horse" that would bring snickers from show judges. "It was the only one I've ever wanted," says the brown-haired coed.

Then there's Charlene's pal, Chery Creel, 14, of 3904 Lewis Ave., a pert brownette. "I wanted a horse when I was 4," she says.

She persuaded her father to buy her a show horse 18 months ago. She prefers showing to riding. Chery won a national show medal in Costa Mesa recently and if she captures another she'll go to Madison Square Garden next November to compete for a national championship.

* * * *

MRS. CHRIS MERCER, a show rider herself and equestrian expert, discounts longing for the outdoors as a principal reason for the sport which has kept Equestrotel's stable at 3801 Golden Ave. crammed with 100 horses — considered "luxury items."

"It's mostly competition and the challenge," says Mrs. Mercer. "You never learn everything about a horse." She estimates that two-thirds of the riding horses in this area are show horses. The remainder are kept purely for pleasure riding.

When Junior expresses a yen for a mount—and he can do it anytime after he's 3—the experience can be relatively inexpensive or fabulously costly.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Mrs. Mercer, you can pick up a "horse-horse" starting at about $200, board him out at $40 a month, or, if zoning laws permit, keep him at home for about $25 a month. Then there are other expenses such as equipment, medical expenses, and training the young rider at about $2.50 a week.

If Junior's yen runs to showing horses, his mount could cost $100,000 but will probably be bought for more like $1,500.

Horseback riders are a well-organized tribe. The Equestrian Trails group which was formed in Long Beach in 1945 now boasts 16 "Corrals" around the state.

* * * *

THE GROUP has acquired right-of-way on about 2,000 miles of trails up and down the state. Eventually it hopes to have a continuous web between Mexico and Canada.

The top horse-show governing body is the American Horse Show Association which sets standards for all "national shows." Various statewide groups also control competition. The riders, themselves, are organized into many clubs but compete at all times as individuals.

Among the big show events coming up in this area are shows on Labor Day at the Empty Saddle Club in Rolling Hills; at Portuguese Bend on Sept. 23-24; and charity competition at Los Alamitos Sept. 9-10.

2 Lifeguards Tow Boat From Jetty

Two Seal Beach lifeguards swim-towed an 18-foot inboard boat 400 yards to safety after its engine failed and it was in danger of being smashed against the Seal Beach Naval Base jetty Saturday.

Lifeguard Capt. Andy Seymour said Guards Jerry Hughes and Richard Chew towed the boat, owned and operated by Henry Killcreas of Baldwin Park, to the beach area.

Rob Druggist of $400 Cash and Narcotics

Two armed bandits Saturday took more than $400 in cash and narcotics worth about $50 in a robbery of the Parkview Pharmacy, 2101 E. Broadway, police said.

James K. Johnson, of 1723 W. Fifth St., San Pedro, owner of the pharmacy, told police the pair entered his store as he was counting the money in the cash register. They took the money and narcotics after threatening him with a revolver, he said.

The bandits escaped in a small foreign car, police reported.

Mrs. Griffin is the wife of U.S. Air Force Capt. Richard A. Griffin, stationed in Toul Rosieres, France, and the daughter of Mrs. Mabel F. Williams, of 1959 Cedar Ave. She attended Long Beach City College.

Downtown Merchants Go All Out for Street Tree-Planting Plan

By JIM McCAULEY

Soon you won't be able to see the trees for the forest in downtown Long Beach.

Faster than you can shout "timber" new fiscus nitida evergreens are sprouting from the sidewalks in a vast beautification program.

"The asphalt jungle appearance of sidewalks is gone," proudly announced Vito H. Romans, general manager, Downtown Long Beach Associates.

* * * *

FORTY-SIX trees were planted in downtown sidewalks last week by civic-minded retailers — exceeding all plantings for the past three years.

As a result, here is a rundown on forestry conditions in downtown Long Beach:

One-third of Pine Avenue store fronts shaded by stately trees.

Two blocks on the south side of Broadway, from Locust to Pacific Avenues, planted solidly with trees.

More tree plantings due to go in later.

* * * *

RETAILERS here were up a tree for a while due to the high cost of beautification. The City of Long Beach supplied the trees free, but excavation and grill-work costs totaled $216 a tree.

The sidewalk had to be cut and protective grillwork erected. That was costly.

Then A. L. Code, district manager for Southern California Edison Co., arranged for his building to experiment with a low-cost planting method. Bricks were substituted for grill-work and the cost was slashed to $29 a tree.

* * * *

DUE TO the success of the low-cost Edison Building tree plantings, other downtown locations have been ordering trees en masse.

George Trammell, DLBA president, credited Darrell Neighbors for starting the tree beautification program. Neighbors, property manager for Jotham Bixby Co., arranged for the first tree to be planted at Broadway and Pacific Avenue four years ago.

And a forest of trees came later.

* * * *

SUNSET MAGAZINE, Western living publication, saluted the Long Beach tree beautification program, saying:

"Along Long Beach streets, merchants have only to pay installation costs to get trees. The city does the rest."

DLBA takes orders for the trees, the city plants them and DLBA bills merchants. The city bills DLBA.

Among the local firms with new plantings last week were the Lafayette Hotel, Farmers and Merchants Bank Building, Household Finance, Bank of America, Sav-On Drug and Security-First National Bank.

EDITORIAL

Let's Aim at Right Target

LET US hope that Anti-Communism Week, proclaimed in connection with the forthcoming Southern California School of Anti-Communism, will not signal another outbreak of name-calling between reactionaries and radicals.

More temperate citizens will use the occasion for the purpose suggested—"A week during which our citizens will join with others in Southern California to enlighten themselves on the insidious works of an international conspiracy that is dedicated to the destruction of our fundamental constitutional rights as free men."

MANY DIVERGENT GROUPS says they are against communism. Perhaps these groups can use this special week as a time to find areas of agreement instead of pursuing the futile battle against one another.

"Anti-Communists" of the Birch stripe could use it as an occasion to halt their attacks on good citizens such as Chief Justice Earl Warren and direct their fire at the real enemy.

Incidentally, conservatives who feel some obligation to defend Birchers because the Birchers claim to be anti-Communists should consider a remark by Sen. Barry Goldwater in his press conference in Long Beach last week.

The leader of the conservative movement said that the John Birch Society is not necessarily a conservative organization and that he hates to see it labeled as such. He defended the good name of Earl Warren and said that anti-Communists should fight Communists.

MEANWHILE SOME OF the anti-anti-Communists need to re-examine the theory they hold that communism is just another political idea which deserves a respectful and solicitous hearing and complete protection in a democratic society. So many who advance this naive argument would be among the first to sue if they were called Communists. Why?

Because they know in their heart of hearts that communism isn't an innocent political theory but an evil, active conspiracy to undermine our free, democratic society. And they wouldn't want to be CALLED a supporter of such a conspiracy even though they give it as much aid as do the zealous "anti-Communists" who want to lynch every man who voices a liberal thought.

Let the anti-anti-Communists spend at least this one week sneering at Communists, ridiculing Communists, deploring Communists, making fun of Communists instead of beating well-meaning fellow citizens over the head.

U.S. Policy-Makers Neglect Churches

EN ROUTE FROM EUROPE—One of the most effective instruments for the spread of America's ideals and its concepts of human brotherhood throughout the world is not being utilized by the United States government. There is plenty of emphasis on "cultural exchange" in the arts, music and drama, and lots of talk about the need for technical and educational help to be furnished by the new "peace corps" project. But there is a tendency to overlook a powerful institution in the world today—the churches and religious organizations.

The contact between the American government and the Roman Catholic headquarters in the Vatican is tenuous. There is little contact with the high-ranking ministers of the Church of England. There is little contact with the high churchmen of the Asian religions.

THE OTHER DAY, the correspondent in Rome of the London "Daily Telegraph" wrote to his paper that an attempt may be made soon to initiate diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican. This is probably a mistaken report, and the speculation may have arisen from the fact that Cardinal Cicognani, the newly appointed Papal secretary of state, is well acquainted in Washington, where he served 25 years—from 1933 to 1958—as the apostolic delegate to the Catholic clergy in America. From 1939 to 1950, Presidents Roosevelt and Truman maintained an unofficial representative—the late Myron C. Taylor—at the Vatican. These relationships were especially valuable during the war and postwar periods, and were thereafter lost in a controversy that arose when President Truman recommended establishment of formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican, and Congress refused to approve.

SINCE THAT TIME, the contact between the American government and the Vatican has been confined to a few visits by dignitaries on both sides. Yet the Roman Catholic Church has tremendous influence in every country in Latin America—each of which is predominantly Catholic in its religious affiliation—as well as in France, Austria, Germany, Spain and Italy. The Vatican could do more to help the "Alliance for Progress" to succeed in Latin America than any other single ally.

What is needed is a special organization in the United States government devoted entirely to contacts with all national church and religious groups, both inside and outside the United States.

WHAT COULD THESE AMERICAN representatives do? Nearly every one of the big churches has a vast personnel of missionaries who serve all around the globe—Africa, Asia, South America. They are in close contact with the peoples of those continents.

Sometimes the church organizations get a misconception of American purposes and policies, and their representatives repeat such misconceptions, not necessarily in the pulpits but in their informal relationships with local leaders of thought. It is vital to the whole communication policy of the United States that a means of briefing the principal church leaders of the world should be set up by the United States government—just as it spends a lot of time and money in contacting the press and movie people of various countries, as well as other organizations included in our "cultural exchange" programs.

Study of Communism, If Not Abused, Could Prove Helpful

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Probably there will be some controversy over a proposal to include instruction about communism in the public schools. There always is a controversy whenever the word communism is mentioned, despite the fact it is the bitterest enemy of republicanism and democracy.

Conferences over the proposal have been going on in the state Department of Education, and Roy E. Simpson, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, is about to appoint an advisory committee to study the matter farther.

MacARTHUR

Under the proposal the decision as to whether instruction would be given or not, would be made by local school districts. Along with any such course would go instruction in democracy, the idea being to show the difference between the two philosophies of government.

On the face of the proposal, it would appear a desirable course. At the present time, there is a general "hate communism" attitude on the part of everyone, and at the same time, few people know what communism is or what it is trying to accomplish.

What the educators mayhap don't realize is that there would be a more general antipathy among the people of the state toward the philosophies of communism if people knew more about the subject. Then the antipathy would be based on factual knowledge, presumably, and sound reasons would supercede hearsay in pointing the country away from communism. Also, the "tricks of the trade," that is, the methods used to advance the cause of communism would become common knowledge, readily recognized when they are used in this country.

On the other hand, such courses could be abused. Let a teacher who happened to be favorable to the Communist philosophy get in the saddle as instructor in a democracy vs. communism course, which the teaching would evolve into eventually, and the cause of democracy could easily be lost.

This, then, would mean continual hand-picking on the part of governing boards of school districts to select instructions who are known to be loyal to the democratic cause. This would be a difficult task, for even the invasion of one communistically-inclined instructor could do a lot of damage. And the Communists, one can rest assured, would space no effort to infiltrate the ranks and spread propaganda through this brand new media.

* * * *

BECAUSE of this danger, it could well behoove the state Department of Education to figure out ways and means of avoiding tactics which eventually could undermine democratic principles.

But again, teaching "about" communism could readily be recommended as a means of adding to the store of knowledge of the state's young people. If democracy is afraid to teach its upcoming citizens what communism is and what it represents, then those who espouse its cause must have made more progress than they are given credit for.

Facts on any subject should not be denied to young people, and particularly on subjects in which there is such a great amount of interest as there is in communism.

Neutral, 'at It Again' Nebulous Nehru, Wobbly

NEBULOUS NEHRU, the prime minister of India, is at it again.

This time, the 71-year-old leader of the Congress party, is saying that he sees no need for either the West or the Soviet Union to give up its position in Berlin.

"I do not see any problem," opines the serene prime minister, "for which a temporary solution cannot be found."

This is a delightful doctrine but it appears to collide with the realities. Mr. Khrushchev simply refuses to cooperate.

NEHRU

The best description of Nehru, who maintains a wobbly neutrality between East and West, is given by a high Indian official.

"Nehru," he declared, "is like the banyan tree, under whose shade millions take shelter—but nothing grows."

WALTER TROBAN, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington bureau, has discovered that the late Alben William Barkley, prosecutor, senator and Vice President of the United States, didn't believe in paying taxes.

It seems that "The Veep," as Barkley was affectionately known, usually voted for higher taxes but neglected to pay his fair share to the government. In the settlement of Barkley's estate, the Internal Revenue Service collected $343,444 in settlement of income tax claims.

The story goes that Barkley actually owed a great deal more than was paid by the estate in an "agreed settlement."

Much of the "Veep's" income came from paid lectures which he delivered to special interest groups at the very time he was serving as Vice President of the United States.

Owing to Barkley's great popularity, this impropriety was never challenged. At the "Veep's" funeral services, the Senate chaplain asked those present "to think tenderly of one who occupied the high office and yet never stooped to low designs."

As Trohan says, no doubt Barkley would have had an amusing story to cover the situation.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, in an editorial argument for the foreign aid program, says "the development loan fund is in no sense a 'give-away' program; it is an extraordinary banking operation to meet a Communist run on the free world."

By this the Times means that we are to extend low or no interest loans, repayable in dollars, to enable "the developing nations" to complete their "revolution in freedom and avert Communist subversion."

We agree that this would be "an extraordinary banking situation" but not one likely to be fulfilled. With reference to the widely heralded Alliance for Progress, the Economist of London sees the reciprocal ingredient on the Latin side as "the pushing of belated reforms without which . . . aid may actually worsen the situation instead of improving it."

The Economist says these reforms turn on the willingness of the Latin American ruling classes to do two crucial things: first, to accept progressive taxation well enforced; secondly, to submit to the break-up of the vast landed estates . . . and the creation of incorruptible administrative machines to translate paper plans into grass-roots action.

To one who knows Latin America, the probability of attaining these objectives and collecting on our "loans" is so slight that the Times' wishful musings cannot be be taken seriously.

Among our good friends in Latin America is Carlos Lacerda, the governor of the state of Guanabara in Brazil. . . . Lacerda was openly critical of resigned President Janio Quadros' policy of closer relations with Communist countries. . . . Recently he told a trades union meeting that he would take to the streets and fight rather than permit the "hopes of the Brazilian people to be frustrated or detoured by a policy of successive capitulations to Communist tyrannies." . . . The delegates gave Gov. Lacerda a standing ovation.

Another stanch Latin supporter of the United States is Premier Pedro Beltran of Peru who began pushing needed reforms in his country long before the Declaration of Punta del Aste.

Old Equipment Dims Luster of West Berlin's Defenders

(EDITOR'S NOTE: While Drew Pearson is in Russia to cover the current crisis, his associate, Jack Anderson, is covering the Washington front.)

WASHINGTON—The heroic spectacle of 1,500 American troops rolling into Berlin last Sunday, their commander standing erect in his jeep, was slightly marred by the antiquity of their equipment.

Those who looked closely may have noticed that the bold battle group, pride of the U.S. Army, was scarcely better equipped than the GIs who swarmed into Berlin 16 years earlier.

These 1961 soldiers carried 1941 rifles, some M-1's, some Browning automatics. Slapping against their sides were .45 pistols which were first used in 1899 during the Philippine insurrection.

Their machine guns and hand grenades were of World II vintage, their mortars and howitzers only slightly improved over the World War II models.

The tall Texan in command, Col. Glover Johns Jr., bravely ordered his men to look and act like the "damn best" soldiers in the U. S. Army.

Their performance might have been more convincing, however, if they hadn't been obliged to appear in the battle dress of a past war. Their helmets, canteens, web belts and knapsacks were hand-me-downs from World War II. The field uniforms, though newer, had the same old look.

In contrast, the Soviet troops surrounding Berlin are completely armed and outfitted for the next rather than the last war. Their weapons include deadly, nuclear-tipped tactical rockets.

NOTE: If the 1,500 reinforcements had been halted at the East German border, their orders were to hold up, not try to fight their way to Berlin. Once they were waved past the Communist checkpoint, or course, they had permission to defend themselves from a possible Red ambush.

Vance Hartke, driving home a point recently on TV, declared ringingly: "As Benjamin Franklin said, 'Give me liberty or give me death!'" He got away with it, too, until he reached home and a disapproving son reminded him that the quotation is credited to Patrick Henry.

So Much for IBC, So Little for Health

EDITOR:

This letter is prompted by the article you ran Sunday, Aug. 13, with regard to the Mental Health Clinic program for the children of the city and the inadequacy of funds provided by our city fathers for this program.

Perhaps the article followed too closely on the heels of the well-publicized International Beauty Contest, sponsored by our city fathers and the members of the Harbor Commission. It can well be that I am not completely informed on the benefits of the IBC for our fair city versus the money spent. I do recall that one ship came to our shores because of the event, but aside from that I know of no further concrete benefits.

* * * *

FOR YEARS I have been actively interested in civic enterprises which relate to the health and safety of children in our community.

I now am convinced that our city fathers and the members of our Harbor Commission are more concerned with the turn of a leg and certain body measurements than they are with the health of our children (mental and physical). I base this assumption on the money set aside year after year on beauty contests, plus the money spent for the one-day glory of the Rose Bowl floral entry, versus the money spent for the health of our children.

MENTAL health problems are fast creeping up in the national health picture. The difficulties can be detected early in life, quoting your article, which states that the majority of cases are referred to the existing clinic by the school authorities.

Are we going to continue to crawl, or are we going to run to the aid of these children? Are we going to continue to spend hundreds of thousands each year on the IBC and the floral entry, or are we going to trim a little of the fat off for the children of our community — and be PROUD?

LANGUAGES in the NEWS

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

When you share a convivial glass with a friend you are liable to say "Here's how!" "Down the hatch!" or some such expression.

Here is how it is said in some of the world's languages and what it really means:

French—A votre sante (ah votr sawn-teh) "To your health."

Spanish—Salud y pesetas (sah-lood ee peh-seh-tahs) "Health and wealth."

German—Prosit (PROH-zit) latin "May it become you."

Russian—Za vashe (zah vah-sheh) "To yours."

Chinese—Kan pei (kahn pay) "Dry cup."

Hebrew—La chaim (lah KHIME) "To your life."

Italian—Salute (sal-LOO-teh) "Health."

Greek—Is hygian! (iss-ee ghee-ahn) "To your health!"

One of the most unusual meanings is the Norwegian Danish and Swedish word "Skal" (SKOHL). Skoal means "skull" and comes from the custom the Vikings had in a wilder day. They used their late enemies skulls to toast their friends

L.B. DENTIST FRUSTRATED

Dr. Travell Ducks Dental Chair

By BILL BROOM
I-P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Viewed from Long Beach, it seemed like a simple request.

Dr. Joseph P. Lunn reasoned that White House physician Dr. Janet Travell might be willing to do for a man with dental problems what she had done for the rocking chair trade a few months ago.

But a relatively simple matter becomes vastly complicated in the bureaucratic jungles of Washington. As a result, Dr. Lunn returned to Long Beach Saturday a disappointed, and somewhat baffled, dentist.

* * * *

DR. LUNN is the inventor of a new dental chair which he calls a "dental lounge unit." Its purpose is to make a visit to the dentist as psychologically and physically painless as watching television from a contour chaise lounge, which the invention slightly resembles.

Drills, instruments and other objects which at sight, cause strong men to quake, are kept out of the patient's sight. The lounge adjusts to a variety of postures which which make the patient comfortable and easier for the dentist to treat.

Dr. Lunn hoped that Dr. Travell would be as solicitous of dental patients as he was. He thought that if she could inspect the new invention she might issue a statement on the need for a dental unit that would be psychologically and orthopedically comfortable for the patient. Such a statement would encourage equipment manufacturers to design an even better chair, he hoped, thus helping patients and dentists alike.

The invention already has been placed in the hands of a manufacturer under terms making it impossible for Dr. Lunn to profit from any success it might enjoy.

* * * *

"I WASN'T asking for an endorsement or a mention of my name," said Dr. Lunn. "I just thought she could make a general statement on the desirability of a dental unit that would be orthopedically correct."

It seemed like a simple request, viewed in the light of Dr. Travells pronouncement a few months ago on the rocking chair and its therapeutic value for the spine.

Dr. Lunn once talked to Dr. Travell on the telephone and he also wrote her a letter. No one at the White House discouraged him from coming to Washington. In fact, the Secret Service inspected the invention and advised on its packing. And so he came. The dental lounge unit, crated and weighing 500 pounds, preceded him by air freight.

* * * *

NEITHER Dr. Lunn nor the crate got past the White House gate. The Long Beach dentist was informed that Dr. Travell would not inspect the device. Dr. Travell was not available for comment.

Rep. Craig Hosmer attempted to help out. He got nowhere. The congressman was informed obliquely that the White House is chary of getting involved in what might be construed as a commercial endorsement.

Congressman Hosmer was indignant.

"Dr. Lunn is a sincere member of his profession trying to achieve a significant advance in the art of his profession," he said. "I am disappointed that the White House would not receive him.

"I understand the White House's fear of becoming involved in a commercial endorsement, but that is not what Dr. Lunn was seeking. He made it clear that he desired no mention of himself or his invention."

After three days in Washington, Dr. Lunn gave up. He put the crate back on an air freighter, and took a jet flight back to Long Beach, where people are less suspicious.

CONSULTATION WITHOUT OBLIGATION

I am giving this testimonial so you too may benefit as I have with Dr. Chan's Natural Method. I was suffering with a severe case of nerves. At first I had a hard time getting along with my family because I was irritable and cranky all the time. I tried many things that doctors prescribed for me, but none gave me any permanent satisfaction. A friend suggested that I go to see Dr. Chan and try his treatment. In 2 or 3 weeks, my nerves began to relax. In 4 months, I was feeling fine again. Now I am able to do my housework without that awful nervous feeling.

Sloop-Shouldered Fems Driving Crawford 'Nuts'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Joan Crawford's going to be one of the "Miss America" judges Sept. 4-9 and I was supposed to give her some advice on judging but she gave me some.

CRAWFORD

"Suppose one leading contestant's hair is dyed?" I asked "Judge" Crawford.

"Isn't everybody's? Mine is!" the judge retorted.

"What if she's knock-kneed, Judge?" I inquired.

"Honey, if she's got knock-knees and can carry them under an evening-gown all right, it's o.k. with baby," Judge Crawford further decreed. "She's not always going to be in a bathing suit."

Joan, along with David Merrick, Blanche Thebom, Ted Mack, June Taylor, Bernie Wayne and some others, will be on CBS TV from Atlantic City Saturday night Sept. 9 choosing the new "Miss America"—and it'll be Joan's first time as a judge.

"Does she have to be tall or short to satisfy your taste?" I asked Joan.

"Either short or tall as long as she's not sloop and slump shouldered!" Joan fired back. "These sloop-shouldered dames are driving me nuts."

The Judge mused over her 100-proof vodka on the rocks she was sipping at a corner, nosed and ugly.

"Judge," we said, "do you think a woman can judge another woman or a girl? Don't men make better beauty judges?"

"I look at a gal from a man's point of view," the Judge said reassuringly. "I like fellahs, honey. . . . Sweetie, I know what men want."

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: Lack of space for building schools is getting serious. Why, it's get-She doesn't slump over to look short."

AND JOAN'S late husband, Alfred Steel, thought that the late Mme. Magda Lupescu was the most beautiful woman he'd ever met—though at first look, he thought she was angular, big-table at 21, while her two daughters listened politely to the interview.

"And another thing these dames do is walk with bent knees—they have such awful posture! I claim that they forget to tuck their stomach and their derriere in."

* * * *

JOAN'S EAGER to get to Atlantic City and serve as grand marshal of the parade.

"When it came up about me being grand marshal, they were afraid but they said they didn't know how to say it.

"They said, 'We had one famous actress here as grand marshal and she didn't have a stitch on under her dress, and everything was falling out.'

"We sent back word, 'Miss Crawford will be properly dressed!'"

Joan said that ex-model Bunny Walters, wife of composer Johnny Greene, a six-footer, is the most beautiful girl she knows.

"She's tall and yet she wears high heels and walks like the Statue of Liberty.

ting so there's hardly enough room for students to park their cars.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: New York is the only city in the world where they tear down a new 38-story building to put up a 39-story building.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's good advice—Never try to change a woman's opinion—even if you can figure out what it is.

Why is it that some wives look like Jackie Kennedy when you're taking them out—but like Mrs. Khrushchev when they're having dinner home with you? That's earl, brother.

DICK CLARK . . . The Kids Made It Possible

Singer - Actor Dick Clark Knows Bankbooks Value

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Hollywood and its swimming pool life are beckoning to Dick Clark, but he'll have none of it.

He prefers his home near staid old Philadelphia and the network TV show that made him the teen-agers' No. 1 disc jockey.

The 31-year-old star can just about write his own ticket in movies now that bigwigs have seen his terse, standout performance in one of the year's most heralded films, "The Young Doctors," which author Carl Sandburg describes as "sheer poetry."

The word went quickly around movietown how Clark more than held his own in a cast that included Frederic March, Eddie Albert, Ben Gazzara and Ina Balin.

"BUT I'LL stick with the kids who watch my show," Clark said at breakfast in a Hollywood Hotel dining room. "They are my prime source. They make possible everything else.

"Maybe if I considered myself an 'actor,' I'd feel different. Or if I was one of those people who get a kick out of being recognized.

"But I've said I see nothing good about being a star in this business. To me, the nicest thing would be if I was able to unscrew my head when I finished working and put it on a shelf until I had to work again. But so often in this world, you have no choice about what you do. You do what you have to."

* * * *

IF HE IS not a star in the usual sense of the word, then what is he? He is, above all, a man who values a big bankbook more than a big buildup, a man somewhat obsessed with security, a salesman of romance in a gray flannel suit.

Typical of his business acumen is the way he helped bring "The Young Doctors" into being. A member of his staff—looking for movie material for Clark—found the story. But when things hit a snag, Clark had the common sense to turn the material over to his co-producers of the film, the promising young team of Stuart Millar and Lawrence Turman.

Retaining a financial interest in the movie, Clark, a cool, literate and intelligent young man, stepped quietly into the background and took a comparatively small role.

Clark, a native of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., tells why he sticks with Philadelphia:

"Well, of course, a Philadelphia station owns my network show and has no intention of letting it go. But more than that, I like it. Why do people live anywhere? Because a place is good to you. I know the old jokes like, 'The first prize in a contest is a week in Philadelphia — and the loser gets three weeks.' But I think it's just fashionable to say you don't like it."

He said he's trying to complete a novel there.

"It's about a young man in the music business," he said. "The moral is that he finds you can't live on bread alone."

WIDMARK'S QUEST

Finds Swedish Cousins Galore

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sometimes a movie star can outsmart himself, as Richard Widmark can attest.

The actor was telling on the set of "How the West Was Won" about his first visit to Sweden. He made the trip recently with the idea of hunting for a leading lady for one of his productions.

R. WIDMARK

"I wanted to arrive quietly," he said. "But somehow they got word of it. When I got to Stockholm, there were reporters, photographers, radio and TV interviewers—the whole works. They asked me what I was doing in Sweden.

"I didn't want to say I was searching for an actress or I would have been deluged with hopefuls. So I just told them I was descended from Swedes and was looking for some relatives.

"That did it. Every time I turned around, there was a new bunch of Swedes with pictures to prove that I was their cousin. I never did find a bona fide cousin. And I didn't find the actress, either. But Stockholm was beautiful."

ACTOR'S LIFE

Rise and Fall in Five Stages

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Although she has the lead in two new films, Dolores Faith is keeping her feet on the ground.

The lovely young actress of "Wild Harvest" comments: "I always remember what Hugh O'Brien said about the five stages of a movie actor's career, as seen by a producer." They are:

"Who's Hugh O'Brian?"

"Get me Hugh O'Brian."

"Get me a Hugh O'Brian type."

"Get me a young Hugh O'Brian."

"Who's Hugh O'Brian?"

'Gangway' Plays for Service Men

The teen-age musical comedy, "Gangway," will be presented at the Armed Services Y.M.C.A. 7:30 p.m. today for all active duty military men. In cooperation with the board of Community Playhouse and director Larry Johns over 50 young people are volunteering their talents for this "one-night stand."

Regular performances of the show are presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St.

Each Sees Same Scene Differently

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's all in how you look at it, observes actor Warren Beatty.

He was discussing a scene in "All Fall Down" and how the various participants would look at it:

Warren Beatty: "This is a scene in which the son gets very intense."

Karl Malden: "This is a scene in which the father sits at the breakfast table and listens to his family argue."

Cameraman: "This is a scene in the green breakfast room with sunshine coming in the window."

Prop man: "This is a scene with six dozen pancakes, two quarts of syrup and a pound of butter."

IN A WORD: TECHNOLOGY

Why Hollywood Has Declined

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cary Grant has his own explanation of why Hollywood has declined as a movie production center.

In a word: technology.

The 30-year firm veteran, going strong as ever, says Hollywood has declined as movie methods progressed.

"It started when we began tinkering with such things as wide screens, sharp lenses and fast color film," he observed. "Back in the old days, we shot pictures for a normal-size screen, usually in black and white. We could get away with a lot. Nearly every set we needed could be built on a stage or the back lot.

* * * *

"NOT ANY more. These new lenses take in a lot of scenery. You can't fake it any more. Even if the audience doesn't know where the picture was shot, they can sense when it was filmed on a phony set and when it's the real thing.

"We used to do all our New York street scenes at the studio. No more. We've got some to do for 'Touch of Mink' and we'll have to go to New York for them. That's a lot of trouble and expense, but but we have no choice.

"The only kinds of films which can convincingly be made here now are those with a Los Angeles background—or westerns."

* * * *

GRANT IS sorry to see the industry's decline here, but he applauds the trend to realism. He feels that studio technicians have striven too hard to achieve visual perfection on the screen. The result: actors look like movie stars in Hollywood films; in European films they look like people.

"That is one of my pet peeves," he remarked. "I can't stand to see film actors with their faces caked with make-up. For years I've kept my face tan so I won't have to wear make-up."

Gov. Brown Reviews State Guard Unit

CAMP ROBERTS (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown reviewed California's largest ready reserve unit Saturday and told the 8,000 men in the 40th armored division, California National Guard:

"Your presence here is the best assurance we can give Premier Khrushchev that we stand firm at Berlin."

* * * *

THE GUARDSMEN are at the midpoint of their two-weeks annual summer training at Camp Roberts and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation. The review also had airplanes and helicopters in air formation.

"Your readiness for battle is a powerful deterrent to war," the governor told the troops. "This is language that Khrushchev can understand."

The governor said national guardsmen leave their families and civilian jobs to train each year "and contribute to the common defense." The 40th division is made up of Southern California guardsmen from Atascadero to the Mexican border.

* * * *

GOV. BROWN, as commander of the national guard, shared the reviewing stand with 40th division commander, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr. of Santa Barbara; Maj. Gen. R. W. Porter Jr., deputy chief of staff for the Army, and Maj. Gen. Roderic Hill, state adjutant general.

Gen. Porter presented the new official U. S. Army flag to General Ott.

Medals were awarded to four outstanding soldiers and a civilian. The California Military Cross, highest award by the state, was presented to Maj. Henry Bisaccia, 46, commander 40th Medical Battalion, 3620 Weston Ave., Long Beach, and to Sgt. James R. Shirk, 26, 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 144th Artillery, 1533 Royal Oak, Bradbury.

The California Medal of Merit for meritorious service went to:

Lt. Col. George M. Gary, of Los Angeles, Sgt. Donald E. Condit, 22, of Arcadia and Leonard Garcia, director of the Santa Barbara National Guard Drum and Bugle Corps.

McCray Named to AF Post

Lt. Colonel Thomas B. McCray, of 5611 Mezzanine Way, has been named personnel officer of the newly-activated 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group located at Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The appointment was announced by Col. Claude J. Norton, Santa Ana, commanding officer.

Col. McCray has been active in Air Force Reserve activities in the Long Beach area for some years. He is former commander of the 9355th Air Reserve Squadron, and a former member of the staff of the 9078th Group, both stationed at the Long Beach Air Force Base.

* * * *

RECOVERY units are a new concept in the Air Force Reserve program. Groups have been established at strategic locations in the United States to provide haven, in the event of war, for combat aircraft returning from missions and unable to land at their home bases.

Col. McCray said that the personnel office at the base, located on the south side of Spring Street, near Redondo Avenue, is open Tuesday through Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. He said there are vacancies open for reserve airmen who would like to join the Ready Reserve organization.

PROFIT-SHARING PACT SIGNED WITH AMC

'Contract or Strike,' Reuther Tells Big 3

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers president Walter P. Reuther, with contract agreement with American Motors Corp. in hand, said Saturday he will enter negotiations with the auto industry's Big Three Wednesday and "there will be a strike" if no settlement is reached by contract expiration on the following day.

Reuther said the UAW International Executive Board will already have picked a strike target by the time he enters negotiations personally.

The board will meet here Tuesday night to review progress in talks with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out at midnight, local time, Thursday.

* * * *

REUTHER SAID there was still "ample time" for the Big Three and the union to reach agreement on new contracts before the present pacts expire.

But he said "there will be a strike at the Big Three" if settlement is not reached.

Reuther said GM and Ford could afford "to accept and give even more" than American Motors provided. He said "Chrysler is a different case" but he believed Chrysler, too, could afford to match AMC.

* * * *

NEGOTIATIONS continued until late in the day at General Motors and Chrysler, after being recessed in the early afternoon at Ford until the bargaining resumes at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

While the Big Three auto companies decline comment pending study of the UAW-AMC settlement, there was little doubt that it gave the union a stronger bargaining position with the Big Three.

The present union contracts with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will expire at midnight, Aug. 31—next Thursday.

ALL THE companies have swung into 1962 model production, usually the best selling period of the year. The companies feel the pressure to avoid a strike to retain their share, or better, of the market.

GM, Ford and Chrysler this year have presented a solid front, preventing the union from .pushing .through an agreement with one firm, then pressuring the others into a similar agreement.

But AMC surprised the other companies, and the union, by offering a settlement including profit-sharing July 28.

AMC proposed that 10 per cent of the profits before taxes be put into an employe fund, after an initial 10 per cent of stockholders equity was removed for a reserve.

THIS basically was the "progress sharing" plan announced in the settlement by AMC and the UAW Saturday. The employes' 10 per cent will go to the workers either in cash or improved benefits, ranging from pensions to insurance to additional jobless pay.

MISSION VIEJO PLANS

Huge Ranch Purchase Set

SANTA ANA—The signing of a purchase agreement for the historic Rancho Mission Viejo, the second largest individually owned ranch in Orange County, has been announced by K. Graves, president of World Land Co., Inc., of Beverly Hills.

Graves, speaking through his public relations agent Al Johns, said he will file escrow proceedings Sept. 8 for the purchase of the property. His option to buy the land extends to noon Sept. 11.

* * * *

REPORTED SALE price is $26 million.

E. M. Peterson, vice president of Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. is assigned trust officer for the property heirs.

The World Land Co., Inc., will develop the property into a planned urban complex of homes, apartments, shopping centers, industrial and research parks, it was disclosed.

The land represents one-tenth of Orange County and is 53,500 acres. It is located at the southern tip of the county border at San Diego County line.

The architectural firm of Victor Gruen Associates has been retained to prepare a master plan for the area's development.

RANCHO MISSION VIEJO was a part of a land grant given to Pio Pico, last governor of California under Mexican rule. Pico proved his claim to the grant after California's admission to the United States and the government recognized his title to the land.

Present ownership of the land stems from a purchase in 1883 by Richard O'Neil from the Bank of California.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Diseases That Defy Science

(Prepared in collaboration with George X. Trimble, M.D., medical education director, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER

Medical researchers still have plenty of jobs cut out for them, reminds Archives of Neurology.

The medical journal says these nervous system diseases still defy medical science:

● Parkinson's disease (shaking palsy): 1,500,000 victims. No preventive measure known. No cure.

● Cerebral palsy: 500,000 to 750,000 victims, of whom one-third are under 21 years old. No prevention or cure.

● Multiple sclerosis: 250,000 victims. Similar conditions: 250,000 to 500,000 victims. Most patients stricken between 20 and 35. No prevention or cure.

● Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease): No statistics, but no prevention or cure known.

● Muscular dystrophy: 200,000 victims. Half of known cases are children 3 to 13 years old. No prevention or cure.

● Epilepsy: 1,500,000 victims. No prevention or cure.

187,500 Apply for Retirement Benefits at 62

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new law which permits men to retire and receive social security benefits at age 62 instead of 65 has resulted in about 187,500 applications by men and their dependents for immediate payments.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff said nearly 750,000 applications for all types of social security benefits have been received since the 1961 amendments were signed into law by President Kennedy on June 30.

Applications have been coming in at the rate of more than 90,000 a week, compared with a weekly rate of 50,000 to 60,000 prior to the amendments, Ribicoff said.

About 444,000 men aged 62 through 64 are expected to apply for benefits under the new provision by July.

Slashed L.B. Girl Welcomed Home

By WILLIAM JONES

Eight-year-old Susan Kipp—her throat bandaged where a crazed soldier had slashed her—returned home to Long Beach Saturday night in a welcome marked by moist eyes and large smiles.

But Susie, who lives at 1425 E. Market St., was unaffected by the reception. She was more interested in displaying the numerous toys and presents given her by doctors, nurses and the people of Yuma, Ariz.

PVT. THOMAS KELLY
Had 'Urge to Maim'

* * * *

"IT'S JUST like a big birthday party all over again," is the way her grandfather, John Kipp, 75, of the same address, described the reception at the house.

Only Thursday, the child had been left semi-conscious and bleeding when a soldier attacked her aboard a train in Yuma.

The burly soldier, Pvt. Thomas A. Kelly, 18, stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., told authorities he has an "urge to maim things."

Kelly said he first tried to strangle the Long Beach girl with a necktie and then slashed her five times with a razor blade.

* * * *

DESPITE THE wounds, Susie made a remarkable recovery at a Yuma hospital and was released early Saturday. Escorting her home later in the day was her father, James Kipp.

Kelly, who has signed a statement admitting the attack, will appear in court in Yuma Monday for scheduling of his preliminary hearing.

Snake Dinner

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fifty Nashville herpetologists sat down Saturday to a meal featuring snake steak from a cottonmouth moccasin and four water snakes. There were side dishes of fried turtle legs and necks, and frog legs.

Rebellion in Prison Put Down

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — About 100 prisoners at the state reformatory rebelled Saturday night and refused to leave an auditorium until a squad of armed guards brought them out.

The guards removed the prisoners 10 at a time, and an hour and 10 minutes after the sit-down strike began it was over.

Supt. Ernest Timpani said the prisoners came out meekly and were taken to their cells.

* * * *

HE SAID officials heard rumbling of plans for a fight or some kind of disturbance Saturday night and he had an extra squad of guards on duty.

When the immates refused to come out, he said, there was some shouting among them, and a few benches were turned over, but no one was hurt.

Guards immediately locked doors and surrounded the building. Two shots were fired by the guards from shotguns as a warning to the prisoners.

Timpani said it will take time to pin down the men who started the disturbance and to learn the reason for it. He said the men had been perimtted a "quiet hour" in the auditorium to watch television or play games.

* * * *

THE PRISONERS' balk started about 8 p.m., Timpani said.

The superintendent said his squad of guards was having no trouble. There were no threats from the prisoners, he said.

There had been no complaints from the prisoners earlier, he said. "I can't think of a thing which might have led up to this."

The auditorium is on the second floor of a wing of the institution.

He said most of the men were watching a boxing match on TV.

The reformatory is in the Cascade Mountain foothills about 40 miles northeast of Seattle.

The Snohomish County sheriff's office said it sent four cars to the scene to bolster the institution's force of guards.

Resurgent Dodgers Rap Reds, 10-6

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

CINCINNATI—Walter Alston's long search for his best offensive lineup appears to be over.

With five outfielders in the starting nine for the third straight day, the Dodgers Saturday punched out 16 hits and subdued the first place Reds, 10-6.

The Reds also had that subdued look in the clubhouse when they realized that a Dodger sweep in today's doubleheader windup of the season series would scramble the standings. Don Drysdale and either Stan Williams or Roger Craig will attempt to climb the two big steps on the NL ladder this afternoon.

Drysdale (10-7) is to oppose Cincy Ace Joey Jay (18-8) in the first game. Ken Johnson (4-2), a stranger to the Dodgers, goes against Williams (11-10) or Craig (4-6) in the nightcap.

A sweep by the Dodgers would restore the lead they lost to the Reds in a Coliseum doubleheader, Aug. 16. A split, which Alston claims would "leave us in pretty good shape," means the Reds will maintain their 1½ game margin.

After today's twin bill, the Reds play only 24 games, The Dodgers 31. Cincinnati's schedule calls for four meetings with first division clubs, while the Dodgers must face San Francisco and Milwaukee 13 times.

Cincinnati, losing its sixth game in the last seven, depended on homers by Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman for all its Saturday's runs. The Dodger offense was considerably more diversified.

Every Dodger starter hit safely and all but Maury Wills and Wally Moon drove in runs. Winning pitcher Johnny Podres, Duke Snider and Ron Fairly were the only starters who failed to get two hits.

Frank Howard continued to be a tower of power as he celebrated his newly gained regular status against right-handed pitching. Howard hit his third homer in two games and also singled to raise his average three points to .312.

Jim Gilliam reached base via hits or walks in his 18th consecutive game and Fairly scored three runs, although he was held to one single in three official chances.

Although losing four times, the Dodgers have averaged a dozen hits per game in their last six starts, a spree unmatched even during an eight-game winning streak in July.

Jay Hook, a non-starter since June 20, was the first of six Cincy pitchers tossed into the wild slugging match and the Dodgers welcomed him like an oasis on this hot and muggy afternoon.

Hook lasted an inning and two-thirds, allowing four runs and six hits. In four outings against the Dodgers this year, Hook has been the victim of 13 runs and 19 hits in 6⅓ innings.

While the Dodgers were saddened by Hook's departure in the second inning, they were cheered once more when Howard's 13th homer made it 6-0 against Roadblock Jones in the third.

The clinching quartet was charged to the account of Jim Maloney in the seventh inning on five singles, a sacrifice fly and an ultra wild pitch on which Fairly and Willie Davis advanced two bases.

Podres (16-4) chalked up his ninth road victory without a loss, although he wilted in the seventh inning and needed help from Larry Sherry and Ron Perranoski.

Podres, four-time conqueror of the Reds in five starts, had a three-hit shutout for five rounds. In the sixth, he served up Robinson's solo 35th homer and two harmless singles. An inning later, he couldn't get anyone out. Singles by Coleman, Elio Chacon and Chico Cardenas put a crowd on the bases and on the mound. Alston came out

MARIS BLASTS 51ST

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Roger Maris blasted his 51st home run Saturday and Bill Stafford pitched a three-hitter as the New York Yankees beat the Kansas City Athletics 5-1 for the second straight day.

Maris lined his home run over the right-centerfield fence off Jerry Walker in the sixth inning and kept a 10-game lead over Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when he hit his record 60 home runs. The Babe hit his 51st homer in his 139th game. Saturady's was Maris' 129th.

Stafford had a shutout and a one-hitter going into the ninth inning. He struck out eight and walked only one and had retired 18 batters in a row when Dick Howser singled, went to second on a forceout and scored on Wayne Causey's hit in the final inning.

Maris' sixth-inning blast followed Tony Kubek's sixth home run to lead off the inning. Roger, who got an ovation from the hometown crowd of 32,149, made a bid for his 52nd home run in the eighth inning. He smashed a drive off reliever Joe Nuxhall that Jim Rivera caught at the fence in right field.

In his first three trips to the plate off Walker, Maris struck out, fouled out and walked.

MICKEY MANTLE, who has 46 homers and leads Ruth's pace by three games, singled twice, struck out once and walked twice.

The Yankees scored twice in the third inning. Bobby Richardson led off with a walk and after Kubek and Maris went out, Mantle also walked. Singles by Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron produced runs.

The New Yorkers got another in the fourth on doubles by Clete Boyer and Richardson.

McBRIDE NOTCHES 11TH WIN

Angels Stave Off Late Bosox Rally in 9th, 5-2

By ROSS NEWHAN

Fired by Bill Rigney's pre-game, locked-door, clubhouse lecture, the Angels beaned Boston, 5-2, Saturday night to jump back into seventh place tie with Minnesota.

Ken McBride (11-10) was within three outs of registering his 11th complete game of the season, but a ninth-inning Boston rally sent the righthander to the clubhouse —where three hours before, Rigney shook his team out of its lifeless ways of Friday when the Seraphs lost to the Bosox, 12-6.

While Rigney did not divulge the exact nature of his lecture, the skipper said: "What with the Yankee series over and the end of the season approaching, a few guys think they can ease up. I just wanted to get their minds back on baseball."

* * * *

THE ANGELS were all business as they played sportless ball in support of McBride's near route-going performance. The Seraphs made the most of six hits, enabling the painter of rainbow curves to register his third victory over Boston at Wrigley Field.

On the road, where they play without Jackie Jensen, the Red Sox have a horrendous 20-46 record—which is the same as the Angels' road mark. Of its last 19 games in enemy territory, Boston has lost 16.

* * * *

McBRIDE carried a seven-hit, 5-1 victory into the ninth when Russ Nixon laced a single to right. In no mood to take chances, Rigney rushed Jack Spring to the scene, but the southpaw got into a well of trouble when Pete Runnels beat out an infield roller.

After Pumpsie Green flied to right, Carroll Hardy singled to right to cut the deficit to 5-2. When Don Buddin was announced as a pinch-hitter for pitcher Billy Muffett, Spring went to the showers and Tom Morgan relieved.

Bosox pilot Pinky Higgins countered with southpaw swinging Joe Ginsberg, but Rigney proved the master chess player as the ancient catcher bounced into a double play.

McBride revealed that he was forced out by a strained elbow. He said, "I felt strong, but I hurt my elbow at bat. I've been using a Ted Kluszewski model and it might have been too heavy. I don't think it's too serious."

* * * *

McBRIDE fanned nine and had allowed only three hits going into the seventh when Boston ruined his shutout bid on singles by Nixon and Runnels and Green's double.

The Angels, meanwhile, were making the most of their meager hits off Tracy Stallard. Ignited by their manager's fiery words, they struck for two runs in the first inning as Lee Thomas followed a walk to Joe Koppe with his 17th home run deep into the rightfield bleachers.

Two innings later they made it 3-2 on a two-out sin-

Gibson Knocks in Four Runs as Cards Dump Giants, 8-5

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Gibson batted in four runs Saturday while pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-5 victory over the third-place San Francisco Giants, although he needed relief in the ninth from Ed Bauta.

The victory, Gibson's ninth to go with ten setbacks, was the Cardinals' sixth in a row and their 19th in 25 games.

St. Louis pounded out 13 hits off five San Francisco pitchers in gaining their 11th consecutive home victory.

Gibson allowed ten hits and gave up six walks, but struck out five Giants.

Bauta came on with one out in the ninth to retire the side after Gibson had given up a double to Jim Davenport, a home run to Willie McCovey, his 15th, and a walk to Willie Mays. Bauta got Orlando Cepeda to bounce into a force out and Hobbie Landrith to ground out to Bill White.

Gibson delivered a two-run double in the second inning and drove in his other runs with sacrifice flies.

Luxembourg Girl New Ski Champ

By DAVE TAYLOR

Sylvie Hulsemann, 17, of Luxembourg, the only contestant from the smallest country among 19 nations represented in the seventh World Water Ski Championships at Marine Stadium, Saturday dethroned Long Beach's 17-year-old Vicki Van Hook to become the International women's over-all champion.

Miss Hulsemann won the title by 81 points—a small margin in water skiing—with 2,911.414 points to Vicki's 2,830.050.

The buxom blonde high school engineering student took third place in slalom Saturday before a gallery of 6,000 with 973.684 points to go with her total of 937.730 in jumping and perfect 1,000 in tricks, both achieved Friday.

Vicki finished second overall with 2,830.050 points and was followed by her U.S. teammate Janelle Kirtley, Cypress Gardens, with 2,677.117.

Janelle became the new International women's slalom champion Saturday, whipping past 38 buoys at speeds up to 34 miles per hour. Vicki finished second in the slalom with 37 buoys, and Sylvie was third, also passing 37 buoys.

For a feature story on Sylvie Hulsemann and another picture from ski championships, turn to page C-5.

Vicki copped the second position by outscoring Sylvie 4-3 in a second run to break the tie.

The fatal ax fell on defending over-all champion Vicki when judges returned a decision Saturday morning awarding first place in Friday's trick event to Sylvie. The event had ended Friday in an undecided three-way tie between Sylvie, Vicki and Dany Duflot, 18, France.

* * * *

AFTER pondering motion pictures of the girls' trick runs for more than six hours the judges returned a verdict Saturday giving Sylvie the trick event first place with Dany second and Vicki third.

The trick event was definitely the deciding factor in the women's division competition, for a first place there, or even a second, would have won Vicki her second International over-all crown. Vicki won the title in the last World Water Ski Championships at Milan, Italy, in 1959. In the current meet, she placed second in slalom, third in tricks and fourth in jumps.

Renate Hansluwka, 18, Austria, was named the new International jump champion Friday with an 82-foot flight which landed her within seven feet of Nancy Rideout's 89-foot world record.

A 5-5 Record in Rose Bowl?

The AAWU football team that goes to the Rose Bowl might sport only a 5-5 record—or so insists John McKay, the top sergeant at SC.

"Not all of us have schedules which include games with teams like Idaho," cracked McKay the other night at a Trojan Club soiree in Chuck Steinman's Seal Beach backyard. John's "slap" was aimed directly at the Washington Huskies, who annually schedule the Vandals as a gesture of interstate friendship. The Huskies' "friendship," that is.

DAVE LEVY
Hits Northern Woods

"UCLA, Cal and us have the roughest schedules in the country," McKay continued, "so it's very possible that any of us can go to the bowl with as many losses as wins."

McKay appeared more optimistic over SC's chances of landing the next Jan. 1 bid than he ever did last season when his Trojans were pre-picked in some circles as the nation's No. 1 football club.

"I like our team this year because we don't have the 'name' players like we did last season," McKay declared firmly. "To me a 'name' player means only trouble."

In the next breath, John tagged UCLA as the best bet to wind up as the next Western representative in Pasadena, "because they're three-deep everywhere." Since Washington's coaches already have pegged the Bruins as the toughest AAWU club, the "kiss of death" has been applied very neatly to the Westwooders.

"Somebody told me the Trojans should go all the way because they're three-deep," snickered McKay. "Well, I'll concede our first squad is pretty good. The second unit is much weaker, but if we're forced to go to the third team I'll ride that Trojan horse right out of the Coliseum."

Earlier, McKay told the red-and-gold beany wearers that he, not a student, would ride the famed Trojan horse in the Coliseum this season.

"That way, when we lose, I'll be able to get out of the Coliseum alive," cracked McKay. "I'll also be able to get on the freeway before anyone else, too."

McKAY CLAIMED THAT Poly High's Willie Brown might become the greatest running back at SC since Jon Arnett.

"I can see three great seasons ahead for Willie," enthused John, "and when I say he could be the greatest since Arnett, I'm saying a lot. There's no question in my mind that Arnett's the finest runner in football today—or maybe ever."

Dave Levy, the ex-Poly coaching great, made a surprising comment when discussing SC frosh prospects:

"For the first time we recruited strongly in Northern California. The Southern California woods are getting too crowded with scouts, so we went North and landed four top boys.

"One of our freshmen is particularly interesting. He is the brother-in-law of Leon Clarke. Right now he's as big as Leon when Leon played with the Rams."

The 260-pound brother-in-law should be an awesome sight in freshman togs, indeed, whether or not he can play football.

Only Trojan Clubber missing at the football gathering was author Bob Wells, who was conducting an anti-Communist meeting at the Pike, or something.

Miss Reno Sizzles in Gold Cup Trial Heat

RENO (AP) — Home town queen Miss Reno, the defending champion, and Miss U.S. 1 of Detroit Saturday captured the opening heats in the $35,000 Gold Cup championship for unlimited hydroplanes.

Miss Reno, piloted by Air Force Col. Russ Schleeh, took the first heat, beating five other 2,000-horsepower speedsters in 103.604 average miles per hour.

Miss U.S. 1, driven by Floridian Donnie Wilson, scored a wire-to-wire victory in the second heat, and was timed in 94.844 mph after posting the fastest qualifying time earlier this week of 110.656.

Wind accelerated between the first and second heats Saturday and could have been the reason for the difference in winning times.

In this national championship of the big speedboats, the heats are each 30 miles, 10 laps of the three-mile course on Pyramid Lake, near here on an Indian reservation.

After Miss Reno posted her opening tryout to the delight of a crowd of 25,000, Wilson sent Miss U.S. 1 roaring ahead in the second heat. He never had a serious challenger.

Finishing behind the Detroit boat were Miss Spokane at 94.035, Seattle's Tempest at 93.913 and Gale V of Detroit at 90.316.

Miss Spokane moved ahead of Tempest in the final straightaway.

Fascination I lost power in the final lap of the second heat even as her sister ship from Seattle, Fascination, had failed in the first section.

Three races are scheduled today, with the final matching the seven leading contenders.

In Saturday's first heat, Miss Reno sped past Miss Bardahl on the last lap when the Seattle craft, leader most of the race, suffered engine trouble.

GREENBERG 'RETIRES' AS CHISOX' GM

CHICAGO (AP) — Hank Greenberg bowed out Saturday as general manager of the Chicago White Sox, saying he just wants to take it easy.

His job was immediately given to 42-year-old Ed Short, the club's traveling secretary. Short has been with the White Sox since 1950.

The front office shift was announced by White Sox president Arthur C. Allyn at a news conference attended by Greenberg and Short.

Greenberg, 51, said he quit his post "for personal reasons" and added: "I got a lot of personal problems."

He declined to elaborate except to say: "I'm going back to New York and just breathe."

Though McKinley, 20, of St. Ann, Mo., and the 19-year-old Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif., had to battle gusty winds and slippery grass at the Longwood Cricket Club, but they never had trouble with their much-publicized temperaments.

The 25-year-old Miss Hard, the top women's player in the United States, was brilliant at the net in the 6-2, 2-6, 7-5 triumph though she was in constant trouble with her service.

Cubs Score Five in 9th to Clip Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Bertell's fourth hit—a homer—ignited a five-run ninth inning Saturday and earned the Chicago Cubs a 7-3 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cubs clipped reliever Elroy Face for four hits in the ninth. He had taken over from Harvey Haddix in the eighth with two aboard and struck out Andre Rodgers.

Dick Stuart's 21st homer of the year with Roberto Clemente aboard in the sixth had put the Pirates ahead 3-1. The Cubs got another run in the eighth and then broke loose for five runs in the ninth.

Fairfield Fires 65 as Hebert Leads

AKRON, O. (UPI) — Jay Hebert, a 38-year-old Louisiana pro, shot a third round two-under-par 68 Saturday for a total of 205 and a one-stroke lead over Don Fairfield, who shot a course-record 65, and Gary Player in the $50,000 American Golf Classic.

DECKER WINS U.S. TITLE

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) —Mrs. Ann Quast Decker, dainty 23-year-old housewife with a killer instinct, crushed blonde Phyllis Preuss, 14 and 13, Saturday to win the national women's amateur golf championship for the second time in four years.

It was the worst lacing ever recorded in the finals of the 61-year-old tournament. The previous most lop-sided win came in 1928 when the great Glenna Collet (later Mrs. Vare) walloped Miss Virginia Van Wie, 13 and 12.

Mrs. Van Wie later came back to win the crown three times in a row. But it is doubtful if Miss Preuss, a slender 22-year-old who summers in Michigan and winters in Florida, ever will come back as long as Mrs. Decker is around.

The champion, from nearby Mercer Island, Wash., never lost a hole as she played near perfect golf over a course dampened by early morning rains. Outweighing her rival by about 15 pounds, she outdrove her by some 15 to 40 yards on every hole.

"It was the best series of golf matches I ever played," said Mrs. Decker, who is married to a young dentist. "Better than when I won the title in 1958."

IT'S PIGSKIN TIME ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES

Boom UCLA for National Title, Troy for More Wins

By JEROME HALL

UCLA is expected to be better on the football field this year. So is SC. But there the similarity ends, because they're talking around the country about a possible national championship for the Uclans. For the Trojans, the hope is for more wins than losses.

The collegians begin drills this week for the season that was supposed to be the first year of the All-American Intercollegiate Conference. But the "airplane conference" hasn't materialized—just the intersectional schedule.

That schedule is a killer for both.

For instance, two of the first three games for UCLA are at Ohio State and Michigan, two of the first three predicted top teams in the Big Ten.

* * * *

THE TROJANS, in addition to a full slate of Big Five games, must face Georgia Tech, SMU, Iowa and Notre Dame in succession. They meet Illinois and Pittsburgh, also.

To prepare for all this, the squads don uniforms for camera day Thursday and begin two-a-day drills Friday. Troy opens at home against Georgia Tech Sept. 22; UCLA opens at Denver against the Air Force Academy.

Biggest man on the Trojan scene is a Long Beach lad, Willie Brown has assumed the starting left halfback position though he has yet to play in a college varsity game. The soph speedster from Poly High is the reason coach Johnny McKay says "We'll have better team speed this season."

BROWN PROVIDES McKay with the weapon he did not have last year—speed in the backfield.

SC has the makings of a good backfield, but a lot of work will have to be done on developing linemen.

At UCLA, an experience-studded crop is returning, already tabbed for the Rose Bowl and mentioned on almost all national top-10 guess lists.

The Bruins have 24 lettermen returning, with a wealth of experience at every position.

It's likely that the bundle of seasoned ballplayers will more than offset the loss of all-America tailback Bill Kilmer.

It looks like UCLA's year, but Troy Boy Willie Brown might provide most of the excitement.

Once Over Lightly

Trades in Order for Wobbly Rams

By the time the Cleveland Browns finished chewing them up Friday night, it should have become evident that the Rams have little hope of doing much this season — in their present form.

Thus, some major deals appear to be the order of business for general manager Elroy Hirsch in the next few days . . . providing rival clubs are willing to give up what the Rams need most—mainly interior offensive linemen.

The Rams have four or five "name" performers, including a couple of running backs, plus a half-dozen "fringe" ballplayers who could be traded for help—if available—without sacrificing too much in the other departments of play.

JIM BROWN
Quickness His Secret

As it stands now, the offense appears much too inconsistent to be able to do anything more than occasionally annoy such powerful rival defensive groups as the Lions, Colts, Packers, Bears, etc.

Furthermore, as pointed out last week, while the defense would be adequate in many cases, it won't be against the stronger offensive clubs unless its own offensive crew picks up considerable more punch.

The Browns' great offensive line gave the Ram defensive wall a pretty thorough working over.

CLEVELAND, OF COURSE, HAS ONE of the toughest attacks in the game to defense. It has the speed of Bobby Mitchell to the outside; the power and quickness of Jim Brown both inside and outside, and the pin-point passing Milt Plum, who demonstrated in the second half why he wound up atop the league last year in passing statistics.

With those ingredients, any defense has problems. Stop one or even two, and the third will hurt you.

Brown, of course, turned in another of his tremendous exhibitions of how to play fullback.

Mitchell was speaking of Brown after the game and said that the secret of the big fullback's success was his "quickness."

"Seldom do you ever need all of your speed, but you always need quickness in football," said the swift halfback from Illinois. "I'd trade my straightaway speed any day for his (Brown's) quickness."

Mitchell, of course, also showed plenty of "quickness," in addition to speed on a dazzling 53-yard touchdown romp in the third period that was nullified by a penalty.

WHAT ABOUT THE RAMS? HERE are some of the comments of the Brown players:

Mike McCormack, veteran offensive tackle: "the Rams are still disorganized and they won't start looking good until their linemen can hold their own against opponents. They don't show enough speed at guards."

Leon Clarke, ex-Ram end: "the Rams are still floundering. There are too many individual stars that just don't work together. They somehow unawaringly manage to work at cross purposes and the result is they never seem to reach their true potential."

Bob Gain, defensive tackle: "the Rams could have an explosive running game if they could get some help at guard. Maybe they'll finally swap some of their backs for help in the middle of the line. Bratkowski will do a good job for the Rams, but I don't think he's the answer to shaping up a potent offensive punch. Meanwhile, the defensive line is big, but must move faster."

THE BROWNS FEEL THEY'LL fight it out with the Giants for the Eastern Division crown. "Quiet optimism" could best describe their attitude.

As Gain pointed out, "we had looked for the Cardinals to make a big run this year, but injuries to John Crow and Ken Panfil have crippled them. The Eagles won't repeat without Van Brocklin, so it sort of boils down to the Giants and ourselves."

Even Coach Paul Brown hints it could be their year. "After all," he stresses, "we had the second best record in the league last year and our record of 8-3-1 usually is good enough to win."

The Western Division race? "We've only seen the Lions, 49ers and Rams," said a Brown veteran, "and of those three the Lions appear to be much the best. The 49ers and Rams are about even. Against us, the 49ers showed a fine passing game, the Rams the better running potential. It will be whichever type game can outscore the other when they meet."

The 49ers and Rams meet for the first time next Friday night in the Rams' final home exhibition.

L.B. State Braces for Toughest Slate

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State College changes from a campus of international flavor to a football fortress this week.

Housing many of the world's top water skiers in the school dorms, the picture switches with the arrival of 55 varsity grid candidates Thursday.

Coach Don Reed expects 18 lettermen and 10 men from the 1960 JV squad. Also there will be a platoon of JC transfers.

First massing of troops is Thursday for the purpose of checking out equipment. Friday has been set aside for orientation and physical exams. Saturday is reserved for photographers.

The 49er gridders get down to hard labor Labor Day when they begin two-a-day sessions.

With his team playing University of Pacific in Stockton Sept. 16 (earliest opener in LBSC grid history), Reed immediately comes face-to-face with two headaches: how to best utilize the 49ers' shortest-ever fall drill period and how to make ready for his squad's toughest-ever opening foe.

After UOP, Long Beach State travels to San Francisco a week later, hosts Sacramento State Sept. 30 in its home opener, and continues the 1961 schedule against San Diego St., UC Santa Barbara, Cal Poly (SLO), University of San Diego, Fresno St., Los Angeles St. and Pepperdine.

REED AND HIS ASSISTANTS expect halfbacks Dallas Moon and Tom Turrill, quarterback Pete Yoder, fullback Steve Hartman, ends Carl Dunlap, Bob Heherer and Tom Wright, center Lynn Hoyem, tackles Gene Farrell and Hector Alvarez and guard John Reed to lead the group of returnees.

Reed won't make any pre-season predictions, but considering the excellent spring practice, don't be surprised if he doesn't do some sabre-rattling for Fresno State's benefit. The 49ers finished second to Fresno in last year's CCAA race, their best showing ever. Will this be the year?

Vikings Set for Big Year

By BOB SHIBLEY

About a year ago at this time, Long Beach City College football followers were wondering whether or not Dee Andrews and Lonzo Irvin could perform the same gridiron magics in jaycee competition as they had in high school.

Having successfully proved that they were truly competent magicians—they led the Vikings to a 38-16 Junior Rose Bowl victory over Tyler, Tex., the Metropolitan Conference championship and a No. 1 national ranking—the question now being asked about the former Poly High greats is "can they do it again?"

Viking head coach Jim Stangeland understandably refuses to be either optimistic or pessimistic about his team's chances of recapturing any or all the successes it enjoyed a year ago. Rather, he takes the "it's too early to tell" and "we've got a lot of problems" approach.

* * * *

"IT'S TOO early to tell" comes from the fact that practice doesn't begin until late this week. "We've got a lot of problems" stems mainly from a long list of linemen—including the entire first string—lost through graduation and ineligibilities.

Members of the departed starting line—rated by many as the finest in jaycee history—included Bill Sprague and Ernie McBride (ends), Steve Cohen and Jim Smith (guards), Mike Giers and Don Crosby (tackles) and Wayne Zimmerman (center). Giers is ineligible, the rest have graduated. Also gone are defensive linemen Frank Roy, Dave Christie, Kennedy Lowe, and Duane Frederick.

Moreover, only one tackle—reserve Tom Johnson—is back from the JRB squad of a year ago.

* * * *

BLEAK AS the picture is up front, it is overshadowed somewhat by the backs that will greet Stangeland when the practice sessions begin—Andrews, Irvin, flanker Willie Martin, quarterback Ed Reddick and fullback Jerry Orcutt (the best second string fullback in the state last season).

Biggest loss in the backfield is the quarterback slot, which was handled so record-breakingly last season by Dave Groff. Reddick, at this point, appears the best bet to become the No. 1 signal-caller.

Arnett, Brown or Brodie: Did Rams Choose Right?

By JERRY WYNN

One of the most fateful decisions in Ram history was made one December day in 1956. At the annual college draft meeting, the club had a choice among three outstanding prospects as its first round pick.

There was Jon Arnett, the home-town flyer from SC; there was Jim Brown, the slashing fullback from Syracuse, and there was John Brodie, the sensational passing quarterback from Stanford.

The Rams selected Arnett . . . and they've never been sorry. But neither has Paul Brown and the Cleveland Browns fretted away a second that they were allowed to sign the Syracuse boy or the San Francisco 49ers that they could obtain the Stanford boy.

For at least one game, Friday night, the Rams made the wrong choice. While Arnett was being clamped tighter than a bottle cap, Brown killed the Rams with his dynamite drives into the line as he led Cleveland to a 34-17 victory.

And this same great debate — Arnett, Brown or Brodie?—will be reenacted again Friday night when Brodie arrives at the Coliseum to quarterback the 49ers against the Rams in their annual pre-season civil war skirmish.

After being decimated by a cannon (Brown), the thought of facing a mere shotgun shouldn't phase the Rams. But such isn't the case. The word is that the shotgun is loaded with atomic ammunition.

For those fans who need refreshing, the shotgun is the novel offense sprouted by 49er coach Red Hickey that blasted his team to a surprising second-place tie in the Western Division last season. Brodie fires the gun from a formation which places him five yards behind center. He takes a direct snap.

The Rams received just one taste of the shotgun in 1960, but it was enough to make them wary. Before the largest Coliseum crowd of the year—more than 77,000 fans—Brodie paced the 49ers to a 23-7 win.

JOHN BRODIE
Shoots the Shotgun

This year, San Francisco has a second talented shotgunner in rookie Bill Kilmer, well-schooled from the UCLA single wing. Bob Waters is a third fine quarterback.

The Rams didn't play a had game for three quarters Friday night. They led, 10-7, at halftime and trailed by only 14-10, after three quarters to a crackerjack Cleveland aggregation. But you can't give a team as many chances with the ball as the Browns had in the second half, and not expect to get hurt . . . especially when they took the ball three straight times at midfield.

So, the Ram trouble boils down once more to the familiar bugaboo, the lack of a consistent offense.

42,560 See Packers Top Bears, 24-14

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Green Bay Packers struck for two quick touchdowns early in the fourth period to pull from behind and defeat the Chicago Bears, 24-14, Saturday night for their 11th straight National Football League exhibition victory.

Set up by a brilliant 52-yard pass from Bart Starr to Boyd Dowler, the Packers went in front to stay on fullback Jim Taylor's burst off left tackle at 1:21 of the finale. They then added an insurance touchdown after a fumble recovery on the ensuing kickoff.

A crowd of 42,560—the largest ever for a game between professional football clubs in Wisconsin—turned out for the 12th annual Midwest Shrine benefit game at County Stadium.

The Packers, the defending NFL Western Division champions who have not lost an exhibition since 1959, rolled 65 yards in eight plays for a touchdown the first time they had the ball. Taylor capped the drive by leaping over the goal from two yards out.

CHARGERS, OAKLAND VIE

The San Diego Chargers, Western Division champions of the American Football League in 1960 and 2-0 for this year's preseason action, attempt to protect their record of never having lost an exhibition game when they host the Oakland Raiders at Balboa Stadium today at 1:30.

The Raiders, meanwhile, are eager to avenge three straight lacings at the hands of the Chargers, having lost two regular season games and one pre-season affair last year.

The game will be the day's only professional football action.

Mud Running Tips Scales for Steelers

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Halfback Charlie Scales ran like a mudder on a soggy field Saturday night to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 24-14 exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Scales, former Indiana star, scored one touchdown and was instrumental in setting up another.

Bobby Layne started connecting in the second quarter for the Steelers after the two teams sloshed around the Gator Bowl for a scoreless first period. Layne's passes moved the ball to the Cardinal 19 and fullback John Henry Johnson leaped over for the touchdown from inside the one after Scales put it there on four consecutive carries.

Ex-Florida star Bobby Joe Green set the stage for a 19-yard field goal by Steeler Lou Michaels when he faked a punt and ran 42 yards to the Cardinal 32. Hard running by Scales again moved the ball in position for the field goal.

See Drastic Changes in Offenses Across Nation

By Associated Press

College football teams from coast-to-coast call it quits to summer vacations this Friday when they begin pre-season practice for the 1961 season, due to begin under a full head of steam less than a month from now.

And when the drills begin this weekend, they are going to bring about changes and offensive renovations from Oregon State to Miami, and from UCLA to Syracuse.

These have been dictated by the fact that the defenses started catching up with the offense last fall in many cases, and the need for drastic changes and revitalizations to meet talent situations in others.

Independent Oregon State is adding the multiple T to its traditional single wing so that bedeviled defenses now will have to cope with Terry (The Terrific) Baker as both quarterback and tailback.

At UCLA, coach Bill Barnes is trying to contend with what he calls his all-America schedule by dressing up his multiple single wing and "W" formations. Now he's got the end-over and fullback-in-motion series.

Air-minded Stanford and Washington State are trying to inject some old fashioned ball carrying to balance their attacks. The loss of passmaster Dick Norman has Stanford going into the "spread split T." The Cougars seek to make their national championship battery of Mel Melvin and Hugh Campbell even more potent.

Giants Clip Dallas, 28-10

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The offensive power of the New York Giants, keyed to the throwing arm of Charley Conerly, overran outclassed Dallas in an exhibition football game Saturday night, 28-10.

Former Utah great Lee Grosscup took over the Giants offense in the second half after Conerly had pushed the New Yorkers ahead 14-3 at halftime.

The first Giant score came with four minutes left in the first period when Conerly passed to Joe Morrison on a 37-yard touchdown play. Pat Summerall converted all of the Giants extra points.

The Cowboys first tally came after LeBaron made two unsuccessful pass attempts and settled for a 30-yard field goal by Allen Green.

49ers Dump Vikes, 14-10

PORTLAND (AP) — Abe Woodson's 97-yard kickoff return with 13 seconds to go in the first half sparked the San Francisco 49ers to a 14-10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in an exhibition pro football game Saturday night. It marked the 49ers first win of the season.

Woodson's run came just after Minnesota's Mike Mercer had kicked a 28-yard field goal to break a scoreless tie. A crowd of 27,044 filled Multnomah Stadium, many of them drawn by Minnesota head coach Norm Van Brocklin and quarterback George Shaw, both University of Oregon graduates.

The fans saw little action until Woodson slipped past two defenders at midfield and sprinted to the end zone.

San Francisco scored its other touchdown shortly after the start of the third quarter.

Colts Rout Redskins, 41-7, With 3 TD Aerial Strikes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts shocked Washington with three airborne touchdown strikes of more than 50 yards here Saturday night and routed the Redskins 41-7 in a National Football League exhibition game.

It was the third consecutive loss for the hapless Redskins in as many tries, and Baltimore's second exhibition victory against one defeat.

The Colts scored on their first play from scrimmage on Johnny Unitas' 50-yard pass to Lenny Moore after rookie halfback Don Kern had brought the opening kickoff back 50 yards to the midfield stripe.

Derby to Speak John

Favored Apple Out of Money

BY MAC McGUIRE

Speak John, owned by Max Gluck's Elmendorf Farm, charged to a two-length win in the 17th running of the $27,800 Del Mar Derby before a cheering crowd of 17,785 Saturday.

Speak John was second choice in the betting and paid $7.80 after running the mile and one-eighth in 1.48 with Pete Moreno aboard. The colt earned $15,425.

Coming from far out of it in the early running, just as he did when finishing fast to be second to Apple in the La Jolla mile, Speak John found the added distance of the Derby to his liking and ran over horses in the last sixteenth.

* * * *

SHELBYVILLE, who left his race at the post when he jumped in the air at the start of the La Jolla, was second, and the pace-setting Aldershot third. The favored Apple, who loomed up as a winner in the stretch, faded back to fourth.

Shelbyville was a half length before Aldershot at the wire, and the latter in turn nosed out Apple. Aldershot set all the early pace, and hung on gamely as Speak John roared by on the outside of his field.

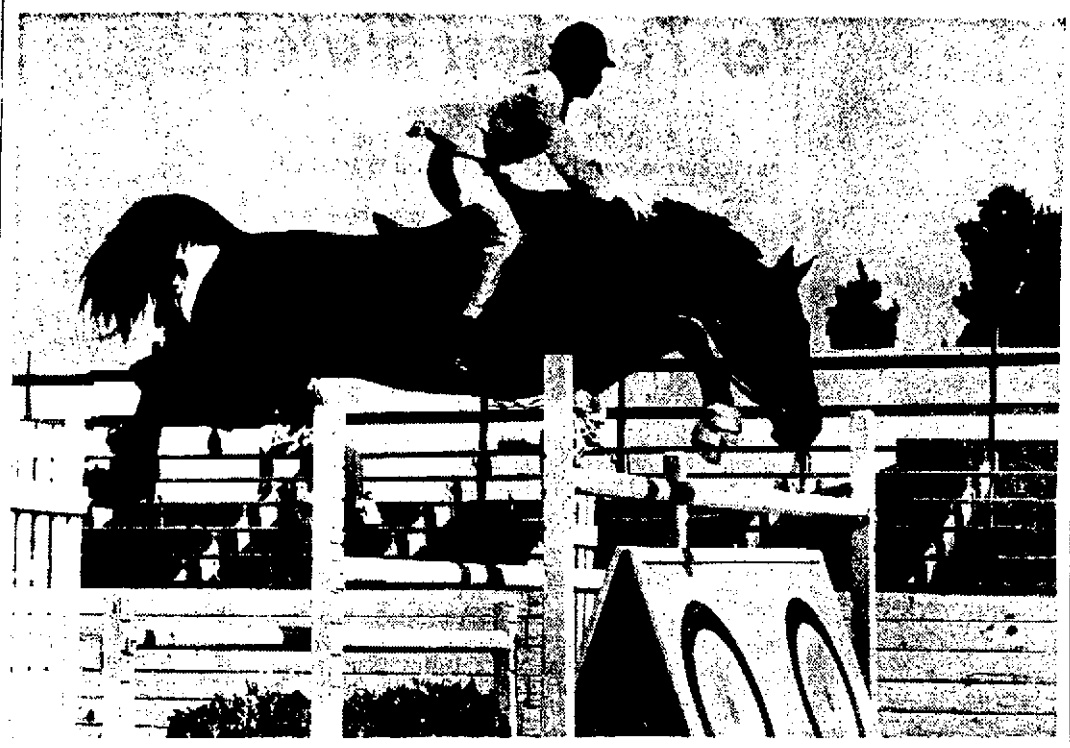

The Derby was Speak John's first stakes victory, and it left the 3-year-old title of the meeting up in the air. Of three stakes for sophomores, Shelbyville won the six-furlong Oceanside. Apple won the La Jolla mile and now Speak John.

* * * *

JOCKEY PETE Moreno observed after the Derby that if Speak John had broken well in the La Jolla mile he would have been a winner then, too.

In the supporting feature, C. V. Whitney's Killoqua, an eligible to the estimated $90,000 Del Mar Futurity on Sept. 9, made his first start of the meeting, winning by more than three lengths in 1:10 1/5 for six furlongs.

Carry Back Wins in Comeback Debut

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) —Carry Back, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and heir apparent to this year's 3-year-old honors, made a successful return to racing Saturday by winning a $6,000 allowance test at Atlantic City.

Carry Back, out of action three weeks with a leg injury, as usual, came from behind to win. He was in fifth spot at the top of the stretch before making a dash to the wire.

CHICAGO (AP) — Bluescope set an Arlington Park mile record of 1:33 4/5 Saturday while scoring a one-length victory in the $33,150 Warren Wright Memorial Handicap.

Bluescope bettered by one-fifth of a second Clem's record set in 1958. The day's racing was marred by serious injuries to jockeys Braulio Baeza and Ken Church in the fourth race.

CALIENTE (UPI) — Mutuality, this year's 4-year-old border sensation, Saturday scored his ninth victory of the year in winning the featured Winter Set Purst here. He set a track for six furlongs of 1:08 4/5.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI) — George D. Widener's Jaipur put at least a temporary halt on Sir Gaylord's drive to the 1961 juvenile championship Saturday when he scored an upset victory in the $75,000-added Hopeful Stakes here.

Golden Note Heat Victor in Fast Time

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. Mex. (Special)—Three California juveniles — unbeaten Bunny's Bar Maid, Long Beach—owned Golden Note and Pokay Bar swept to victory here Saturday in three of the four trial divisions for Labor Day's richest quarter horse stakes on record — the $202,425 All-American Futurity.

Ridden by Ken McReynolds, Bunny's Bar Maid streaked to her sixth straight triumph in 20.6 for the 400 yards. With Jimmy Dreyer up, Golden Note, from the stable of J. W. and D. J. Burr Wholesale Meat Dealers, knocked off her division in 20.7, and Pokey Bar, with Ken Chapman up, clicked in 20.8, thus assuring all three starting spots in the All-American.

Bunny's Bar Maid paid a prohibitive $2.20 straight, Golden Note $3.20 and Pokey Bar $4.40.

Art Bar, mild $10.80 upset winner of the final division from the Sonora Tex Stable of Jim Hunt, was timed in 20.9.

HAMBLETONIAN WEDNESDAY

Trot 'Big 3' Set for Classic

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Caleb, Matastar and Duke Rodney loom as the big three for Wednesday's 36th Hambletonian, harness racing's Kentucky Derby for 3-year-old trotters.

But contention will run deeply in a probable field of 14 or so, with enough spread of speed to back predictions of a record mile over the lightning-fast clay oval of the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

The closing of entries will be Monday and the draw will set up the highly-important post positions. With 14 starting in the best two-out-of-three heats race, the purse would approximate $135,000.

Last year there was a field of 19, establishing a record distribution of $144,590 and a high winning prize of $85,019. Blaze Hanover won in four heats, but Quick Song set a Hambletonian record of 1:59 3/5 and Hoot Frost matched it in a later heat.

This will be the fifth year the Hambletonian has been held in the plush setting of the Du Quoin Fairgrounds under the auspices of Gene and Don Hayes.

Sports Beat

Charles O. Finley said Saturday his Athletics will play in Kansas City next season but added that if the "people of K.C. want a team they had better get up in arms and fight for it."

Finley has been up in arms himself recently for not-so-glowing reports written about his lowly A's. His answer: "What they've said makes me sick — so sick it almost makes me want to take the club out of here (K.C.)."

* * * *

MILWAUKEE executive vice president Birdie Tebbetts said Saturday "rumors to the contrary, I have no intentions of leaving the Braves, nor have I had any offers to consider."

A Milwaukee Sentinel baseball writer said Tibbetts is itching to leave Milwaukee, and is being considered for general manager's jobs with Houston or the Boston Red Sox.

* * * *

BALTIMORE manager Paul Richards is another one who is apparently in line for the Houston post, and, in fact, one sports-writer has said Richards has already been hired.

A writer for the Jacksonville, Fla., Journal said Saturday Richards would resign from the Orioles as soon as they're eliminated from the AL race and then announce his move to Houston.

VETERAN outfielder Dave Philley of Baltimore, who set a one-season record with his 23rd pinch-hit Friday night, is a rarity among baseball players — he neither drinks nor swears.

Philley recalled Saturday a game in the late 1940's (he came to the majors in 1941) that an ump accused him of swearing and fined $50. Dave said he'd pay the fine but would not allow "swearing" to go on his record. He found the man who really used profanity (a teammate) and saw that his record was kept spotless.

A MAN who didn't win a single event won the overall title in the Grand American trapshoot Saturday. He is John Sternberger of Englewood, Ohio.

Sternberger broke 976 of 1,000 targets to win overall laurels.

THE NATIONAL tennis championships will get under way at Forest Hills Friday and the unwilling main attraction will be semi-retired Ham Richardson.

If the Dallas stockbroker happens to win the title, or make a respectable showing, there will be pressure from all sides for him to join the Davis Cup team. He has already been asked to do so, but declined.

THE SPORTING NEWS predicted Saturday the rookies of the year in the American and National Leagues. It picked both a top pitcher and a top player.

American League honors went to Ken Hunt of the Angels and pitcher Don Schwall of Boston; National League laurels went to pitcher Ken Hunt of the Reds and Billy Williams of Chicago.

SHORTS SHORTS—Jackie Simes of Weslwood, N. J., won the 1,000-meter opening race of the National bicycle Championships Saturday . . . Jim McElreath won the 20-lap feature race at the Minnesota State Fair Saturday. Hershel Wagner was second and Buzz Rose of Palos Verdes, Calif., third . . . The University of Iowa's Homecoming football game with Wisconsin Oct. 21 is a sellout . . . . A $100,000 trust fund for deserving baseball players has been established by the will of the late Louis R. Batcheer, former Goshen, Ind., sports promoter.

Nitehawks Open Title Bid Tonight

By RAY CUNNINGHAM

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. — The Long Beach Nitehawks open defense of their International Softball Congress world championship here tonight.

The Nitehawks will be seeking their seventh straight world title and eighth in nine years. Their first rival will be Davenport, Iowa, 4-3 winner over Gary, Ind., Saturday. If the Hawks win, they'll play Ogden, Utah, Monday night.

Despite boasting a home-town team that figures to be one of the tourney's toughest, Rock Island fans are centering their attention on the popular champs, whose reputation the past decade is legendary. Tonight's game already is a sellout.

* * * *

MANAGER Joe Rodgers plans to get the Hawks off fast. He's starting his great southpaw, Eddie Waymire, who has compiled a 19-2 record this season.

Rodgers remembers last year when the Nitehawks lost their opening game and were thrown into the loser's bracket. Luckily, they roared back to take the crown again, but this year they may not have the depth to perform such a feat if they lose one in this double-elimination tourney.

'Never Dreamed I Could Win'—Sylvie

By DAVE TAYLOR

Sylvie Hulsemann, the darkhorse entry from Luxembourg who captured the International women's over-all ski championship from under the noses of 18 major nations in the seventh World Water Ski Championships, had no trouble making her country's tournament ski team.

She was Luxembourg's only competitor.

The job was made even easier by the fact that, in Luxembourg, with a 300,000 population—less than that of Long Beach—there are only three people who can water ski.

"The other two are men, and they came to Long Beach only for the ride," says Sylvie.

A water skier for only four years, Sylvie competed in the last world championship at Milan, Italy, in 1959, but showed nothing of the finesse there that has won her the international crown in this tournament.

"I never in a million years dreamed I could win it," Sylvie said Saturday after it was announced she had the title.

"I was sure an American would win it. I know everyone is surprised that I am champion," she said, tripping occasionally on her school-polished English, "but they couldn't be any more surprised than I am."

Sylvie, a high school student in chemical engineering, speaks English, French, German and Italian. Tennis, swimming and horseback riding are her favorite sports.

"I am three years Luxembourg champion equestrian, and once international champion equestrian," says she.

But first of all Sylvie is a woman

And in true female fashion, when all the cheering was done Saturday, Sylvie hustled herself down town and spent the rest of the afternoon shopping.

REAL MADRID SOCCER KINGS CLASH TODAY

World-famous Real Madrid battles Los Angeles United in the season's biggest soccer match at the Coliseum today. Kickoff is 2:30.

Real Madrid, five-time soccer cup champions, will be led by Alfredo Di Stefano, one of the finest center-forwards in the world.

Some of the top names in show business will participate in a mock game prior to the international match. Among probable starters are Ricardo Montalban, Fernando Lamas, Jacques Bergerac, John Lupton, Rossano Brazzi, "Cookie" Burns and Michael Dante.

gle by Earl Averill followed by Ken Hunt's double and Stallard's wild pitch. The Boston righthander then settled down and retired seven in-a-row before the Angels iced matters in the sixth.

A WALK, infield out and Rocky Bridges' line single to left made it 4-0 and another walk, this one to McBride, and Albie Pearson's double produced the fifth run.

Eli Grba (8-11) will attempt to notch the Angels seventh win in the 18-game series with Boston when he faces the great rookie Don Schwall (13-2) in the series' windup this afternoon.

ANGELS: Angels: George Thomas refuses to be hampered by the pulled muscle in his left thigh. "I can run and hit," said Thomas. "The only thing I can't do is a hard pull one way or the other." Going into Saturday night's game Thomas had a six-game hitting streak, batting .395 with two homers and six RBI.

Rigney said he plans to change his conditioning program next spring so that sore arms and legs and pulled muscles will be averted during the season. "I think next spring," said Rigney, "the first week we'll just have a little batting practice and a lot of running and easy throwing. There will be no infield practice. That's where muscles get loosened properly, get hurt."

With two hits Friday, Albie Pearson upped his average .400 against Boston. Al Wrigley, Pearson was batting .438 against his former teammates.

Ted Bowsfield will pitch Monday night's series opener with Baltimore while Ryne Duren and Jack Spring are slated for Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader.

Callup Includes College Youths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The callup of National Guard, Army Reservists and Air Force Reservists provides no exemptions for college students, a Pentagon spokesman said Saturday.

However, the Navy has taken steps to ease the impact on some of its reservists faced with a conflict between active military duty and schooling.

A Navy spokesman said reservists accepted for the coming fall semester in colleges will be eligible for deferment from active duty, with some limitations depending on beginning dates and other factors.

"I just stood there in my trunks, dumbfounded," he said.

Dixie Pattern of Segregation Fades With Each School Year

By JIM THOMASSON

ATLANTA (AP)—Slowly, but relentlessly, public school integration has pushed deeper into Dixie in each of the seven years since the U. S. Supreme Court made its historic segregation decision.

When school doors begin opening next week for the eighth time since the 1954 ruling, the traditional pattern of racial separation will end officially in two more of the South's major cities, Atlanta, Ga., and Dallas, Tex.

It also will bring additional Negroes into previously all-white classrooms at New Orleans and Little Rock where integration began in turmoil.

* * * *

IN ONLY three of the states which operated separate schools when the Supreme Court outlawed segregation—Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina—will there still be no white and Negro children occupying the same public school classrooms.

Resistance has increased as integration has reached toward the deep South areas of denser Negro populations. Violence and disorder have flared even in the border areas.

A wide assortment of legal barriers have been thrown up, only to be overthrown. An example was Virginia's program of massive resistance. It, too, crumbled, and its fall was perhaps a turning point.

Georgia, one of the last four hard-core states, also had a similar plan, together with Gov. Ernest Vandiver's campaign pledge that no Negro and white child would ever sit in the same classroom during his administration. But when forced to decide between integration or closed schools, Vandiver and the Georgia Legislature capitulated.

* * * *

SO, IN this 100th year since the Civil War brought emancipation of the Negro from slavery, 10 carefully screened Negro pupils Wednesday will begin attending the 11th and 12th grades of four previously all-white Atlanta high schools. They were admitted under a grade-a-year desegregation plan evolved upon order of a federal court.

Likewise by court order, Dallas and Galveston, Tex., will integrate their schools on Sept. 6, but have not disclosed how many Negroes will be involved.

With the benefit of seven years of hindsight, Atlanta and Dallas officials hope to avoid disorder such as that which accompanied the beginning of school integration in some other cities.

After its original decree holding the separation of students on the basis of race alone to be illegal, the Supreme Court in 1955 issued an implementing decision ordering public school desegregation "as soon as practicable."

* * * *

BOTH THE Atlanta and Dallas cases illustrate the endeavors of federal district courts in the South to apply the Supreme Court's instructions.

Upon banning separate schools in Atlanta, Judge Frank A. Hooper allowed the board of education liberal time in which to submit a desegregation plan and then delayed the effective date of his final order.

The judge took judicial notice of state laws on closing integrated schools and granted the delays, he said, to give the people time, through their legislature, to act.

The segregationist Georgia Legislature, never too sympathetic toward Atlanta, was showing signs of yielding on Atlanta integration to forestall action which might affect other areas. But the showdown came at the University of Georgia.

* * * *

WHEN rioting erupted in Athens last January over the admission of two Negroes to the university, the Legislature and the governor were faced with closing the institution, in which the entire state has a great deal of pride. The result was a proposal by Vandiver, which wiped out school segregation laws and set up others designed to limit integration as much as possible.

Except for outbreaks of violence when Arthurine Lucy was admitted to the University of Alabama and when Charlayne Hunter and Hamilton Holmes entered the University of Georgia, integration of state colleges and universities has increased, also slowly, but with scant fanfare.

Dallas faced a problem similar to that in Atlanta as the result of a 1957 Texas law cutting off state aid to schools which integrated without approval of a referendum.

Last year, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson of Texas resolved that question by ruling that schools facing federal court orders to integrate would not lose state aid since they did not desegregate voluntarily.

MOBS LIKE THIS jammed street outside Graves Hall, University of Alabama, as Autherine Lucy, first Negro student at the school, remained in the building two hours after her class ended. She left later under police escort. More schools plan this year to end segregation.—(AP Wirephoto)

CHP Service Extended for 6 New Cities

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Six newly incorporated cities in Los Angeles County will have their traffic laws enforced by the California Highway Patrol for an additional four months.

The patrol agreed to continue service in Rosemead, Cudahy, Commerce, Walnut, Temple City and South El Monte until Jan. 1.

Enforcement by the CHP was due to end Sept. 1, but Gov. Brown said the cities need more time to develop their own traffic control or contract with the county for service.

India Vote Open to 210 Million

NEW DELHI (AP)—More than 210 million persons will be eligible to vote in India's general elections next Feb. 22-28. The 500-member Lower House of Parliament and legislatures in 13 of the nation's 16 states will be elected.

Solar Energy Can Provide Most of Heating in Home

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sunlight on its roof can supply a three-bedroom New England house with two-thirds of the energy required for heating and domestic hot water supply.

It could do better but total solar heating in New England weather would require more storage space than is convenient in a small house.

The cost of equipment required for solar heating remains higher than can be justified by fuel savings.

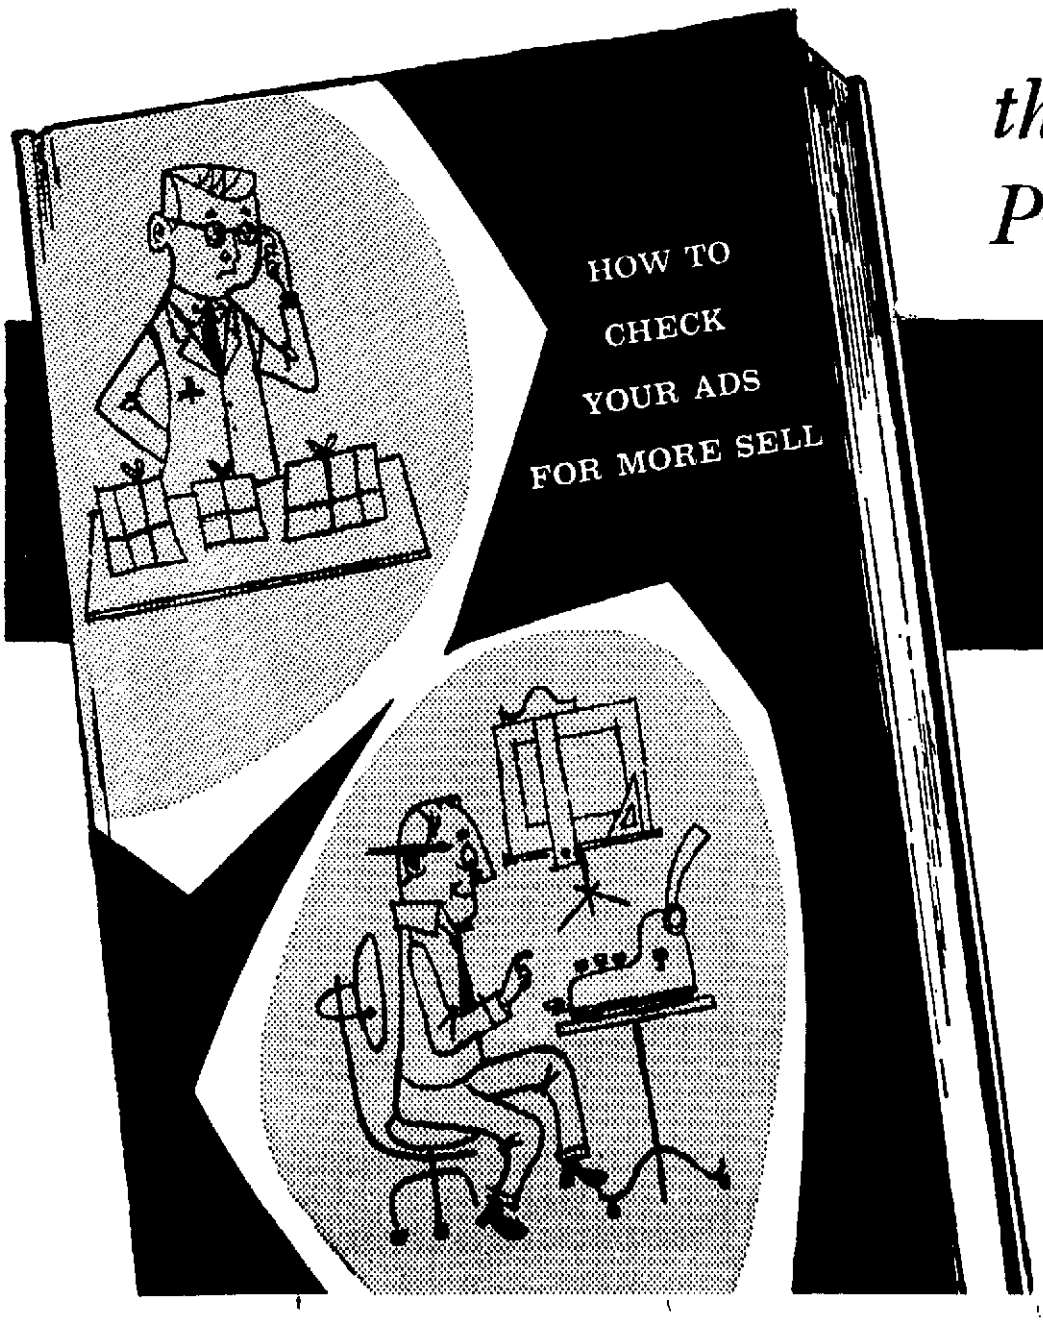

These are some of the conclusions reached after three years of experiment with Solar House IV in Lexington, Mass., conducted by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MIT released the results simultaneously with MIT Prof. Albert G. H. Dietz at the United Nations conference on new (non-nuclear) energy sources held in Rome. Dietz is professor of civil engineering and a member of the space heating committee of the MIT solar energy conversion project.

Dietz said the most valuable result of the experiment was the engineering knowledge gained in constructing and operating a complex solar heating plant.

"Somewhere and sometime this knowledge will be a resource," he said. "In countries where conventional fuels are abundant, the use of solar energy for heating is economically attractive only where the climate permits an unusually high yield of sunshine per square foot."

HOME-LIKE WINDOW DISPLAYS FEATURED

This night view of Henry's new furniture store, 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., shows the large home-like settings for window displays. Opening of the big store is another step in the continued progress in business for Wallace Edwards, who opened a small 10th Street store and in a few years has expanded to two major Pacific Coast Highway stores.—(Staff photo.)

Henry's Furniture Into Big, New Store

Spacious window displays of home-like settings feature the new, large Henry's Furniture at 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. The attractive store already has drawn considerable favorable comment by the eye-catching window displays and the spaciousness of the store.

Opening of the new Henry's is another step forward in successful retailing by Wallace Edwards, the owner.

A native of Long Beach, Edwards was employed in several major Long Beach furniture stores until he entered the Navy.

After retiring from the Navy with the rating of lieutenant, Edwards opened a modest furniture store on East 10th Street.

* * * *

FEATURING quality furniture at modest prices, Edwards found business was outgrowing his small location, he moved to Pacific Coast Hwy., and opened Edwards Furniture Co.

Successful from the start in his new location, he began planning for expansion and acquired the two-month-old firm of Henry's Furniture, 3030 E. Anaheim St. Success continued and the need of even larger quarters became apparent.

On a site three blocks west of his store, Edwards constructed this newest addition to the Long Beach retailing field.

"I decided I best could serve the community by operating a contemporary store, concentrating on the moderate price field," says the owner.

* * * *

PLANS WERE made with the architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady and Smith for the new store, which now is considered one of the finest contemporary furniture centers in the Southland.

He will continue to operate his other store as an annex to the new.

With 33,000 square feet of floor space, the store carries an inventory of more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of furniture. Henry's now has 350 feet of frontage on Pacific Coast Hwy. plus two big parking areas.

The new store is air conditioned. A decorating staff is available for consultation on any home decor problem.

Departments in the new store include: Furniture, carpets, accessories, dinner ware, draperies and gifts.

Park Shore Homes Are Selling Fast

The builders and developers of Park Shore homes in Long Beach voiced strong appreciation for the tremendous turnout of interested people who attended the grand opening last Sunday and for the many comments and compliments received.

At Park Shore residents may enjoy all of the advantages of living in a dream community of modern two-story, bay view homes and anticipate the increase in value of property adjacent to the water, a spokesman points out.

These three-bedroom, two-bath homes feature all-electric built-in kitchens with double oven and rotisserie, automatic dishwasher, color matched range with hood, and service bar. Marble pullmans and ceramic tile showers in the bathrooms are accented by ornamental 24-karat goldplated and decorative silver fixtures.

* * * *

SMART FIREPLACES, all wool wall-to-wall carpeting and professional color coordination and decoration add to the impressive custom appearance. Extra features include underground electrical wiring and built-in TV antennas.

All property at Park Shore will be architecturally landscaped and will have complete sprinkler systems. For relief from gardening and maintenance chores, the Park Shore Community Association is being formed. This unique association will enable each resident to have, in effect, a gardener and caretaker. Lawns will be mowed, flowers planted in season and exterior windows cleaned every month.

* * * *

RECENT COMPLETION of the bridge on Appian Way brings Park Shore residents within a minute or two from Marina facilities.

Park Shore is conveniently located near fine schools and complete, modern shopping centers such as Belmont Shores and the smart new Buffums' Department store in Long Beach.

More than 50 per cent of the homes have already been reserved and the balance are selling fast. There is still good selections of style and location.

The sales office is at Bayshore Drive and Appian Way, fronting on the Marine Stadium in Long Beach. Sales agent is the Clive Graham Co. of Long Beach. Prices at Park Shore range from $35,000 to $39,750 with a low down payment (only 10%) and long term financing if desired.

BUILDER HONORED

For special community interest in a housing development, after the homes had been sold, the Independent, Press-Telegram has presented a plaque and award to the builders of Golden West Estates. The builders developed a community park and Little League baseball park for the residents in the development. Shown presenting the award in recognition for after-sales service to the homeowners is Murray McDonald, of the I, P-T advertising staff. Receiving it are Max Tipton of the Coleman-Parr Advertising Agency and James McCarthy, sales agent for the homes.

Richard Boone on Busy Schedule

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Richard Boone of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" television series has returned to Hollywood after a month's location filming at Bend, Ore.

Boone directed two of the seven segments of the show filmed there. Andrew McLaglen directed the remainder.

The veteran actor, one of the few Hollywood stars to successfully switch TV characters—Paladin in this series and a doctor in "Medic"—next goes on location in Arizona for new backgrounds.

Vet Needs No Cash in Sun Ray Estates

A revolutionary concept of home purchasing is making Sun Ray Estates in Westminster the "hottest tract in Southern California," says a spokesman.

An innovation in financing permits a veteran to buy one of these award winning homes without one cent of investment (no down, no costs and impounds) and the purchase, starting at $19,300, includes wall-to-wall carpeting, concrete block fencing, plus over 15 other features distinctive of the Providence Series as seen in the recent Los Angeles Home Show.

FHA terms are also available, requiring a minimum of investment.

* * * *

CREATING a great interest is the 64-inch decorative concrete block fence that encompasses the rear yard of all the homes in the tract, making it a truly "walled city." Not only does the inclusion of this feature eliminate a costly initial expense to the new home buyer, but it prevents what has been in the past a source of many a feud between neighbors based on "what kind of a fence to put up and who is going to pay for it."

* * * *

THE HOMES are three or four-bedroom plus family rooom with breakfast bar. All have forced air heat thermostatically controlled, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe and Merritt, natural pine cabinets in the kitchen, and the front yards are landscaped. Attached or detached garages are available and several elevations have fireplaces with log lighters.

The tract is now nearing completion, assuring occupancy before the start of the school fall term.

* * * *

THE SPECIAL offer of free drapes is connected with the Home Show promotion and is promised only to those who pick out their home before Aug. 31.

The location of these homes in Westminster, sometimes referred to as "south of the smog and east of the fog," is one of the most pleasant climatically in the Southland.

The model homes are on Garden Grove Boulevard at Seneca, which is about five miles east of Seventh Street and Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach, or about one and one-half west of Highway 39 (Beach Boulevard) if coming from the other direction.

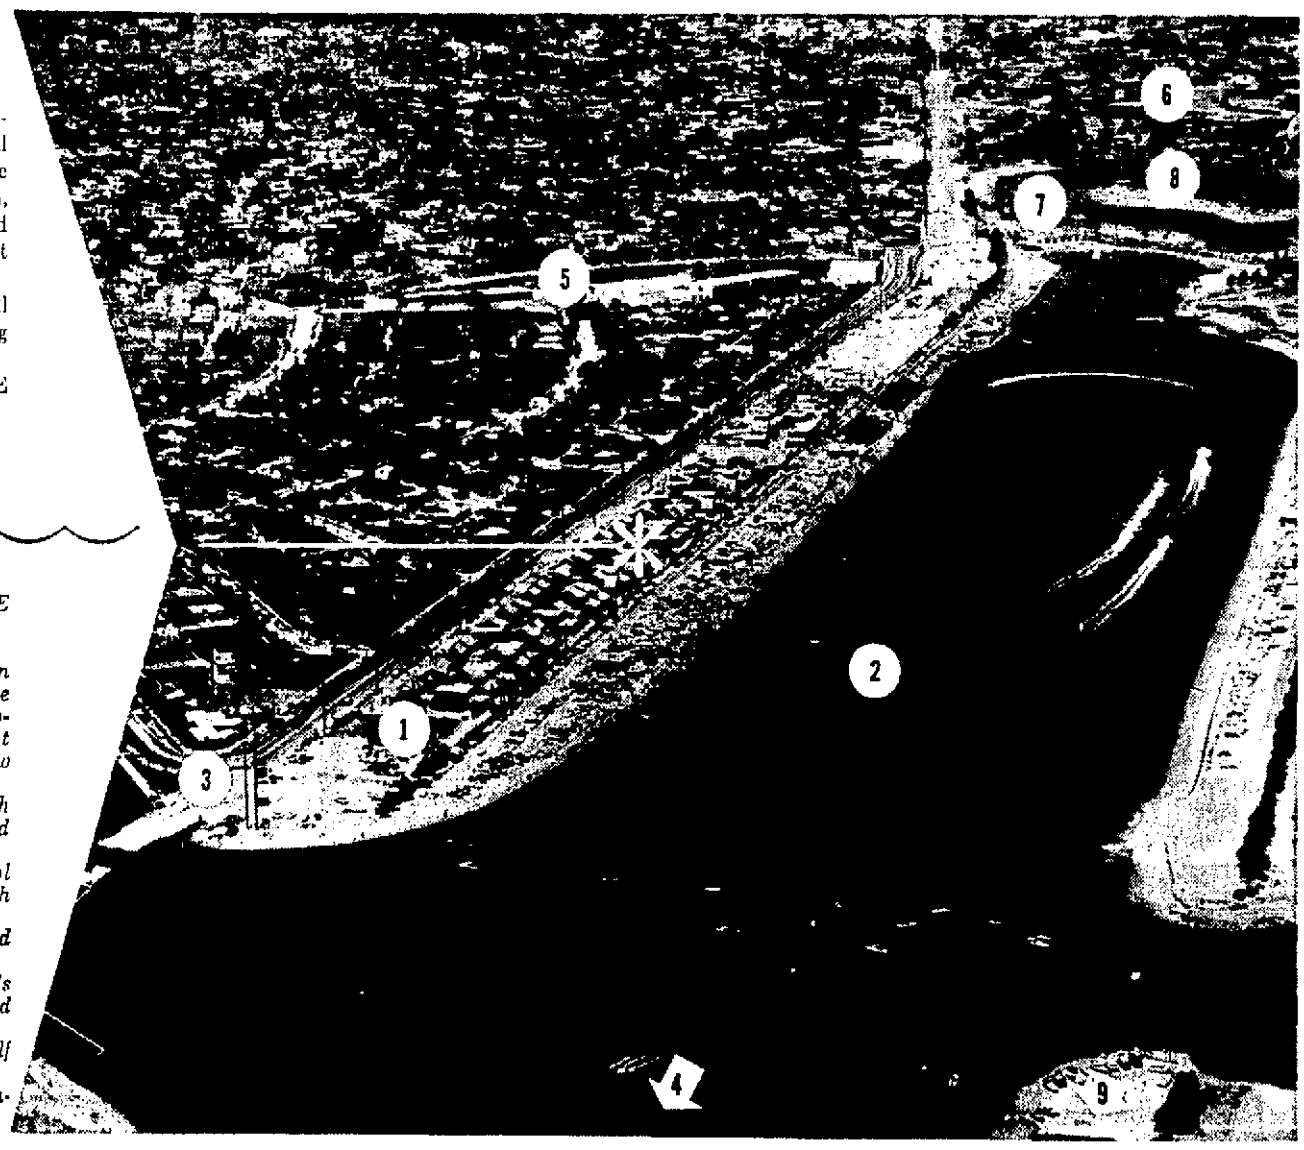

A SUN RAY ESTATE

Veterans need no cash to buy a home in Sun Ray Estates and the purchase price includes carpeting, block wall fencing and other extras. This is one of the models.

Pre-School Occupancy Offered Buyer of Pacific Sands Home

Heavy demand has led to scheduling of several homes for early completion, making it possible for buyers to move in before the beginning of the fall school term, said Betty Patterson, sales manager for Walker & Lee, Pacific Sands' sales agency. More than 600 people are already living in this year-round-resort community, the sales manager revealed.

Situated just one minute from Huntington Beach State Beach, the Pacific Sands homes enjoy summer temperatures much cooler than six miles inland, she said.

Buyers moving into Pacific Sands' new third unit will join other residents as members of a private Cabana Club, plans for which are now being drawn. Included will be facilities for tennis, shuffleboard, handball, and swimming.

* * * *

CUSTOM DESIGNED for beach-close living, the Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor beach showers designed for every washing up after surf-side fun. Some models include special garage boat doors which permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance.

Offered with low $390 total move-in costs, the Pacific Sands homes may be purchased at prices said to be as much as $5,000 below current market valuation. According to the sales manager, any fair appraisal would place their value at $17,000 to $20,000 . . yet the actual pricing ranges from just $12,500.

Included in the distinctive new homes are three or four bedrooms, family room, and 2 baths, plus such desirable features as luxurious ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas range and oven, kitchen cabinets of natural birch, Waste King garbage disposal, breakfast bar, aluminum sliding doors, over-sized gas forced air furnace with summer cooling switch, Pioneer Flintkote roofs and floors, used brick fireplaces, double garage with boat door in some plans, and 17 different exteriors enhanced by used brick, concrete block, and Palos Verde stone.

* * * *

LESS THAN 10 minutes from Pacific Sands homes is the new Long Beach Marina, with complete facilities for small boat enthusiasts. Five minutes away is Newport-Balboa. Also nearby are such pleasure areas as Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland. Included in the area are excellent schools, complete shopping centers, and diversified urban facilities.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving southeast on Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39), then left.

Middies Aid at Accident

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)—A group of Naval ROTC midshipmen put their physical and medical training to practical use at the scene of a highway accident here.

The accident occurred when a delivery truck collided with two cars. The midshipmen, about 20 of them, were returning from a tour of Concord Naval Ammunition Depot and saw the accident.

They used their strength to lift the truck—holding it up for 10 minutes—while the driver, pinned beneath, was removed. Other cadets moved two women from a burning car and applied a splint to a woman's leg. The midshipmen were part of a summer training group attached to the carrier, Coral Sea, at Alameda.

BOAT RACES BIG ATTRACTION

Here is a portion of the crowd attracted to recent boat races at Salton Sea. Developers of Salton Riviera point to the growing popularity of the area for recreational events.

Salton City Is Growing Resort Area

Salton City in three years has become one of the leading headquarters for boat enthusiasts and recreational-minded persons, Sam Winograd, president of Pacific Community Management Co., declares.

He pointed out that the resort city, located on the shores of Salton Sea on Highway 99, midway between Indio and Brawley, has played the role of host to over 50 speedboat racing events the past three years. Such well-known clubs as the Western Outboard Association, United Speedboat Association, Mission Bay Yacht Club and others are regular users of the Salton City marina and recreational facilities.

* * * *

THE STAGING of the first Salton City Annual 500-Mile National Championship Race on Nov. 11 and 12 high lights the acceptance of Salton City boating facilities by enthusiasts, Winograd stated. The 500-mile race will have a guaranteed prize money of $12,500, largest ever offered for this type race. Over 400 of the nation's finest racers and boats are expected to take their best shots at the big purse.

Several factors are attributed by Winograd for the widespread recognition of Salton City facilities by the boaters. He points out that the Salton Sea is generally acclaimed as one of the finest bodies of boating water in the country. It is already the site of several world records. Add that to the two marinas, boat docks and repair facilities, the Salton Bay Yacht Club, two boating restaurants, boat storage warehouse and launching facilities, and it is easy to see why Salton City has so rapidly become a boating headquarters, says Winograd.

For the non-boater there are recreational playgrounds, ample beach area for swimming and even a children's marina.

The Salton Riviera development at Salton City, under the auspices of the Pacific Community Management Co., is one of the major developers at the Sea. Available property at Salton Riviera ranges from residential to commercial sites and includes a limited number of homesites on the Salton Riviera Keys where the boater will be able to dock his boat right in his own back yard.

Man 'Shot' at Curbside

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Mrs. Frank Turner watched from her window.

A man and a woman in an automobile couldn't find a parking place. The couple circled the block twice. Then the woman got out of the car and raced into a doctor's office.

The man continued slowly around the block. When he reached the doctor's office again, the man stopped the car.

The woman and a nurse emerged from the doctor's office. The nurse reached in and gave the man a "flu shot."

The man and woman drove off. The nurse returned to the doctor's office.

BOLSA PARK HOME
Priced from $19,200, homes in Bolsa Park are attracting throngs of homeseekers. This is one of the varied models offered.

Big Crowds Viewing Bolsa Park Homes

This weekend's showing is expected to continue drawing crowds to Bolsa Park, the new subdivision on Bolsa Chica Road at Bolsa Ave. in Huntington Beach, a spokesman for the developers said.

Featured are four completely new floor plans by William M. Bray, AIA, award-winning architect who designed the 1961 Research Home. Bray's plans include such striking features as custom entry and loggia areas. Builder Roger C. Werbel reports that buyers are showing great interest in the loggia area, which offer access to all rooms while avoiding wear and tear on living areas. Interest especially centers on a four-bedroom plan, which includes a sleeping wing separate from the living-entertaining area. In general the homes include three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a family dining room.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $19,200, the Bolsa Park homes are offered with new 35-year, 5¼% FHA financing, as well as exceptional VA no-down-payment terms and conventional financing at 6%. Titles are insured by the Title Insurance and Trust Co.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via 7th Street (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Only Fake Goods Kept in Stock

MIAMI (AP) — Shoplifters don't worry the operators of a couple of liquor and tobacco stores at Miami International Airport.

All the stock is fake. The real articles are under bond in a warehouse for purchase tax-free by travelers leaving the country.

"We miss a few of the fakes every day, mostly cigarettes," says William Taylor, one of the store operators. "We don't care. The companies that distribute the merchandise give us the fakes."

Westmont's Bonus Room Is Appealing

Buyers, visitors and even other builders are talking about the Bonus Room and the value of the first big home at budget price at Westmont, the pioneer building firm declared.

Along with the Bonus room that can be used for play room, rumpus room, den, sewing room or even two bedrooms, the other Westmont features include built-in range and oven, tile counter tops and eating bar, family rooms, fireplace, paneling, wallpaper, two baths, silent light switches and many other advantages.

"WE BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT WE PREFER MEDALLION HOMES"

"Medallion Homes will never be outdated," says Mr. W. R. Gayner. "That's because they're built for the future. They contain more than enough wiring to take care of the many new electric items that will be a standard part of life in the future.

"That's one reason for the tremendous popularity of Medallion Homes—a popularity that's growing every day.

"Another reason, of course, is that a Medallion Home offers more benefits today. A person can move right in and start enjoying all the comforts of electric living that exist right now."

Mr. Klug and Mr. Gayner build Medallion Homes because these homes offer more to the buyer—in any price range. When you consider a new home, why not be guided by the experience of such expert builders? Make sure the home qualifies for the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including flameless electric range and oven.
2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.
3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

Sake Going Modern; to Get Bubbles

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TOKYO (UPI)—They're going to put bubbles in Sake, that mild-tasting Japanese rice wine which looks like water and packs a delayed-action punch.

But the bubbles won't take the bite out of the drink. Sake makers promise so.

The reason they're putting the bubbles in the wine is to give it a nice, "modern" look so they can boost sagging sales.

* * * *

ALMOST SINCE the time of Amaterasu Omikami, the sun goddess, Sake has been the number one drink of Japanese tipplers.

But in postwar years Sake's been slipping. The younger set, unlike their elders, don't consider it fashionable to sit in western style air-conditioned bars and sip old-fashioned warm Sake.

They prefer beer and fancy sounding cocktails made with whisky and to western recipes.

* * * *

THE SAKE makers decided to follow the age-old rule—if you can't beat 'em, join 'em. And so they are—with bubbles, fancy-named cocktails and all.

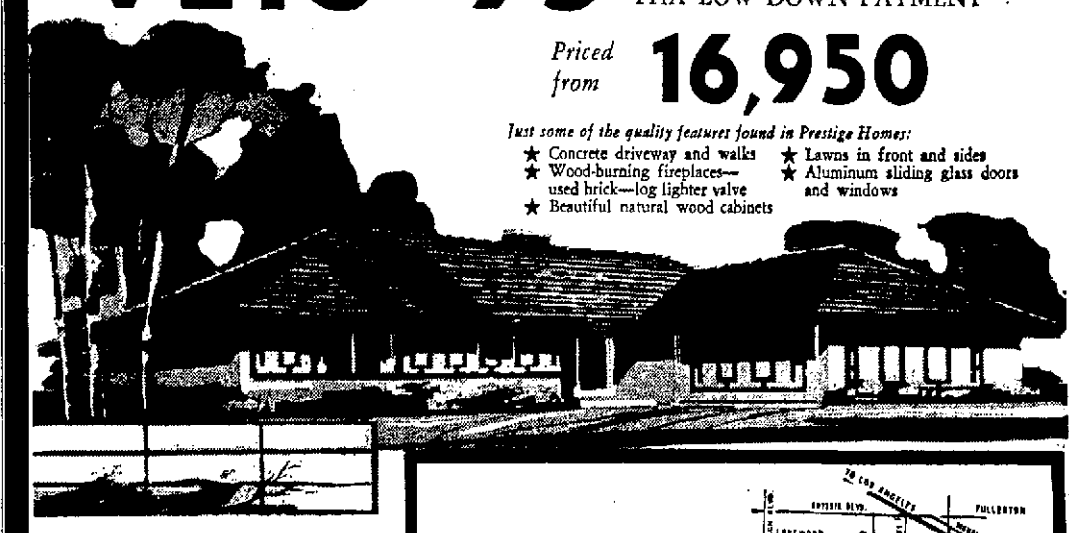

They're going to push new cocktails which use Sake as one of the main ingredients, get some airlines to serve the Sake concoctions on their flights and generally get Sake back on the shelves in the bars by making it "fashionable."

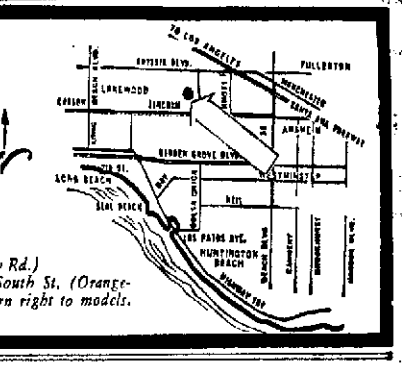

Oldtime Sake-sippers (you never drank Sake, you always just sipped it) must be cringing at the thought of people actually gulping the stuff down, and cold, too.

No respectable Sake-sipper of old would have it hot.

Quick Sellout Expected for Dutch Haven's Newest Unit 18

Since the August grand opening of Dutch Haven's unit 18 on Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach, sales have continued to spiral to phenomenal highs, promising an early sell-out for this newest Dutch Haven community, Edward S. Boyd, sales agent for the subdivisiion, said that over 3,000 prospective home - buyers have already viewed the "American Home Series" models on display and that the percentage of viewers who conclude their visit with an immediate purchase has been remarkably large.

"This," added Boyd, "can mean only one thing. These homes are located right, priced right and have the custom features that buyers want these days. They sell themselves. All the buyer has to do is compare the moderate price tag with what he sees."

* * * *

LOCATED WITHIN an area which has long been a favorite Southern California resort city, Dutch Haven's unit 18 enjoys an ideal climate and is but minutes away from several of the Southland's finest beaches. Facilities for boating and surfing are excellent, tax rates are unusually low due to city-owned oil royalties, school facilities are nearby and a new shopping center is presently under construction in the area.

Prices of Dutch Haven homes start at $14,950 with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Also available are Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5¼% interest rate.

* * * *

PURCHASE INCLUDES title to land, with property rights protected by Title Insurance and Trust Co. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments, salesmen stress.

Homes are either three or four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Sixteen exterior elevations are available, including the popular Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been top sellers in other Dutch Haven communities.

* * * *

BOYD SAID that visitors touring the model homes have commented favorably upon the quantity of "custom features" offered in the homes. These include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top range, accoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, oversized wardrobes and garages, copper plumbing service, colored range-hood with fan.

The Beach Blvd. development is the 18th complete Southern California community planned and constructed by Luxury Homes Inc. within the past 10 years.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach: Drive East on 7th St. to Beach Blvd., then south to the models. Or drive south on Coast Hwy. to Beach Blvd., then left on Hwy. 39 to models north of Slater Avenue.

Dutch Haven's Unit 18 in Huntington Beach is selling rapidly, reports a spokesman. Here is a view of the interior of one of the models showing a design which is appealing to buyers.

Homes for Retired Are Open

One of Southern California's most unusual retirement home developments comes under the public spotlight this weekend as Sun Park—Hemet holds its grand opening.

Featuring two-bedroom homes in a cluster about a central, fully landscaped and equipped recreation area, Sun Park—Hemet has already hit a receptive note with the public as nearly 25 per cent of the 59-unit development were purchased during the week of its preview showing.

Early buyers of Frazar Bros.' latest home project, according to Gordon Frazar, include families from the Los Angeles and San Diego metropolitan areas, Long Beach and other coastal cities and from the Inland Empire of Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $11,900 to $13,000 with 24-year conventional financing, Sun Park—Hemet represents a new subdivision design concept. Homes are built on minimum maintenance "retirement lots" which encircle the recreation area. Facilities include an air-conditioned Club House, heated pool, putting green, croquet and shuffleboard courts and covered patios.

Homes are equipped with built-in range and oven, wall-to-wall carpeting and colored fixtures. All rear yards are walled for maximum privacy.

One member of each family must be 50 years of age to qualify for purchase at Sun Park—Hemet at State and Maryberry, five blocks from downtown Hemet, a city popular with retired families because of its dry, smog-free and fog-free climate. Children are not permitted to use the central recreation facilities.

Dreams Really Do Come True for Debutantes

Nine Young Ladies Debut at Gala Ball

By JOYCE KENT
I. P-T Women's Staff

"Ladies and gentlemen, the Assistance League of Long Beach presents to you these nine beautiful young ladies . . ."

With these words, Dr. Milton Van Dyke last evening introduced to the 600 formally clad guests assembled in International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel, the daughters and granddaughters of league members selected to make their debut in the organization's second annual Presentation Ball.

The ball, though only in its second year, has become established as high light of the summer social season in Long Beach. Saturday's event climaxed a gay whirl of parties and entertainment that left the nine presentees breathless and starry-eyed, their parents, proud and misty-eyed.

Individual introduction of the debs by Dr. Van Dyke, acting host for the league, took place against the muted melodies of Joe Moshay and his orchestra, with each girl escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father to take her place on a platform richly decorated in replica of a Marie Antoinette garden scene.

* * * *

LARGE TREES, wisteria and magnolia blossoms were used in profusion and completing the wonderland setting was a white balustrade against a cloud filled sky.

The same classic decor, with multitudes of hanging flower baskets holding pink carnations, wisteria and stock, was carried out throughout the ballroom.

The debs, all in traditional white bouffant floor length gowns and holding nosegays of pink rosebuds, delphinium and bouvardia framed by delicate French lace, stood quietly until all were assembled. The only piece of jewelry worn by each girl was the engraved gold medallion on a fine gold chain presented by the League as a keepsake of the evening.

* * * *

AND THEN, as the orchestra broke into a waltz, the girls were swept to the dance floor by their fathers for the first few bars of the dance, there to be claimed by their escorts to begin a gala evening of dining and dancing.

Activities for the presentees, their escorts and members of the stag line opened with a punch party in the Cameo Room hostessed by Mrs. Fred E. Tucker Jr. and members of her committee.

Guests proceeded to the ballroom through a breezeway banked by ferns and greenery and emphasized by statuesque topiary trees abloom with white gardenias

* * * *

OFFICIALLY offering league greetings at the door were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Exley and Dr. and Mrs. William Rhorer. Mrs. Exley, president of the league, wore a floor length gown of emerald green peau de soie while Mrs. Rhorer, general chairman of the ball, selected a gown of floating blue chiffon. Honor greeter in absentia was Mrs. Melvin Campbell, founder of the Long Beach Chapter of the league, who is on an extended vacation in Europe.

Proceeds from the ball will go toward support of the league's two girls clubs.

Princess Lee Radziwill
... Jackie's kid sister ...

JACKIE'S KID SISTER

Transatlantic Beauty

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Mistress of one of London's most exquisite smaller homes, one of the world's best-dressed women, and a gracious hostess — that's Princess Lee Radziwill. The fact that her brother-in-law happens to be President of the United States hasn't affected her life very much, except for 28 hectic hours.)

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Even if her sister were not America's first lady, Princess Lee Radziwill would be a standout, a quiet but sure dazzler in the brightest of company.

At 28, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's younger sister is an elegantly dressed, soft voiced, transatlantic beauty, slightly uncomfortable in the glare of unsought publicity.

Resident in London for the past eight years, she was nestling on a solid little perch in international society before the American people voted her brother-in-law into the White House.

* * * *

"IT'S NOT that I want to appear elusive, or uncooperative," she said in her slow, almost breathless way of talking, "but . . ."

She hesitated for a moment.

"I shrink from talking about myself because I believe that a person should have accomplished something on her own before she starts giving interviews."

Princess Lee has accomplished much in her own way.

She's the mother of two beautiful children, the happy wife of Prince Stanislas Radziwill, son of an ancient Polish family which for generations has been intermarrying with the Hohenzollerns and Romanovs.

She runs one of London's most beautiful small homes, furnishing it and keeping it with immaculate taste.

She is a gracious hostess with many friends who never seems ill at ease in any company.

And she succeeded in persuading the President to stay privately in her London home, rather than accepting more elaborate and official hospitality.

* * * *

SHE POSTPONED from month to month the christening of her second child, until a time when President Kennedy could come to London to become the tot's godfather.

Princess Lee has also been elected one of the best-dressed women in the world, a development on which her comment is:

"I can't imagine how I got on the list."

She got on because she has that beautiful coloring, that way of wearing clothes that make her look well dressed no matter what she's wearing.

Her wardrobe is uncomplicated. She wears clothes to the season, but never trick clothes. She favors black accessories.

She wears her dark hair in a firm bouffant, and it sweeps back in a graceful curve to the nape of her neck.

Her cheek bones are high, like her sister's. Her dark eyes are set apart, but not so wide apart as Jacqueline's.

Like the lady in the White House, Lee's mouth is a cupid's bow—but a longer, narrower bow than Mrs. Kennedy's.

The Princess' figure is trimmer and Lee is an ever-so-slightly toned down, or more finely drawn, version of her 32-year-old sister.

* * * *

BEING CLOSE to America's first family, she obviously does not like to discuss her relatives in Washington, but to the question, "Has Mr. Kennedy's becoming President made any difference in your life?" she replied:

"Not really, I suppose. We go along about as usual . . ." She smiled again. . . . "I'm not referring to those 28 hours that he spent here."

"Were they hectic?"

"In what way do you mean?"

"Did we — did the press give you much trouble?"

"Of course the telephone rang all night and day, but we rather expected that. No. Everyone was awfully nice, I think."

* * * *

PRINCESS LEE eyed the clock above the antique fireplace in her Georgian home, located in a quiet backwater close to Buckingham Palace.

"It's 12 o'clock," she said. "Wouldn't you like a drink?"

The butler was only calling distance away, but she mixed the drinks herself and sat back on a sofa in her living room, furnished in antique French furniture.

"How do you prefer being called?"

"How do you mean?"

"Princess Lee, or Princess Radziwill, or Princess Lee Radziwill?"

"Oh, Princess Lee Radziwill will do."

She said it as if she

COEDS TELL WHAT'S HEP WHERE

Here's How to Make the Grade, Fashion Cum Laude

—Photos by Ken Henderson

FASHION WITH A FLARE for back-to-campus set, here modeled by Nancy Nickel, junior at Seattle University. Reminiscent of "Roaring Twenties," dress is all-wool jersey with satin trim; features wandering waistline, flared skirt.

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

So you're going to college?

Then it's time to take a studied view of what's hep on the campus of your choice. Remember: what's "in" in Wisconsin may be "way out" at Marymount.

True, some teen-age fads (short skirts, trench coats, long-long sweaters, hair bows and circle pins) are "the most," coast to coast. But others (blast jackets, leotards, long sweat shirts) have strictly local acceptance.

So to give college-bound gals a send off in style, we asked a group of seasoned college sharpies to give us the low-down on what's "high fashion" at their respective colleges.

BLOND, BUBBLY Nancy Nickel, junior at Seattle University, says, like Caesar's Gaul, a girl's college wardrobe is clearly divided into three parts: classroom and study clothes; outdoor, street, sports clothes; and party clothes.

At Seattle, says she, the girls are up-to-the-minute in styles, but subdued. The sloppy-casual look (dirty sneakers, droopy sweat shirts) is out; the neater look is in.

Musts: short skirts, non-bulky sweaters (they fit better under heavy coats), kahki raincoat, heels and gloves for shopping or lunching downtown, pleated skirts (no gathered skirts), lots of scarves (rainproof silks are good for protection from the elements), capris rather than Bermudas.

Also popular: culottes, big handbags (straw ones year 'round), penny loafers with nylons, soap and water saddles with ankle socks, white wool blazers, fake fur coats, flowers (fresh, yet) in hair year 'round, basic dresses and suits for dates.

Leave at home: leotards, formal dresses, clutch purses, galoshes, big petticoats.

HOODS ARE GOOD

Parka coats and hooded sweaters are tops among college crowd; are especially smart with Bermudas, bulky knits.

BROWN-TRESSED, dewey-eyed Diane George, who attended Stephens last year, an exclusive women's college at Columbia, Mo., notes "there's a wide variation in dress at women's colleges, influenced both by background or financial status of students and climate of the region."

At Stephens, climate makes the difference, says she. On the "absolute must" list: warm winter coat (fake furs are good), snow boots, bulky sweaters, long woolen pants (permitted for cross-campus jaunts on cold-cold days), trench coat, scarves.

Culottes dominate the skirt scene (knee or above-knee length), tennis shoes are standard, otherwise flats or loafers. Knee and mid-calf socks are in; bobby socks are out. Umbrellas go on every trip to town.

Heels and nylons are required subjects in the dining room every evening. Dorm wear features muu muus and furry slippers.

Dressy sports clothes with flats go dating Friday nights; basic dress-up sheaths or flares with heels on Saturday. "It's an old Stephens custom," says Diane.

Another Stephens trademark (many other campuses, too): sun-glasses indoors and out, day and night.

FOR COLLEGE TEMPO, UCLA, Charlene Voorhees says the "classy" look includes hooded sweaters, Bermuda skirts and wool short culottes; all worn with leotards, Bermuda socks, tennis shoes in every color.

Also "hep": pleated skirts, white blouses, ski-type headbands, "Parka" coats, non-frilly date dresses with smooth, sleek look; trench coats in mannish style, khaki color; shirtmaker dresses, especially in paisley prints.

"Have a good silk dress," says Charlene. "And take along a large purse (handy for carrying books)."

For dressy occasions and "dates on the town," two-tiered foxes in gray and white are popular; also cashmeres, fox-trimmed or mink-trimmed.

"EVERYTHING IS above the knees in Utah," says Joan Hayes, student at Brighan Young University. Gored and flared skirts (short, of course) tweeds and other woolens are more popular than pleated styles.

To out-smart changeable weather, Joan recommends reversible and/or zip-lining coats that can be dressed up or down; also snowboots, preferably black or navy. (Many girls bring skis).

Also popular: cut-off jeans, sweatshirts and capris for off-campus wear.

In general, whether you're entering a big university on the other side of the continent or here in Long Beach, your way of dressing should be your first "entrance examination."

Study wardrobe needs in terms of your figure, the kind of school you've chosen, its climate and campus activities.

With the proper preparation, every to-be coed can make the grade, fashion cum laude.

THE GREEKS had a word for it: tunic. But Diane George, who attended Stephens last year (will enter USC this fall), says it's "ginchiest new look of all" for after-class leisure hours. Fringed pancho is all-wool knit; pants, also knit, have side zippers. (Fashions available locally.)

Expect 400 to Attend Labor Meet

Esther Peterson, who last week was sworn in as assistant secretary of labor, will be keynote speaker at the Western Regional Conference on Problems and Prospects of Working Women slated Sept. 8 and 9 on the USC campus.

Mrs. Peterson, who also is director of the Women's Bureau, Department of Labor, will speak at the opening banquet Friday in Town and Gown foyer at 7 p.m.

* * * *

REGISTRATION is slated in Marks Hall Lounge from 5 to 6:30 p.m. More than 400 delegates representing labor, civic and professional organizations interested in problems relating to the working woman are expected.

Persons interested in attending are invited to make reservations by writing to Working Women's Conference, P.O. Box 5788, Metropolitan Station, Los Angeles, 55. The $10 registration covers cost of the Friday banquet, Saturday luncheon and attendance at all sessions.

Gold Star Event

Long Beach Chapter of Gold Star Mothers will have a birthday luncheon for members at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Ports O' Call, San Pedro.

Jackie's Kid Sis

couldn't have cared less.

"I was born Caroline Lee Bouvier," she said as she placed a cigarette in a long white holder, "but I've always been called Lee—and I hate it."

* * * *

THE FORMER Caroline Lee Bouvier came to London eight years ago as the wife of Michael T. Canfield, then secretary to Winthrop Aldrich, United States Ambassador.

That marriage ended in divorce.

Then Caroline, or Lee, met Prince Radziwill, a tall, broad-shouldered handsome man whose first marriage had been formally annulled by the church.

Now a naturalized British subject, the mustached, dark-haired prince arrived in London after World War II from Switzerland, where he had performed ably in raising funds for the Red Cross.

A hard worker, and obviously a splendid salesman, he was soon in the London real estate business. He entered it before the present boom and reportedly is doing quite well.

DURING THE presidential campaign, when Princess Lee was expecting a baby, the Radziwills went to the United States where both worked for the election of John F. Kennedy.

"There are an awful lot of Poles in America," said Princess Lee, "and I think he must have spoken to most of them."

Princess Lee had to interrupt her campaigning to hurry to a hospital in New York where her baby was born prematurely.

Today, little Anna Christina is looking and feeling fine.

With the President as her godfather, she was christened on June 5.

After the christening, the Prince and Princess invited scores of their friends to their 18th century home to see the baby and meet the President.

Among those present was another Prince Radziwill, Anthony George Nicholas, cousin of Lee's husband, and known to many Londoners as Toto, a waiter in a Chelsea restaurant.

Remaining an American citizen, Princess Lee lives on in London, one of the most beautiful members of a social set that includes some very beautiful women.

Party Heralds Horse Show

RUFFLED CAPS and bathing middies worn by (left) Sherry Davidson, Mrs. Douglas H. Shaw and Mrs. Joseph J. Ventura, remind Mrs. William Hancock that she'd better be looking ahead to past styles for coming "Pony Island" Promenade. Event, a beach party keyed to Gay Nineties, will take place at Abalone Cove, Portuguese Bend, Sept. 22, as lively forerunner to two-day Portuguese Bend National Horse Show, Sept. 23 and 24.—(Staff photo.)

music of a caliope, a whirling carousel, a seaside boardwalk bright with lights.

Those are just a few of the fun-filled gay-90s attractions to be offered at this year's debut party for the 1961 Portuguese Bend National Horse Show.

The party, a "Pony Island" promenade, will take place Sept. 22 at Abalone Cove, a picturesque small private cove in Portuguese Bend, where smugglers once brought their cargo in the days of the Spanish dons.

Festivities will take place on the terraces that lie along the sand. Costume for the evening will be the sporty attire that the gay blades and their Gibson Girls wore at the turn of the century.

* * * *

MONEY from the party, presented by the sponsoring Palos Verdes Peninsula Committee of the Children's Hospital, will benefit the building fund of the hospital.

Mrs. Rubel McKelvey and Mrs. Albert W. Day are chairmen of the event. Mrs. James Franks is president of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The promenade precedes the horse show which takes place Sept. 23 at 9 a.m. and Sept. 24 at 10 a.m. in the Portuguese Bend Riding Club, Narcissa Drive, Portuguese Bend.

Mrs. Harry H. Wetzel Jr. aand Mrs. Andrew D. Shaw are chairmen of the horse show, which will also benefit Children's Hospital.

More than 600 entries are expected to compete in the two-day event. Allen Ross will be manager and announcer for the show.

* * * *

SPECIAL EVENTS will include the appearance both days of the Golden Horse Quadrille," a nationally known riding group whose Palomino mounts perform intricate square dance routines.

The all-junior show Sept. 23 will have three medal classes among the 18 classes competing. The open show Sept. 24 will have eight stake classes competing, along with classes of hunters, jumpers, Shetland ponies and Arabian horses.

Martin Bogdanovich Weds

A recent marriage of wide interest in Southland circles is that of Martin Joseph Bogdanovich, son of the Joseph James Bogdanovichs of Rolling Hills, and Korleen Ann Dillabough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Dillabough of Philadelphia, Pa., at Valley Forge, Pa.

The bridegroom is the grandson of prominent longtime residents of the area, Mrs. Roland G. Swaffield of Rolling Hills and late Mr. Swaffield, and the late Martin J. Bogdanovichs, former residents of San Pedro.

He was graduated from Chadwick School and Brown University, R. I., where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta. He now is attending Wharton Graduate School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania.

The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory peau de soie with bodice of Alencon lace and a full court train. Her veil of illusion fell from a cap of silk roses, and she carried a cascade of roses and stephanotis.

BLUSH PINK taffeta gowns and ivy circlets for their hair were chosen for attendants, Kay Kristine Anderson, Mrs. Larz Kennedy Anderson, Mrs. Edward S. Bromage, Judith L. Wright, Diana D. Logan and Elizabeth D. Wistar.

Robert Roland Bogdanovich was his brother's best man. Ushers were Joseph James Bogdanovich Jr., Kenneth Dillabough, Leslie Smith, James Masters, Ronald Laraneta, Hugh Conover, John Holland and Richard Abbott with Gilbert Chase and Ens. Russell Preston Jr., USN, as honorary ushers. A reception followed at Philadelphia Country Club.

Mrs. Martin J. Bogdanovich

The new Mrs. Bogdanovich was graduated from Pembroke College in Brown University. Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds will reside in Philadelphia.

CFWC Juniors Set Round Table

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will have a round table meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at Norwalk Junior Woman's Clubhouse.

Attending will be Mmes. Kenneth Newton, Thaysen Schwalbe, Tom Christensen, Edward Len and Miss Geri Robinett, members of North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, and their coordinator, Mrs. John Garrels.

Bosses' Wives to Be Spotlighted

Executives' Secretaries, Inc., of Long Beach will fete their bosses' wives Monday evening with a cruise aboard the SS Princess, dinner at the Ports O' Call and a fashion gala, according to President Dorothy Thompson.

The wives will return the compliment by serving as some of the models in the presentation of "Fashions a la Americana," a show produced expressly for them by Buffums' and commentated by John Hersey, fashion coordinator.

Roster of the models includes Mmes. Edwin W. Wade, David Tallichet, Myrl Ott, Vaile G. Young, Ray Lake, Verna Larsen, Misses Agnes Herbst and Suzie Bond.

* * * *

WEARING everything from formal evening fashions to spectator sportswear, they will bring to life the new fit-and-flare silhouette as expressed by America's leading designers, the splendor of Arthurian-inspired pageantry colors, the easy-going ways of 'round-the-calendar knits, all expressive of the casual elegance synonymous with the Southern California mode of living.

* * * *

ARRANGEMENTS for this gala evening are the coordinated efforts of Violet Dovey, program director; Connie Richards, Buffums', and Mary Filiatrault, Point Pacific Co. The cruise and cocktails are by courtesy of David Tallichet and Banjo, Inc. Mary H. Cuso of Pipe Linings, Inc., will be introduced as a new member by Martha Belof, Ridings Motors.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

While Women's Editor Iola Masterson is on vacation this column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

Late this morning many a youthful belle will sniff her slightly wilted nosegay, admire once again her shining gold medallion, and sigh in happy retrospect over last evening's glamorous Assistance League Ball when she was formally presented to society with elegance and fanfare.

"Home at Dawn"

The memorable once-in-a-lifetime event finally drew to a close when the nine charmers and their escorts went on a pre-dawn breakfast in the charming tea house of Dorothy and Harry Formans' garden at 1425 La Perla. The Formans entertained with Libby and Bill Spawr; the couples being parents of debs Linda Forman and Sharon Spawr.

* * * *

AND NOW for another group of young women who have their debuts in prospect at the Junior League's holiday ball on Dec. 27. They've been bidden by Norma and John Craig for a fun agenda this afternoon which includes swimming in their pool and a picnic supper. The girls, plus their dates, have been invited from 4 to 7 p.m.

In introducing people and passing things roles will be Audrey and Harold Romeyn (Audrey is Mrs. Ball Chairman, herself), Helen and Clare Hamman and Virginia and Bill Stanton.

HAPPIEST romantic news of the week is the surprise announcement of the forthcoming wedding of Julie Woodard and Greg Lawson on Sept. 7.

Julie's parents, Mildred and Sam Cameron, have been in Florida and return today, hence leaving the family of the bride exactly 1½ weeks preparation time. This we're confident they can do in great style, but we don't expect to see any of them sitting around languidly reading a good book.

Greg's parents are Janice and Howard Lawson of San Marino, former localites.

Julie and Greg have been a twosome for several years, so maybe we shouldn't say that the announcement is a total surprise. They'll be wed in Our Savior's Lutheran Church with reception at the Virginia Country Club. Thence they go to Santa Barbara where they'll continue their education, he at UC, and she at CC.

DOWN AT Sunset Beach they made an outstanding haul last week. Digging around in the sands they were unearthing buried treasures like sixty. Among the startling booty was a can of sardines, bottle of hair spray and a cute little chest filled with pesos.

You might well say that you can't be bothered digging for stuff like that. A point well taken. However, if you'd gone to the shipwreck party at Dick Chance's and Tom McBride's you'd doubtless have vied with the best of 'em.

The Bachelorettes actually gave the party which began with volleyball and swimming and wound up with a great barbecued turkey dinner. (Note this, fellas — these girls are mighty handy in the kitchen). Pat Brinkerhoff, general chairman, was warmly lauded for the decor by all the strange and wonderfully clad guests.

We heard that the egg throwing contest was won by MaryLou Sparbel and Ed Braden. Seems to us, being the cautious type, that if you win you lose at that type of thing.

* * * *

WE HAVE TO hurry and tell you about this banquet, y'understand, because we said we'd help get some of those Whittier College alums off the dime so they'd send in reservations for the banquet.

It's not until Sept. 7, but the alums haven't been very active the past few years, and it takes time for alums —you know how they procrastinate — to get re-activated.

Their whingding is to be at Alfred's Restaurant, according to Don Wells (he's new prez for alums in this area), and absolutely everybody who ever went to Whittier will be there. F'rinstance, Paul Smith, president of the college, will be on hand to describe latest campus developments, and John Godfrey, head football coach, will bring the lowdown on this year's Poets' team.

Call Willa Gilmore or Joan Seymour about reservations, and just say that Wild Waves sent you!

THEY HAD a luau Saturday night at Barney and Maraleigh Shannons' in College Park Estates, and they faithfully followed the highly successful script for such evenings, with Hawaiian costumes, delicious foods, etc., so we won't repeat on that.

They had different cohosts from some scripts, i. e., Dean and Marlene O'Hare, and they had Barney's gutbucket which is strictly cool and different.

He upends a washtub, pulls an old rope or clothesline through a hole bored in the bottom and secures it with a mop handle. Sounds kind of like a bass viol and the 50 or so guests loved it. Among those beating it out with Barney were noted Jimmie and Joanne Gray, Don and Sandy Gill, Andy and Winona Anderson, George and Joan Gehring and Monica and Jim McBride.

THERE'LL BE Matthews to the right and Matthews to the left, with a couple of furriners named Harris thrown in at a big celebration party today honoring Mrs. Norma Matthews on the proud milestone occasion of her 85th birthday.

Those Harrises (William T. J., that is) infiltrated because Norma Harris was formerly Norma Matthews, and, in fact, they're giving the party at their Santiago Avenue abode.

Clan members gathering (all Matthews) will be Bob and Helen with son, Don, Thousand Oaks; Harold and Anieta; Jim and Rosalie plus Suzy; Chuck and Nina with Peggy and Judy. Missing will be grandson Bob Jr., who with his wife, Justine, is a little far afield in Okinawa.

Golfers Trekking on Down to Swing at Indian Club

There's a gang of avid golfers who play once a month on different courses, and have dinner afterwards followed by a friendly game of cards. This month they're getting into their plus-fours and picking up some new golf balls to tide them over for four days at the Prescott invitational at Hassayampa Country Club. (You've heard about Indian clubs—sounds like we've got a real live one here).

"Watchum Drivet"

Anyway they're leaving Thursday and are taking the little woman along, by gad, like the gallant crew they are. If the gals want to play they have to go to another course, but they don't care.

Here's a list of those sporty fellows and their spouses—Susie and Norm Meager, Francine and Larry Collins, Julia and Bill Cheney, Bev and Dick Matlock, Ginny and Bob Hall, Margaret and Bob Sully, Mary and Bob Lintz, Marcia and Ty Ellis, Bonnie and Mike Cunningham, Mimi and Bernie Wishney, Betty and Larry Hunt, Hazel and Bub Crow, Joanne and Bill Dummit and Vera and George Chalmers.

The bride, the former Carolyn Elizabeth Gibbs, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gibbs, 4132 Pacific Ave., and was escorted to the altar by her father. The regal bridal gown of ivory satin was designed by the bride with brocade panels and a full train. Her illusion veil fell gracefully from a crown of pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of glamelias, lilies of the valley and green ivy.

In the entourage preceding the bride were Katherine Farnsworth, maid of honor; Linda Dunbar, Morganne Arnold, Kelki Payne, Jean Sharp and Mrs. Peter Cormack.

'The Blacks' Is 'Hot' Ticket

Jean Genet's "The Blacks" has become, in theatre parlance, a "hot" ticket. The show, which premiered Off Broadway in early May, has moved into the front ranks as one of New York's top sell-out attractions.

Called "A Clown Show" by its author, the striking all-Negro drama symbolically deals with the universal problem of the reactions of people of different color to one another. It has been playing to capacity houses the entire summer.

COUNTER ACTION

Off on Busman's Holiday

By MARY NETH

When the woman of the house takes a day off from kitchen duty and household chores, where does she head?

Surprisingly enough, you'll find her often as not in the household section of her favorite store. Seems that seeing what's new in kitchen and home gadgets holds almost as much attraction as does trying on the latest hats.

So, for the housewife planning a housewife-holiday, here are a few items we've already spotted in a local housewares department.

UNDER $1.00

This plate holds the stuffing — in. When it comes time to sew up the bird, the cook can forget about needles, thread or skewers. Plate takes care of the job quickly. Skin of stuffed poultry is secured to hooks on sides and top of metal plate. Set includes three plates for all size birds, from three to 24 pounds.

* * * *

What's its line? Just to stay on the line. Plastic tag along clothes pin basket holds more than 100 pins; stays with you while you are hanging up the laundry. Easy to carry, it won't rust; can't fall off the line.

* * * *

Dry-frying (without fat) reduces budget and figure. New product is not an ingredient but a tasteless cooking aid. It does not spoil, needs no refrigeration. When thin film is spread on frying pan, baking dish or other cooking utensil, there's no worry about sticking. With a few drops, you can fry eggs, meats, even chicken and potatoes without greasing pan. Four ounce bottle lasts two to four months in average home. The fatless fat can be used on stainless steel, aluminumware, griddles, roasting pans, broiler racks and gelatine molds.

* * * *

Ovenly spray away. The chore of cleaning the oven is not so bad when new spray is used. It eliminates painting on and messy scrubbing off of other cleaners. Just a spray away and then wait, wipe away. The oven comes clean in a jiffy.

UNDER $2.00

Don't peel that potato. Hand operated ricer does job, skins and all. A time saver, it's made of aluminum and besides turning out excellent riced potatoes, it's fine for making home made apple sauce.

* * * *

Stackable bins have loads of uses. Of unbreakable plastic, they can be placed in cabinets or under sink counters for storage of everything from potatoes and tomatoes to tools and toys. Each is 7½ inches wide, 3½ inches long and 7⅛ inches high. They're easy to clean and are sold individually.

UNDER $3.00

It's a handy kitchen foursome in one. Rectangular, covered dish with inset grater, slicer and shredder makes each job easy and keeps kitchen counter neat. Dish has handy handle; is of plastic boilproof, unbreakable material. Can be used for refrigerator storage too.

UNDER $10.00

A cooking convertible. Bright yellow utensil serves as two quart casserole with top up. With top down it is a saucepan without cover. Top itself is eight inch skillet. Of porous cast iron with porcelain finish, Belgian ware can be used in oven, on burner or put in refrigerator. Excellent gift for newlywed who has too few pots and pans.

DEAR ABBY

Curlers Curl HIS Hair!

DEAR ABBY: Sunday is the only full day my boy friend and I have together. It is also the day I like to wash and set my hair.

He told me one time that he didn't like to see me with a "headful of iron," as he put it. My hair is very straight, and I have to use those large rollers. Well, last Sunday he blew his stack. He came over and I had those rollers in my hair, so he left early and went bowling with a boy friend.

ABBY

Abby, we are getting married in four months, and he will have to get used to seeing me with a headful of iron. He thinks my hair looks beautiful when it is all done, so I can't understand his objections. We are both very stubborn. Is there a solution to my problem?—"IRON HEAD."

DEAR IRON: Wash and set your hair in the morning when your boy friend isn't around. And use one of those portable electric hand dryers (they aren't expensive) to dry it quickly. DON'T insist on shoving those rollers down his throat or you'll be the prettiest old maid on the block.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a very upsetting one. I can't match colors for the life of me. I thought I could match colors pretty well, but I guess I can't, because almost everytime I go out in public, someone says something about the way my colors clash. Is there some rule I can go by? I am getting so self-conscious about this that I don't want to wear anything but all black.—"COLOR BLIND."

DEAR COLOR BLIND: Perhaps you ARE "color blind." Have your eyes tested for color perception. If they are all right (even if they are not), buy "ensembles" with the guidance of a sales person, and wear the outfits together, as you bought them.

DEAR ABBY: We have trained our children never to address an adult by his first name, but always by "Mr." or "Mrs." We have some neighbors who have a little girl the age of our daughter. Our daughter is at their home a great deal. The child's mother has asked our daughter to please call her HILDA. Now, our daughter is confused. She doesn't think it is right to call this woman HILDA, but when she calls her MRS. F—, the woman corrects her and asks her to please call her HILDA. How should we handle this?—STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: Tell your daughter to address adults by "Mr." or "Mrs." unless asked to be addressed otherwise.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

King Is Hindrance

The doctrine of divine right of kings has never applied at the bridge table. The king can do lots of wrong.

Now take a look at the West and North hands only and defend against South's three no-trump contract.

You open the five of spades and South wins the trick with the jack. This should tell you that he started with exactly the king, jack and ten of the suit. If he held a low spade, he would surely have let dummy hold the trick. If your partner held a high spade, he would have played it.

Now South slaps the ace of diamonds on the table and your king of diamonds becomes a problem child. It will be a sure trick if you hang on to it, but maybe you ought to throw it away and hope for your partner to show up with the queen.

* * * *

YOU DO a little point counting and, after adding your 11 to the 24 to 26 shown by South, you mark your partner with from 3 to 5 high card points.

He could actually hold an ace in which case you should save your king of diamonds, but it is much more reasonable to assume that he will have a couple of queens so you drop your king of diamonds and hope for the best.

Looking at all the hands you see that your king of diamonds play has been the winner. Your partner will get in with the queen and a spade lead will set the hand.

Our Security Is in Their Hands

By MARY NETH
L. P-T Women's Staff

When dedicated fliers at March Field take to the sky in atomic-bomb-loaded planes, they won't expect to see home or family again.

For such a flight would mean World War III and the men who man our jet bombers have little hope that California would be spared in an all-out nuclear war.

They hope instead that they'll continue to fly unloaded bombers on purely practice flights and the loaded planes will never leave the runway.

No bomb shelters for them!

Operating on the principle that the best defense is a good offense, they're not putting their money in underground protection.

Should a true bomb-run be called, their mission will have failed.

That's what this reporter learned on a recent news junket to SAC (Strategic Air Command) base near Riverside.

* * * *

WHAT IS the SAC mission? The 15-year-old military force has two goals: to prevent war by show of strength and in case of war to destroy the enemy's war-making capability.

Its motto is "Peace is our Profession."

But no group of men ever worked harder to prepare for something they don't want to happen.

They are on alert around the clock and can take-off in minute's notice.

And they all but did just that while this and other members of the press stood by.

* * * *

FOLLOWING a briefing by Col. Ross Annis, the visitors were shown the airmen's living quarters and recreational area.

Then the alert siren sounded and reporters scrambled to get out of the way as pilots and crew sped down the runway in cars and on foot. In three and a half minutes the jets were ready to go. It was a fast few minutes.

Shouting above the roar of the jet motors, Col. Annis pointed out that just one of the revved-up B-47s held enough atomic power to completely destroy a city the size of Los Angeles.

"That's a lot of destruction sitting there," he said.

Who could help but agree?

* * * *

THE BASE at March Field is one of more than 65 in the world, including 45 in the United States. Connected by the fastest communication system in the world —the famous red telephone network — SAC can have bombers in the air simultaneously from all runways within a maximum warning time of 15 minutes.

And time is the threat.

With Moscow only 30 minutes away from Los Angeles by missile, the 15 alert planes at March Field must be ready to go in half that time.

Now with the crisis in Berlin, the operation is being speeded up even more. Instead of having one-third the force on constant alert, SAC is following President Kennedy's orders and keeping one-half its staff always standing by.

This means that the Air Force men, most of whom are married, must spend seven days on 24-hour duty beside their planes.

* * * *

WHAT DOES SAC consist of in the way of atomic war equipment? The mainstays of the mixed bomber and missile force are the B-47 and B-52 jets.

"One bomb dropped from these planes will equal all the bombs dropped during World War II," said Col. Annis. "It's a very lethal weapon."

SAC's newest aircraft include the B-58 Hustler, a supersonic jet bomber capable of speeds up to 1,300 miles per hour and the B-70 Valkyrie, which flies three times the speed of sound and may someday replace the B-52.

Two kinds of nuclear missile, Hound Dog, with a range of approximately 600 miles, and Skybolt, with about double the range, are carried by the planes.

In addition SAC has a number of supersonic pilotless missiles which are being integrated into the bombardment units, including the Atlas, a liquid-fuel ICBM, and the Minuteman (the missile of the future), America's first solid-fuel ICBM—which can be fired from underground blast-proof silos.

* * * *

SAC IS DEFINITELY a far cry from the dress style of similar name — it's no fad.

From it's Command Post located in an underground labyrinth of rooms and equipment 10 miles south of Omaha, Neb., it maintains an around-the-clock monitor of forces all over the world.

Everything is checked, double-checked and checked again. Radar equipment is constantly being improved and the communication set-up has been worked out so there is no danger of a false alarm resulting in a globe shattering war without cause.

"Even should the planes leave the ground, they would not go beyond a set point, or drop a bomb, until each received further direct orders," said Col. Annis.

* * * *

HOW ABOUT the men who work so closely with the deadly nuclear war equipment? Do they worry about the future?

Those who chatted with the reporters didn't seem to at first. They are just as interested in the schooling of their children and the future of their families as anyone else.

But several admited they'd lots rather be up there in a plane, than down here in a shelter if anything should happen.

And they don't altogether eliminate the possibility that it could.

"The next global war would only last three days or so," said Col. Annis. But to the families of the men who fly the SAC planes, as well as the rest of us, that's a bit of information that's far from reassuring.

Frozen Hose a Thrifty Dessert

Housewives can get longer life from frozen nylons. But its a do-it-yourself project. Place the new stockings in a refrigerator tray, cover with cold water and freeze until solid. Let them thaw slowly. Rinse and dry. Advocates say that stockings thus treated outlast three pairs of unfrozen hose.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Is Honeymoon Over?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

The honeymoon is over, that's for sure. We've only been married for six months, and Mary Jane is already tired of me.

I love her as passionately as ever, but she grows cooler every day. Now she doesn't want me to kiss her in front of people. She likes to sit up and read late at night when she knows I have to get up early and I like her to come to bed when I do.

She gets up and gets my breakfast, it's true, but there's no purring and cooing the way there used to be. She says I'm "too ardent," and that one can't be in a lovey-dovey mood all the time.

I remind her that's not the way she talked when we first married, and she says you can't expect a honeymoon to last forever. Why not? If she still felt the way she did at first we'd still be having a honeymoon. If I feel that way, why can't she?—WORRIED JOE?

DEAR WORRIED JOE:

Face it, pal, honeymoons just DON'T last forever, and a good thing, too! If they lasted on and on, just think, you'd never have a chance at that "second honeymoon"—which, believe me, can be just as ecstatic as a first one, and frequently more fun.

And there can be third and fourth, etc., honeymoon, too. So don't try to prolong the first one. Simmer down. Cool off. Mary Jane's ardor isn't gone for good. Right now is a good time to dampen yours.

A low flame burns longer. —M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

People can talk about their trouble with teenagers, but try chaperoning a 76-year-old great grandfather!

My mother-in-law went to Europe with two lady friends and left Pop at home. We promised to look in on him every day—and we have.

The apartment is a shambles. He has friends in almost every night and they drink and play poker. At least nights when he is home. He takes young women out to dinner, and on two occasions we know about has brought them home for a nightcap.

My husband got after him and Pop just laughed and said, "Why not? Your ma is over there in foreign parts kicking up her heels. Guess I can do the same right here!"

My mother-in-law is due back next week, so Pop is simmering down a little now. We dread telling her how he has acted. My husband thinks we should, but I'm wondering.—FRAN

DEAR FRAN:

Why should you? This marriage has lasted a good long time. Don't you think it has a better chance of lasting on without any well-meant interference?—M. M.

Oils Vary in Quality at New LBAA Exhibit

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The oil painting show in the Long Beach Art Association Galleries in the Villa Riviera opens today with a reception from 1 to 9 p.m. While the caliber of the works is uneven and the all-over tenor of the show lacks sparkle, those paintings which are good are very, very good.

Head and shoulders above the others is the head and shoulders of "Fisherman" by Ed Rugels. Its mood of massive brooding is conveyed in a gorgeous harmony of greyed blue, green and orange in a free technique which conveys many layers of subjective expression.

* * * *

"MATILDA" by Neva Smith is real fun in its primitive treatment of a primitive lady in her billowing best out for a stroll in the forest primeval.

Wanda Morgan's "Meditation" is that seldom-found thing, a tasteful and unhackneyed treatment of waves breaking in a small bay. Her color and method of application leave little to be desired. The painting would have been even more successful had she resisted the impulse to put a human figure in the pensive seascape.

* * * *

"LUNAMIST" is hung in show on its own merits, the more remarkable because its author, Lloyd Pazik, is a member of the occupational therapy group at the Veterans Hospital who are honorary members of the Art Association. Like "Meditation," the subject, moonlight reflected in the waves, has been done times without number, but something in the artist's vision saves this one from the ordinary.

Monochromatic treatment of "Antiqued Still Life" in shades of orange by Marie Bucher is an unusual treatment of bottles, pitchers, goblets and spoons in a delightful harmony of both color and composition.

One corner, called the "Little Gallery" holds a charming array of small works at little price by such fine artists as Grace Dimmick, Margaret Bradbury, Jim Green and others.

Artists Await Prize Awards

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Artists from San Diego to Santa Barbara — 179 of them—await announcement of winners in the 1961 Annual Exhibition of Artists of Los Angeles and Vicinity which goes on view Wednesday at Los Angeles County Museum.

Names will be announced during an 8 p.m. Museum Association reception and preview, open to the public, Tuesday evening. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 1.

Winners of the 16 prize awards, totalling more than $3,000, were chosen by a jury of three art authorities who selected the 180 art works to be displayed from 2,394 entries submitted by 1,452 artists. On the jury were Una E. Johnson, curator of prints, Brooklyn Museum; Misch Kohn, leading American printmaker from Chicago; and William Seitz, associate curator at Museum of Modern Art, New York.

WHEN the "Arts of Denmark, from Viking to Modern," exhibit opens Sept. 28 in Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery, Barnsdall Park, it will occupy every inch of space in the gallery. Prehistoric stone age spears, harpoons and utilitarian objects foreshadow the design and elegance of 20th century furniture, glass, silver, ceramics, jewelry and textiles.

One of the world's oldest wind instruments, a six-foot "lurs", comes from the Bronze Age; jewelry, helmets and battle axes are reminders of intrepid Viking explorers.

A spectacular "golden altar" from Jutland church will be a high light of the medieval collection, and a life-sized figure of St. George slaying the dragon, dated around 1520, will dominate the gallery.

More than half of the display will be devoted to contemporary furniture and crafts, many created by leading artists and craftsmen to show new trends in Danish design.

OILS and water colors by Geneva Basinger, longtime Long Beach artist, may be seen at Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Ave., Saturday through Sept. 30. She will be honored at a reception in the library from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sept. 16.

A featured picture will show the Greek freighter "Dominator", on the rocks off Palos Verdes.

Mrs. Basinger and her husband reside at 3760 Olive Ave., where she maintains a studio. She has had numerous shows in the Southland area.

LONG BEACH Art Association sends a reminder that its annual art fair is being held today in Bixby Park from 1 to 6 p.m.

THE EXHIBITION of the permanent collection at Long Beach Museum of Art closes in part today. Works in the downstairs galleries will be cleared for the incoming exhibit, oil paintings by Noriko Yamamoto, to be shown from Sept. 3 through 24.

Billy Tarpy, shown in practice session at Valerie Silver Theatre Arts Studio, has studied with top-ranking ballet teachers in the Southland.—(Staff.)

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA OPENS IN L.A. OCT. 27

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

The music critics of greater Los Angeles area honored Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera Company at a luncheon given at the Ambassador Hotel recently.

Kurt Adler is a soft-spoken man with many illuminating ideas. Originally from Vienna, he was for some time chorus master of the San Francisco Opera; when Gaetona Merola died, Adler took command of the company and it has flourished under his direction. He talked and we critics listened. He carefully went over the entire list of operas to be given at the Shrine Auditorium this fall, from Oct. 27 through Nov. 19.

THERE WILL BE three operas having their first Los Angeles performances: "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Benjamin Britten; "Nabucco" by Verdi and "Blood Moon" by Dello Joio. In two of these operas, "Blood Moon" and "Midsummer Night's Dream," our own Mary Costa will take the lead. She will also be heard in "Rigoletto" by Verdi as Gilda. Another favorite from our own home town is Marilyn Horne who will sing in "Fidelio" by Beethoven and in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

"Blood Moon," as Adler graphically described it, sounded most intriguing. It is the story of a mulatto girl, so light, that she is taken for a white person, thus incurring her love and life problems. The opera is being produced under the Ford Foundation program.

VERDI'S OPERA "Nabucco" is being revived with the famous baritone, Tozzi, a role in which he made his opera debut. It will have a special performance for the Festival of Faith and Freedom Foundation and the American-Italy Society of San Francisco when prices from $50 down will be privately subscribed. A repeat performance will be included in the regular season however.

Exciting interest was evidenced when Adler announced that the fabulous Australian soprano, Joan Sutherland, will sing the title role in "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti, in two performances.

FAMILIAR FAVORITES who are returning this season are Della Casa, Leontyne Price, sopranos; Katherine Hilgenberg and Irene Dalis, contraltos; Tozzi, Schoeffler, Evans, baritones; and Zampieri and Konya, tenors. The conductors will be Ludwig, Molinari-Pradelli and Varviso.

Pageant to Feature Spine-Chilling Dances

Los Voladores, the spine-chilling Aztec flyers who dance on a 24-inch platform 100 feet in the air, then circle to the ground on ropes, will highlight the Mexica, Kingdom of Fire, pageant opening in San Gabriel Sept. 3 for a two-week run.

The Aztec flyers will perform in the parking lot adjacent to the Mission Playhouse, 532 W. Mission Dr.

The Mexica pageant will feature songs, dances and other Mexican lore and will give in detail the story behind the centuries-old Los Voladores, the birdmen.

In the Mission Playhouse, the religious story of how the ancient Aztecs sent couriers into the woods to find a suitable tree for the Los Voladores flight will be presented by professional singers and dancers brought from Mexico by Lyric Theatre International, sponsor of the Mexica event.

Other dances, including the Aztec fire dance, the color-splashed quetzal and El Chileno, will be part of Mexica, Kingdom of Fire.

* * * *

MEXICA, Kingdom of Fire, will offer evening performances for a two-week run. There will also be matinee performances on Saturdays.

The Los Voladores performance is rooted deeply in Aztec culture. For the centuries-old "flying pole dance," a straight tree trunk is sunk deep into the ground.

The top of the shaft is fitted with a 24-inch, cap-like, revolving platform. To this is added a frame with ropes attached for the flyers.

The ceremony is believed to represent the Aztec century of 52 years; the dance was originally performed by four flyers who made 13 circles around the pole as they descended to the ground. Thus the four, multiplied by 13 equals 52—the number of years in the Aztec century.

* * * *

FOR IMPRESSIVENESS, two more flying-dancers were added in later years. The performances here may feature eight flyers, provided technical problems can be surmounted.

Pioneer show business figures in the Southland indicate that "Los Voladores" has never been performed in California. Although, audiences in other parts of the United States and in England have thrilled to the "escalofriente" (spine-chilling) birdmen and their graceful, 100-foot plunge to earth.

Last Week of Music at Bowl

Another wonderful season of "Symphonies Under the Stars" at the Hollywood Bowl goes into its final week on Tuesday when William Steinberg conducts the orchestra and Birgit Nilsson appears as soprano soloist.

On Thursday night Steinberg again conducts with soloists and a chorus.

"Folksongs Around the World" will lure a wide audience on Friday with The Weavers, Odetta, Bud Dashiel and the Kinsmen, and Dean Jones on the bill.

Saturday night the bill is a "Salute to Romberg" and promises a tuneful evening of hits.

Jane Powell, soprano, will be featured with Earl Wrightson, baritone, and Chris Lachona, tenor. Johnny Green will conduct the Bowl Pops Orchestra in such favorites as Student Prince," "Desert Song" and "New Moon."

On Stage--

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 5021 E. Anaheim St., "Gangway," 7:45 p.m. Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

MAGNOLIA THEATRE, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "Marriage-Go-Round," 8 p.m., closes tonight.

OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 311 Lime Ave., 8 tonight, three original one-acts; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, "Li'l Abner."

Awards First Scholarship to Billy Tarpy

Billy Tarpy, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Tarpy, 236 Temple Ave., left Saturday for New York City to enroll with a full scholarship at the School of American Ballet. He will pursue advanced studies under a staff headed by George Balanchine.

Tarpy's trip was made possible by a special grant of $300 from the Scholarship Fund of Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association.

Harvey Waggoner, general manager of the association, announced that the executive committee voted to appropriate the money after careful consideration of letters written in Tarpy's behalf by outstanding Southern California teachers and choreographers.

James Boyd, association president, said, "We are proud to initiate our new scholarship program with this grant. We feel this is a demonstration of (our) contribution to the education and development of youthful talent in our community."

Attend Conclave

Two members of Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc. attended the AETA (American Educational Theatre Association) convention in New York City Thursday through Saturday. They are Miss Charlotte Shuman, 204 Ocean Ave., Seal Beach, and Mrs. Fritz Ruprecht, 40 63rd Place. Theme of the annual conclave was "Theatre and the Human Bond."

Set for Biltmore

"Toys in the Attic," prize-play by Lillian Hellman with Constance Bennett in the starring role, will appear at Biltmore Theatre, Los Angeles, for four weeks beginning Feb. 20.

It's very apparent that his right hand knows what his left hand is doing. That "state" applies to him professionally, too, for if you want to know "what's cooking" at the Proctor & Gamble plant, just ask today's Chef of the Week, Kenneth (Ken) W. Austin.

He's in the "know" on all 16 products manufactured at the Long Beach facility. He performs as community relations specialist in charge of plant tours, films for showing at service clubs and churches, and supplies other pertinent information.

* * * *

THOUGH he started out in Kansas, (Le Roy), he has been a Californian since 1916. He moved with his family, first to Taft, where he remained to finish junior high school. They came to Long Beach in time for him to play football for Wilson High, and to receive his diploma.

With the depression hanging around, Austin accepted a position with the S. H. Kress Co. He remained with them two years, which was long enough to meet another member of their staff, the girl who was to become his wife.

The Texaco Co. next lured him into their employ, and it was there that he learned the painter's trade professionally. Yet, alas, and alack, 11 years have gone by since his wife first asked him to paint a certain door in their home.

* * * *

IN APRIL of '31 he joined Procter & Gamble, and in 1934 was promoted to the employes service department, which included, for a time, duty of safety engineer. Under his supervision, the Long Beach plant set a world record for safety—4,000,000 man hours, equal to approximately four years without a lost-time accident.

With an avid interest in sports, he is serving as finance chairman on the Mayor's committee for the 7th World Water Ski championship which concludes today at Marine Stadium. Last January, he was a member of the committee which welcomed the Washington "Huskies" upon their arrival for the Rose Bowl game.

* * * *

THERE WAS a time when he'd grab for his golf clubs at the drop of the hat. But today a 16-foot speed boat and several pair of water skis take precedence. He's even hauled the boat as far as the Colorado River for a spin. He does find a few stolen moments to bowl, however, and was fortunate enough to chalk up a perfect 300 in the Procter & Gamble League.

A member of the American Society of Safety Engineers, he also belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and Elks Lodge 888.

The next time you're hungry for chicken—try his "Austin Special."

ON YOUR SHOULDERS, ESMERALDA

Topsy-Turvey Move 'Revitalizes,' Says Yogi

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Pack up your overnight creams and face lotions, Esmeralda, and throw them into the trash.

All you have to do for a peaches-and-cream complexion is to stand on your shoulders for three minutes a day.

Said shoulder-standing, in addition to providing complexion bloom, will:

1. Give you tranquility.
2. Normalize your weight.
3. Physically revitalize you.

This package deal, ma'am, is promised to you by Richard L. Hittleman, 34, who daily conducts the "Yoga for Health" program on KTTV (channel 11) at 9:30 a. m.

OF WOMEN IN GENERAL, Hittleman says:

"Look at them. They're falling apart. They're misshapen."

Wait! Don't march on the studio and shake Hittleman until he falls apart. Let the man finish.

"We want to bring out the beauty in them," he added. "This beauty is within every female."

See, Esmeralda, that means you, too.

Of course, if that beauty is buried very deep within and you're slightly over-ballasted amidships, you may have difficulty retaining the shoulder-standing position.

So borrow a wall, Esmeralda, and prop yourself against it until your muscles gain tone.

Within 15 days, your muscles should be so tone tuned you won't need the prop wall.

When you start shoulder-standing, do it only a minute a day for the first three days. Do everything slowly, with symmetry and think gracefully.

AND LISTEN, ESMERALDA, it doesn't make any difference how old you are. Because you're not too old for yoga.

Of course, if you're pushing 80, maybe you'd better check with your doctor first to make sure he doesn't prefer you with your amidships over-ballasted as long as you're right side up.

What's that you say, Esmeralda, yoga, smoga, phooey!

Methinks you scoff.

Well, Hittleman is used to scoffers. He's been running into them ever since, as a youngster, he became interested in yoga. An interest, incidentally, which led him to the founding of the American Academy of Yoga in 1957.

HE'S FOUND MOST SKEPTICS are so because they misunderstand yoga.

They confuse one who practices yoga with a fakir. And a yogi is not a fakir.

The fakir sleeps on beds of nails, walks barefooted over hot coals and charms snakes.

"He's a magician and very good at what he does," says Hittleman, "but he is not a yogi."

Those who practice yoga are simply seeking to integrate the body and mind, to have them work together so that the individual functions without considerable conflict and tension.

Yoga, according to Hittleman, is not a religion. Its practice, however, will provide mental and emotional maturity.

Designed 20 centuries ago, yoga is the only physical culture system that works internally to stimulate vital organs and glands. It is the oldest physical and mental health development plan.

"Most of us run on two or three cylinders instead of eight," said Hittleman. "Yoga will put you up to your full capabilities."

It contrasts most sharply with the up-and-at-'em, daily-dozen type of exercise in that yoga is basically slow-motion movements and has you holding extreme positions.

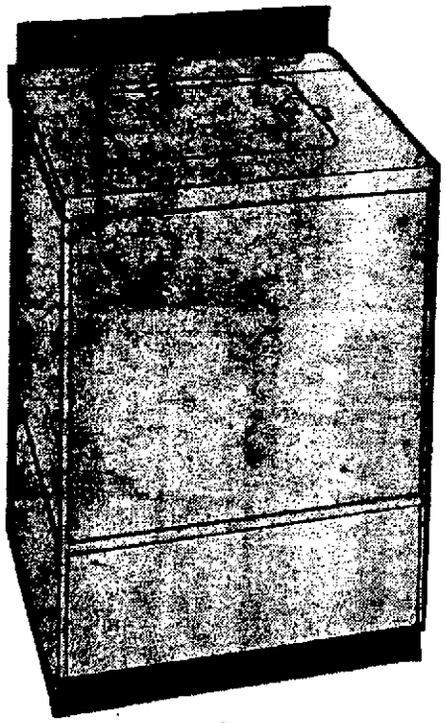

So up on your shoulders you go, Esmeralda. Let's bring that inner beauty out.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

I'm glad you're glad.

To have "TeleVues" back every Sunday, I mean.

The return of the television section last Sunday, after three weeks of inaction due to new press installation, brought phone and mail greetings from many of you.

Which gave me an idea—a contest idea.

Sit yourself down and write me a letter—100 words or less—saying "Why I Like TeleVues."

The winner will receive $25. The runner-up will be conducted on a tour of Warner Bros. studios with a guest and have lunch in the commissary with TV star Donald May, featured on ABC-TV's "The Roaring 20's."

Deadline for entries will be Sept. 23 and the winner will be announced Oct. 1.

Address your letters to "TeleVues, care Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif."

Good luck.

AND NOW, A WORD FOR RE-RUNS.

"Its is absolutely, flatly ridiculous to assume everyone has seen everything on television," said Dick Woollen, vice president in charge of programs for KTTV (channel 11).

"In a seven-station market, such as we have in Southern California, that means you're missing one or two good programs a time period no matter what you're watching.

"I think people should be glad we are re-running some of the shows they have missed.

"I think the industry would be doing a disservice not to re-run them. What a waste it would be."

A case in point, noted Woollen, are the Groucho Marx programs KTTV will re-run 7:30 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday starting Oct. 2.

Fans of "The Untouchables," which covered the same time slot Groucho was in last year, now will have an opportunity to see him in action.

And the earlier re-run time slot will enable children to view the comedian.

Woollen emphasizes his independent station doesn't operate solely with re-runs.

On Nov. 3, for example, the program "Age of Kings" makes its debut between 6:30 and 10 p.m. It will be shown twice weekly.

"Only an independent station would have the courage to devote prime time to such a totally different kind of television experiment," said Woollen. "This is quality Shakespeare."

Summarizing his station's position, Woollen said operations were based along three major lines:

Counter-programming to that offered by the networks.

Re-runs.

Constant concentration on what is going on in Southern California.

In the latter category, he included such things as community parades, sports, major speeches, a great many hours per week of interview and discussion, and the Miss International Beauty contest.

"Our biggest problem is to get people to sample us," he said. "Viewers will fall into network habit patterns and not have the energy or imagination to try other shows."

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....AUGUST 27, 1961

OUR COVER

The two worlds of Mt. Palomar meet in today's unusual cover photograph of the mountain's famed observatory by Roger Coar. Summer blooms of a variety of buckthorn peculiar to the California chaparral glisten in the light of the earth's nearest star—the sun. The dome covers the famous 200-inch Hale telescope, named for George Ellery Hale who pioneered the Yerkes (Williams Bay, Wis.) and Mt. Wilson observatories. Hale also was noted for his solar discoveries which included determining of solar vortices and the magnetic fields in sun spots. Palomar is a mecca for visitors from many walks of life: Dedicated men who probe the heavens, amateur astronomers who search for more knowledge, Sunday tourists who come only to look, children with eyes full of wonder. . . . For more about Palomar of a summer's day see Page 9.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give history on SKINNER—M. O., Harbor City; Mrs. J. B., Long Beach.

M. O., J. B.: Skinner originally "Skynnere" meant a dealer in hides and a man who prepared furs and skins for sale. A fur store in old England was called a "Skynnery." One Skinner ancestor was Lord Mayor of London in 1596. The coat-of-arms of the Skinners of Hereford, descended from Stephen Skinner who died in 1557, has a gold chevron between three silver griffin heads on a black shield. John Skinner of Windsor, Conn., was married in that town in 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on MASON?—M. M., Long Beach; Mrs. J. M., Lakewood.

M. M., J. M.: MASON was used by a professional artisan, an expert British "stone mason" who dressed stone for the construction of castles, churches and public buildings. The work of the master stone masons has lasted more than 1,000 years in beautiful cathedrals. The main coat-of-arms of the Mason lineage has a two-headed, blue rampant lion centered on a gold shield. The most famous American ancestor was John Mason of Norfolk, England born in 1586, who founded New Hampshire and was later governor of Newfoundland and vice admiral of New England. Next in prominence was Maj. John Mason, born in England in 1600 who settled in Massachusetts in 1635 and led the Pequot Indian War.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on ALCORN.—F.A., E. A., Long Beach.

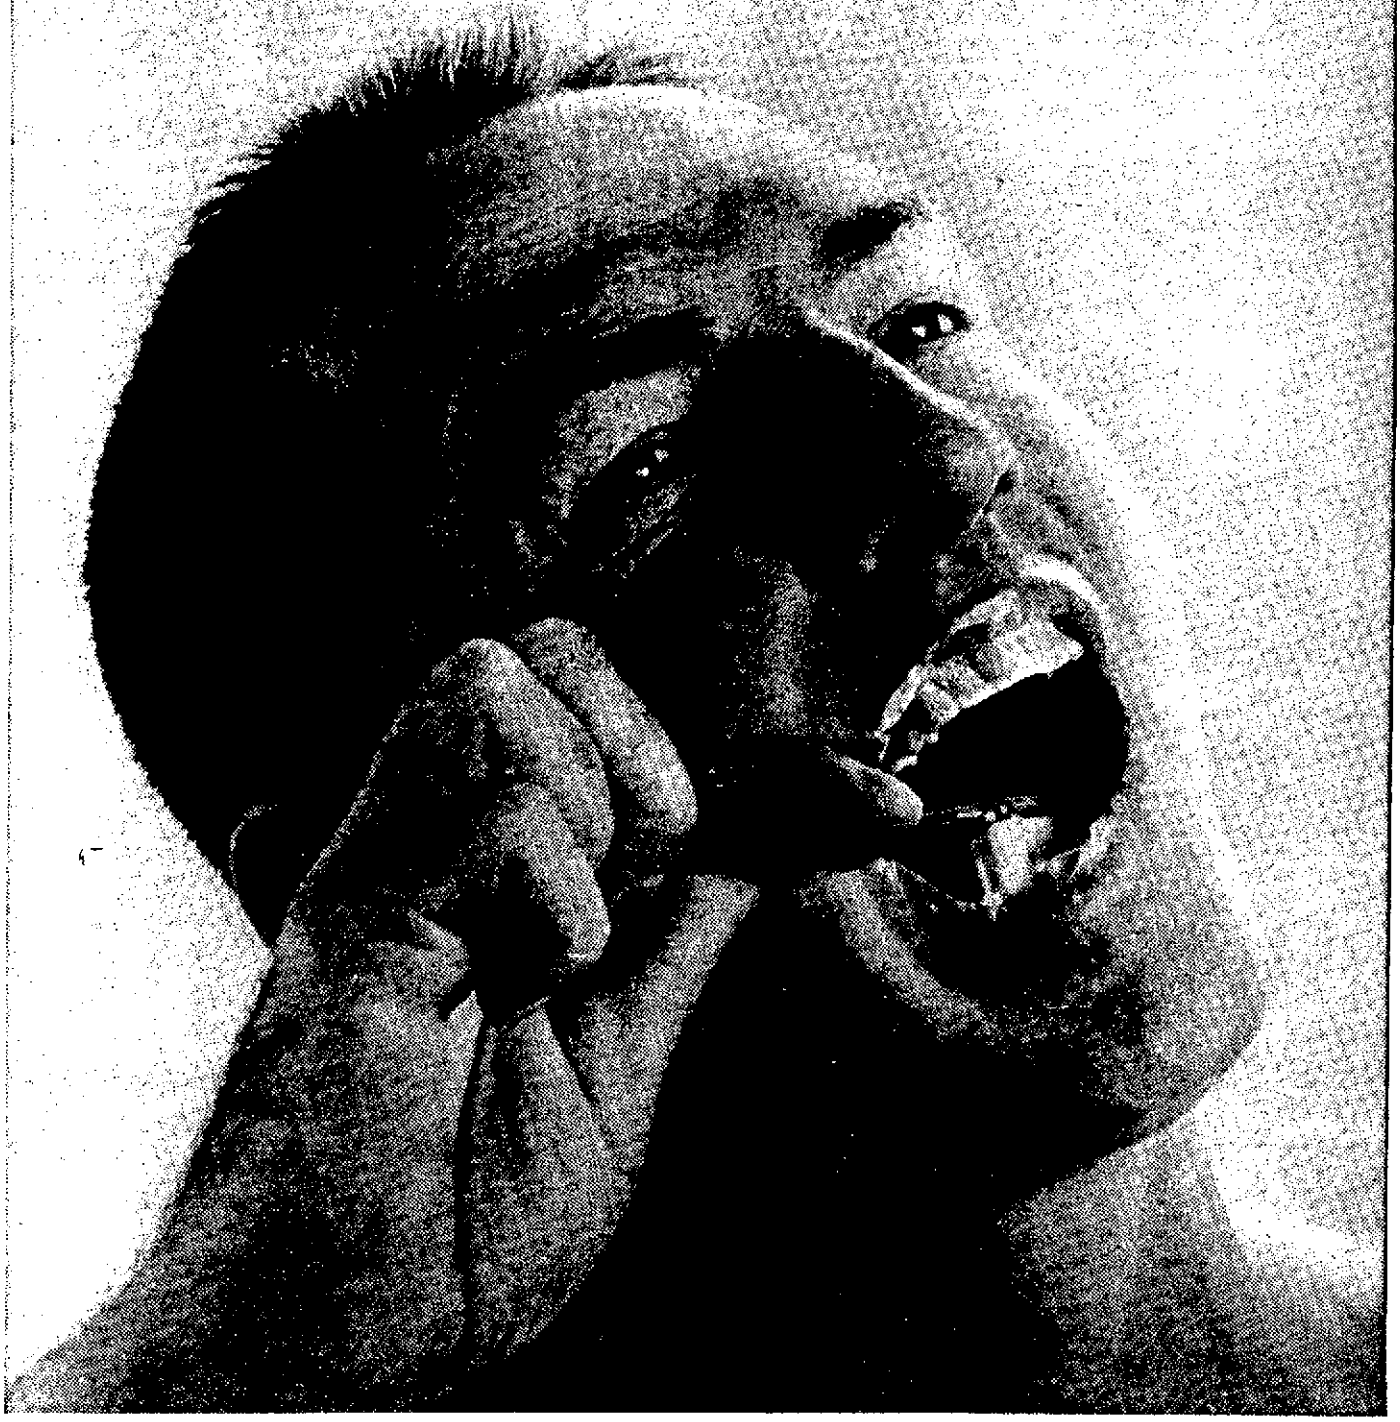

F. A., E. A.: ALCORN has a long English history, traced back to a family originating in Sussex. The source of this was "Alh-Horne" meaning "Sacred piece of land," referring to an estate built on blessed ground. John Alcorn is registered in Sussex in 1273. The Alcorn coat-of-arms has a black buck deer head below a black stripe on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give history on LANNING.—G. L., Inglewood; J. M., Long Beach.

G. L., J. M.: LANNING, taken from a village-name in England, originated as "Leoning" meaning "Estate of Lion-Brave," a noted Saxon ancestor. Lanning may also be Irish, from O'Leannain meaning "Sons of the Cloaked One." The Irish ancestors were natives of Fermanagh, Mayo and Galway.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this column.

Dental authorities agree:
You can lose more teeth from gum troubles than from tooth decay

How brushing with new Ipana® helps you protect your gums as you protect your teeth

Don't just do half the job! Gum troubles are often caused by tartar that forms on teeth when soft film is not properly cleansed away. Dental statistics prove that it is gum troubles, not tooth decay, that cause most loss of teeth after age 14. So don't do just half the job. Protect your gums as you protect your teeth.

If you brush properly with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you can help prevent gum trouble due to tartar before it starts. Ipana's film-removing agents help you brush away the soft film that naturally forms on teeth before it hardens into tartar that irritates and inflames gums.

Only your dentist or dental hygienist can remove tartar once it hardens. But proper brushing, according to Ipana directions, can help prevent tartar before it attacks gums.

A superior decay fighter, too! Laboratory tests prove that new Ipana kills more decay germs than any other leading tooth paste—even the leading fluoride tooth paste!

Every time you brush your teeth with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you destroy decay germs by the millions. Laboratory tests have shown that other tooth pastes leave behind many more decay germs because they don't have Ipana's superior germ-killing power.

Proper cleansing of teeth with Ipana helps protect your gums as you protect your teeth. Get new Ipana!

Old Cabinet Could Echo an 'Ouch!'

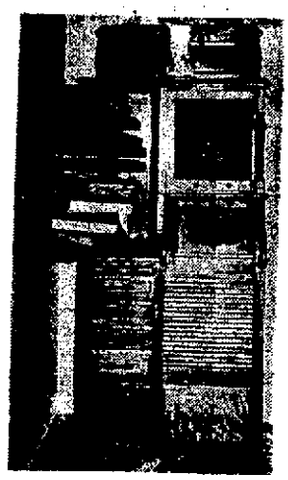

By Helen L. Gillum

IF THIS curious piece of furniture could talk and tell its life story, there would doubtless be many an "Ouch!" scattered throughout the tale. For this cabinet (see Photo) once stood in a dentist's office, where it held instruments and other equipment the "tooth-doctor" used in his profession.

The old oak piece dates to about 1880; it is an example of the standard models built at that time for dentists. It now belongs to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Boughn of 207 E. 69th St., who purchased it at an antique shop several years ago. The cabinet was once covered with green paint, but a former owner had it stripped and refinished in natural tones, which brought out the beautiful grain of the hardwood. The 20-odd shelves, drawers and compartments in the old professional "cupboard" provide bountiful storage space, while its handsome design and lovely golden oak finish make it an interesting addition to the Boughn's kitchen.

A NOVEL FEATURE is the pivoted corner section on the upper left side, which contains 10 expertly-made matched shallow drawers, 9½ inches wide. Between this lower tier of drawers and the upper cupboard is a sliding board which once contained the marble mixing slab where the dentist prepared his toothache remedies.

The right side of the cabinet consists of an upper storage compartment, which is covered when not in use with a "rolled front" door. Just below this is a deep shelf with a swing-down door. This door, the front of the pivoted cupboard, and the end of the cabinet all have beautiful decorative scroll-work panels.

Remindful of dental offices of generations ago is this cabinet in Long Beach home.

THERE IS an additional shelf-compartment beneath the swing-down door section, also equipped with a "rolled front" door, and, below that, a deep, roomy storage drawer. Across the top of the cabinet is a full-width mirror.

This sturdy old piece demonstrates interesting ways in which such antiques can be utilized. Mrs. Boughn finds that the shallow swinging shelves keep her collection of silver souvenir teaspoons very nicely. She uses the lower section of her cabinet to hold her books on antiques and souvenir spoons. Other compartments contain eye-catching arrangements of favorite antiques and household ornaments.

Story and Photographs

By Roger Coar

IN A YEAR, perhaps not too far distant, the navigator with a space-exploration crew may well turn to a "Map by Palomar."

It will be a big switch from days of the adventurous Vikings, or even 470 years ago when Columbian discoveries-by-default made Christopher hero of the world-in-the-round. Columbus gained fame for going half the distance, while the Vikings apparently set out merely in the spirit of adventure. (Was it because no queen's monies were involved that their forays into the North American continent went virtually unrecorded?)

At any rate, since 1948 a group of absorbed men have been busily tracking the far reaches of space from a mountain-top in Southern California. Mt. Palomar, home of the famed 200-inch Hale telescope, is, in current jive talk, "where they have astronomers . . . those guys who dig the sky the most."

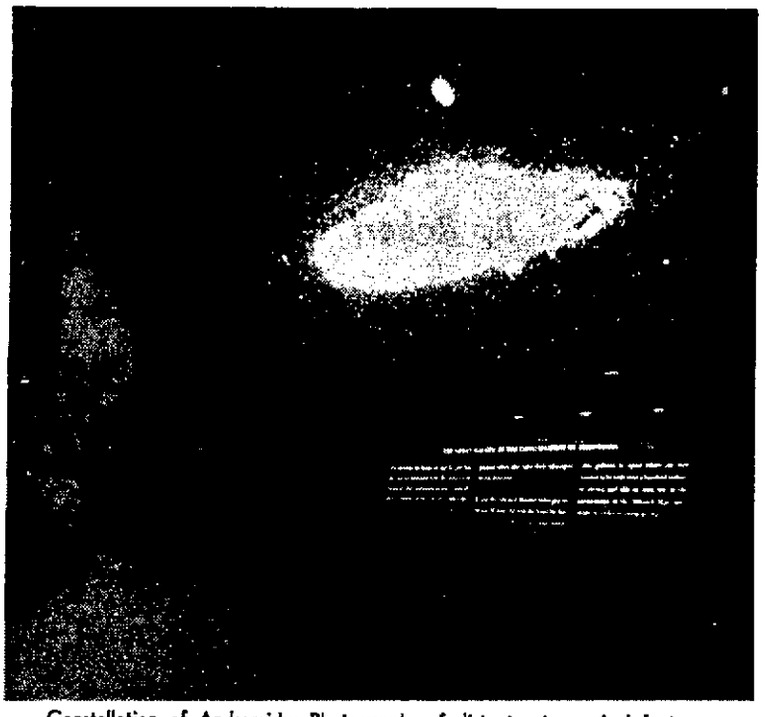

THE SIGNPOSTS and road markers these men employ to note the way are indicative of the full circle in which technology has been traveling. Voyages in Columbus' time were measured in months or years over any great earthly distance. The age of steam brought to us a now familiar term "miles per hour"—which soon may be out of style. Variations of the latter now in use include "miles per second," a little over 1 m.p.s. being the rate at which the X-15 travels. Vehicles which travel at rates of 700 miles an hour or multiples thereof are given "mach" ratings (speed of sound). One who travels "like a streak of light," goes 186,000 miles each second.

In dealing with the speed of light, men such as those busy on Mt. Palomar are back to measuring distance by the year. But it is a light-year. Most persons today are familiar with the term, and the ready explanation that it refers not to time, but dis-

Giant dome of the observatory tops Mt. Palomar, a structure which is of this world, yet, of another. Site is popular with weekenders and tourists.

Constellation of Andromida: Photographs of distant astronomical features present a good picture of outer space for all who take time to see them.

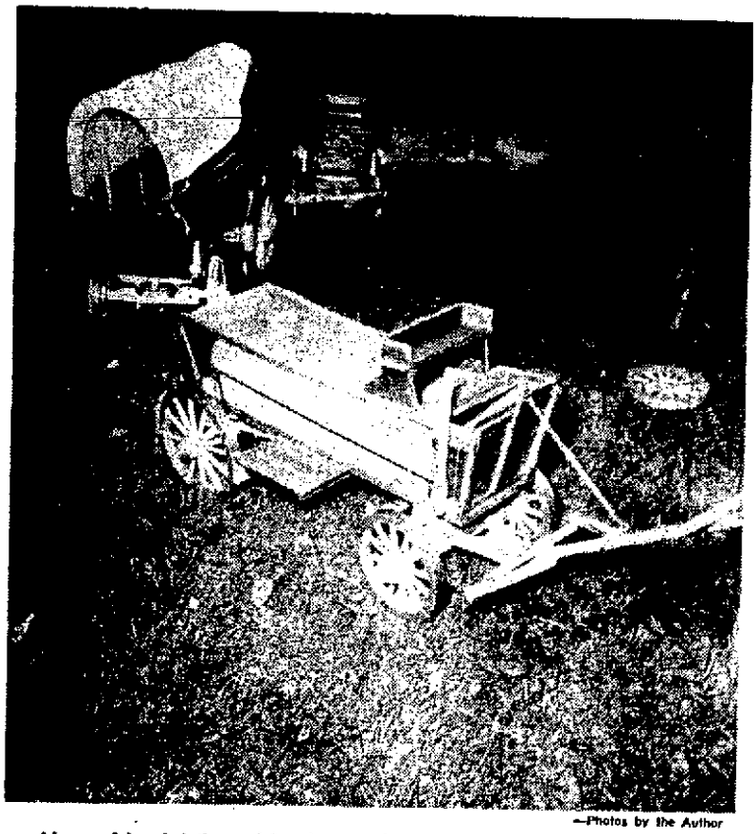

Complicated machinery of the giant Palomar "eye" may be viewed by public from special glassed-in area. The 200-inch mirror is lower center.

Palomar's beauties are of the earth as well as the sky. This is a scene in Palomar State Park, down the mountain but not far from the observatory.

Hours of hand, lathe and bandsaw work go into detailed models of prairie schooners made by Harold Angier. Covered wagon (left) is Conestoga type.

An eye for detail and a TV show helped to build . . .

Westward Ho Wagons

By Robert Hazelleaf

YEARS AGO, Harold Angier, 250 E. Artesia St., saw Conestoga wagons working their way across the great Canadian plains of Ontario where he lived on a farm.

Much later, he worked as an animater for a couple of years in Walt Disney Studios, learning many of the techniques that make for realism on the screen.

LATER, making his living as a draftsman gave Angier a sense of detail and design to go with his bent for things artistic and a talent for wood carving.

And then the television show, "Wagon Train," came to the viewing audience with Harold Angier as an ardent fan. Finally, an idea came to him. Why not build a model wagon train, complete with wheeled vehicles, horses, families and household goods?

"I THOUGHT I KNEW something about wagons," says Angier, "but I went to the library and spent hours reading and looking at old pictures. Whenever I could, I'd study the wagons at ghost town exhibits to see how they were made."

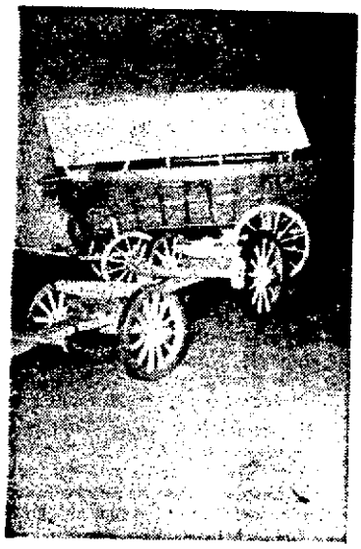

"You know," he continues, "you can look at a prairie schooner and tell what state it was made in by the design. The Conestoga wagon, made for hauling four or five tons of freight, differs from the Ohio wagon or the New England wagon.

"Many of those built in New England were put together by shipwrights. That accounts for the sweeping curves and rugged construction that went into them."

Angier's models are meticulously worked examples of the wagon-builder's art, reduced to a scale of 1⅛ inches to the foot.

"I SELECTED redwood for the boxes," he says, "looking for fine-grained pieces that would take an antique finish when completed."

Patternmaker's pine, sugar pine and alderwood go into the underpinning and wheels. His only concession to mechanization is in the wheel spokes that are made from doweling, but even those must be tapered to match the design of the real thing. Brass tires and hub tips add the final touch.

Wagon chassis is in accurate detail and will be antiqued later.

The axles are joined to the bolsters or chassis by wooden pegs, just as the originals were. Hand brakes work, tailgates drop, boxes and barrels have removable lids. Everything is carried out to the finest tolerances.

"What I'm aiming for is a night scene," says Angier. "It will show 13 wagons drawn up in a circle, camp fires in the center, utensils over the fires for the evening meal, picket riders posted against an Indian attack."

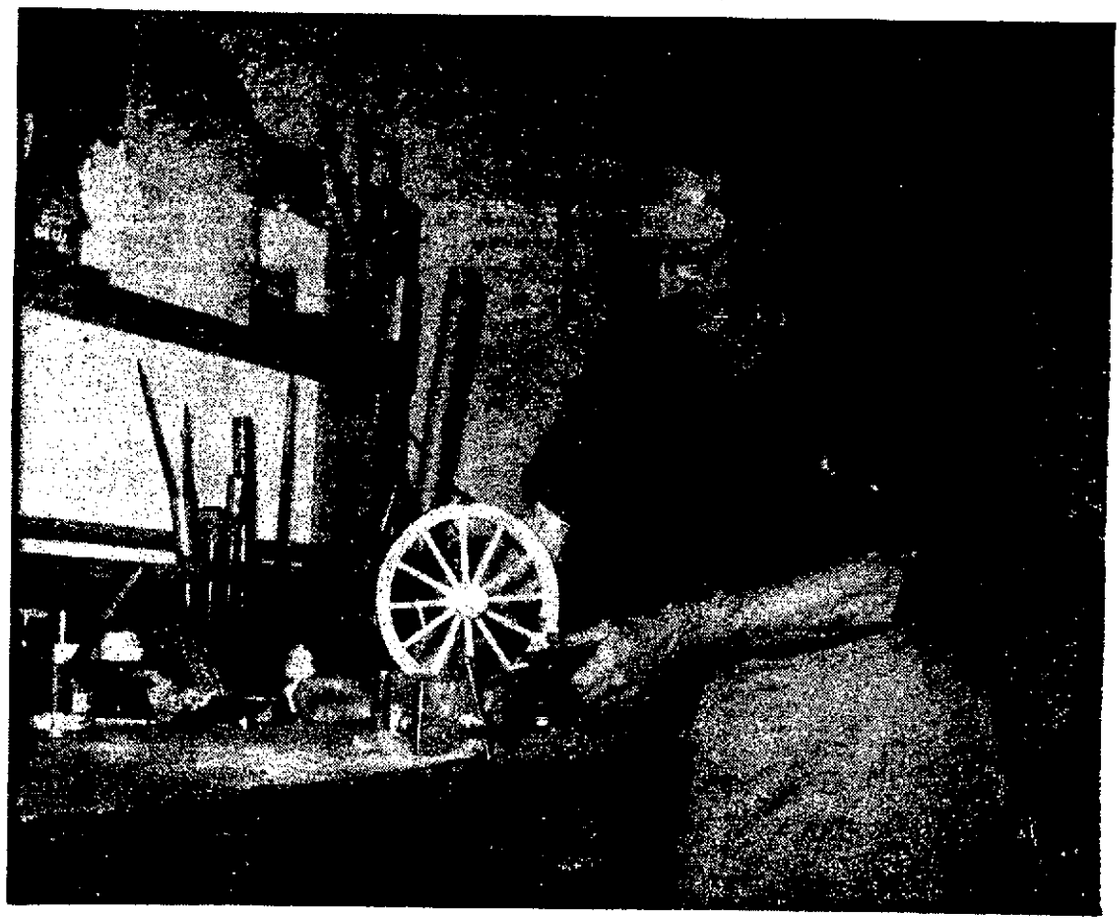

HERE, MRS. ANGIER will go to work. Besides making the wagon sheets that go over the steamed wooden bows, she will work up the model families and riders and help with the horses that must be made—all this to be accurately scaled.

Following that, Angier's studio experience will pay off. The night scene will show the sandy ground, cactus and mountains, all to be built with realism the keynote.

"I think the crowning touch might be a burned-out wagon," the modeler says. "I'd like to build one that shows the results of an attack—wagon sheet burned, the vehicle turned over and scorched, household goods on the ground. It'll point up the sacrifices men and their families made when they came west."

Originally, Angier was willing to settle for his models of the program's rolling stock.

"But you know," he says, "I've decided these would make some pretty nice mantel pieces or planters. I think I'll try that when I get caught up."

Angier is pictured in his shop, working out the fine detailing of a model wagon wheel. Dowels used for spokes must be tapered after wheel is assembled for realistic effect and for true-to-life reproduction.

Home of Fran Soldini, Long Beach artist, as it looked at about the time Mrs. Soldini's family purchased it.

There's the feel of the sea in Long Beach artist's home

Houseboat Atelier

By Stella George

Mrs. Soldini stands at the rear of her home-atelier at its present land-borne location. Many improvements have been made for comfort and studio needs since "Houseboat Atelier" once floated on the gentle inland waters of Long Beach.

HOME TO FRAN SOLDINI, artist of 39 56th Place, is more than just "sweet home." It is a residence involving an unusual history and a varied career.

Her home was built in 1905 as a houseboat and floated on Long Beach inland waters while the occupants enjoyed life in leisurely style.

Years passed and, in 1919, the vessel was purchased by Mrs. Soldini's family for weekend fun near the shore. It then stood on piling and was reached by a gangplank. In 1922, the houseboat came completely ashore to rest on land-based foundations.

MRS. SOLDINI has, over a period of time, designed the old houseboat into an ideal setting for her artistic and home needs. The former cabin on the lower deck is now a reception-living room.

What was once the open sun deck has been converted into a miniature apartment complete with kitchen, bedroom and bath, comfortable for visiting friends and relatives. The upper deck is reached by way of a stairway in the main cabin, and it is here that Mrs. Soldini spends most of her time. A large room with adjoining dressing room, it serves as her studio where she teaches art.

A sturdy door set on cement blocks makes an excellent and substantial desk. Chaise longue and chairs are here and there. Corner windows provide fine light and a nice view of the bay beyond.

ANOTHER PART of the upper deck houses a bedroom, and a small galley is a recent addition. Here students may have frequent coffee breaks in the still nautical atmosphere. Another small bedroom completes the upstairs.

Serviceable old Franklin stove continues usefulness in heating and is a homey touch in this interior view.

Former sun deck of the houseboat is now a guest apartment and this is a view of dinette with its glass wall.

Guests admire the many interesting touches that have been retained in the decor. For example, there is an old Franklin stove in the main studio, and one in the bedroom. Now gas burning, the stoves still have all their original interest. Unusual features are in evidence everywhere, as might be expected in the home of an artist. The "curtain" between the galley and the hall, for instance, is made of burlap. Knotted clothesline serves as a cupboard door handle. Pieces of driftwood, left unadorned in their original state, are table decorations.

Paintings done by Mrs. Soldini and by some of her talented students adorn the walls, adding a modern touch to the setting. The entire home, casual and inviting, has an appeal that surpasses formal elegance in many respects. It is definitely the type of background that inspires art students to express themselves in their work.

Mrs. Soldini has led a fascinating life as a dancer and musician as well as artist, and it seems fitting that she would settle down in a unique and different setting. "Houseboat Atelier" is a place with a decided personality of its own. One can almost feel a slight rocking motion walking along the creaking boards. The houseboat is now on land, but the feel of the sea will remain with it always, and those with a little imagination would not be too surprised to look down and see ocean wavelets softly lapping below the railings of the lower deck.

Upper deck space has been converted to a studio and there Mrs. Soldini spends much of her time at work and teaching.

Studio corner: Quilt pillow at left is made of pieces from the dresses in the trousseau of Mrs. Soldini's grandmother.

Betty Tesman (left) and Grace Meteer pose in symbolic thanks for the help Albert Ruiz has given to careers.

COMPLETE reversal of the song, "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," is found in the fact that more and more "little girls" are singing "Thank Heaven for Albert Ruiz."

Ruiz, head of the Dance-Drama Center in Long Beach, has seen five of his students headed for careers in dancing and dramatics over the past few weeks, and has prepared a number of others to compete in nationally known beauty pageants.

The girls include Gloria Vasquez, now dancing with Los Angeles Civic Opera Association's production of "The Merry Widow" in San Francisco; Bonnie Baker and Gracie Meteer, just home from their first professional engagement with Jimmie Durante in Lake Tahoe; Beverly Hages, enrolled in the American School of Ballet in New York City after keen competition for that privilege; Cindy Gillette, contender recently for the Miss California title as an entry in the Miss America Contest; Gail Cason, Miss Realtor of Long Beach, recent contender for Miss California as an opening to the Miss Universe Pageant in Florida; and Betty Tesman, who has had a number of professional engagements, and recently was accepted by Desi-Lu productions for their advanced drama preparatory classes.

MISS VASQUEZ, a granddaughter of Mrs. Molly Sturdivant of 2281 E. Sixth St., with whom she makes her home, was selected by Ada Broadbent, noted choreographer, for the difficult dance sequences in "The Merry Widow," including the famous cancan. She has been told that she has an excellent opportunity to appear in this fall's production of "Guys and Dolls," at Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Bonnie Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Baker of San Pedro. Gracie Meteer is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Meteer of Corona del Mar and Ford J. Meteer of Long Beach. She was a 1960 graduate of Wilson High School.

Both girls tried out for the Jimmie Durante show and were selected by the famous comedian from a line-up of 30 for the eight-girl chorus. At the conclusion of their engagement at Lake Tahoe, Durante indicated that he would try to have their act included in a forthcoming TV spectacular.

Formal ballet is the promising career for Beverly Hagen who was graduated this June from Millikan High School. The daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Robert Hagen, she tried out in New York City ballet last year and was qualified for the American School of Ballet. There she will work toward a future Ford Foundation Scholarship.

THE YOUNG ballet dancer has studied with Albert Ruiz for the past six years. The other girls have been his pupils for from 2 to 5 years.

Ruiz has been teaching in Long Beach for 10 years and has won acclaim for his choreography in local musical productions. He spent six years as a dancer with Paramount studios and was loaned out to Goldwyn and Universal-International. Prior to coming to California he was lead dancer in the original cast of "Brigadoon" in New York City in 1948. He also made many shorts while at Paramount and was both teacher and coach.

Combining drama with his interest in the dance he acted in the Actor's Lab in Hollywood and studied with Benno and Botami Schneider as well as Lee Strausberg, and is an advocate of the Method system.

He believes that dancing is a form of acting, taking movement and symbolizing as words. The dance drama is a particular interest and several which he has conceived and directed have received the acclaim of critics.

OF HIS GIRLS and his part in bringing them to the point of professional standing, he says simply that hard work and "drive," self-discipline and a "heart" for it have been combined with his own understanding of technique and the dramatic to spell success.

He has been particularly thrilled with the progress of Miss Vasquez in "The Merry Widow."

As the girls will confirm, "A pretty girl is like a melody," but it takes more than three-quarter time to make that melody linger on. It is the versatility evidenced by Miss Vasquez and the others, from ballet to modern jazz, that gives promise of carrying them and Albert Ruiz to the top.

Two Ruiz pupils, Gloria Vasquez (left) and Beverly Hagen, have won acclaim for their dancing abilities.

Palomar's Triple Threat

tance light travels in the course of a year . . . nearly SIX TRILLION miles. So a year's a year!

ANYWAY, back at Palomar the 200-inch Hale telescope (the largest reflecting scope in existence . . . any 800-inch telescope you may hear about will refer to a radio-telescope system) is kept busily at work tracking galaxies, star clusters and "Outer Space Smog Banks" (gaseous nebulae). This telescope is, in effect, a huge camera, for it takes pictures rather than offering the human eye a peep-hole at the universe. Measured in light-years, the optical range of this behemoth is about a BILLION LIGHT-YEARS. If this is incomprehensible as a figure, let's just call it a "ZILLION MILES," and, like they say, "That's away out!"

A trip to the Palomar Mountains offers a triple treat. First, the area is blue-sky country of scenic quality. The climb to higher levels reveals what loomed as scrub-covered rock from below actually is forest primeval. And, finally, added to the natural thrills is the visit to the observatory.

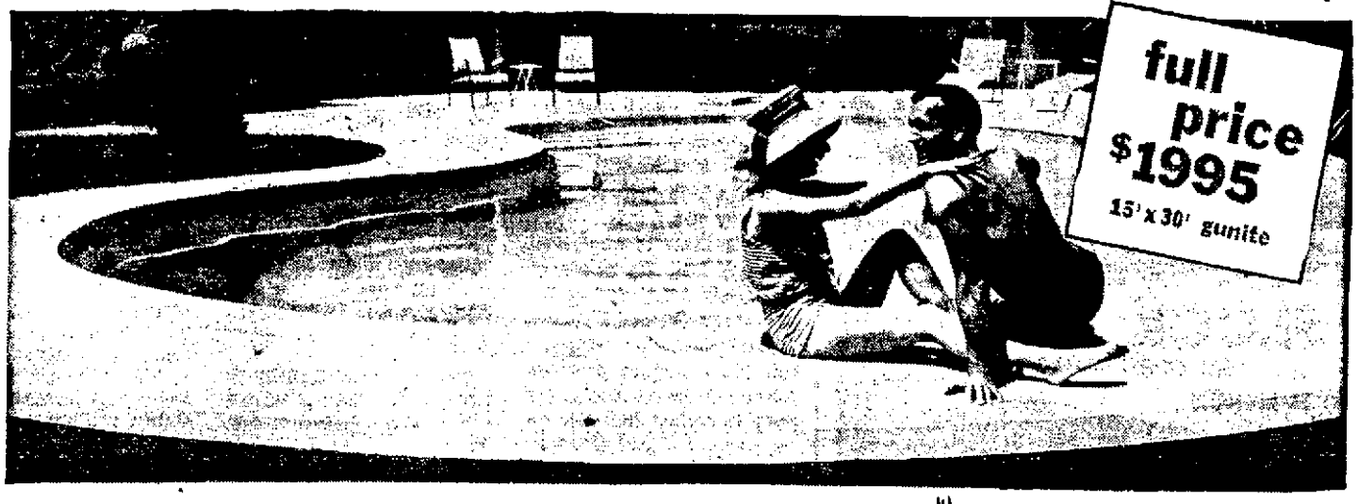

A glassed-in gallery provides for visitors a view of the monstrous instrument, which by virtue of size and nature of its functional design immediately gives the impression of being of another world.

AND ANOTHER world is what one is prepared for. At the entrance to this California Institute of Technology operation is a museum housing a full-sized replica of the famous 200-inch mirror. The walls around present as good a picture of "space" as can be seen on earth. This is done through a progressive series of astronomical photographs. Also shown are some color photographs of distant nebulae, which represent perhaps the most sophisticated work ever done in the realm of astro-photography.

In the meantime, the buckthorn blooms abundantly around these buildings which are of this world, yet, of another.

With Smart, Provincial Decor

Photos by Skip Shuman

Careful placing of furniture takes nothing from livability but gives maximum space, minimum clutter in the living room of Rossmoor home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morgan.

SMART, provincial decor is used in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morgan, 3141 Hillrose Dr., Rossmoor. Mrs. Morgan did her own interior decorating, and artistically made over some old pieces of furniture into things of beauty that blend with the new provincial sets. The total effect is so pleasing that it is difficult to tell the new from the old.

While there is no formal entrance hall, the effect of an entry was cleverly created. Two chairs flanking a marble coffee table are backed to the door on the right. A green velvet upholstered occasional chair is against the wall on the left. The former is a good example of Mrs. Morgan's skill, since the chair was once an old item that was painted and done over to look like a treasured antique.

Pecan wood paneling is used on the wall in back of the couch which faces the large front window. This particular wood complements the smooth furnishings in the room, and is very effective against the champagne upholstery on the couch. Too, it blends well with the off-white carpeting used throughout the home.

THE COFFEE TABLE in front of the couch is topped with marble. The coffee table mentioned before (between the twin chairs) is entirely marble, an unusually handsome piece, reminiscent of the type of furniture one might expect to find in a huge mansion or even a castle.

A small, long and very low table is in front of the window, leaving the view intact. A chair and hassock nearby face the room, again leaving the window scene uncluttered.

Simplicity marks the decor of the dining room with the polished table and black leather upholstered chairs. A striking color accent is found in one corner, another of Mrs. Morgan's artistic pieces, done in rich red velvet.

The buffet is really a long tea table, large enough to serve as either when needed.

The kitchen opens into the dining room with a small bar separating it from the living room. Glass doors in the dining area open to the patio and pool.

THE MASTER BEDROOM is large, with a full-length window seat in bright red adding to the size. Furniture is provincial, fine pecan wood that has a rich, substantial look and feel. A dainty, glass-topped table flanked with two pink wrought iron chairs is in one corner.

The guest room has a four-poster bed and chest, antiqued with white and gold. Both were refinished by Mrs. Morgan. Closets are ample.

The den is bright and modern with colorful pillows on the couch and a television set in the corner.

The back yard lends itself perfectly to the well-planned pool and surrounding deck area. Cement is everywhere, reducing upkeep to a minimum. — STELLA GEORGE.

Fun aplenty out of doors is provided in the Morgans' back yard, a concrete "spread" cuts down upkeep.

now—your dog can take pills to stay tick and flea free all season long

imagine a pill that kills fleas, lice, even ticks

Veterinarians now have ECTORAL, the incredible new pill your dog simply takes with his food. ECTORAL works from the inside out to kill fleas, lice, even ticks that come in contact with your dog. Just one dose of ECTORAL every week can control these parasites all season long.

ECTORAL is the worst news external parasites ever had—an extraordinarily effective way to get rid of ticks, fleas and lice. It was tested for over two years by veterinarians in every region of the United States. Even though ECTORAL is more effective, it is just as economical as old-fashioned powders or sprays—and far more convenient.

During warm weather, disease-carrying parasites lurk everywhere, waiting to attack your dog. Ticks hide in weeds and brush. Fleas hide between floor boards, in the dog's bedding, under rugs. And any passing dog may be carrying these parasites.

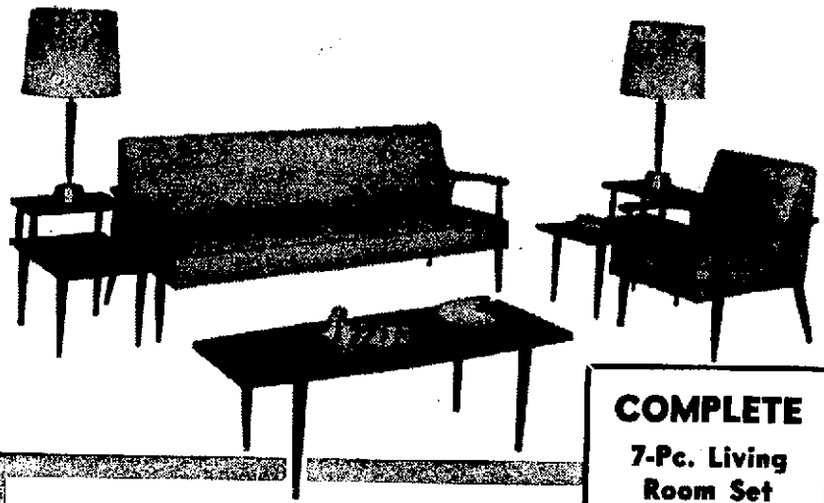

Now—all season long—you can keep these troublesome, dangerous pests under control—with ECTORAL. Your veterinarian will tell you how to use ECTORAL. (You can find his address under "Veterinarians" in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.)

Chest disguised as moving van makes toy pick-up fun.

Today's Problem: What can be done to encourage a child to keep his toys in his own room?

DESIGNER WILLIAM MEYERRIECKS of Huntington, N. Y., answers:

The tried and true method is a toy box. Having an adequate place to put his toys will not guarantee that a child will pick them up after a play session, but at least your chances of training him to be neat are better if storage space is available.

Naturally, the more attractive and interesting you make the storage chest the more success you'll have in getting your child to use it. To help in this respect, this toy storage box has been disguised as a moving van—complete with driver's cab and rolling wheels.

The chest itself is the van section, 17½ inches wide, 36 inches long and 20¼ inches deep on the inside. It has a hinged top. The cab increases over-all length another 14½ inches to make the total just over 4 feet. The project requires no special tools and utilizes ¾-inch thick scrap pine and plywood or a new solid wood panel called Widewood.

To order, specify Moving Van Toy Chest Plan S-18 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Room Divider That's Flexible

FURNITURE in this modern age should be flexible and the room divider (see photo) made of two sections and hinged is about as flexible as it can be. It can be used at right angles, along a wall or in a corner. Sections may be used separately.

Divider has sliding panels, finished as desired, and it has space for decorative accessories, for hi-fi components, radio, TV, records, books and similar items.

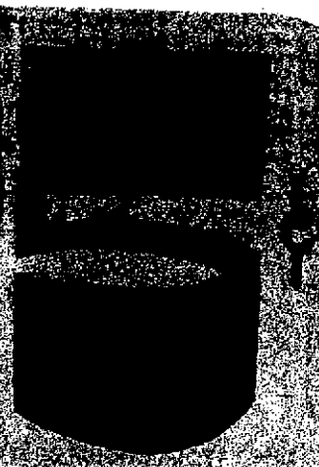

To build this divider from an easy, full-sized pattern, specify room divider pattern No. 225 and send name, address and $1 in currency, check or money order payable to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

A COACH OF GOLD, fragile looking but sturdy enough to serve as a summer party centerpiece, is simply made with two strawberry boxes. Other materials needed are a 12-inch square of poster board, the cap from a hair spray can, four small gold dollies, a can of gold spray paint, white glue, scissors and a sharp blade for cutting the poster board.

Leaving the rim of the basket untouched, cut a triangular window from each side of the basket that is turned over for the top of the coach. Loop a piece of tape several turns over the joining rims of the top and bottom baskets where the triangles were removed. Make the tape tight and inconspicuous as possible.

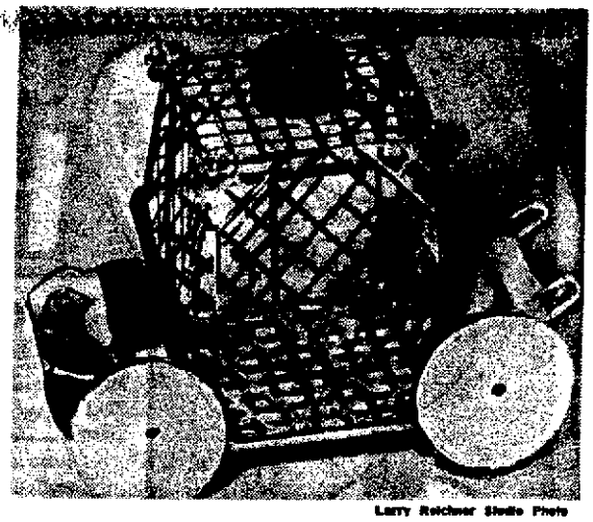

On the top center, glue any ornament or can top that more nearly resembles a crown.

For the base of the coach, cut the poster board 3½ inches wide and 11 inches long. Lay this strip flat and score across the bottom side of the board a distance of 2½ inches from each end. Turn the board over and score again across the top of the board only one inch from each end. Do not cut too deeply.

TO FORM the carriage box, simply bend up at center scoring, then bend the last inch that was scored, outward, at each end. To hold it in position, make a brace by pasting an inch-wide strip of board four and one-half inches long, like an axle under front and back base of the box. A half inch will extend at each corner. Score and bend these down.

The basket may now be pasted in the center of the carriage and the wheels glued firmly at the bottom to the brace. Also glue the wheels to the basket sides and to the carriage extensions both front and back. Spring clothespins and rubber bands will hold them until dried.

Front wheels measure two

Diagram shows how the coach wheels are applied to the sides and the bottom brace. See story for directions.

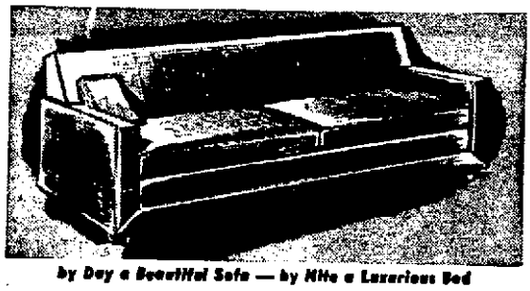

at the rear. Trace the wheel patterns around small and large glasses.

The scallops from small gold doilies are cut apart and used to decorate the corners of the carriage top, also the front and rear of the coach box. The doily centers fit on the wheels.

When the coach is finished and a firm unit, set it in an upended box and spray lightly but thoroughly with gold paint. Shake the can a lot before spraying.

Small plastic flowers and fern thrust through the sides of the coach will create a durable and charming summer centerpiece.

A Trek to Manana

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

MEMBERS of Golden Tours, Long Beach Recreation Department's senior citizen travel group, find their share of pleasure along the trail. And they'll be up to their necks in it beginning Nov. 4 when about 50 of them depart on an especially-planned, share-the-expense 16-day trip to Mexico.

With a prominent Long Beach tour agency as their travel advisor, senior citizen director Pat Tannehill and chairman Mrs. Clara McKinley have mapped out an itinerary which should be great fun as well as educational.

The group leaves by chartered bus for Tijuana, from where they will fly to Guadalajara. From there the itinerary includes not only the usual stopovers at Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco.

History will come to life many places along the way: Aztec Tenochtitlan (now Mexico City); Toltec Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon at Teotihuacan; granary at Guanajuato where "Turkey Neck" Martinez became a hero of Mexico's independence; the Hill of the Bells in Queretaro, where French domination of Mexico ended with the execution by Juarez' soldiers of Emperor Maximillan and his top generals Mexia and Miramon; and Patzcuaro, center of the proud Tarascan Indians conquered neither by the Aztecs nor the Spaniards.

Sites of violent history will be interspersed with the more light-hearted visits to Cuernavaca, Acapulco and San Jose Purua. Meetings with prominent Mexican and United States officials should bring about a better understanding of Mexican-U. S. relations and add an interesting aspect to the trip.

The group returns on Sunday, Nov. 19.

WHAT'S REQUIRED in the way of papers from Americans visiting Baja California for short periods? Many are asking.

Camara Nacional de Comercio de Mexicali explains: No permit is required for periods of three days or less. However, since only American citizens are entitled to this privilege, they must be able to prove their citizenship when required to do so by Mexican authorities. Birth certificate, draft card or any other similar documents are good proof of nationality.

For longer visits, two kinds of permits can be secured at any Mexican consulate or port of entry: Form F-5: Good for one visit only, with time limit of six months; cost, $3. Form F-14: Good for an unlimited number of visits during a period of six months; three passport-size pictures required; cost, $5.

WITH THE AIRLINES: Robert J. Juppe, former public relations officer for the Pacific States for British Overseas Airways Corp., San Francisco, has been promoted to senior public relations officer (Special Projects) in New York . . . Continental Airlines now offers a new "night coach" rate of $47.25 (plus 10 per cent Federal tax) for homeward-bound travelers from Denver to Los Angeles . . . Western Air Lines, effective Sept. 1, will offer 30-day round trip excursion fares between Los Angeles and Calgary and Edmonton, Canada (L.A.-Calgary tickets will be $165, compared to $219.50 at present). . . Training has begun for 19 crews that will fly four Boeing 720B turbofan SuperJets which TransWorld Airlines will put into service late this summer.

SIXTY-SIX FREE films featuring travel and vacation attractions have been released by Modern Talking Picture Service, distributor of movies sponsored by business and industry for showing to group audiences. All are 16mm-sound, and most are 15 to 50 minutes in length, and in color. Requests for information and prints should go to Modern's headquarters at 3 E. 54th St., New York 22.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:
Aug. 31-Sept. 4: Antelope Valley Fair and Alfalfa Festival at Lancaster. All kinds of events, even including a watermelon-eating contest.

Sept. 1-3, 8-10: Gay Nineties celebration at Joshua Tree. A real whingding, with former professional actors and dancers getting into the act.

Sept. 1-4: La Fiesta de San Gabriel at nearby San Gabriel. Events include a Grand Parade on Sept. 2 and special children's costume parade Sept. 3.

Sept. 2: Pow Wow at Apple Valley—the 13th annual one for this desert resort community.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"Hotels in Rome, please . . . and prices."

THE BIG THREE are the Grand, the Hassler and the Excelsior. Plush with prices to match. For first-time American travelers, I'd suggest the Mediterraneo.

Prices are deceiving. First, there's a 5 per cent tax on the expensive hotels. Ten per cent on others. If your room is listed at $8, take a close look at the extras. In Rome there is a flat service-tax of 18 per cent added. Then a general tax called IGE that amounts to 3 per cent. On top of all that, almost every city will add the "tassa di soggiorno" (a travelers' tax) up to 32 cents per person per night. And there might be another dollar or two for a bath. And another for heat, if you need it.

Try to get a total price for lodging. It's a little like getting a house assessed. But you won't be so shocked when you're presented with the bill.

"My mother-in-law is coming to San Francisco and my husband asked me to write and see if you have a list of restaurants and other places in town to go."

Yes, I have compiled a list of my favorite places. And, happily, it's for free. We call it "San Francisco Blue Book."

—Delta Air Lines Photo

Close by old Fort Fincastle on the highest ridge of land in Nassau is this 126-foot-high water tower. Its observation platform provides an excellent view of Nassau and the nearby islands. Beacon tops tower.

It's really not a book at all, but as I said, it's free.

"Is it very difficult to bring a French poodle back to the States?"

Not if you come back by ship. The cost for boarding a dog on most lines is about $50. I wouldn't advise it by air. There is no duty on the dog. That is, you can apply his cost against your exemption. And no quarantine.

"Can you give us some advice for a cruise to Rio de Janeiro in September?"

WEATHER will average around 70-72 degrees and headed for a warm season. Sports clothes on the ship. (If it's a big ship, you'll need evening clothes.)

Rio is pretty formal. Women wear a lot of black and downtown you wear just about what you would in New York. Ties and coats for men no matter how hot the weather gets.

They say alligator purses are a good buy in Rio. But I never found any that were great. They make a little charm for a charm bracelet that is unusual. A sort of clenched fist that holds off bad luck approaching from behind you. Ask for a "figa."

"I shall be in Madrid and wonder if there are night spots where a woman can go without an escort?"

Last time I was in Madrid, a few years back, there were a lot of unescorted Spanish ladies. And they did not look like they wanted any competition. I think you'd feel pretty uncomfortable.

FOOD

Weight watchers will enjoy this chicken barbecue with Chinese sauce, sweet corn, tomatoes—served outdoors.

Chicken a la China

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

GOOD FOOD just naturally tastes better when cooked at an outdoor barbecue. And, when the menu consists of chicken with Chinese barbecue sauce, ears of sweet corn, and ripe tomato slices, the success of the barbecue is guaranteed.

Chinese Barbecue Sauce is made with soy sauce, honey, dry sherry, pure vegetable oil, ginger and carefully selected seasonings. It's used to marinate the chicken, then to baste, and finally, for gourmet "dippings".

When prepared according to this recipe, it "costs" the weight watcher a mere 120 calories per 3 tablespoon serving.

Chicken With Chinese Barbecue Sauce

½ cup poly-unsaturated pure vegetable oil
⅔ cup soy sauce
1 small onion, chopped very fine
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 broiler-fryers to serve 6 to 8
⅔ cup honey
⅔ cup dry sherry, or ⅓ cup vinegar and ⅓ cup bouillon
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

Mix together all sauce ingredients to make 2½ cups of sauce. Let chicken marinate in sauce for 30 minutes to 2 hours. Broil chicken at distance of 8 inches from coals, 20 minutes on inner side first, 10 to 15 minutes on skin side. Baste frequently with marinade during broiling. 335 calories per serving, including 3 tablespoons of sauce.

A Fox Among the Fascists

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A FINE new novella, "THE FOX AND THE CAMELLIAS" by the long-admired Italian writer Ignazio Silone recently appeared in English translation (Harper, $3.50.)

From 1928 to 1944 Silone lived in exile in Switzerland where he organized underground resistance groups against the Fascists. Not too coincidentally, then, the locale of this story is Ticino, Italian Switzerland; the time, before World War II, perhaps the mid-1930s.

The title is both referential and allegorical. A fox has been preying upon the chickens of the local farmers. Daniele, the book's central figure, makes an analogy between the crafty, devious fox and a young Fascist agent who has come to Ticino to ferret out information about resistance activities.

The Festival of the Camellias, an annual Spring celebration, receives almost exclusive attention from the Ticinese who appear to be unaffected by the fact that they share their borders with a potentially dangerous nation.

The central theme of this short novel is clear enough: sacrifice for human values in the face of obligations to a totalitarian regime constitutes full redemption. The agent can not betray Daniele when he discovers his position in the resistance group because he is in love with Daniele's daughter. Therefore he gives up his own life.

That the events which precipitate the crisis and suicide seem a bit contrived does not detract from the strength of their moral implications. Characterizations are succinct.

Readers will be particularly struck by a scene of repulsive power in which Daniele expresses his fierce hatred for the Fascists by brutally slaughtering the fox, which finally has been trapped in his chicken-run.

This is a book of only 139 pages, but needs no more space to communicate a singularly human and compassionate picture of an era in which affirmation of positive moral values often involved dying for them.

"ACADEME — An ancient school where morality and philosophy were taught.

"Academy — A modern school where football is taught," wrote Ambrose Bierce in "Devil's Dictionary."

The modern malady implied in that biting satire is the subject of a controversial novel about West Point by a former cadet Norman R. Ford, "THE BLACK, THE GRAY & THE GOLD" (Doubleday, $4.95).

Ford's sweeping look at military life encompasses much more than a make-believe scandal at the Point when a board of inquiry is called to investigate reports of widespread cheating among the cadets, it is a look backstage of officers and Army society.

NATALA DE LA FERE

The French author, Natala De La Fere, has a new triumph "SOUPE DU JOUR" (Putnam, $3.50) about a famous recipe for soup and the family affected by it.

A Doctor's Story

Medicine has been a successful and perennial subject of American novels.

One area of medical endeavor, mental illnesses and mental institutions, has been consistently avoided.

This makes "GOODBYE, DOCTOR ROCH" by Andre Soubiran (Doubleday, $4.50) all the more interesting.

Dr. Roch is the medical director of Melun Psychiatric Hospital. Only a few years away from the horrors of Dachau concentration camp he finds conditions little better at Melun.

Dr. Roch battles a cynical staff, bureaucratic directors and overworked attendants.

A moving and even frightening look into the world-next-door of insanity and care of the mentally ill.

WHEN Alexander Frazier, noted Beverly Hills surgeon, took one more drink than his self-assigned "quota" he kept on drinking. This was on a New Year's weekend in a little Mexican coastal town. And after 24 hours of steady imbibing he conducted something of a reign of terror involving his pregnant wife and vacationing professional associates.

After the drinking sequence was over he couldn't remember a thing about it. But the shambles of his motel room and his bruised and abrased body bore evidence of catastrophe.

When his wife, Peg, finally told him of the physical and mental abuse he had handed her and his friends he sank to the depths of remorse. "I have ruined everything," he thought.

But the horror of the day revealed a number of people, including Frazier, to themselves in the light of truth. Particularly, it established a much firmer footing for the relationship of Peg and Alex, already married 20 years.

"THE IDENTITY OF DR. FRAZIER" (Knopf, $3.95) is a profound novel, with emphasis on the harm done by vestigial prejudice and misunderstandings between Jews and Gentiles. Author is George Sklar, who also has written plays and movies.

THE CIVIL WAR Centennial (1961-65) is tapping a vast reservoir of heretofore unpublished memorabilia and history.

Newest among these books is a handsomely bound, exceptionally well-edited volume, COLUMN SOUTH," (Colton, $12.50.)

This is the story of Matthias Baldwin, a private and his brother, William Francis Colton, a captain, of the 15th Pennsylvania Cavalry, by Suzanne Colton Wilson, niece

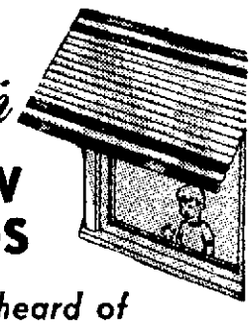

The book covers three years service with the Army of the Cumberland as they rode south through Antietam, Stone's River, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Nashville and other places with sabre rattling names.

It is not just the story of battle, but the whole face of war — the humorous, the tragic, the inspiring—the prison, the furlough and the spine-chilling patrol deep into enemy country.

"Column South" is a rare moment in Civil War literature.

EVERY FIVE YEARS, because of technological changes, the world has to prepare for a new type of war emphasizes "ARMS CONTROL, DISARMAMENT AND NATIONAL SECURITY" edited by Donald G. Brennan (Braziller, $6). Twenty-three contributors wrote the volume, which is an enlargement of last fall's issue of Daedalus, the Journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Frequently it is stressed that an international body, such as the United Nations, is needed to bring all possible order out of the chaos. The publishers have assembled a battery of endorsements from President Kennedy and various top level figures, testifying to the worth of the technical, diplomatic, military, legal and economic discussions in the book.

About Problem Pups

Two puppies are always happier, better adjusted than one, enjoying greater feeling of security in a home.

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY people buy puppies, feed them correctly, give them veterinarian attention, and love them, only to have the pups develop traits that make the owners feel they cannot keep them as pets.

Some nervous habits, sadly enough, are based on heredity. One of the most common is dribbling, or losing control when the puppy gets frightened or upset, sees a familiar person, or when it is teething. This weakness is sometimes overcome as the pet matures, but only if the general environment in which it lives is confidence-inspiring.

If your new puppy has this problem, try to be calm, cheerful, attentive, and reassuring. Sharp words, ugly tones, and harsh cuffings will always cause this type puppy to show the insecurity it feels. Of course, if the pet is indoors and then deliberately soils, it can be given a very minor scolding and taken outside to the proper place. However, always try to get the dog outside frequently to prevent having to reprimand the pet.

NEVER OPEN the outside door and let a nervous wriggling puppy dart into the home. Instead, step outside, greet the pup in a casual pleasant tone, then walk about for a moment as though there is something that needs your attention. If the puppy soils upon seeing you, at least you won't have an unattractive spot on the rug. And chances are good that with this approach, the pet will control itself, and soon you can walk back into the house with the little fellow at your heels. If there is someone inside the house, pick up the puppy and carry it cradled in your arms so it can greet the person in this position.

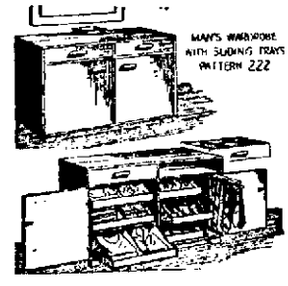

Ask your friends to co-operate by not making a big fuss over your pet when they come to call. Children, too, should be taught to greet the nervous pup with calm devotion, not lavish attention.

Take the puppy on every outing possible. Get it accustomed to people, noise and traffic. And help strengthen its bladder muscles by confining it to small quarters at night.

OFTEN JUST making an indoor pet of the pup will give it the confidence of being loved that it needs and promptly correct the problem. Also, the introduction of another puppy into the family may end this unpleasant trait. It is usually when the pup is taken from its dam or litter mates and thrust into a strange environment that insecurity sets in, with its accompanying nervous conduct.

If, after giving loving attention to the puppy, grooming it, and letting it know you approve of it, there is no improvement or if you become irritable, try to place the pet in a new home. But don't blame yourself harshly if you have tried to help the puppy. This is a very annoying weakness, and, with all the wonderful stable puppies in the world, there surely is one somewhere for you.

New-Compact Has Electric Eye

By Irving Desfor

SEARCH FOR an all-purpose camera—one that is inexpensive; small enough to slip into a pocket; always ready and extremely simple to use; in 35mm film format; brainy enough to set its own correct exposure and produce good quality pictures — has turned up a candidate.

It's the Olympus Pen-EE, one of the newest electric eye compacts in the half-frame — or single frame, as some call it—35mm field.

The Pen will fit into a man's shirt pocket or a woman's handbag for instant availability. It has a 28mm f/3.5 lens and can be set for automatic or manual operation. It doubles the number of pictures obtained on regular 35mm films: 40 from a 20-exposure and 72 from a 36-exposure roll. Each one measures ¾x1 inch or 18x24mm, half the normal 35mm frame.

THE CAMERA is simple to operate and costs were cut because it has a single fixed speed and fixed focus lens. Its only shooting speed is 1/60th of a second and its short focus lens gets everything sharp from five feet to infinity, wide open.

Automatic operation on the Pen-EE starts by turning the lens collar to a click-stop at a white ASA number (from 10 to 200) for whatever film is in the camera. It will not take a picture, however, until: 1. the film has been turned to a. fresh frame by a simple thumb motion across a knurled knob and 2. only if there is enough light. The light meter cell surrounds the lens, surveys the scene and sends a red flag signal in the bright-line viewfinder if the illumination is wrong.

For flash or manual operation, the lens collar is turned to a set of orange-colored markings from f/3.5 to f/22. The shutter speed is the same, of course — 1/60.

THESE CONCLUSIONS were reached after testing: They produced excellent black-and-white negatives which made sharp, grainless 8x10 inch enlargements with good detail in the shadow and high-light areas.

A perceptible effort must be made to hold camera firm for utmost sharpness.

Automatic shooting with no focusing to worry about is veritably an amateur photographer's heaven.

The 200 ASA limit is too short for today's fast films like Tri-X (400) and Super Hypan (500). You can shoot available light interiors and low-light outdoors with these films by setting the lens collar for manual operation at f/3.5 if the red flag pops up during automatic operation.

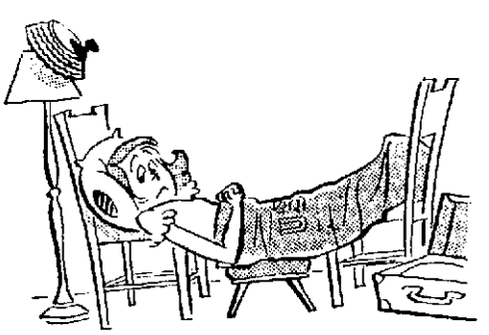

Photo Treat

Camera-bearing tourists visiting this year's Kansas Centennial will find a real photographic treat in the authentic vividness of the re-enactment of the historic race for the land on the Cherokee Strip. Scheduled for Kansas City on Sept. 16, the mammoth spectacle will include hundreds of resurrected frontier vehicles, real-style frontiersmen and their families.

YOUR GARDEN

Accents Enliven the Garden

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN accent or highlight your garden scene by intelligent use of those ornaments referred to by landscapers as specimen plants. These have a strong and definite individuality; and may be characterized by a white trunk, a tall, aspiring growth, a peculiar formation of the leaves or an outstanding habit of growth. Plants that possess a distinctive trait will keep your garden from becoming monotonous.

Modern landscaping is of a relatively informal nature. Yet certain features of the old-fashioned garden may be utilized today for the purpose of presenting a garden accent. Clipped hedges that are shaped to form a round head or a columnar effect will perk up a drab-appearing scene. For this purpose buxus microphylla japonica will prove a splendid choice; especially interesting when trimmed to a pyramid or globe and grown in a tub.

SALIX BABYLONICA will prove to be an exciting garden plant and, in addition, it has a very famous history. This is the tree that historians claim was such an outstanding feature of the gardens of Babylon. It is known today as the Weeping Willow. It grows to about 40 feet; the branches are long, pendulous and arch gracefully to the ground. As a specimen plant this ornamental should be planted alone and in a somewhat isolated location.

The Chinese pistachio, which should be more widely planted than it is, provides a rich show of color through its foliage tones. The leaves take on brilliant shades of yellow, crimson and scarlet and have a distinctive shape as they are extremely long and pointed. This pistachio attains a height of close to 50 feet at maturity; it grows rapidly and thrives along the coast as well as in the inland valleys.

One of the most interesting small trees is cotinus coggygria, better and more familiarly known as the smoke tree. Its name is due to the feathery panicles of tiny purplish gray flowers that give the appearance of a dance cloud of colored smoke. The foliage is equally colorful, the leaves turning brilliant gold during the fall months. The smoke tree wants a spot in the sun and thrives throughout this area. It grows to a height of about 15 feet.

Golden column arborvitae is used here to relieve monotony of bare walls at corner jutting into the garden.

THE QUEEN PALM, often called the cocos plumosa, is a very familiar sight on California landscapes. It is perhaps our most popular palm and is characterized by its tall, slender, smooth trunk, topped with a plume-like crown of feathery fronds. This is a splendid subject for the average Southland garden; it provides a tropical appearance and is a natural for lawn plantings. It thrives with relatively little care or maintenance.

The flame tree is another interesting subject that qualifies as a specimen plant. During the summer months the cup-shaped blooms of rich red appear in profusion on scarlet-toned stems, this trait accounting for its name. It is perhaps one of the showiest of all flowering trees. The tree grows to about 40 feet and thus may be accommodated on the average-sized scene. It is relatively winter hardy.

Other subjects that may be utilized for creating dramatic effects in your garden include: scarlet flowering eucalyptus; the white lily tree; raphiolepsis, phormium tena; echium fastuosum; crotalaria; the Trinidad flame bush; Australian ferns and the scarlet bottle bush.

Color Perks Ivy Bed

Mexican pink primrose planted in dwarf ivy lends a pleasing pink contrast to ivy's green.

By Dorothy Jonson

Loganberries, raspberries and other cane fruits (also roses) are sometimes afflicted by a growth at the crown of the root, just above the ground. The substance resembles cork in appearance and weight. This condition is serious. It is known as crown gall.

If the bushes appear healthy and have not begun to show any ill effect from the disease, you have a chance to save them. The treatment is to prune away the gall, cutting down to the healthy cane or root. Disinfect the wound thoroughly with undiluted vinegar. Be careful not to scatter prunings as they are highly infectious and might infect other plants with which they come in contact.

When you've cleaned the roots in this way, spray them thoroughly with a strong fungicide and do not be in a hurry to cover the base area of the plants which you have uncovered in your pruning operation. Air and sunlight are beneficial to assist in clearing up crown gall.

By Joe Littlefield

DWARF IVY forms an interesting ground cover in parkings, on banks, slopes, or as a lawn substitute. The ivy may be planted in sun in milder Southern California areas but where excess heat is a summer problem, it usually is planted in partial shade.

When pink evening primroses are interplanted with the new ivy, the ground cover looks as if wild pink poppies were growing there. The pink gives the green ivy a bright color lift along in late May and June.

Don't worry about the pink primroses whether they'll hold their own against the smothering growth of the dwarf ivy. They'll take care of themselves because they're hardy perennials, die down in late fall and grow back up sturdier than ever next blooming season.

WE'VE SEEN these primroses growing and blooming in poor soil, and adverse growing conditions. Some folk call these primroses, the Mexican pink primroses.

Care of the ivy should include flooding the soil without wetting leaves, then spraying thoroughly with an insecticide that controls sap-sucking as well as chewing insects. Occasional dousing with a sharp stream of water from the hose helps to knock off insects. Where ivy has become infested with red spider mites or mealybugs, spraying as above at 10-day intervals will clean up the pest colonies.

It's Versatile

One of the most versatile shrubs to come along in a generation of gardeners is India Hawthorn. The delicate spring bloom of this shrub belies its rugged nature. Plant it in sun or shade, in poor soil or good, in hot valley gardens or wind-blown seashore settings, it is all the same to India Hawthorn.

Ask for it by the name of Raphiolepis indica in CAN nurseries, or simply India Hawthorn.

RAY WEIDEMANN
It's Southern, Suh!

YES, it's true that Ray's Range is located in Southern California. It's also true that it's located at 1190 E. Carson St. (near Orange Ave.) on the southern side of the street.

Moreover, the stove on which owner Ray Weidemann does his cooking is located in the southern part of this nifty restaurant.

So it's perfectly natural, isn't it, that Ray's Range serves terrific southern fried chicken? Ray's chicken is so doggoned delicious, suh, that many of his customers swear he must be a southern boy. Ray isn't (he's a Missourian), but he sure knows how to fix this southern delicacy the way it's done below the Mason-Dixon line.

Ray buys the highest quality chickens obtainable. He cooks each dinner to order, requiring much extra time and care. The result is well worth it. Ray's chicken is as tender as a southern belle's little pinkie and a hundred times as tasty. It's $1.55 on the chicken plate or $1.99 on the chicken dinner which includes choice of soup du jour, tomato juice or fine salad; cream-whipped potatoes, scrumptious old-fashioned gravy, fresh garden vegetables, hot yeasty rolls with honey and choice of beverage.

Also outstanding at Ray's are his tender, juicy Ruchti baby beef spencer steak dinners, $1.99; ground sirloin steak, $1.60; halibut, $1.60, and Guaymas shrimp, $1.70.

The restaurant, which starts serving Sunday dinners at 12:30 p.m., also features Ray's wonderful homemade pies, such as spicy apple, cherry, chocolate cream, peach, apricot, banana and coconut.

Footnote: Pretty Joan Weidemann, Ray's wife, will remain away from the cash register for a few more months to care for their newest son, 3-month-old Jonathan, born May 7. Congratulations, folks!

Bowling Booms in Long Beach. Pin sport captivates all ages.

Long Beach Gains National Stature for Bowling

By DAVE TAYLOR

It took defeat for Long Beach to prove itself a fully grown-up, nationally important center of bowling activity.

When delegates presented the Long Beach bid for the 1964 American Bowling Congress Championship Tournament at the ABC convention in Detroit this year they were presenting one of the West Coast's best qualified cities to host the largest tournament in bowling.

With its new Auditorium-Exhibit Hall Long Beach offered a 42-lane facility second to none with spectator capacity far outstripping that offered by other bidders for the tournament. A resort city, Long Beach was prepared with unequaled housing and recreation facilities, and most important, the number of local area bowling enthusiasts Long Beach could have drawn as tournament participants and spectators was more than twice that of its nearest competitor.

* * * *

THE ABC site selection committee overlooked these special qualifications, but expert observers, editors, sports writers and top ranked bowlers all over the country had better vision.

No sooner had the ABC directors passed over the Long Beach tournament bid in favor of Oakland than a cry went up from practically every quarter of American bowling society. Loudest in their reproach of the ABC directors for passing over Long Beach were the bowling writers and editors.

BECAME ONE OF GREATEST KEGLERS

Rainy Day for Football Gave Merle Matthews Bowling Start

Probably no one individual star can claim the influence of Long Beach's Merle Matthews in stimulating interest in women's bowling on the West Coast.

The ten-pin career of the 45-year-old Procter and Gamble secretary who brought home the west's first BPAA All-Star championship crown in 1958 so caught the public imagination that it has drawn thousands of California women into the pin sport.

Holder of five series over 700 with a high 745, Merle has shot the final round of the BPAA All-Star classic five times out of nine entries. She has been a member of LA City Team Champions seven times since 1944. Her championship titles include LA City Singles, All Events and Doubles, California State All-Events, National All-Star Singles, Southern California Match Game, and WIBC Doubles Champion.

* * * *

ALL BUT THREE of these titles she has held more than once.

With a composite average of 191 the past six years, Merle was 1958 Southern California "Bowler of the Year"; has been a member of the Southern California All-Star Team every year but two since its inception and a member of "300" Magazine's Western All-Star team five years.

These are broad outlines of the career of one of bowling's all-time great stars, but none of it might ever have happened if it weren't for football.

The tall, "tom-boy" brunette was on her way to a football game with friends on New Years Day 1940. It started raining so, rather than get soaked, the party stopped into a bowling alley.

A MASTER MISS
Long Beach's Merle Matthews, 1958 BPAA All-Star champion, has created more interest in bowling among Southern California women than any one other national star. A Procter & Gamble secretary, Merle has been on the championship bowling trail 21 years.

"IT WAS PRETTY BAD," Merle remembers, "I think I shot 98 and nearly broke my fingers in the ball return."

But that was enough for Merle to discover a challenge in bowling. She joined two leagues that season and shot about 30 games per week-end in open play to finish her first year with a 158 book average.

"I never had a chance to study with a qualified instructor," she explains, "people going into the sport these days have a lot of advantages that way that weren't available then."

Besides being a perennial champion, Merle is a confirmed bachelor bowlerette, marriage being one game she's never tried.

"And I don't think I'll ever get started in that one," she comments. "After all, where could I find anyone who'd let me bowl four nights a week and do as I please the other three?"

Bowling Today Is Game for Everyone

By ALAN ALEXANDER
Secretary Long Beach Bowling Association

What is LBBA?

The initials stand for Long Beach Bowling Association with a membership for the 1960-61 season of nearly 9,800 men. While most of the membership is comprised of residents of Long Beach, Lakewood, Wilmington, and surrounding Long Beach area communities, files show that more than 55 cities are represented in the ranks.

LBBA is the official sanctioning organization for men's bowling activities in the Long Beach area affiliated with the national American Bowling Congress.

* * * *

The association was chartered by the American Bowling Congress as a non-profit organization after LBBA separated from Los Angeles South East District Bowling Association in 1948.

Since its inception, LBBA has grown from an original membership of approximately 2,000 bowling in eight houses to our present 9,800 membership shooting in 17 bowling establishments. Of the original eight houses operating in 1948, Ken Mar Bowl and Premier Bowl no longer exist, but many new "palaces" have taken their place.

The original eight houses of the LBBA carried a total of 112 lanes while members today shoot across 352 lanes in 17 houses—not counting 36 lanes at Marina and Crown Bowls.

* * * *

TO REMINISCE a bit, how many remember bowling in the "old Long Beach"? Remember the Bath House alleys, Arcade, Club alleys, Premier Bowl or Ken Mar? The last two are of fair recent vintage, but the others should bring back fond memories, even though remembering might make us feel like old-timers.

The game has changed a lot since those times. In the old days the idea was just to win, not how you won, but "win" in any way you could, and anything went.

The game was once played in back-alleys, basements and saloons.

Now bowling alleys are clean, plush establishments often visited more by women and children than men, and there is as much sportsmanship and creative diversion in bowling as in any other sport.

American Bowling Congress, the organization of which LBBA is a member, is largely responsible for these improvements in the pin game.

* * * *

Today bowling is a game for everyone. If you can hold a ball, you can bowl.

They used to say, "if you can walk, you can bowl," but even that has become outmoded. Today many disabled people confined to wheel chairs find healthful, stimulating recreation in bowling. Age, too, is no barrier.

Cal Bowl Big Boost to Sport

Cal Bowl, 2400 E. Carson St., made its official debut April 9 of this year in one of the most spectacular grand openings ever held in the Southland.

The bowling program was star-studded and featured pro bowler Morrie Oppenheim and Mary Hoyt, both from the AMF staff of champions. Oppenheim climaxed the festivities by firing a perfect game. Since then, three perfectos have been scored.

* * * *

THE SUMMER LEAGUE season is winding up for most Cal Bowl leagues and winter schedules are set. A filled bowling establishment is the keynote of success, so Cal merits the stamp of approval, having filled the center through the summer and bulging at the seams with winter leagues.

Homer Chesnut, general manager, is not one to wait for success to come to him. With an expert staff from lanes to desk, Chesnut opened Cal with the policy to serve each bowler's individual needs. Knowing the problem of a large establishment creating a cold and impersonl relationship, Chesnut vowed this must not happen regardless of the fact that Cal Bowl's 40 lanes ranked it the largest in the city. And so, an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness has become Cal Bowl's most outstanding feature.

Facilities at Cal Bowl are second to none.

OUT OF the national debate, comment and controversy which this defeat stimulated has come the most important triumph Long Beach could have hoped to attain—national recognition as an important capitol of the bowling sport.

To assume this position among the champions of U. S. bowling cities Long Beach has displayed inherent enthusiasm and natural talent for the sport as well as the willingness to devote whatever effort has been needed to continually improve its game.

Endowed with these essential characteristics, Long Beach's progress through the ranks has been rapid since those beginning days in the early 1900s when the city could boast only three bowling establishments totaling just 23 lanes.

* * * *

TODAY THE TWO Long Beach city bowling associations claim a combined membership of more than 17,700 bowlers in more than 550 leagues shooting across 388 lanes in 19 Long Beach establishments.

When Women Took Up Bowling Alleys Became Plush Palaces

By ALICE MEGLEMRE

Thirty million bowling Americans can't be wrong so bowling must be stamped the nation's number one indoor sport.

Strange to think that the introduction of the ten-pin sport to this country came about because business was bad at a little German restaurant on Greenwich St. in New York back in 1880. The proprietor installed two alleys, (now referred to as lanes), in his basement which resulted in booming business for him and the start of the gigantic bowling empire which now extends into other countries.

* * * *

WE DOUBT that bowling exists in Russia although we have not officially confirmed it. If the Russians bowled they would have to spend more time worrying about their averages thus, less time being so troublesome. They certainly can not claim credit for inventing the game because evidence shows Egyptians bowled in 200 B.C.

Martin Luther called the sport his favorite 1700 years later and history tells us there was bowling in New Amsterdam in 1620. One doubts however, that early participants in the ancient game of ten-pins ever dreamed of the growth that bowling would attain.

* * * *

VETERAN BOWLING proprietors say women are mainly responsible for the clean-up campaign in the game. When the distaff group invaded the maple and pine fairways the smokey pool-room bowling alley gave way to plush ultra modern ten-pin palaces. Shady individuals, who hung out in the back alley type of bowling establishments, vanished and the sport took on the flavor of family recreation.

High point scoring is an everyday occurance for these Long Beach Junior All-Stars, ranking among the highest Southern California junior squads, but they still get a bang out of watching the big numbers go up on the board. Crowding coach Audry McCain here are Jimmy Turner, Gary Murphy, Marilyn Travis and Tom Sears.

Big Junior Bowling Program Under Way

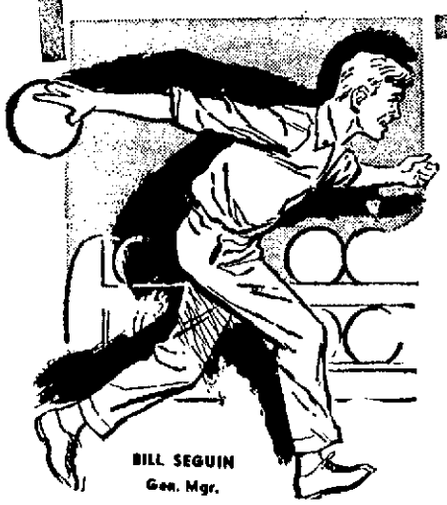

Right in step with the boom in Long Beach bowling is an expanding program for junior shooters.

Junior leagues sponsored by junior high school, high school and college athletic departments, churches, service clubs, business, industry, and often by the bowling houses themselves have brought local youngsters flocking to the pin sport.

A conservative estimate for the coming season predicts Long Beach will have more than 2,000 juniors on about 400 teams in 50 leagues shooting across 300 alleys.

Ranging in age from about 9 years, barely big enough to heft a bowling ball, to 19 years, junior shooters are rated among the best bowlers in Long Beach.

On Parade

THE RECENT ASSASSINATION of Rafael Trujillo was a world-shaking event. Recalling how the secrets of Stalin had come out after his death, PARADE sent Washington correspondent Jack Anderson and photographer Larry Fried to the Dominican Republic to seek the truth about Trujillo.

Anderson's penetrating article (see page 6) not only gives PARADE readers the fascinating untold story of Trujillo's last days, it is also a lesson in the folly and inevitable doom of all tyrants.

The importance of Anderson's findings goes beyond these pages. Hearing about his trip, Sen. Wayne Morse (D. Ore.), who heads the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin American affairs, has invited Anderson to testify on his first-hand observations in the tiny Caribbean republic. In photo below, Anderson looks at idealized statue of Trujillo.

Could you pick a beauty queen?

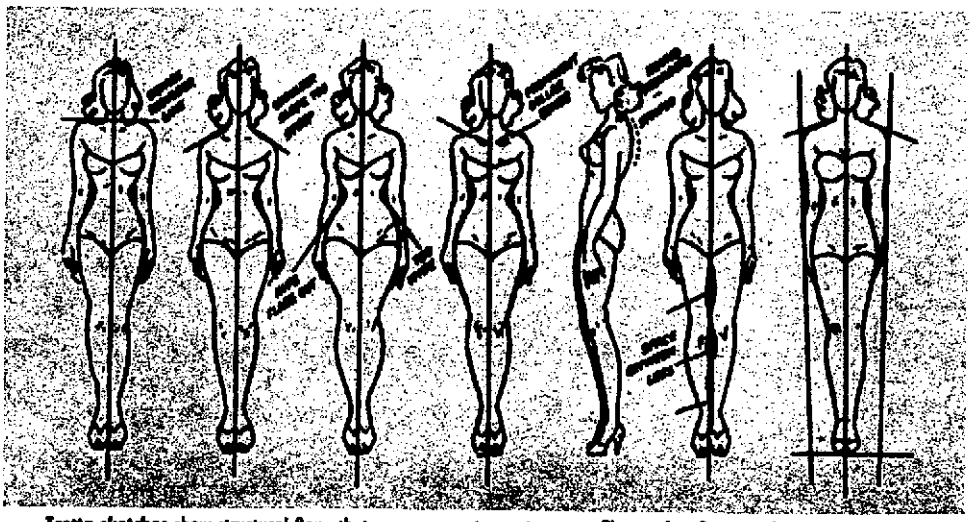

by DOROTHY WHEATLEY

NEXT WEEK, the annual wave of beauty contests culminates in the famous Miss America pageant at Atlantic City. Fifty-five girls will match curves, looks and talent for the nation's best-known beauty crown. And every red-blooded American male will envy the 11 judges who make the final choice.

But is rating pretty girls really such a snap? "I thought it would be perfect duty," groaned Air Force Maj. Bill Lookadoo after judging last year's Miss Press Photographer contest. "Boy, was I wrong! It was worse than serving on the jury at a murder trial. We had to judge on straight beauty—and the more you learn about standards for beauty, the more elusive beauty becomes."

Could you judge a beauty contest? Your first hurdle would be to overcome your prejudices. The judges' manual for the Miss Press Photographer contest warns: "Too many beauty judges pick queens who remind them of someone they love, someone they consider beautiful by past experience or, all too often, a girl whose personality is so overwhelming that it overshadows all other considerations."

No judge should look for the perfect face, because it doesn't exist and can't be defined, according to Vincent Trotta, veteran judge of Miss America pageants and dean of judges for the International Beauty Congress. About the best a judge can do is look at proportion of features and skin texture. He also looks at the contour of face and smile.

Trotta sketches show structural flaws that are common to most women. The perfect figure is shown at right end.

Beauty standards change with the times. The Venus de Milo wouldn't stand a chance in a beauty contest today. Neither would the buxom lovelies of the old masters: Rubens, Titian, Raphael. The boyish, pencil-slim figure of the Roaring Twenties gave way to today's more curvaceous figures.

But today's perfect figure can be defined, Trotta says. The drawings above are his definition of what to look for. Here's how he describes the perfect beauty:

"She should have gently sloping shoulders. She should stand erect. When her hands fall naturally along her hips, her arms should form a gently tapering line inward from her shoulders to the floor. When she stands with her legs together, there should be little or no space between them all the way to the floor."

There aren't many such girls around, but it's the search for perfection that makes the world—and beauty contests—keep going. ■

Dictator Rafael Trujillo ruled Dominican Republic with iron hand. Used to dress up in fancy uniforms

President Joaquin Balaguer (right), installed by Trujillo in '60, talks to PARADE's Jack Anderson

Chauffeur, Zacarias de la Cruz, fired at assassins with machine-gun, still bears bullet scar on head

TRUJILLO

by JACK ANDERSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: The recent assassination of Dominican Dictator Rafael Trujillo ended a long, twisted and too-little-known career. In this important article, PARADE'S Jack Anderson has penetrated the tight secrecy that has shrouded Trujillo for 31 years. This White Paper is a document against all dictators.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO.

WEEKS AFTER Dictator Rafael Trujillo's bloody death, the lawn outside his residence here had grown ragged. There was no one with the initiative to tell the gardener to cut the grass. A band continued to parade past the mansion each morning, playing the dictator's favorite marches. No one quite dared to suggest that the ceremony could be suspended.

Men still took care to wear khaki shirts and pants of different shades, not to carry their coats over their arms. It didn't seem to occur to them that they might now disregard the dictator's silly whims.

For 31 years "El Benefactor," as they were obliged to call him, ruled this peanut-sized sovereignty with a brutal, though sometimes benevolent, sway. He came near to being the most durable despot in Latin-American history. Only Porfirio Diaz of Mexico (1876-1911) remained in power longer.

Recalling how the secrets of Stalin had come out after his death, PARADE dispatched a reporter-photographer team here to seek the truth about Trujillo. His subjects (he arbitrarily set their number at 4 million, fired the census taker for finding only 3.1 million) were still fearful. They behaved uneasily as if the old dictator's ghost still marched upon the land. They could almost hear the sharp, snapping stride of the highly polished riding boots which had trampled them into subjection. But a few were beginning to talk.

HE READ THE PRESIDENT'S MAIL

Even President Joaquin Balaguer, a Trujillo lackey, plucked up enough courage to admit the old tyrant had made mistakes. Trujillo installed Balaguer as President in 1960 as a sop to democracy, went through the ritual of paying a formal call on his puppet. It pleased Trujillo to order a 21-gun salute, not for the new President, but for himself. Thereafter, Balaguer was treated like an office boy. Often he learned about his "decisions" when he read about them in the controlled press. All his mail was opened by the dictator, even the most personal letters. Trujillo also kept the presidential suite; the President was obliged to scurry back and forth when summoned.

Those who dared to talk about Trujillo—mostly prominent Dominicans and diplomats—say he had become living proof that "power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely." Here's how they remember his last days:

- He had become a slave of superstition and suspicion. Because a fortune teller had predicted he would go out with a hurricane, he would call anxiously for weather reports. Perhaps before the end, he came to realize that the hurricane most to be feared was not one of nature but the gale of world opinion against his ruthless rule.
- He had become entangled in a web of his own weaving, an embroidery of intrigue. He would plot feverishly against enemies who he suspected were plotting against him. "He saw shadows on the walls," says a diplomat.
- The raw edge of Trujillo's temper lay ever closer to the surface. The most trivial matter could set him off. He would spring to his feet behind his ornate desk with a strident, soprano scream: "Imbecile! Good-for-nothing!" As passion seized him, he might slap or spit at the offender, or deliver a well-aimed kick to the groin. President Balaguer himself is said to have experienced the humiliation of Trujillo's slap.

HYPOCHONDRIA AND FOPPERY

He had become a hypochondriac, morbidly interested in his own health. Except for kidney trouble, which forced him to sip his drinks, he was in good shape for a man of 69. But he would bring renowned specialists to the Dominican Republic to check his symptoms.

Trujillo did not grow old peacefully but with despair. He once had his face lifted, which left him with an insipid grin. (Result: he censored most smiling photographs of himself.) But he couldn't stop the erosion of his youth. He tried to compensate for it by wearing ever more splendid garb. One uniform, dripping with gold braid, cost $10,000—not counting the plumed cocked hat, which he regarded as his own special status symbol.

This foppish dictator had already given his name to the country's chief city, highest peak and more streets, parks and places than anyone cared to count. He erected over 2,000 statues of himself, forced his subjects to display his pictures, plaques and busts in their homes and offices (a sideline on which he took a profitable rake-off). But he needed more honors to feed his ego. During his last days he would make pilgrimages throughout his domain and soak up the admiration of the crowds, which were virtually driven out to cheer him. He would gloat over the banners that read "Trujillo, Greatest Man of the Continent," or "Trujillo, Your People Adore You."

The wild but wily tyrant made two basic errors that started his slide down the steep incline toward the black pit. His first was a ruthless campaign to destroy the island's proud old families, whose ancestry went back to the Spanish conquistadores. As a spanking new general in 1928, Trujillo was turned down for membership in their exclusive Club Union, a snub he never forgave.

After he seized power, he forced them to rename the club after him, delighted in humiliating them. But he also used them to build up his regime. He did so by knowing exactly who could be bribed, flattered or terrorized.

But in 1958, Trujillo's long-smouldering hatred of the Dominican first families blazed out of control. By a series of financial decrees, he set about to wipe out their fortunes. He held them at bay as he systematically robbed them with renewed terror and torture.

His secret police, the dreaded SIM (Servicio de Inteligencia Militar), were given free reign. They tortured not only for information but also for pleasure. Supposedly plainclothesmen, they wore a familiar uniform of slacks and checked shirts. They roamed around in plain Volkswagen cars. The sight of a Volkswagen was enough to strike terror into the heart of anyone on the streets; the conversation would freeze as the car crept past in agonizingly slow gear.

Trujillo selected as his SIM chief the sadistic John Abbes, a radio and electronics ham who rose from court jester to court assassin, who sported a down-turned mustache to make himself more frightening. He was the impresario at a torture chamber with the whispered nickname of La Cuarenta—after its location on 40th Street here. A top-ranking diplomat told PARADE: "I have seen sworn statements that Abbes showed Trujillo a list each morning. The old man would personally check off the names of those he wanted picked up and tortured."

JOKES ABOUT EL BENEFACTOR

Driven to the wall, the old aristocrats fought back. They struck first at his vanity. After three decades of keeping a straight face, they began to snicker at him, to tell bold jokes about him. They whispered such stories as these:

With his two sons, playboy Ramfis and neurotic Rhadames, El Benefactor was making a flight over his fief. He suggested magnanimously that he might throw out a $100 bill "to make somebody happy." Ramfis suggested that he throw out two $50 bills and make two people happy. Rhadames, even more economical, suggested ten $10 bills would spread the joy still wider. The pilot capped them all by suggesting the Trujillos throw themselves out "and make everybody happy."

Then there was the one about Trujillo's arrival at the pearly gates. He was greeted like a long lost brother by a character with horns and a tail who thrust a pitchfork into his hand. "I'm so glad to see you," said Satan. "I've been waiting for centuries to take a vacation."

The sting of whispers only goaded Trujillo into taking harsher measures. This time the aristocrats retaliated with a plot against his life: a hopeless, bungled affair. They planned to booby-trap his box at the December 1958 livestock show, failed to get suspicious when he abruptly postponed the show. Within a few days, hundreds of leading Dominicans with their families had been rounded up.

El Benefactor, in his fury, decreed a special punishment for them. They were stripped naked and herded into cages, men and women together. In some cases, men were handcuffed to other men's wives to complete their degradation. The last laugh, he thought, was his. At a party he boasted: "There are only poor people here tonight. All the best families are in jail."

THEY SHOT UP THE WRONG CAR

More cautiously now, the surviving aristocrats formed three-man cells, established tighter security. Once they mistakenly shot up the wrong car in his motorcade; another time, they tried unsuccessfully to plant a bomb in his car. At least a half-dozen attempts were made on his life before he was eventually brought down.

Trujillo's second big mistake was pursuing his enemies across international borders. He was not the least deterred by the uproar over the kidnapping in 1956 of his critic-in-exile, Professor Jesus de Galindez, from the streets of New York City. In May 1960 he sent his gunmen to Mexico City to eliminate Jose Almoina, who had written a slavish book called I Was Trujillo's Secretary, then defected and denounced the dictator. Trujillo's killers not only ran Almoina down with a green Ford, but pumped three .38 slugs into him for good measure.

The following month he began stalking bigger human game: Romulo Betancourt, President of Venezuela. Twelve years earlier, when Betancourt was on the run from the dictatorship in his own country, he was granted brief asylum in the Dominican Republic. Trujillo even became friendly with the idealistic refugee. Then, so the story goes, Trujillo began to suspect Betancourt of paying too much attention to his wife. Personal dislike was added to a distaste for Betancourt's politics. And Trujillo prided himself on never forgetting a snub, a slight or a suspicion.

On June 17, 1960, Trujillo received four Venezuelan plotters in person and told them in his harsh, staccato manner: "The enemy must be hit hard. If we don't do it to him, he will do it to us." SIM chief Abbes supplied them with dynamite and a radio triggering device, disguised as luggage.

In Caracas a week later, they blew up a car loaded with dynamite as Betancourt's car was passing. Two of Betancourt's party and an innocent bystander were killed. But the Venezuelan leader, though badly burned, escaped alive. The plotters were quickly tracked down, and gave confessions that led straight back to Trujillo.

This time El Benefactor had really over-stepped his bounds. When it comes to plots, purges and revolutions, Latin-American politicos can be broadminded. But here was an attempt to bump off another head of state! The repercussions shook the Western hemisphere.

Betancourt placed his complaint, fully documented, before the Organization of American States. Sanctions were ordered. The United States, for its part, cut off Trujillo's share of the Cuban sugar quota and broke off diplomatic relations.

Trujillo flew into a rage. All his career, he had gone out of his way to woo the United States, whose Marines had trained him. One of the few statues he permitted of others than himself was of George Washington; the main seaside boulevard is named for Washington. Trujillo felt he had received a stab in the back. He struck back by trying to court Castro in Cuba and Khrushchev in the Kremlin. Both gave him the cold shoulder.

For Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, the writing was on the wall though he would not read it. When he heard of the sugar cut, he mourned to a friend: "My God, this means I will make only $150,000 on the sugar I sell. I spend that much on one party."

THERE WAS NO HURRICANE

Ostracized by other nations, plotted against by the best families at home, the old tyrant finally came to his end on May 30, 1961. It was a balmy, tropical night without a trace of the hurricane he feared. In his contempt for his enemies, he had become careless. He lost out to the clumsiest plot ever hatched against him.

Yet Trujillo had a raw animal courage. When his car was cut off by the assassins, he barked to his driver: "Take the machine gun! Let's fight it out!" He died firing the .38 pistol he always carried in a small holster on his left side. It may have been some satisfaction to the vain Trujillo, who liked to pretend he was still a great lover, that on his last ride he was headed to visit one of his many mistresses, Moni Sanchez, at his San Cristobal farm.

Behind him he left a fortune estimated near $1 billion, 30 palaces and villas, two yachts, a fleet of 50 automobiles, strings of race horses and polo ponies. He also left his people in bewilderment. For he had imposed no ideology—only personal power—upon them. Without him to make the decisions, they could only flounder until they regained their lost initiative.

Perhaps the uncut grass outside his mansion, and not his many statues or the city named after him, was his real monument. ■

HOLLYWOOD.

WHY IS IT that so many children of so many movie stars run afoul of the law?

Only recently Jackie Coogan's son John, 19, was found guilty of a morals charge. Ken Murray Jr., 18, son of the comedian, was arrested on suspicion of operating a robbery gang in the movie colony area. Barbara Burns, daughter of Bob "Bazooka" Burns, was picked up on still another narcotics charge. Lana Turner's daughter Cheryl, 17, was sent to a private psychiatric sanitarium in Hartford, Conn. Arthur Lake Jr., 18, son of the actor who played Dagwood Bumstead in the Blondie movies, pleaded guilty to robbery.

Tragically the list runs on, proving that world-famous parents plus the social privileges and comforts that money can buy constitute no protection against delinquency.

What causes this anomaly in the special environment where the per capita income of the population is larger than in any other section of the country?

Maria Cooper, 23, tall (5 feet 8), blue-eyed, beautiful brunette daughter of the late Gary Cooper, says, "In many cases it may be the desire of children to equal their well-known parents in fame. If they can't do it through social achievement, they do it through notoriety."

A long, willowy stem of loveliness, quiet, well-bred, intellectual, a young woman of soft, refined, almost Mona Lisa-like beauty, Maria Cooper is now an artist who was raised and educated in the movie colony.

Here's why many house paints blister...

Ever-present moisture vapor inside your home builds up. It pushes out through walls and siding, finally reaching the "skin" of paint protecting your home. If it is conventional non-breathing paint, the moisture is trapped, forcing the paint away from the siding to form blisters.

Here's why SPRED HOUSE PAINT won't

Applied over unpainted wood, or previously painted surfaces not damaged by internal moisture, SPRED HOUSE PAINT won't blister or peel. Both the primer and the finish coat of SPRED HOUSE PAINT are formulated to allow moisture vapor that constantly accumulates inside your home to escape without damaging the protective "skin" of paint.

• Goes on right over damp surfaces • For wood, masonry, stucco, concrete, asbestos shingle, metal • Smooths on just like famous SPRED SATIN wall paint, no tiring brush drag • Dries bug-free, dust-free, rainproof in 20 minutes • Easy clean-up with soap and water • At least 50% longer life than conventional paints • White stays whiter; colors resist fading • Dirt doesn't cling to SPRED HOUSE PAINT; stays clean without chalking away

vaceous figure and the best executive contacts here, and although many cameramen insist she's the prettiest young woman in Hollywood, Maria has no desire to rival her late father in acting.

"All I'd like," she says, "is to become as good an artist as he was. Dad could draw and sketch very well. In fact he was an artist, a cartoonist, long before he became a movie star. In our old house in Brentwood, Dad built a studio where all three of us used to paint.

"But Dad never had the time to concentrate on his art. If he had he would've been great, because he had a perceptive eye and a sensitive heart and a talented, steady hand."

Maria, born in Los Angeles, educated at Marymount, a Catholic school run by the sisters of the Sacred Heart of Mary, says that ever since she was a little girl she preferred art to acting. The Cooper residence, a modern structure of rock and glass, located in Holmby Hills, houses a million-dollar art collection, rich in the works of Picasso, Renoir, Braque and others.

An Art Career

Cooper acquired the collection in his world travels. Whenever possible he took his wife Rocky and their daughter with him.

"My love of art," Coop's only child explains, "is the result, I guess, of both environment and inheritance."

When Maria was graduated from Marymount, she entered the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles, studied there four years.

Two years ago when her father was filming They Came to Cordura, with Rita Hayworth and Tab Hunter, she was hired by Columbia Pictures to make sketches of the stars in action. It was her first job.

Last year she accompanied her father to London where he was filming what turned out to be his last motion picture, The Naked Edge. There, Marlon Brando Sr., of Pennebaker Productions, signed her to do sketches and some art work for the film's titles and credits.

When the movie was finished, Maria returned to Los Angeles with her parents where she learned for the first time that her father was dying of cancer.

A Tower of Strength

Intimates of the Cooper family say she was a tower of strength and a source of great comfort to the actor in his last days. Of this period, Maria understandably does not like to talk.

"Grief and dying," she says, "are very private topics."

She does, however, freely speak her mind about the waves of juvenile delinquency that have hit the movie colony.

"You must remember," she says, "that most children of movie stars live a fishbowl existence. If John Jones of Detroit is arrested for speeding, few people know or care. If a movie star's son is arrested, it gets plastered in all the newspapers, because names make news."

In her 23 years Maria has never been touched by even the slightest breeze of scandal. "My parents," she explains, "always taught me the difference between right and wrong, and I was raised to do the right thing—not necessarily because I was Gary Cooper's daughter and had to do it—but because all normal and decent girls behaved that way.

"A lot of movie stars' children consider themselves under pressure and constant scrutiny. I never did."

The major reason Maria has never been involved in filmland gossip is that her parents were members of the international society group which traveled widely rather than people who confined their personal and professional lives to Hollywood.

Sketching film stars during shooting of They Come to Cordura in Utah was Maria's first job.

Maria's mother, Veronica, is the daughter of Paul Shields, Wall Street investment banker. Maria spends many summers at Southampton sailing, many of her winters at Sun Valley skiing. For all the "Yup" and "Nope" cowboy tradition with which he was characterized, her dad Gary Cooper was actually the well-educated, intellectual son of a Montana judge.

Cooper had been educated in England and at Grinnell College, Iowa, had read widely, was just as much at home on the French Riviera as on the back of a horse. He gave the impression of being an uncomplicated man who had never looked into his own psyche. In truth, he was a man of sophisticated taste, as anyone who has visited his home can testify.

In No Hurry to Marry

His daughter Maria is equally sophisticated, but like her father, endowed with a pleasant sense of humor, a charming and winning way with people, kind blue eyes, and a down-to-earth frankness.

For example, when I asked her about the actors she'd been dating from time to time, handsome young men such as Tony Perkins and David Hedison, she said, "It's just for laughs. I'm not in any great hurry to get married, even though I'm 23. One of the big troubles out here is that girls get married too young. I'm Catholic and I only intend to get married once, so I'm giving myself a long long time to find the right guy. Until I do I'm staying very close to my sketching pad." ■

Skiing at Sun Valley, Maria relaxes briefly with her mother, Mrs. Veronica Cooper.

When childhood constipation occurs

More mothers use Fletcher's Castoria than any other laxative

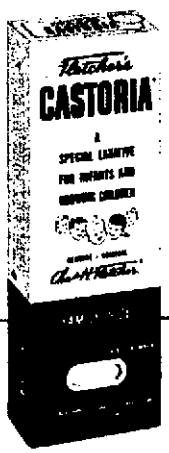

Because

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs which are so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances...the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

BARBECUE: Choice and inexpensive

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Whether Labor Day marks the end of the cookout season or not, depending on climate and temperament, the barbecue you plan for next weekend should be super, like the one shown here. Everyone likes steak and Family Steak puts no undue strain on the pocketbook. The rest of the menu lives up to the steak. So feast and be merry!

LABOR DAY MENU

Family Steak
Barbecued Stuffed Pears
Potatoes Baked in Foil
Picnic Salad
Savory Italian Bread
Crackers and Cheese

Family steak: Buy 3 to 3½ lbs. boneless beef (top or bottom round, sirloin tip, heel of round or rump) cut 2 inches thick. Just before placing on grill, slash fat edges of steak to prevent curling. To tenderize, moisten all surfaces of meat one at a time with water. Sprinkle seasoned instant meat tenderizer, like salt, over moistened surfaces. Pierce deeply with fork at ½-inch intervals. Cook immediately on hot grill, 4 to 6 inches above hot coals, for 25 minutes (rare) or 30 minutes (medium), turning often. To carve, cut in thin, diagonal slices across the grain. Makes eight to 12 servings.

Barbecued Stuffed Pear Halves

1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) Bartlett pears
¼ cup bottled all-purpose barbecue sauce
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
¼ cup finely diced celery
1 teaspoon minced pimiento

Drain pears, reserving ½ cup pear sirup for marinade. Combine sirup with barbecue sauce. Place pears cut side up on baking dish. Pour marinade over pears; let stand several hours or overnight. Drain. Combine pickle relish, celery and pimiento; spoon into pears. To serve hot, place stuffed pears on aluminum foil plate; cover with foil; heat on grill about 5 minutes.

Picnic Salad

1 large head lettuce, chopped
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup chopped dill pickles
4 medium-sized tomatoes, sliced and quartered
Rings from 1 large sweet onion
⅔ cup salad oil
⅓ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 garlic cloves, crushed
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
2 eggs, raw

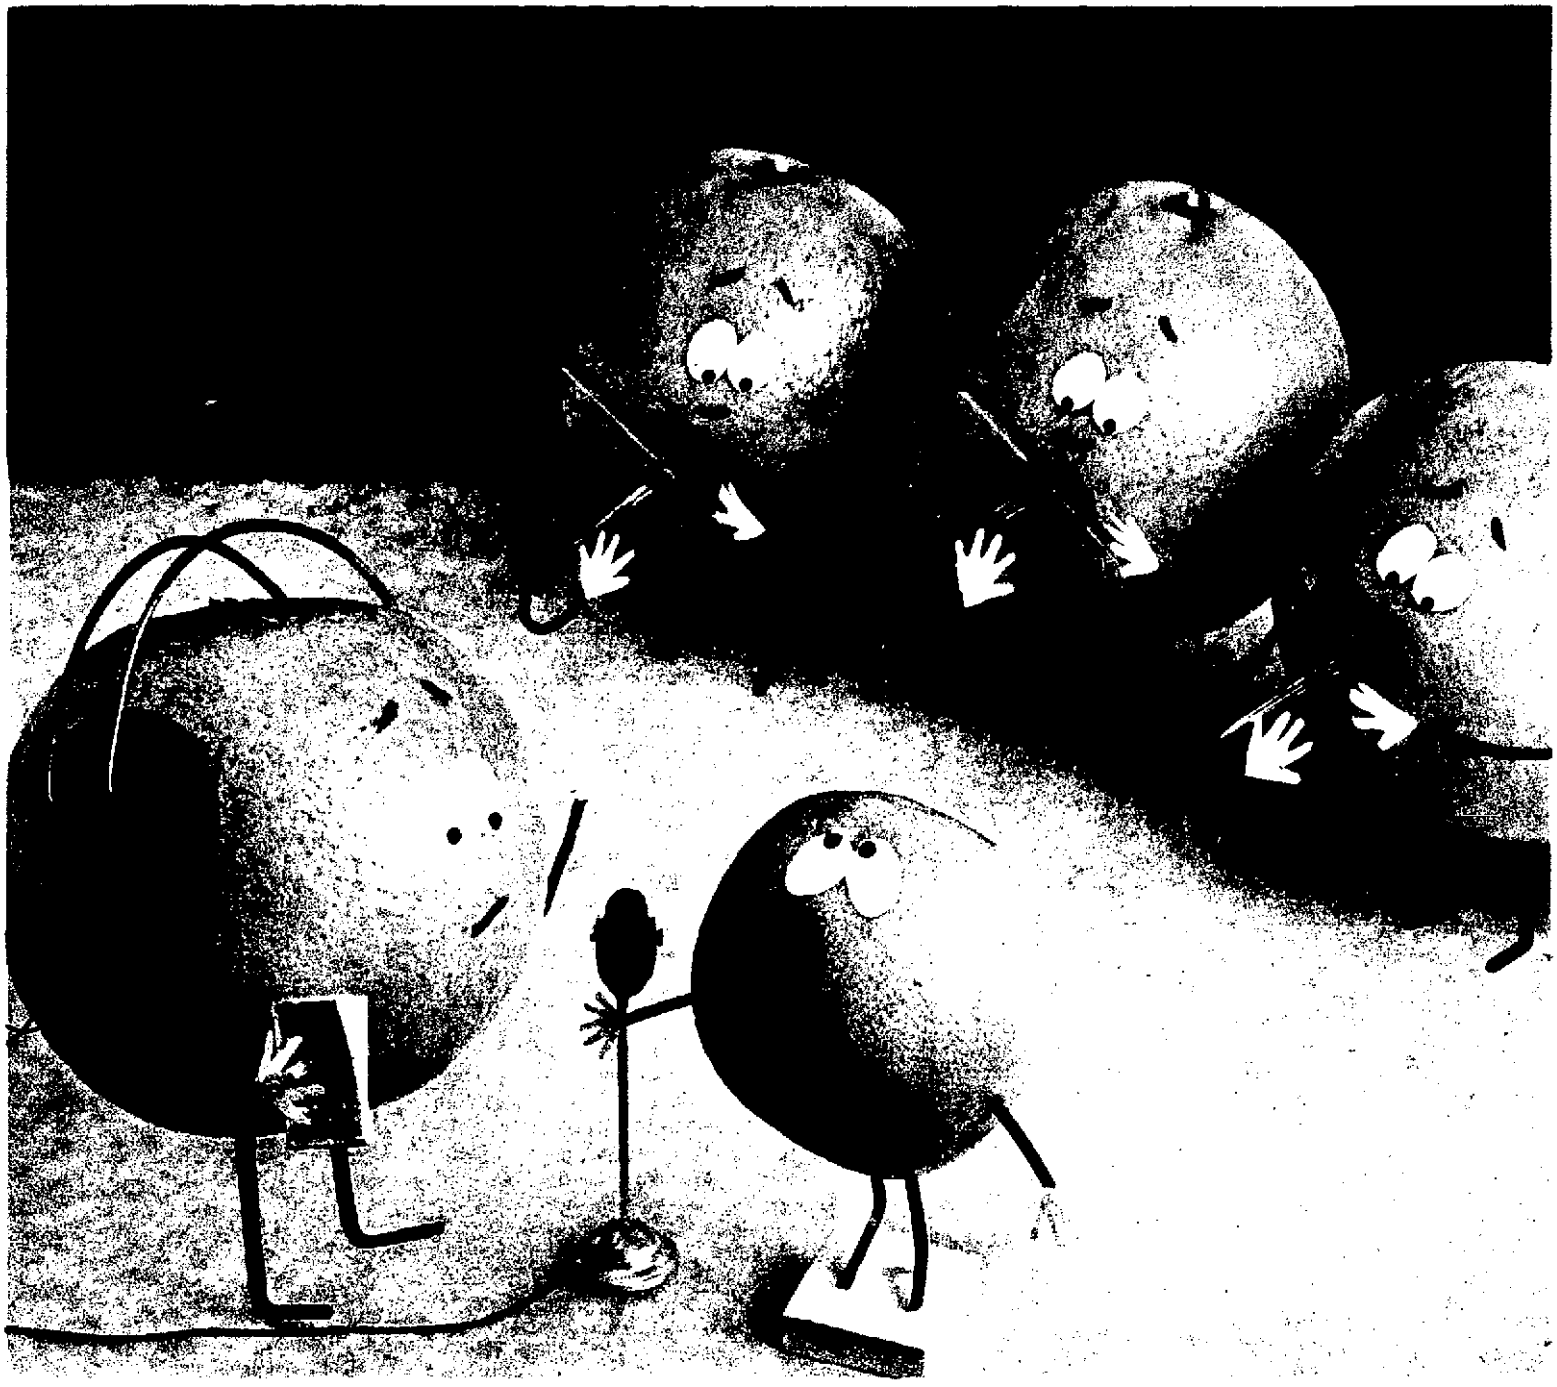

Combine lettuce, hard-cooked eggs, pickles, tomatoes and onion rings. Combine oil, vinegar, lemon juice, garlic and seasoned salt; mix well. Pour oil mixture over lettuce mixture; toss lightly but thoroughly. Break raw egges into lettuce mixture; toss until all traces of egg disappear. Serves eight to 12.

Savory Italian bread: Slash 1 round loaf Italian bread into 8 wedges, almost through to bottom crust. Combine ½ cup mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon garlic powder, ⅓ cup minced parsley, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon herb seasoning, dash cayenne pepper. Spread cut surfaces of bread with mayonnaise mixture. Wrap in heavy duty aluminum foil. Heat on grill 12 to 15 minutes. Makes eight servings.

What happens when two

Gina Lollobrigida and Elizabeth Taylor smile

by ROSALIND MASSOW

WHEN ELIZABETH TAYLOR and Gina Lollobrigida turned up recently in Moscow wearing an identical Dior dress, the world gasped in horror and amusement. The beauty queens smiled bravely and prettily for the "birdie" and at each other.

Anyway, that's the picture we got over here the day the dresses met.

No one knows for sure, except the principals and their dressmakers, what really went on underneath those layers of crispy white lace. After all, the girls weren't just wearing a little number they picked up at a rummage sale. It was high cost couture.

What happened to Gina and Liz was a colossal statistical happenstance, but fashion blunders like this are occurring more and more frequently.

Why should such a thing as two women in the same dress cause such a global commotion?

"Why?" shriek the ladies. "Men can walk around in similar looking tuxedos as much as they like, but we women have to be different."

Nothing whips a lady's ego as much as seeing her dress walking into the room on an older, heavier and less attractive woman. However, if you really want to see the fur fly, watch her when she spots another in her dress who is younger, thinner and prettier.

THE SHOCK OF IT ALL

A lady in Rochester, N.Y., who lost 30 pounds so she could wear a new French creation to the country club dance, almost cried when another club member just back from Paris walked in with the same dress. To make matters much worse, their shoes were dyed the same color.

Dr. Edmund Bergler, practicing psychiatrist for many years, has a simple explanation for the appalling, galling shock of watching the same dress come marching in.

"Every woman wants to be different and a dress is an extension of her individuality. If a woman wears the same dress as another she gets the subconscious feeling that somebody is playing a dirty trick on her and trying to rob her of her individuality."

Girl teenagers and children have no such problems. They want to look alike because it gives them a sense of identification and togetherness. But when boys take on that special quality, suddenly the plumage undergoes maturation and each little chick wants to have its own colors.

When she was First Lady, Mamie Eisenhower saw herself coming and going on numerous occasions.

Once at a White House reception for Senate wives, Mamie, looking pert and pretty on the receiving line in a blue-green Mollie Parnis dress, shook hands with another lady wearing an identical frock.

Mrs. Eisenhower, on top of the situation, said to her guest—"My, how lovely you look." The same thing happened to her in a Sally Victor hat. The two hats nodded to each other. Mrs. Eisenhower was not embarrassed, but the other lady was—and so was Sally Victor.

Dina Merrill, the socialite actress, is another often caught in a carbon-copy clothes situation, but she doesn't let it bother her.

"I do get angry, though, when I buy a dress and they tell me it's an original and there's not another one like it, and then I find someone else wearing the same thing. The funny part of it all is that if I buy an inexpensive dress off a rack in a department store, I'm less likely to find another one like it."

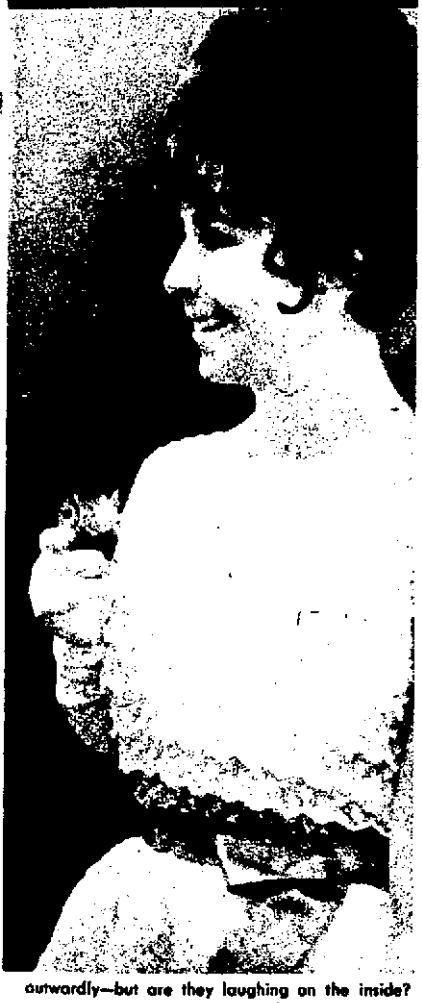

Not everyone has the aplomb to laugh it off on the inside, especially when there are hundreds of dollars involved in the purchase.

Nancy Walker, the comedienne, didn't think it was so funny privately when she bought an expensive dress and met it at a party.

"The other woman and I looked at each

women wear the same dress

CRISIS

outwardly—but are they laughing on the inside?

other and gagged it up and all that, but I never went back to that store again. After all when you spend that much money for a dress you don't want to have to worry about running into yourself."

THE JOKE WAS ON HER

If you think Nancy Walker had problems, consider the plight of lovely Jean Kerr, author of The Snake Has All the Lines. When Mrs. Kerr first came to New York with her husband, Walter, then the new drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune, the couple was invited to a party given by one of the editors.

Mrs. Kerr went out to buy a new dress, something special that might attract attention. She choose a Steinberg print made by the whimsical cartoonist.

When she walked into the editor's apartment for the party, she discovered that her dress was the same material as the curtains and the wallpaper. She tried to move, but she couldn't. There she was, swallowed up into the décor of the room. There was no escape. Her dress really was a conversation piece, but the joke was on her.

How do dresses meet? Well, the days are long past when designers made one dress and threw the pattern away. No matter how much a woman pays for the "chef's" special dressing, it won't be a one-and-only creation. It can't be. The cost of producing a dress has gone sky high.

AN ERA AT AN END

Dior, Trigere, Sophie of Saks, Givenchy, Balenciaga and others have one thing in common. They have to go public to survive. A woman who goes to an exclusive custom order house in New York, Paris or Rome thinking that her original will be a one-and-only is just kidding herself.

There are exceptions, but few. Designers like Edith Head, Charles Le Maire or Helen Rose, who design for the movie industry almost exclusively, can afford to protect their clients with one-and-only dresses, but those who create clothes for a variety of clients can't stay in business with such limitations.

Sophie of Saks Fifth Avenue, whose clothes cost $1,000 and more, points out that the era of exclusivity is over.

"We can't make clothes individually for people any more, unless you're doing the clothes for a Broadway show." (Before a dress is produced, the style may be changed three or four times in muslin before the fabric is cut, which makes a high-style dress very expensive.)

"We try to protect ourselves by keeping a record of every dress we've sold, but there are slips. The woman who can afford to pay $1,700 for an evening gown will be seen in some of the best places. Anybody else who can afford to pay that much for a dress, could very well be seen in the same very best places," Sophie says.

No designer is exempt from the nightmare of having two good clients turn up in the same dress. The Liz-Gina affair was an unfortunate accident, according to officials of Christian Dior, New York. Miss Taylor bought the dress from the Dior collection in Paris and Miss Lollobrigida bought it from a vendeuse in Italy who had a license to copy Dior clothes.

Top fashion houses in the United States have similar worries about duplication. Robert Trigere of the famed Trigere house in New York claims the designer is not to blame. "We do try to confine styles in small shops throughout the country, because there are only a few people in one city who could afford to buy our high fashion. But we can't help it if the woman travels to another city and turns up at a party with the same dress."

Maybe the only road to exclusivity is to design it and sew it yourself. ■

by HENNY YOUNGMAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Henny Youngman, a comedian who's been around so long that war veterans remember his entertaining the Confederate troops in Atlanta, is a product of Brooklyn, the Borscht Circuit, radio, cabarets, in fact every entertainment medium in existence. A tall, brash, uninhibited stand-up comic who can play the violin after a fashion, Henny was discovered by songbird Kate Smith in the 1930s. She hired him as a guest star for her radio show after she caught his act at the Yacht Club in New York, and Youngman has been working ever since. Henny features a rapid-fire, machine-gun type of delivery best described by Jack Benny. Says Jack, "Where I would use three jokes, Bob Hope or Milton Berle would use 12, and Youngman 47." Here is a fraction of the 47:

THE OTHER DAY my wife went to a beauty parlor. Every woman who comes out of a beauty parlor nowadays looks like Jackie Kennedy. Not my wife—she came out looking like Lyndon Johnson.

I LOVE IT in Las Vegas. You see so many funny things. I saw a man running up and down the street dropping dimes in parking meters. I said, "What's the idea?" He said, "I just love outdoor gambling."

TWO DRUNKS were walking up Broadway in New York. One went down the subway entrance by mistake, came up through the other entrance where his friend was waiting for him. The friend said, "Where were you?" He answered, "I was in some guy's basement—and boy! Has he got a set of trains!"

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW isn't staying with us this year. She is in the Congo teaching them to fight dirty.

A GUY BUYS all kinds of Scuba diving equipment — $2,000 worth. He goes 150 feet down in the water, sees all the strange fish and scenery, and says to himself, "This is worth $2,000—I'm really enjoying it." He goes down another 150 feet, sees more beautiful fish and scenery, and all of a sudden coming toward him is a fellow in just plain swimming trunks. He takes out his underwater pad and pencil and writes a note to the guy in the trunks, saying, "I just spent $2,000 on all this Scuba equipment and here you are all the way down in just a pair of swimming trunks. What's the idea?" He hands the pad and pencil to the man, who writes back, "You idiot—I'm drowning."

MY WIFE JUST LEARNED how to drive her sports car. One day she drove it up the side of a building. There was another woman driver coming down. It was a one-way building.

MY WIFE IS RIDICULOUS. At night she puts big globs of cold cream all over her face, puts those daggers in her hair and puts a net over the whole thing, and then says, "Kiss me." I say, "Take me to your leader."

I TRY TO DO everything to make my wife happy. She complained about the housework so I bought her an electric iron, an electric dishwasher, an electric dryer. Then she complained there were so many gadgets around the house that she had no room to sit down, so what could I do? I bought her an electric chair!

HEARD ABOUT the rich Texan who bought his dog a boy?

THE HUSBAND ran into his house. "Honey," he said, "there's oil on the property."

Honey was overjoyed.

"Now I can get that mink stole," she screamed.

"First I think we better fix our car," the husband explained, "because that's where the oil is coming from."

A PASSENGER on an airline noticed a parachutist floating past the window.

"How about joining me?" yelled the chutist.

"Not on your life," said the passenger. "I like it here."

"Suit yourself," said the chutist nonchalantly, "but I'm the pilot." ■

ELEPHANT ROMP

BASLE, SWITZERLAND.

IF WORKING FOLKS deserve a day of rest, why not working elephants, too? In the progressive zoo here, just such a humane policy went into effect recently. As a relief from peanut-tossers, the zoo's five performing pachyderms now get one day off in seven. Like people, they often spend their holiday picnicking in the woods near the city. There, as photos here show, they romp, hike and even eat. And occasionally they come across human picnickers, who find them quiet, friendly and civilized. Whatever would Sabu say to that? ■

Off for jaunt, five elephants in a file clump down main street of Basle.

Pachyderms at play slide down leafy hillside. They also enjoy rolling in the grass.

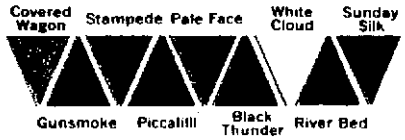

Tasty lunch is sampled by hungry picnicker with boarding-house reach.

Exhausted after day, elephants rest up for next week's picnic in woods.
